Don't Look Like a Wreck.

"When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick." Yes, that is so. It is sad, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam is then the best investment. It stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation, and sold at the low price of 50c.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.

He Never Came Again.

"Ma and I," she said shyly, "are more like sisters than mother and daughter."

"Yes?" he said, with a lingering inflection on the afterguard of the rosy, which rose clear to the ceiling.

"Yes, indeed," said the girl, the rosy flush on her cheeks making her infinitely more beautiful than ever. "Ma and I are inseparable. We have never been separated a single day since I was a little baby."

"N-no?" he said, this time with an inflection on the second section of no that went only half way to the ceiling and back again.

"Oh, dear no," the girl went on in her artless way, "and ma and I always said that when I was married she was going to love my husband like her own son, and come and keep house for us."

"Oh-h?" William said, with a circumflex. Then he rose up slowly and firmly and said that he had a note in bank to take up at 3 o'clock, and as it was now 9:30 he would go. And he did go. And he didn't come back again. Not never. And ma said to the girl:

"That's where you missed it in not fully trusting your mother. Why didn't you tell me that man had been married before? Had I known he was a widower I would have played the 'Home for old women' racket on him."—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

Grant's Father-in-Law.

Mr. F. T. Dent, the father of the wife of Gen. Grant, died at the white house on the 15th of December, 1873, surrounded by his children. He was a genial gentleman, 88 years of age, and the frequenters of the white house after he became the guest of his son-in-law had generally found him seated in the reception-room, the center of a pleasant group of conversationalists, all attracted to him by his good nature and large fund of information. He was full of anecdotes of western life, and seemed always ready to instruct or amuse his auditors. He was much beloved in St. Louis, near which city was his country place. He lived in the old-fashioned style of keeping open house for friends and neighbors. His hospitality was noted. He was never engaged in political life except in his own neighborhood, where he was always called upon to preside at political meetings. He was always a stanch democrat, and boasted that he had voted for every democratic president since he attained his majority except Buchanan, of whom, for some reason, he did not approve. He almost invariably came to Washington to attend presidential inaugurations. An uncle of Mr. Dent was a member of congress from Maryland, and gave the casting vote when the election of Jefferson was carried into the House. Mr. Dent's remains were carried to St. Louis for interment, escorted by Gen. Grant and his family.—Ben: Perley Poore.

"Vill you blease, sir, read me der names of der people vat half the cholera?"

"Certainly, if you're anxious about it."

"Vell, I am so anxious dot I don't know vat I pe doings."

The clerk very obligingly read the list, the Dutchman in the meantime perspiring and wiping his forehead. When the clerk had finished the anxious inquirer asked:

"Den you don't find de name of Hans Geinsen dere?"

"No, sir."

"Vell, py dam, I veel all right now. I vas peen drunk for ten days, und I didn't know but dat I vas dead mit the cholera."—Boston Sunday Times.

Unbidden Guests.

The guests who attended my wedding-breakfast were unique in character. I was married in India. I engaged for our honeymoon a little house—sixteen miles or so from any other habitation of white men—that stood on the steep white cliffs of the Nerbudda river, which here flows through a canon of pure white marble. Close beside our house was a little hut, where a holy man lived in charge of an adjoining shrine, warning money for himself and the shrine by polishing little pieces of marble as mementoes for visitors. It was a wonderful place altogether, and, while my wife went in to change her dress, the servants laid breakfast on the veranda overlooking the river. At the clatter of the plates there began to come down from the big trees that overshadowed the house, and up the big trees that grew in the ravine behind it, from the house-roof itself, from everywhere, a multitude of solemn monkeys. They came up singly, and in couples, and in families, and took their places without noise or fuss on the veranda, and sat there, like an audience waiting for an entertainment to commence. And, when everything was ready, the breakfast all laid, the monkeys all seated, I went in to call my wife. "Breakfast is ready, and they are all waiting," I said. "Who are waiting?" she asked, in dismay. "I thought we were going to be alone, and I was just coming out in my dressing-gown." "Never mind now," I said. "The people about here are not very fashionably dressed themselves. They wear pretty much the same things all the year around." So my wife came out. Imagine her astonishment. In the middle of the veranda stood our breakfast table, and all the rest of the space, as well as the railings and the steps, was covered with an immense company of monkeys, as grave as possible and as motionless and silent as if they were stuffed! Only their eyes kept blinking and their little round ears kept twitching. Laughing heartily—at which the monkeys only looked the graver—my wife sat down. "Will they eat anything?" asked she. "Try them," I said. So she picked up a biscuit and threw it among the company. And the result! Three hundred monkeys or more jumped up in the air like one, and just for one instant there was a riot that defies description. The next instant every monkey was sitting in its place as solemn and serious as if it had never moved. Only, their eyes winked and their ears twitched. My wife threw them another biscuit, and again the riot, and then another and another and another. But at length we had given away all that we had to give, and got up to go. The monkeys at once rose, every monkey on the veranda, and advancing very gravely to the steps, walked down them in a solemn procession, old and young together, and dispersed for the day's occupation.—From a Letter.

A Learned Judge.

"Well," remarked the Justice, "What is this young man accused of?"

"I caught him playing poker, sir," replied the policeman.

"Yes," returned the court. "But I have no objections to poker, you know. If that is all the charge against him I shall discharge him. What have you to say for yourself, young man?"

"I was sitting down with some friends of mine, your Honor playing a friendly game of cards."

"Yes."

"We had a jack-pot on the table. It was opened and I came in on a pair of deuces. The man who opened it stood pat and bet $10 and I called him."

"Called him on deuces? Twenty-five dollars. Call the next."

"Yes," gasped the prisoner; "but I thought you didn't object to poker?"

"I don't; but to call a man on deuces isn't poker. Call the next case. —Puck.

REMEDIES Cuticura THE GREAT SKIN CURES

Mrs. Smith's Case, and what the Rev. Mr. McKinstry has to say about it.

TO THE PUBLIC: I have been a fearful sufferer for fifteen years, most of the time with what has been called Eczema or salt Rheum. My face, neck and hands were a mass of Tetter and Eczema, and the doctors discouraged that I had no more skin for them. I have been so badly afflicted sometimes that there was not the smallest spot from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet that was not diseased and as red as crimson. It would commence in small white spots, which had a silvery appearance, but were not deep, but if I attempted to heal them, or soon after their first appearance, they would burn and burn together until there was a complete dry, red scale, which would become so inflamed as to crack and look fiery and angry, and the burning sensation would be almost intolerable.

I was at time so lame that I could scarcely get about, and could not dress myself without assistance. I had tried many remedies, and have paid $100 in a single instance to a physician, but have ever obtained only temporary relief. Although helped for a time, I soon relapsed again and was as badly troubled as ever, and during the winter of 1881 and 1882 I suffered so much as to be entirely discouraged. Last June, however, I was advised by Elder and Mrs. L. C. McKinstry, who are well known in these regions, to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES; and I felt somehow a little courage, from their favorable opinion of them, to try their virtue. About the second week of July last I commenced taking the remedies, and within six weeks I began to see a permanent improvement, until now (Oct 1) I am about as good as new, and my flesh is as the flesh of a child.

MRS. BENJ. SMITH.

I certify that the above statement of my wife is correct, and I join with her in expressing my gratitude for the great benefit he has received.

B. SMITH.

I certify that the above statement is correct. Mr. Smith is a prominent man in this community, where he lives. He is a well-known dealer in stock, and his statement, with that of his wife, is fully entitled to credit.

Ought to Increase the Houseworkers.

One result of the cut-downs in all manufacturing establishments should be and will be, to increase the number of women who are able to "do housework." We suppose that under the present scale of wages the average earnings of the skilled females who work in cotton factories are not over $4.25 per week, and as the cheapest board within their reach costs $2.00 they cannot have left as net wages more than $2.25 per week. Indeed it is probable that more than half the females now at work in our mills will not get for the next year's work more than $100 each besides their board, and it is no worse here than elsewhere, and no worse in cotton mills than in other factories. It goes without saying that the skill, industry and experience which earns $2.25 in a factory when properly directed can command more than that in a kitchen, and as a first-class housekeeper's wages have not been cut and are not likely to be, the girl of the future will, if she has got any sense when she starts out to earn a living, have a good deal more respect for housework than her mother and older sisters had when they began five, ten or fifteen years ago.—Mirror.

The reason domestics are so scarce is that the young girl who is placed in the factory by her parents, at too early an age to think for herself, does not reach that period of her existence when she discovers that service in families makes better wives and housekeepers than can mill labor, till too late.

Then again, these girls have no idea of the results of money. They perceive that a girl in a factory earns more money than can one at service, and they will work harder, at the cost of health and comfort, and in the end have less, because they do not know better. If they knew as much about things as does the editor of the Mirror the surplus of supply would be with the domestics instead of the operatives in mills. The wages of the latter for some time to come must be low, while the remuneration of the former seems never to decline.

The War in the Soudan.

Gen. Sir Herbert Stewart's death is announced.

London despatches of the 20th inst. indicate a worse state of affairs in the Soudan than has been acknowledged. Gen. Bullers, who began a retreat from Gubat several days previous, was compelled to halt at the Abu Klea wells and entrench his army, and fears that he may suffer Gordon's fate are entertained.

The British government on the 20th called out the militia, and suspended the transfer of officers from the regular army to the reserve. This action has caused profound alarm, not only for the safety of Gen. Bullers, but for Gen. Wolseley and Gen. Brackenbury.

President Jackson's Papers.

A Washington despatch of Feb. 17th is as follows:

Col. Andrew Jackson, the grandson of the late President Andrew Jackson, who resides at the "Hermitage," in Tennessee, to-day took out letters of administration upon the estate of his grandfather, and immediately, through his solicitors, Messrs. John Paul Jones and Robert B. Lines, filed a bill in equity setting forth that the widow of the late Montgomery Blair and her son, Woodbury Blair, now have possession of and claim to own a large number of valuable papers relating to the public and private life of Gen. Jackson, and praying an injunction against the defendants to prevent them from disposing of or publishing any of the said papers.

It is stated that these papers were placed in the hands of Amos Kendall in 1843 with a view to the publication of a biography of Gen. Jackson which he (Kendall) had undertaken to write. The papers were lost for many years, and were found by Col. W. G. Terrill, of Kentucky, in 1879, subsequent to the death of Kendall, when they were placed in the hands of Montgomery Blair "for safe keeping," as Col. Jackson alleges in his bill. The representatives of Mr. Blair, however, claim that the papers were given to Francis P. Blair, Sr., by Gen. Jackson, and it is upon this question that the suit just instituted will probably turn. The bill also prays for the appointment of a receiver pending the litigation. Col. Jackson has retained Senators Harris, of Tennessee, and Voorhees, of Indiana, and Representative Caldwell as counsell in the case.

The receiver of the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad has filed in the office of the clerk of the United States circuit court in this city his report of receipts and expenditures for the third quarter of the year 1884. The gross earnings have been $37,529.70, and the operating expenditures $22,625.02, leaving the net earning $14,904.68. The receiver also gives a statement of depot, bridge and other improvements, and the cost of new locomotives, the acquisition of which was necessary to properly accomplish the business of the line.

Among the contents of an almanac of the year 1779, printed in Boston, is a mention of the "principal taverns on the continent," with the names of those who kept the best houses. Among these were Turner of Portsmouth and Hawkins of South Kingston, N. H.

The boys had fine "coasting" Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The Bow street youngsters started from the top of Church hill, and turning into Ceres street would run nearly its whole length; on Mason's hill the slides were good down all four sides; at Lincoln hill the coasters would start from the top, and the small sleds turning into Miller avenue would run nearly to the spring, while the heavy-laden double-rippers would keep on past Miller avenue, up the slight rise near the receiving tomb, and along to and down Richards avenue, bringing up about abreast of the old slaughter house. There was also good sliding from the top of the hill in Langdon park on to the south pond, and in other localities.

Nobody Who Uses

Who uses Sulphur Bitters can remain long unwell. The foreman of the Shapleigh Machine and Screw Works, Boston, Mass., L. D. SMITH, says: Ever since birth I have been troubled with Salt Rheum; my body was covered with scales and pustules, and when I bent my fingers the flesh would crack open and bleed. The itching and burning feeling almost drove me crazy. Your Sulphur Bitters has done more for me than anything I have ever took, and I consider it a great blood purifier, and I shall always recommend it to use.

Sulphur Bitters, for I have given them a fair trial.

The Engineer of the [illegible] Cotton Works, says: I [illegible] Sulphur Bitters are a most excellent medicine. I have used them in my family for several years, and would not be without them in all cases of biliousness, accompanied with those terrible sick headaches. It is the best medicine I ever used. I have used many different kinds of medicine in my family, but none are so good as Sulphur Bitters. They do the good that your S[illegible] claim to do.

Sold, but Sulphur Bitters? The most prominent people in New England. The wife of DEACON CARLETON, First Baptist Church, Winchester, Mass., says: My eldest son was troubled with rheumatism so bad that for over three months he was unable to walk. [illegible] Sulphur Bitters [illegible] to use.

NOBODY'S CLAIM.

This evening, at Music hall, the sensational frontier drama "Nobody's Claim" will be presented by a company which the papers of other cities vouch for as being fully competent for its adequate representation.

THE CARNIVAL.

The exhibit of the Cocheco Manufacturing Co. was one of the finest in the procession, and was drawn by two pair of splendid horses, one pair black and the other gray, belonging to Hon. Frank Jones.

The Salvation Army attracted as much attention as any part of the show. There were thirty of the warriors in a barge drawn by six horses, and they had banners, drums, cymbals, triangles and tambourine, and sang their peculiar hymns as the procession moved.

WHO WAS HE?

It is feared that a man was drowned from Portsmouth bridge about midnight on Saturday, the 14th inst.; the night watchman heard cries in the direction of the pier near the draw, and immediately went with his life preserver to render assistance, but it being very dark nothing could be seen or heard. It is thought to have been some one who had formerly sailed on one of the brick vessels, and in making an attempt to get on board a schooner now lying at the pier fell between the vessel and the wharf.

After the above was in type, Friday, the Penny Post came to hand containing the following item:

The person drowned Saturday night from the Portsmouth bridge was John McDermott, barber on the U. S. S. Marion. Body not recovered.

A "WALKER" COMPLAINS.

Mr. Editor: We have heard great prediction as to the efficiency of the present city government as compared with its predecessors. But was there ever a government which shew such inefficiency in regard to our sidewalks and street crossings? Never within the memory of the oldest inhabitant were our sidewalks in such condition, and receiving so little attention from the street department. The walks are full of slippery places and excrescences, which might be much improved by little work with the pick-axe, but the commissioner or the mayor or the committee on streets seem to think that the public roads or the middle of the streets is all there is for the city to care for, and that the clearing of the sidewalks from ice is the business of the abutters. In one of the most public streets, near the Court house, the snow on the sidewalk has not been removed before an unoccupied house all winter; it would take the city's men but a few minutes to render this space passable, but it remains a monument to the inefficiency of the city officials. O! for one hour of Alderman Martin's judgment, a day of Robert King's good direction, and a week of Uncle Joe Spinney's work on our public streets. But these we cannot have because Mr. Jones, having captured the city government, has his own ideas of the way it should be administered. Let the republicans who will be invited next August, when the ice is out of our streets, to endorse this government, pause before they cast their votes. Does any one believe if John Caswell had been chosen mayor, that our streets, etc., would have been suffered to remain in this condition? No; not if every one who kept Lent went without their fish, would John permit such a condition of things. WALKER.

MARGARET MATHER.

In another column will be found the advertisement of Miss Margaret Mather's appearance at Music hall next Saturday evening, as Juliana in that noble old comedy, "the Honeymoon." She closes to-night, in Boston, a season greatly more successful than any previous one, though the counter attractions at the other theatres have been of the strongest character; and in her previous engagement in Providence, R. I., the opera house took more money than it ever before gathered in in a single week. One great element of her phenomenal success is found in the fact that experienced, critical theatre goers, seeing her in one play, follow right along evening after evening to see her in the same play or in others.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Divers are this week examining the bottoms of the ships Omaha and Vandalia, at the navy yard.

Old sheet copper is being melted down at the navy yard for transportation to the Washington yard.

A boat-timber-bending machine is being constructed at the navy yard by Augustus Stevenson of Kittery, for the Brooklyn navy yard.

The Powhatan is expected at the navy yard in a few days, to take on board boats, spars, etc., made at the yard for the new steel cruisers. The blacksmiths and block-makers on the yard are engaged upon work for the new cruisers.

A boiler for the engine to be used for the electric light of the Omaha, made on the yard under direction of James M. Knapp, foreman of the boiler shop, has just been completed, and set up on board that vessel.

The workmen employes of the navy yard on Wednesday of this week sent a petition to Congress asking for payment during the month of January, while suspended, upon the ground that they should receive wages as well as the bosses, who have been paid in full.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Albert Woodbury, Capt. Levi Downs, was lying at Commercial wharf on Friday with 9000 lbs. of fish on board, and her ensign and burgee flying at the maintopmast head—the colors not being up in honor of the fare of fish, however, but of the marriage of one of her crew, Mr. John W. Robinson, whose wedding took place on the previous day.

The schooner Mary Willey, which was partially loaded with ice cut from the Seavey's island pond, and finished loading at Kittery Point, was on Friday towed to the Shoals by the steamer Chara Batemen. She took out two horses to assist in discharging the ice and placing it in the ice-houses of the hotels.

A large number of fishing schooners arrived on Thursday afternoon and Friday, generally with good fares. The buyers refused to pay over $4.60 a hundred pounds, and the fishermen would not sell at that price; and late in the afternoon most of the vessels left for the fishing grounds, taking their catch with them.

Reserved seat tickets for the Colonial Skating Party on Monday evening can now be procured at Goodrich's bookstore. Enough floor ticket have already been taken to assure the success of the affair, and there will no doubt be a throng of spectators.

The Manchester Union reports that Social Rebekah Degree Lodge, No. 10, I. O. O. F., of that city, "held a special meeting on the evening of the 19th inst. and voted to accept the invitation tendered by Union Lodge, No 3, of Portsmouth, to visit them at their lodge room in that city on Tuesday evening, March 3d. The visiting party will leave Manchester by the regular 4:30 P. M. train, and return by a special."

A small stable-building owned by Mr. Chas. E. Walker took a ride on snow shoes on Friday, from Richards avenue to Mr. Walker's new residence on Middle street.

Mr. Edward C. Stickney's performance with dumb-bells at Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday evening, his first appearance in this city as an athlete, and his only public performance for four years, was well received. His movements, including some of the most difficult feats, were made with an 85-lb. dumb-bell, and showed immense strength. His last act, raising a 133-lb. dumb-bell, was a good finale to the exhibition.

As a Portsmouth gentleman was driving through Rye road, Friday afternoon, he heard calls for help, and on looking around saw an old gentleman's head just showing over the edge of a well-curb. Going to the place he found that the old man had climbed into the well, the water in which had reached to within a few feet of the surface, to cut a hole through the ice, falling in which he essayed to climb out again, but from age and infirmity was only able to get his arms over the edge of the curb, and there he hung, helpless to get any further until the passer-by arrived to aid him. He was soon extricated from his unpleasant situation.

Mr. George E. Thompson, landlord of the Rockingham and Wentworth hotels, is recovering from the serious illness from which he has suffered for several weeks past.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Is designed to meet the wants of a large portion of our people who are either too poor to employ a physician, or are too far removed to easily call one, and a still larger class who are not sick enough to require medical advice, and yet are out of sorts and need a medicine to build them up, give them an appetite, purify their blood, and oil up the machinery of their bodies so it will do its duty willingly. No other article takes hold of the system and hits exactly the spot like

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

It works like magic, reaching every part of the human body through the blood, giving to all renewed life and energy.

My friend, you need not take our word. Ask your neighbor, who has just taken one bottle. He will tell you that "It's the best dollar I ever invested."

LEBANON N. H., Feb. 19, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Dear Sirs—Although greatly prejudiced against patent medicines in general, I was induced, from the excellent reports I had heard of your Sarsaparilla, to try a bottle, last December, for dyspepsia and general prostration, and I have received very gratifying results from its use. I am now using the second bottle, and consider it a very valuable remedy for indigestion and its attendant troubles.

Yours truly,
F. C. CHURCHILL,
(Firm of Carter & Churchill.)

"An Onery Cuss."

Captain Paul Boyton has opened an aquatic museum in New York. He should secure an old fellow whom he encountered during his float down the Arkansaw river. Just before reaching Red Bluff, a native, who had never heard of the captain, saw him floating.

"Ef that ain't a alligator," said he, "I'm a fish."

Springing into a boat, he rowed out to investigate. When within speaking distance, the captain, who was afraid of being shot, raised up, and called "Halloa!"

"Wall, I'll be dinged!" exclaimed the old fellow, ceasing to row, and gazing at the captain, who in his rubber suit, looked like some terrible monster.

"I have heard o' a heap o' things an' have seed a few, but you air the fust talkin alligator that I ever seed."

The captain, to humor the fellow, and not knowing that his words would enforce conviction, replied:

"Yes, don't many of us talk, but I got the hang of it somehow."

"Wall, I'll be dinged," said the old fellow, slowly rowing down the stream. "You must've larnt it from the Yankees."

"Yes."

"How'd they do it?"

"Split my tongue."

"It's a pity they hadn't split your blamed head open, fur you'll cause devilment enough, turned loose in this river. Come out on the flank an' let me get a good look at you. I'd like fur my wife to see you, fur she thinks that I'm the ugliest thing next to a cat-fish, but blamed if you don't lay over me. Whar you goin', any how?"

"Going back down to the Mississippi."

"Whar you been?"

"Been up to Fort Smith; went up after a school of bass."

"Wall, I'll be dinged if you ain't a onery cuss."

"Say, if I come out may I stay all night with you?"

"Yes, go a little furder down thar an' yer ken git in the bayou an' sleep thar, but mind, if I ketch you on my trot-line you're gone up, talk or no talk. Good bye; never seed the like o' you befo' an' I hope never to agin," and taking a final look, he mused: "My Lawd, but he's a onery cuss."—Arkansaw Traveler

Farmers who know that tobacco-stalks are a very valuable manure, because their ashes contain a great portion of potash, perhaps do not know that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the best cure for coughs and colds.

During last month Manchester tradesmen served 150 trustee writs on the Amoskeag corporation, or more than three times the usual number. Reduction of employes' wages accounts for it.

The Hope of the Nation.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

Steamer James Ives, of New Haven, Conn., belonging to the New England Transportation company, was caught in the ice off New Rochelle on the night of the 16th inst., and lost ten barges belonging to the New England Transportation company. The barges were worth $2000 to $2000 each. The extent of the damage is not known.

The committee on commerce of the national house of representatives has agreed to report favorably a bill authorizing a new steamship line, under the American flag, from Long Island to Milford Haven in England.

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nosril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

"No Physic, Sir, in Mine!"

A good story comes from a boyst boarding-school in "Jersey." The died was monotonous and constipating, and the learned principal decided to introduce some old-style physic in the applesauce, and await the happy results. One bright lad, the smartest in school, discovered the secret mine in his sauce, and pushing back his plate, shouted jo the pedagogue, "No physic, sir, in mine. My dad told me to use nuthin' but Dr. Pierce's 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets,' and they are a doing their duty like a charm!" They are anti-bilious, and purely vegetable.

A prize fight with hard gloves between Ned Henry of Portland, Me., and R. Delaney of Biddeford, occurred in Portland on the night of Feb. 19th. Henry had the best of it, but the fight was given to Delaney, because Henry struck him when he was down.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Ben Coombs and Jake Mason, of Hodgenville, Ky., have been enemies for some time. On Feb. 18th Coombs told his wife that he was going to Elizabethtown, and would not return until the next day. He suspected Mason of intimacy with his wife, and hid in the vicinity. Mason came to the house in the afternoon. Coombs' suspicions were confirmed, and getting a gun he fired both barrels at the guilty pair, filling their heads with large squirrel shot. Mason was killed almost instantly, and Mrs. Coombs was probably fatally wounded. After the shooting Coombs went to Mason's house, and told Mrs. Mason what had happened; the two then quickly packed up a few things, and took a train for Nashville or Memphis.

Breaking Up.

On every hand we see evidence that winter is breaking up, and will soon have to yield to the advancing spring. It is a most important question amongst scientific men what causes the general feeling of debility and lassitude so prevalent in this region. While some regard it as the result of confinement and inaction, others suppose it to be caused by the decay of vegetable and animal debris during the winter. What is especially needed at this time, however, is something to overcome these influences. It is too late to talk about the causes; what is the cure? Thousands of persons all over the country will now give Kidney-Wort a faithful trial are ready to testify that no other remedy is equal to it for cleansing the system, purifying the blood, regulating the bowels, and curing all kidney and lever diseases. It is in fact the king of all spring medicines.

Through the exertions of the Y. M. C. A. of Portland, Me., 994 boys of that city have signed a triple pledge against liquor drinking, tobacco and profanity.

Mothers, teething and fretful children need Dr. Arnold's Soothing & Quieting Cordial. Druggists. 25c.

ON THE ENGINE.
Running a Locomotive While Deathly Sick—Something the Passengers Did Not Know—A Physician Saves an Engineer.
TAUNTON, MASS.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR: I am an engineer on the Old Colony Railroad, and run the Fall River boat train between Fall River and Lowell, residing in Taunton. For ten years I suffered everything but death from dyspepsia. Often I had such blinding sick headaches that I could scarcely see. I think that was partly to irregular habits of eating, and partly to the jar of the engine. Sometimes my head would snap like neuralgia, and again the pain would settle in my eyes, which would feel as big as a man's fists. My breath was very offensive, and my food soured as soon as it entered my stomach. In fact my stomach felt as though it were a great raw and sore surface, and what agony it gave perhaps you can imagine.
In the summer and fall of 1876 when we had the heavy centennial travel, the constant ar brought on acute attacks nearly every week and I thought I should have to leave the road. But I kept at work until the next spring, when I grew so much worse that I could virtually eat nothing, and concluded that my labor, and my life too, were about over.
Remember that I had tried every medicine I heard of, and had been treated by some of the best physicians in Taunton and Lowell. At this critical time DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended to me. It was new to me, and with my experience of medicines, you can easily forgive me for saying that I had not a particle of faith in it.
I had taken it but a few days when I began to get better. The raw and sore feeling left my stomach, and the snapping pains left my head, and soon I was all right, and have been ever since. It is the only thing that ever did me the least good, and it drove every ache, pain and discomfort completely out of my body. Now I keep KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY with me on my engine, and it goes wherever I go.
Why, I believe FAVORITE REMEDY will cure anything. One night, a while ago, John Layton, an engineer who runs the main line boat train from Boston, came on my engine sick as death. He was worn out with work, had a high fever, and was so nervous he almost broke down crying. "Nonsense, John," I said, "cheer up, I've got something on my engine that will set you up in a jiffy." I took out my bottle of FAVORITE REMEDY, filled his teacup and gave him a good dose. He went to bed. Two days after I saw him looking healthy as a butcher. "Dan," he said, "what was that stuff you gave me the other night?" "It was DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, Rondout, N.Y.," said I. "Well, I don't care whose Remedy it is, it's the thing for a man on the railroad." So say we all.
Yours, etc., DANIEL FITTS.
This preparation goes to the root of disease by purifying the blood and rousing every organ into healthy action. It is useful at home, shops, in camp—everywhere.

This is going to be an off year. No political booms for "Plumed Knights" or "Reform" will help keep up the health and strength of the vast multitudes whose faith is pinned on the glowing party promises of election year. Multitudes of such will need a reliable tonic to tone up the system, a purifier to work off the bad blood, and a sure remedy for lame backs, rheumatism, biliousness, etc. Such a remedy is Kidney-Wort. It has long stood at the head of the list of kidney remedies, and it receives the highest praise from all that use it.

The Phantom Ship.

We touch Life's shore as swimmers from a wreck
Who shudder at the cheerless land they reach,
And find their comrades gathered on the beach
Watching a fading sail, a small white speck—
The phantom ship, upon whose ample deck
There seemed awhile a homeward place for each.
The crowd still wring their hands and still beseech,
But see, it fades, in spite of prayer and beck

Let those who hope for brighter shores no more
Not mourn, but turning inland bravely seek
What hidden wealth redeems the shapeless shore.
The strong must build stout cabins for the weak;
Must plant and stint; must sow and reap and store;
For grain takes root though all seems bare and bleak.

—Eugene Lee Hamilton.

FOR HIS MOTHER'S SAKE.

Unmarried at twenty-two. I was rich, entirely my own mistress, and considered more than pretty; and still, in spite of many excellent opportunities to change my condition, I was rapidly drifting on towards old-maidenhood; no wonder people called me hard to please.

I had admirers and suitors in plenty; where is the heiress who has not? And two men loved me.

I say "two men." There were many who made professions, and of whose sincerity I have no means to judge, but these two I can answer for as for myself, and I know they loved me.

Never were two people more unlike each other, in looks, in taste, disposition, temper, everything. It seemed the strangest thing in the world that both should fancy me.

Even their respective circumstances and positions in life offered a striking contrast. George Redfern was a wealthy and influential banker, forty years of age, grave, quiet, and reserved in manner, and with an indisputable and enviable standing in society—a man against whom no breath of reproach or blame had ever stirred; while Robert Dene—my Robert, whom I loved—was comparatively poor, having only his salary as confidential clerk in the Redfern bank (out of which he supported a widowed mother), and was one of those merry, cheerful, light-hearted fellows who somehow—perhaps from their love of company and pleasure—get the name of being "wild," without deserving it. Certain it is that Robert merited no word of evil, though there was a time when it looked otherwise.

Mrs. Dene had been my dear dead mother's friend. Naturally I often went to visit her. She was a great invalid, and hardly ever went out, except for an occasional quiet drive with her devoted son, who idolised her; so much so that I grew positively jealous.

For Robert and I understood each other, as lovers will. He was very sensitive and high-minded. I thought, at first, that because I was an heiress he would never speak the love I knew he felt, and which I longed to hear; but the welcome declaration came at last.

And I had Mr. Redfern to thank for it. I met him at Mrs. Dene's cottage one evening, when he had stopped to speak to Robert on some business, having chanced to see him in the garden as he was riding past.

I was at the window, leaning out, and he saw me. I knew, afterwards, that that was the reason he astonished Robert by accepting his invitation to come in.

He was a very quiet retiring man, going little into society, and bearing the reputation of a confirmed old bachelor, but after that evening he changed.

I seemed to meet him everywhere. He made the acquaintance of people whom I visited. He took to going to balls, theatres, operas; and when I had met him a good many times, he requested permission to call on me.

Robert heard of it, and grew jealous. One evening he came to me, his dear handsome face looking gloomy and sad enough.

"We have been friends for years," said he, "and I believe you like me well enough to grant me a favor. I love you, Kate. That's no news to you; is it? Well, I never should have told you so—never should have asked you to become my wife, because you are rich and I am poor; but, my girl, I can't stand quietly by and see another take what I'd have died to win; so I want you to tell me truly if you intend to marry Redfern, and if it's 'yes,' I shall go out of the country, and stay out until I can get over it."

Oh, the happy girl I was when I heard him! The precious words I had longed for were spoken at last. He might have seen the joy in my face. I felt my cheeks burn, and my eyes grow bright with happiness; but he kept his face gloomily turned away.

So I stole up to him, half shy, half bold, all joyfu, and slipped my hands about his arm.

"And can you 'get over it,' do you think?" I asked demurely.

He looked at me then, and disengaged his arm. He thought I was trifling with his pain, and was vexed at me.

"This is no jest with me. Miss Craven, whatever it may be to you," he said quite sharply; "I did not expect that you would make it one. Yes," very coldly. "I am not a love-sick fool. I do suppose I shall get over it."

I looked at him reproachfully. I felt the tears spring to my eyes at his words and tone.

"You don't love me as I love you, then, Robert," I said softly; "for if you go away and leave me so, I'm afraid I never shall get over it."

"Oh, my darling!"

How quickly his face brightened as he caught my hand!

"You say that, Kate? You mean it? You don't love Redfern—you won't marry him?"

"I love you," I answered, as his dear arms clasped me close; "and you only will I marry."

And so we were engaged. And Robert drove me over to the cottage, there and then, to tell his mother.

"She will be so pleased," he said. "I believe that she suspected my feelings. But I would not confide them to her, lest the fear of disappointment and pain to me should distress her."

How he loved her! A little jealous pang shot through my foolish heart.

"I fear you love her best," I said impulsively.

"My darling," he said half chidingly, "one does not measure or compare such sacred loves; each and both is 'dearest.' But my mother suffers from an affection of the heart. Any anxiety or pain must injure her, and a sudden shock would kill."

And then it was I first understood rightly his devoted care of her, a care in which, from that hour, I shared.

Next day Mr. Redfern proposed to me. My heart, in spite of its own happiness, ached for the bitter pain he showed when I told him I was engaged already.

"I had set my every hope on you—I cannot give you up!" he cried, with an intensity of passion that startled me. "Oh, child, have mercy on me! Think again—give me time. I am richer than you think; if you are ambitious—"

I interrupted him.

"I am not; I have wealth enough, and covet only happiness. I shall marry Robert Dene, the man I love."

His face was white as death.

"You shall not marry him!" he said with a deep and bitter oath. "Never, while I live! I swear it!"

And he rushed out of my presence like a madman, leaving me shocked, frightened, perplexed, and with a strange sad cloud upon my happiness.

I said nothing about it to Robert, however. His relations with his employer continued pleasant, as usual; and I did not feel justified in disturbing them. I felt surprised when he told me that Mr. Redfern had himself congratulated him, and made some slight but graceful allusion to the disappointment to himself; but I concluded to keep silence still. What was the use of creating ill-will between them?

"Probably," I thought, "Mr. Redfern regrets his intemperate warmth and foolish words, and takes this method to let me know of it."

And I thought it a very good method too—infinitely pleasanter than a personal apology.

So the time flew swiftly by, and I had begun the preparations for our marriage, and our engagement was understood everywhere, when the storm which instinct had warned me of from the moment in which I had heard that bitter threatening oath, burst suddenly.

It was evening, and Robert and I were sitting together, talking such sweet nonsense as lovers will. We were alone, save for an aunt who resided with me, and who had fallen asleep in her easy-chair, when suddenly and unceremoniously the door was flung open wide, and three men entered.

Two of them were officers. The indignation which their rude entrance caused, gave place to sickening fear when I saw the third—George Redfern!

He fixed his hollow, burning eyes upon me. Even in that moment of excitement I was sensible of a shocked surprise at the strange change in him since last we met.

"Men, do your duty," he said briefly.

Next minute Robert was under arrest.

I don't know what I said or did in the first horror of it. I remember clinging around Robert's neck, and being pulled away—by auntie, I think—and some one asking, "What's the charge against him?" Then came the stern answer from George Redfern's lips: "Robbery!"

With that word my senses came back to me. I tore myself from auntie's arms and flew to my lover's side.

"It's a lie!" I cried, looking straight into Redfern's face. "He is innocent!"

Robert turned grateful troubled eyes upon me.

"God bless you, my true love!" he murmured sadly.

And then Redfern's stern low voice broke in again:

"Men, search him!"

I saw it done. I saw them draw forth a roll of notes—ten—of twenty-five pounds each, and forming a larger sum than Robert could have come by rightly. I heard Redfern identify them as his own, and declare that none but Robert had access to the safe or vault. And then I heard Robert say, with a moan of agony:

"Oh, God! My mother!"

I understood it all. I stepped up to George Redfern, and looked into his face.

"Come with me into another room," I said. "I will make a bargain with you. Let your men remain with their prisoner here." And he obeyed me.

When we were alone, I said passionately:

"Mr. Redfern, you are a villain! You have plotted to separate me from the man I love, and blast his reputation. You shall fail in both. You know that he is innocent."

He answered quietly:

"I am not his judge, Miss Craven. He himself will tell you that I placed those notes in the safe in his presence, and that no one has since had access to it but himself. An hour ago I missed them. You saw where they were found. Let the law decide the rest."

I wrung my hands in agony.

"The law!" I cried. "Man, do you not know he has a mother whom such a charge will kill? Will you be a murderer?"

He caught my hand.

"No," he said hoarsely. "It is you—not I. You murder two of us, his mother—when she learns the story of his guilt, from which you could save her—and me—you murder me!—for the hour that sees you marry him sees me a corpse."

I snatched my hand away.

"I will marry him," I cried, "if the whole world calls him guilty!"

He answered quietly:

"And kill his mother?"

What could I do? Turn as I would, he brought me back to that at last.

The son's imprisonment on a shameful charge, and probable condemnation—for the plot was carefully laid—would kill his mother.

So I accepted the alternative he offered. I promised not to marry the man I loved during the lifetime of the man I hated.

"Never while I live," he said.

That was my oath, and I have kept it.

We went back together. George Redfern formally withdrew the charge he made, and gave one of the notes to each officer as a bribe for silence.

So Robert and I were parted, and his mother's life was saved.

And the world wondered, and called me a coquette, and "hard to please;" and a year went by and found me twenty-two—unmarried still—Robert's true love still—and miserable.

How many times had I seen George Redfern during that year? More than a hundred times. He had come to me praying, pleading for love—oh, how vainly! Often as I saw him, though, I noted how he changed—so terribly—so rapidly! Worn almost to a shadow. Pale, with all the life in him seeming to be centered in his burning eyes. They seemed lit with the fires of madness.

Poor George Redfern! It would be hard if I should not give him pity who gave me so much love.

The end came suddenly. One winter's night a messenger summoned the two whom he had wronged to his bedside. He was dying.

Just the same as ever—strange, abrupt, half-crazed. He took Robert's hand without noticing me, and stared into his eyes.

"I've brought you pain and sorrow, haven't I? Ah, that's nothing! You have brought me down to death. I loved that woman—loved her. Ah, Heaven, that doesn't express it! I became a villain for her sake. I liked you, Robert. I meant to make you partner some day. Kate," turning suddenly towards me, "you know I took the notes out of the safe. No matter; I've made amends. I'm dying, and Robert Dene is my heir."

It was true. We remained with him till the last. In the cold quiet morning he was cold and quiet too—at rest.

"You may marry her very soon," he said in dying, "but not while I live."

Poor George Redfern! He loved me well. I wetted the spring daisies on his grave with tears before I took the freedom that his death had given. After that I laid sorrow by and married Robert.

He was rich now, and his mother to this day believed it was a lovers' quarrel that kept us apart so long. Better so, for thus the memory of the man who sought to blast our lives, and lost his own, is spared. And we can spare him in his grave, and pity, too.

For my life's romance had a blissful ending, and I am a happy woman after all.

A RELIABLE PREPARATION.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Never before in the History of Medicine has a Preparation been so Universally praised as Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium. It goes right to the spot, and builds the system up as no other Medicine.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

Washington's Birthday.

Our readers will expect us, as the conductors of a well organized journal, to say something about our old friend George Washington, on the day celebrated as the anniversary of his birth; and yet, gratifying as this annually-recurring duty becomes, it will be well to bear in mind that John Marshall required five volumes to properly write up George, and no less an experienced writer than Washington Irving wrote four volumes in order to do complete justice to the memory of the "First in War," etc.

Washington, contrasted with his successors in the office of the presidency, it must be conceded was a remarkable man. His career was without precedent. He established precedents, and was always careful about such affairs. We delight to contemplate his patriotic heroism as commander-in-chief, his unselfish devotion to his country, the entire respectability of his presidential career, and the sagacity with which he steered the ship of state on her first cruise.

We are glad to note that a monument has been erected in honor of his memory, and we are convinced that the small sum which we contributed to this end, so long since that we had well nigh forgotten it, was placed, as the Massachusetts statesman once remarked, "Where it would do the most good." We trust that our friends Capt. Folsom and Gen'l Patterson, and others, of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, in the privations of the campaign to Washington did not suffer from the severity of the elements or the capacity of the Washington landlords.

Yes, we still shout for Washington, and while there are to be found in editorial chairs in our land well-disposed writers who are just now loud in the praises of "G. C.," we are content to-day to reassure our readers of our unceasing and unselfish loyalty to "G. W.," who so successfully carried us through our little difficulty with the mother country, and gave us all such a fair chance to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.

Knights Templar Statistics.

The annual report of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar in New Hampshire for 1884 has been published in a book of 120 pages, constituting part one of volume five of the official proceedings of the organization. During the year seventy-nine Knights were admitted and four restored to membership, twenty died, ten were dismissed, nine were suspended for non-payment of dues, and seventy-three were knighted. The present membership is 1217, an increase of forty-four.

The subordinate commanderies, with their number of members, is as follows: Trinity of Manchester, 217; De Witt Clinton of Portsmouth, 121; Mount Horeb of Concord, 163; North Star of Lancaster, 95; Saint Paul of Dover, 176; Sullivan of Claremont, 89; Hugh De Payens of Keene, 150; Saint George of Nashua, 123, and Saint Gerard of Littleton, 83. Twenty-one members of subordinate commanderies died during the year, the first name on the list being that of Sir Knight Natt Head of Trinity.

The War in the Soudan.

A despatch has been received from Korti, in which the retreat of Gen. Sir Redvers Buller from Gubat is further explained. This dispatch says that El Mahdi on the 11th inst. had been engaged for three days in the work of collecting an army outside of Khartoum for an advance against the English at Gubat. He was loading steamers with guns and ammunition, and on the 8th inst. despatched two sheikhs with 3900 men and four guns down the right bank of the Nile to erect a fort opposite the English camp at Gubat.

It is noticed that the quantity of ammunition and projectiles now under process of manufacture and preparation at the Woolwich arsenal for transport to Egypt is greater than the quantity sent out of the country during the entire period of the Crimean war. This fact induces the belief that the government is preparing for a long campaign.

The despatch from Lord Wolseley, advising the government of the death of Gen. Stewart, said: "Gen. Stewart will be buried at the entrance of the valley leading to Gakdul. He will receive a soldier's burial. No braver soldier or more brilliant leader ever wore the queen's uniform. England can ill afford to lose this young general."

Another message from Lord Wolseley says: "Gen. Buller reports from Abu Klea on Tuesday, the 17th, as follows: 'About thirty of the enemy's cavalry scouted around us all day Monday. They were reinforced about an hour before sunset by 400 infantry armed with rifles. The infantry crossed the hills to the northeast of us, and have kept up a well-aimed, desultory, long range fire. This fire has thus far caused sixteen casulties. I am perfectly safe here against the attack of even a large force, but of course this long range firing is annoying.'"

Mr. James J. O'Kelley, formerly an American journalist, and latterly member of parliament and war correspondent in the Soudan, has written a letter to the Dublin Freeman's Journal, in which he characterizes the march of the British troops from Korti toward Khartoum, by way of Gakdul and Abu Klea, as a political and not a military manœuvre. Mr. O'Kelley, in this letter, advises Gen. Wolseley to recall Gen. Brackenbury from his march towards Abu Hamed, and to mass the entire British force at Debbeh, on the Nile below Korti. Even at Debbeh Gen. Wolseley, says Mr. O'Kelley, will have great difficulty in retaining communication with Cairo if the Arabs display energy and intelligence.

The Washington monument, the highest structure in the world, being 555 feet high, was dedicated on Saturday with appropriate ceremonies. The day was intensely cold and blustering.

Five persons lost their lives at a fire in Philadelphia, Saturday.

Six persons were killed by an explosion of natural gas in Pittsburg, Pa., Saturday.

The ice blockade in Long Island sound and in the entrance through the East river at New York is such that the trips of the sound steamers have been suspended. Due notice will be given of their resumption.

George F. Oliver, residing in the Meetinghouse Hill district of Dorchester, Mass., on Friday last stabbed his wife repeatedly with a jackknife, and then cut his own throat. The would-be murderer, who was a drunken, worthless bummer, died instantly; the woman will probably recover.

A car-load of nineteen horses, consigned to Boston, which reached New Haven, Conn., last Thursday, were found to be in a terrible condition. One was dead; twelve were on the bottom of the car, unable to rise and badly trampled on, and the others were barely able to stand. They were suffering from the cold. They were all removed to comfortable stables, and placed in charge of a veterinorian, and will probably be in condition to forward in a few days.

British steamship Preston, which sailed from New York for Avonmouth, Eng., Jan. 20th, has not been heard from, and is supposed lost.

The senate on Friday confirmed Hon. Charles H. Burns of Wilton to be United States attorney for the district of New Hampshire. The re-appointment we are told was entirely unsolicited by Mr. Burns, whose previous term of office expired on the 11th inst.

The annual examination and graduation exercises of the State Normal school at Plymouth takes place Tuesday, the 24th inst.

Mr. John D. Swain, formerly of this city but now of Nashua, one evening last week entertained at his residence about fifty members of the Nashua, Merrimac River and Hudson commanderies, United Order of the Golden Cross, Mr. Swain being treasurer of the Supreme Commandery of the order. During the evening Mrs. Swain was presented with an elegant bouquet, and Mr. Swain with a loaf of cake inscribed "U. O. G. C." A grand banquet was served to the guests of the evening.

Lieutenant R. M. G. Brown has been ordered to appear before the retiring board; Passed Assistant Engineer B. C. Gowing, to examination for promotion; Passed Assistant Engineer R. D. Taylor, to the Washington navy yard; Assistant Engineer R. S. Griffin, to duty under the advisory board; Assistant Engineer B. C. Brian is detached from special duty under the advisory board, and ordered to the Dolphin; Assistant Engineer J. N. Hollis is detached from duty under the advisory board, and placed on waiting orders.

Passed Asst. Engr. James Entwistle is ordered to special duty at Providence, R. I.

"DEMOCRAT" ANSWERS "WALKER."

The effervescence of "Walker" in Saturday's edition of the Chronicle is certainly very remarkable. Everybody knows that when the winter sat in late, it was with unprecedented severity, with gales and storms by land and sea, after a fine fall and continued warm weather. The wonder has been how the street commissioner has succeeded so well in keeping the streets and sidewalks clear of ice and snowdrifts.

"Walker's" laudation of Ex-Alderman Martin is very superfluous, as no one denies his energy when chairman of the committee on streets; he may yet be elected mayor should he belong to the progressive party; and Ex-Street Commissioner King was an efficient officer, generally speaking. There has been but one bad accident in consequence of falling on the street this winter, and the mayor and aldermen deemed it advisable to settle for damages claimed by the injured lady, who was ill able to pay the surgeon's bill, thereby saving the expense of a suit at law, which is too often apt to be decided against the city on account of a country jury's sympathy for a poor sufferer, against what they consider a rich corporation. This casualty happened at the entrance of a sewer directly under a street light, and is possible to happen at any other of the numerous sewer traps of the city. This last storm was of snow, followed by rain and freezing weather, and a heavy easterly gale, which swept away sand about as fast as it might be deposited on the sidewalks.

DEMOCRAT.

Miss Florence P. Whidden's debut on Thursday evening at Music hall is looked forward to with considerable interest by all lovers of fine music in our city. It will undoubtedly be the best concert offered to our citizens for a long time. If Miss Whidden can bring out the full harmonious tones of her superb concert grand piano before a home audience as well as she did with a similar instrument at a select party of musical people in Boston lately, she will meet the expectations of her most interested friends here. As a fine soprano Mrs. Allen has no superior in Boston. The Temple Quartette are unexcelled as vocalists, and their fame is well deserved.

Ex-Alderman Green returned from a drive Sunday afternoon, and while the horse was being unharnessed preparatory to being put in his stable near Puddle Dock something startled the animal, and caused him to jump down on the ice of the dock, which broke and let him into the water, he going partly under the ice. Men with axes and ropes quickly mustered, and the ice was cut away and the horse hauled out.

Wentworth Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Newcastle, will hold a fair at the town hall on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, February 24th and 25th.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Feb. 21st.

Dennis Sullivan, for drunkenness, was fined $5, costs $6.90. Mr. Sullivan had depleted his treasury for the purpose of getting drunk, so he goes to jail for a season.

Jeremiah Murphy, Jr., was before the court, it being charged in the complaint that he "did profanely curse and swear, by then and there uttering, with a loud voice, in presence of one Margaret Murphy, the following wicked and profane words 'G—— ——you,' to the great displeasure of Almighty God, against good morals, contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the state." For all this misconduct, to the charge of which Jerry pleaded guilty, he was fined $1, (the statute specifying that sum, no more and no less,) with $5.76 costs, and not happening to have that amount handy he was sent to Brentwood. Margaret Murphy is his mother.

Judge Batchelder, who has been police justice nearly eight years, has had but two "profanity" cases brought before him, the first being that of a clock peddler about two weeks ago.

A MEDDLING SET.

A writer in the Boston Advertiser enquires "if it is possible that a man can be talked of for Cleveland's cabinet who came so near excusing the dynamite attempt to blow up Westminster as did Mr. Collins?"

The Massachusetts democrats have urged Mr. Collins as a representative Irishman, but Grover goes slow as to the navy portfolio.

The latest bulletin from Albany is that Mr. Jones can be secretary, but does not wish to be appointed; and that several other good democrats do wish to be appointed, but cannot.

But as to Gen. P. A. Collins, would it not be as well for the Advertiser set to be quiet? They aided in the election of Cleveland; the democrats will see to the appointments.

WHAT WAS IT FOR?

Mr. O. L. Frisbee, manager of the Oceanic hotel on Star island, Isles of Shoals, recently discovered a singular hole in the solid granite ledge of the island, just above high-water mark in front of the ice-house. It is five feet six inches deep and two feet three inches in diameter, perfectly circular and with smooth sides,—apparently the work of human hands, but when or by whom made, or for what purpose, no one has yet explained. It was packed solidly with pebbles and gravel when discovered, and has been trodden over thousands of times by fishermen and former residents of the island, and summer visitors, without its existence being detected. The Leighton Brothers, whose lives have been passed on the islands, never heard of it nor any tradition of it until it was recently found; possibly it may be a natural well, in which case it will furnish a nut for the scientists to crack. "Oscar" has christened it "Neptune's Punch Bowl."

MARGARET MATHER.

The announcement that Miss Margaret Mather and her strong supporting company will appear in high comedy at Music hall next Saturday evening should suffice to sell every reserved seat in the house. When the stage is deluged with diluted "society" plays, the change to legitimate comedy is truly refreshing. Of "The Honeymoon," and Miss Mather's assumption of the leading part, the Bridgeport Standard says:

One of the purest and most enjoyable comedies ever written is that of "The Honeymoon," and one of the best and most charming actresses who ever assumed the role of "Juliana" is Miss Margaret Mather. She played before a large house last evening, and those who had seen her in a tragedy were more than gratified to have their anticipations realized. She has won the hearts of Bridgeport play-goers, and hereafter it will only be necessary to mention the fact of her coming in order to fill the house. The character assumed by Miss Mather last evening is one calling for a great diversity of talent, and she showed equal capacity as a vain and shrewish maiden, the surprised and indignant bride, the obstinate and spiteful wife, and finally as subdued and loving wife. The dances on the green gave opportunity for a difficult and most successful piece of acting, in which her graceful movements in the contra-dance captivated every person in the audience. The young actress is destined to become, if she is not already, one of the most prominent of American stars. At her age—twenty-three—there have been but few who have displayed her capabilities. Her debut was made Aug. 28, 1882, as Juliet, in McVicker's theatre in Chicago. She was born in Detroit twenty-three years ago, and since her appearance has made a series of successes as Juliet, Rosalind, Pauline, Leah, Julia, Lady Macbeth and Juliana.

RUNAWAYS.

On Friday afternoon about half-past four o'clock, while the store team belonging to John Conlon was standing on Russell street the horse became frightened and ran, breaking the rein with which he was hitched. Some one attempted to stop him, and he turned into Wall street, running through that street toward the Eastern railroad, and horse, sleigh and contents went over the high bank at the northerly end of the street, and were piled up together on the tracks. The sleigh was somewhat damaged, and the horse to an extent not exactly known.

At about noon on Saturday Pryor & Matthews' store team, which had been sent to the Rockingham house to deliver some goods, was overturned as it came away from that building, and the horse ran down State street and turned into Pleasant street. When opposite the North church the team collided with a pung belonging to Robert Locke of Rye, which was considerably smashed. The runaway horse then cleared himself of the sleigh to which he was attached, and ran to the owners' store. Mr. Pryor at once saw Mr. Locke, ordered all damage repaired, and furnished the gentleman with suitable conveyance home.

MARITIME NOTES.

Mr. Charles Philpott has contracted to discharge the cargo of the British schooner Mary C., which was beached on Four Tree island, Thursday morning of last week, after thumping on the Eastern Sister, and operations were commenced at midnight Sunday night. The cargo, about 150 tons of wood pulp consigned to parties in Newburyport, will be transported in gondolas from the schooner to the old railway wharf, and stored in Herbert's fish-house on that wharf. The schooner will go on the marine railway at Kittery for repairs.

There were no vessels discharging at the north end wharves on Saturday, and none to be seen on the river, which was entirely clear of ice. A walk along the wharves from Newcastle to Noble's island, Sunday, developed the fact that there was in the harbor but one solitary sailing vessel, fisherman or coaster, except those hauled up for the winter,—and that one was the little fishing schooner Flying Dart, whose men were busily at work fitting trawls, she having used nets so far this season. The netting schooners have had but very moderate success this winter, and the destruction of their nets by the recent storms has led a number of them to return to trawls.

Frozen herring were in liberal receipt at Gloucester, Mass., last week, as follows: Seven fares from Fortune bay, and five from Grand Menan, aggregating about 3,900,000 fish. But a small part of the stock will be disposed of there at present, the sales being seventy-five cents per hundred. Four fares sailed for New York on Friday, one for Philadelphia, and one for Boston. Other fish receipts for the week were 331,000 pounds of codfish, 80,000 pounds of halibut, and 44,000 pounds of haddock.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The ship houses at the navy yard have been opened and cleaned out, ready for the coming democratic administration to go ahead and build Sam. Randall's new navy.

Chief Engineer William B. Brooks on Saturday assumed charge of the department of steam engineering at this navy yard, vice B. F. Garvin, detached and retired.

There was a slight fire in the joiner shop of the yards and docks department at the navy yard between nine and ten o'clock Saturday night, but it was put out without much damage. Mr. Jesse Patch, a workman, had a large number of tools ruined.

No paper will be issued from this office to-morrow.

There were many country teams in town on Saturday, the curbstones being lined along the stores of Market, Congress and Pleasant streets. The day, although quite cold, was pleasant, and the sleighing was reported to be very fine in the country. Considerable quantities of hay and wood were brought in, and sold early in the day, the hay bringing from $15 to $17 per ton.

A leak in the gas main at the junction of Fleet and Court streets last week filled the houses of Capt. Bradford and others with a gaseous odor. The Gas Co.'s men were at work on Saturday and Sunday to stop the leak.

The new assessors were sworn in by Mayor Page last week, and organized by the choice of Henry F. Wendell as chairman and Mercer Goodrich as secretary. The board now consists of Henry F. Wendell, Charles W. Stimson, Moses H. Goodrich, Frederick E. Potter, John W. Prior, Daniel F. Akerman, William P. Bennett, Samuel S. Green and Lewis G. Davis.

"Nobody's Claim" was presented at Music hall on Saturday evening, and was decidedly well received by a fair-sized audience. The play is one of the best of its class, the scenery is very fine, and the actors are good and make the most of their parts.

Mrs. Newhall, the popular costumer of Boston, will be at the Portsmouth skating rink to-day with a large number of fine colonial-style costumes, which she will let for this evening at reasonable rates. Many of the choicest outfits were taken on Saturday, but there are others left. The skating floor will not be rigidly reserved for those in colonial dress, but persons in any fancy costume will be admitted.

The dwellings on State street numbered sixteen and eighteen were sold at auction on Saturday by Morse & Ilsley, Mr. George Scott purchasing them both, the former for $1650 and the latter for $2175.

The American ensign was hoisted on the flagstaff at Liberty bridge on Sunday, Feb. 22d, and a handsome flag also waved over the rising Rockingham house, in honor of the day. Mr. William Willey, of Badger's island, Kittery, displayed a flag from the staff on the island at sunrise.

The mumps are reported as being quite prevalent among the children of the city.

DIPHTHERIA!

THE PROSTRATION which follows Diphtheria, and the persistency with which it clings to the patient, are well known to all who have had any experience with this terrible disease.

The following letter shows how the restoring and invigorating properties of Hood's Sarsaparilla overcome it, and how by vitalizing and enriching the blood it neutralizes and eradicates the poisoned matter from it, bringing to the convalescent the color, life and vigor of robust health.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—My little girl had the diphtheria last April. The disease left her very weak, blood poor, with no appetite, and she could not seem to rally from its effects. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA was recommended by a neighbor. After she had been taking it a few days we noticed a change for the better—she began to eat with a relish. It seemed to take out the poison the disease had left in her blood, the change being very noticeable in her face. She took it two months and fully regained her health, much to our delight. We now recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA with a great deal of pleasure. Very truly yours,
J. R. SMITH,
19 Butterfield Street.

"That Extreme Tired Feeling."

"The first bottle has done my daughter a great deal of good; her food does not distress her now, nor does she suffer from that extreme tired feeling which she did before taking HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA."

Sold by all druggists. Price $1 a bottle or six bottles for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

"He jests at scars, who never felt a wound," and a man may stand with his hands in his pockets and laugh at a poor, worn rheumatic, but if he is a gentleman, he'll step into the nearest apothecary shop and buy him a bottle of Salvation Oil at the small expense of only twenty-five cents.

A despatch of Feb. 20th from Las Vegas, New Mexico, says: "Don Miguel Montano, a wealthy Mexican, and a leading politician, together with his wife, were foully murdered last Tuesday night by Jose Trugello, who afterwards fled to the mountains. He has not been captured as yet. It is reported that Trugello was in love with Mrs. Montano. She repelled his advances, and he killed her and her husband for revenge."

"I have no appetite," complains many a sufferer. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives an appetite and enables the stomach to perform its duty.

Three unavailing attempts were made at Exeter, England, Feb. 23d, to hang John Lee, the murderer of Miss Emma Keyse. The wretched man brave y faced two attempts, but collapsed on the third time, and was carried to his cell more dead than alive. He has been respited by order of the home office.

An off Year.

This is going to be an off year. No political booms for "Plumed Knights" or "Reform" will help keep up the health and strength of the vast multitudes whose faith is pinned on the glowing party promises of electioneering year. Multitudes of such will need a reliable tonic to tone up the system, a purifier to work off the bad blood, and a sure remedy for lame backs, rheumatism, biliousness, etc. Such a remedy is Kidney-Wort. It has long stood at the head of the list of kidney remedies, and it receives the highest praise from all that use it.

The governor of Maine has signed the death warrants of Carmen Santore and Raffaelle Capone, who murdered a fellow-Italian near Bangor a year ago for a small sum of money. They are to be hanged at Thomaston on the 3d of April.

Don't Look Like a Wreck.

"When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick." Yes, that is so. It is sad, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam is then the best investment. It stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation, and sold at the low price of 50c.

Gollagos, the rancher who murdered Don Montano and wife at Las Vegas, New Mexico, afterward killed his own wife, two daughters and a son. He is a raving maniac.

Rev. Curtis Kinney, Pastor 2d Bapt. Church, East Lyme, Conn., says:—"I have used more than fifty bottles of Dr Seth Arnold's Cough Killer. I think it cannot be improved for public speakers."

Robert Breckenridge, through his attorneys, made a motion in the law and equity court at Louisville, Ky., Feb. 21st, asking permission to pay into the hands of the receiver of the court $110,498 18, to be placed as a credit in a settlement of the accounts of the supreme treasurer of the Knights of Honor.

Saved by Shakspeare.

"I bless Shakspeare every time I meet that fellow," said a young man on Chestnut street, yesterday morning as a chilly-looking individual brushed past him.

"You see," he continued, "Smith married the girl I was engaged to. But she settled him. Why, that girl squandered his money so he had to give up his business, and he is now only salesman in Wannamaker's."

"But what has Shakspeare to be thanked for," asked a friend.

"Well, I was engaged to this lady about two years ago, and everything was arranged for the wedding. One night I took her to the theater to see 'A Midsummer Night's Dream.' We were both very much pleased with it, and, I am happy to say, remembered various passages in the text. A few days afterward we were at a picnic together and strayed away from the rest of the company during some of the sports. The scene was a sylvan one, pre-eminently suited to billing and cooing. Addressing Kate, I said, quoting the dream—

"'Come sit thee down upon the flowery bed,
That I thy amiable cheeks may coy,
And stick musk roses in thy smooth, sleek head,
And kiss thy fair large ears, my gentle joy.'

"Immediately she flared up. I could not account for her indignation, as I was not conscious of having said anything to give offence. She seemed to be about leaving me when I inquired was she ill.'

"'How dare you bring me here to insult me?' she cried.

"'I insult you!' I repeated in astonishment. 'I insult you? No! and by heavens, the man—'

"She did not allow me to finish my explanation of how very unfortunate that man or woman would be who should dare to insult her, but she interrupted me.

"'Really?' she said, with a sarcastic smile, 'and yet you bring me here and do it yourself.'

"'Upon my word—'

"'We are not married yet,' she continued, heedless of my expostulations. 'If my ears are large it is not my fault, and you, who have expressed so much admiration for me should be the last to notice the fact.'

"A flood of light now broke in on me. I vowed that in making the quotation I had intended no offence, but she turned a deaf ear to all my pleading.

"At last I sank on my knees before her, hoping to move her in this manner

"'I have loved you—dearly loved you,' I said, 'and I believed you loved me in return. You do love me, and surely you will not allow so trivial a matter to interfere with our future happiness. Say you love me now as you did before.'

"Again she smiled sarcastically, and curled her lip. Quoting also from the 'Midsummer Night's Dream,' she said:

"'Methought I was enamored of an ass;
Oh, how mine eyes do loathe his visage now!'

"She said no more but turned away. What she did was sufficient. Vainly I endeavored to effect a reconciliation. She was married in a month to her present husband, and I sometimes think, when I look on the poor man, that it was a lucky thing for me that I was born after Shakspeare."—Philadelphia News.

Mrs. Whitman and the Strange Beast.

Forty years ago or more, when the doors of the Athenæum used to be closed from 12 to 2 o'clock, Mrs. Whitman frequently spent those hours there alone. One summer's day, when the librarian returned from dinner, he found Mrs. W. in a state of considerable excitement, which she explained by saying that while walking up and down the hall, as was her custom, busily engaged in reading, she suddenly found herself confronted by a strange-looking animal, with eyes too large and ears too long for a cat, sitting up directly in front of her and boldly looking her in the face. Somewhat startled by the unexpected apparition it was not strange that she gave a little scream, whereupon the creature quickly disappeared and had not been seen again.

What could it have been? She was a little afraid that her imagination was growing a little too active, and was playing her tricks. The librarian was able to relieve her fears, however, by going to a favorite hiding-place of a tame rabbit belonging to one of the neighbors, which often slipped into the library and around in the alcoves, and which had come in that day unobserved and had been locked in with Mrs. Whitman. The poor creature was as much frightened as Mrs. W. had been, but they were never afraid of each other afterward—the lady, especially, having gained a wonderful accession o courage from having been able to frighten a rabbit!—Providence Journal.

The Latest Folly.

"Bleeding is becoming fashionable among young society swells of both sexes, but it is mostly practiced by young men," said a society physician yesterday.

"By bleeding persons naturally become a little pale, and this gives them a kind of aristocratic or distinguished appearance. For instance, if a young man has been rejected by the lady who has upset his reason he can play upon her sympathies by having himself bled. The loss of blood would make him pale and interesting, and he could lounge around home for a few days and send out a report that he was dying of a broken heart. His paleness would show that something was the matter with him, and it might excite the lady's sympathy, if she had that element in her icy fashionable composition. The face could not be powdered or painted so as to represent illness. The ladies understand that artifice too well; and a great many are adopting the bleeding process. It is not that they wish to convey the impression that they are dying by inches from grief. They don't do that now. But occasional bleeding makes them pale, and their pretty faces are more easily colored in consequence. With a white background, or rather face, the face is colored without the preliminary trouble of washing it with a white compound before coloring is put on. The colors stick better, the paint does not show so plainly, does not close the pores of the skin so hermetically; a smoother appearance generally. Then, again, it is not the correct thing in fashionable society to appear too rosy and healthful. It would look as if they followed some occupation for a living. School girls, you know, eat pickles and slate-pencils under the impression that it will make them thin by drying up the blood. Bleeching is the latest device in fashionable society, and is resorted to by both sexes for opposite purposes. During the summer ladies are bleached, or bled, under the impression that the reduction of blood prevents an excess of perspiration—and nothing is considered more unfashionable than to perspire. That is why so many ladies look so cool and icy chilling in the red-hot months of summer. I do not know that the young men drink salt water after being bled like the other calves that are bleached for the market by cruel butchers, but no doubt salt water will soon become a fashionable craze in connection with the bleeding process."

Among the Christmas presents of Col. Daniel S. Lamont, for two years past and for four years to come the private secretary of Mr. Cleveland, was a gold locket containing a slender circle of light brown hair. "That is a good present for a democrat," said Col. Lamont, looking reflectively at the contents of the locket; it is some of the hair of Thomas Jefferson, founder of the democratic party. It was given me by Henry S. Randall, whose father wrote the standard life of Jefferson. I have known the son many years. He could not have given me a present which I would have valued more

THE GREAT SKIN CURES

Mrs. Smith's Case, and what the Rev. Mr. McKinstry has to say about it.

TO THE PUBLIC: I have been a fearful sufferer for fifteen years, most of the time with what has been called Eczema or Salt Rheum, Tetter in and Lepra, and the like, and have always been told that there was no cure for me, and have been so discouraged that I had given up hope. I have been so badly afflicted sometimes that there was not the small spot free in the crown of my head to the soles of my feet that was not diseased and as red as crimson. It would commence in small white spots, which had a silvery appearance, but would soon be in a state of scaling off, and then so soon after their first appearance, they would burn and run together until there was a complete sore, red scale, which would become so bad and so cracked and look fiery and angry, and the burning sensation would be almost intolerable.

I was at times so lame that I could scarcely get about, and I could not dress myself without assistance. I have tried many remedies, and have paid $ 0 in a single instance to a physician, but have never obtained only temporary relief. Although helped for a time, I soon relapsed again to be as badly troubled as ever, and during the winter of 1881 and 1882 I suffered so much as to be entirely discouraged. Last June, however, I was advised by Elmer and Mrs. L. C. McKinstry, who are well known in these regions, to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES; and I felt somewhat a little encouraged from their favorable opinion of them, to try their virtue. About the second week of July, last I commenced taking the remedies, and within six weeks I began to see a permanent improvement, until now (Oct. 1) I am about as good as new, and my flesh is as the flesh of a child.

The Naval Secretaryship.

According to the Washington Star, it is one thing to be mentioned in connection with a cabinet position but quite another to receive the appointment. The Star says:

There has been no little talk of Ex-Congressman Frank Jones, of New Hampshire, for that position, [the navy,] but should he be selected it would be a great surprise to the prominent democrats of the country. Many of the leading democrats in Congress, among them men whom Mr. Cleveland will naturally depend upon to a considerable extent, refuse to believe that the president-elect would make Mr. Jones a member of his cabinet. In discussing the matter they are at a loss to assign any reason which would justify the appointment. They say that New Hampshire is a republican state, without claims for democratic consideration, and that it would certainly give offense to democratic states to be passed by for a man from a republican state, who is scarcely known outside his state. There has undoubtedly been some influence exerted in favor of Mr. Jones, but unless democratic sentiment is greatly mistaken he will not get in.

It would seem that this objection would apply with equal force to the candidates from Massachusetts, for cabinet honors. If New England is to have a cabinet officer, and Mr. Cleveland desires Mr. Jones for the position, and the latter will accept, it will not be a difficult matter "to assign the reason." That could be done now if necessary, but it will be as well to let those leading democratic Congressmen find out for themselves, although we are of opinion that they know it already.

The Star article we surmise was written in the interest of some other statesman, who would like to attend President Cleveland's cabinet meetings, and whose chances of selection do not favorably compare with those of the candidate from a state "without claims for democratic consideration."

If the democrats do not soon depose Mr. Randall from the leadership, and show some regard for the wants of the country, by congressional action of an improved character, the democratic states to be conciliated will be remarkably few at the next congressional election.

Analyzing the Baking Powders.

"Royal" the only Absolutely Pure Baking Powder Made—Action of the New York State Board of Health.

Under the direction of the New York State Board of Health, eighty-four different kinds of baking powders, embracing all the brands that could be found for sale in the state, were submitted to examination and analysis by Prof. C. F. Chandler, a member of the state board, and president of the New York city board of health, assisted by Prof. Edward G. Love, the well-known late United States government chemist.

The official report shows that a large number of the powders examined were found to contain alum or lime; many of them to such an extent as to render them seriously objectionable for use in the preparation of human food.

Alum was found in twenty-nine samples. This drug is employed in baking powders to cheapen their cost. The presence of lime is attributed to the impure cream of tartar of commerce used in their manufacture. Such cream of tartar was also analyzed and found to contain lime and other impurities, in some samples to the extent of 93 per cent of their entire weight.

All the baking powders of the market, with the single exception of "Royal" (not including the alum and phosphate powders, which were long since discarded as unsafe or inefficient by prudent housekeepers) are made from the impure cream of tartar of commerce, and consequently contain lime to a corresponding extent.

The only baking powder yet found by chemical analysis to be entirely free from lime and absolutely pure is the "Royal." This perfect purity results from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes of the N. Y. Tartar Co., which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and on account of this greater cost it is used in no baking powder but the "Royal."

Prof. Love, who made the analysis of baking powders for the New York state board of health, as well as for the government, says of the purity and wholesomeness of "Royal:"

"I have tested a package of 'Royal Baking Powder' which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates or any injurious substances. E. G. Love, Ph. D."

Do Not Delay

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your

Sulphur Bitters

Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me. I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am nowable to do all my household work.

not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured her of Dyspepsia and Most painfully Sick Headaches.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

Monday was observed as a holiday in honor of the birth of George Washington, the 22d having fallen on Sunday. The observance in this city was very quiet, being principally noticeable in the general cessation of business in the afternoon, and the many parties who improved the excellent sleighing. The livery stable men reaped a harvest, and scores of people got chilled to the marrow driving in the cold, blustering breeze. The bells of the city were rung for half an hour at sunrise; and at noon and sunset there was another half-hour of ringing, in which all the bells joined excepting those owned by the city and the Episcopal church. It had been understood that the bells would be rung only in the morning, by order of the city authorities, but some of the citizens thought they should sound out at noon and evening as well, and took measures to have them rung.

Flags were displayed on the Rockingham house, custom house, city building, the Liberty bridge Liberty pole, from several private flagstaffs, and on a number of the fishing schooners at the wharves.

There was good skating on the north pond, and many skaters enjoying it, two of whom met with a slight mishap, breaking through thin ice into water which reached up to their necks; they were pulled out unhurt, but very wet, and one of them, who lives near Gravelly Ridge, must have had a very unpleasant tramp home in the face of the biting wind. Some of the boys skated on "Turtle Gutter" nearly to the Fountain Head, and others went up the brooks and ditches to a point beyond the powder house, a distance of two miles or more from the tide-gates of the bridge.

The coasting on the hill south of the south pond was never better than on Monday, and swarms of boys improved the occasion, very much to the gratification of the city officials, whose duty obliges them to keep the streets clear, but who do not wish to needlessly interfere with the innocent sports of the juveniles. Starting from a point near South street, in the field to the eastward of Langdon park, they would glide rapidly down the hill to the pond, and the momentum would carry them clear across the pond to the bank in the rear of the court house. The skating on the pond, too, was very fair, and was enjoyed by numbers of the young folks.

The only public amusement in the evening was the Colonial skating party in the Portsmouth rink. There were not so many skaters on the floor as at some of the previous fancy dress parties, only those in costume being allowed to participate on this occasion; many of the costumes were quite tasteful, and there were some very skillful skaters on the floor. The number of spectators was large, every reserved seat being taken and the galleries filled.

At the navy yard the day was observed by the cessation of work, and the firing of a national salute at noon. The U. S. S. Marion, lying at the wharf ready for sea, made a good show of bunting, and the flags were hoisted at the appropriate places on the yard.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Feb. 24th.

Asam Niles, charged with assaulting Bessie Young, had nothing to say in defense, and was fined $10, with $6.90 costs.

In another assault case the assaulting party was assessed $9.90, and paid it.

"THE HONEYMOON."

As probably a large proportion of Portsmouth theatre-goers never saw "The Honeymoon," in which Miss Margaret Mather is to appear at Music hall next Saturday evening, a brief synopsis of the play will no doubt be acceptable. It is something like "The Taming of the Shrew," with a little touch of "Much Ado About Nothing," and is one of the best comedies that John Tobin, of English fame, ever wrote. It represents in Juliana an ambitious young woman who loves rank and money more than man, and for them alone marries. But the man she marries detects the propensity, and with an iron will sets about correcting it. As a duke, he marries the woman only to take her home to a peasant's dwelling. She foams and rants, but all in vain. Her liege lord is "one too many" even for her proud spirit. She had previously scorned the idea that a woman should obey a man; he, with the key of her chamber before her eyes, with firmness but without violence compels her to obey him. Then he shows, beneath the guise of severity which cuts her so, a true, noble, manly adoration for her. She runs away and goes to the alleged duke of the land with her complaints, which results in her consenting to live with her husband one month, at the end of which time she is to leave him if she likes. At the end of that time, however, she has come to see her own folly and her husband's nobility, and nothing, not even her father's commands, can compel her to leave him. After she is thus subdued, it is revealed to her that her husband is really the duke, and the alleged duke is merely his chamberlain. In addition to this there is a Benedick sort of a sideplay with other characters, the whole plot serving to bring out the peculiarities of human nature with a cunning scarcely excelled by Shakespeare. It furnishes opportunity for Miss Mather to display her talents at their best; and it is alleged that if anything she shows that she is even better in such high comedy than in tragedy.

The sale of reserved seat tickets commenced on Tuesday, and by nightfall the plan was so marked up as to indicate a very large attendance Saturday evening; persons having a preference of seats will need to apply soon.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES--CLARK J.

In case of Pearl & Butler vs. the Jackson Co., of Nashua, a patent cause involving the question of infringement upon the Pearl spindle, which has been pending in this court for several years, the bill has been dismissed without costs, by agreement of parties. Charles Levi Woodbury for plff.; B. F. Thurston, of Rhode Island, for defts.

The patent suit Elbridge T. Burley and others of Lawrence, Mass., vs. Frederick Simpkins of Manchester, founded upon an alleged infringement of a patent, was dismised by the complainants. Burley of Lawrence for compts.; Wadleigh and Fish for deft.

MARITIME NOTES.

The Newburyport Herald says: "Schooner Josie Johnson, Capt. William Thurlow, while lying at anchor at Fort point, below Portsmouth harbor, was run into by the schooner Amos Cutler, of Gloucester, and badly damaged, all the stanchions on one side being broken off and her planksheer torn out. The accident occurred about three o'clock, Saturday morning. The Amos Cutler came sailing down the harbor showing no lights; the captain at the wheel. No excuse was offered, and the owners will probably be obliged to pay for the damage."

A large amount of fish was brought in on Tuesday, and prices averaged about $2.75 per hundred pounds.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

An order was promulgated on the navy yard, Saturday, informing the workmen and others interested that while their presence on the yard would not be required on Monday, Feb. 23d, they would be allowed pay for the day. This order was issued in accordance with the joint resolution of Congress providing that all government employes shall hereafter be paid for certain holidays, namely: New Year's day, Washington's birthday, the 4th of July, Christmas, and whatever days may be appointed by the president as national Fast and Thanksgiving days. In other words, the government will do what it has always pretended to do but never till now has done—give its employes the several national holidays, instead of merely forcing them to lose a day and docking them a day's pay for it.

The gates of the north millpond have been lashed open since the 12th inst., allowing the water to ebb and flow freely; the rushing water has cleared away all the ice between the bridge and Noble's island, but of course the old grist mill has had to stand idle. The farmers can now, however, get their grain ground there, the gates having been closed this morning.

Andrew J. Beck, Esq., who has been confined to his house by illness since October last, and whose friends for some time despaired of his recovery, celebrated Washington's birthday (the 23d) by taking a walk down town and receiving the hearty congratulations of scores of persons who were glad to see the old gentleman out once more. He was on the street near his home on the previous Saturday, his first appearance out since he was taken ill.

Loads of baskets from the famous basket makers of the Mount Agamenticus district of York appeared on the Parade, on Monday. On Tuesday there were a number of teams in from York county with hay, straw and wood, which seemed to meet a ready sale; barley straw was sold at $8 per ton, and pine wood at $4 per cord.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat, in its report of the proceedings of New Hampshire day, Feb. 19th, says: "Further remarks were made by Hon. John Marcy of Portsmouth."

Capt. Frank P. Coleman, who has recently been confined to his room at his residence in Newington with a sprain in his back, is recovering, so as to be able to be about again.

Col. Charles A. Sinclair and wife arrived home on Monday evening from their trip to Florida.

A large sleighing party went to Dover point on Tuesday night in Beacham's new barge, and this time made a successful trip to that heretofore—to this party—inaccessible region.

Mr. Daniel Mason, who has been confined to his house by illness for the past two weeks, has so far recovered as to be able to attend to his saw and planing mill on Green and Vaughan streets.

Col. John Pender, of Gov. Hale's staff, arrived home from Washington on Tuesday evening.

It is reported that Walter H. Page, Esq., of the Times, intends to be in Washington at the inauguration of President Cleveland on the 4th of next month.

DIPHTHERIA!

THE PROSTRATION which follows Diphtheria, and the persistency with which it clings to the patient, are well known to all who have had any experience with this terrible disease.

The following letter shows how the restoring and invigorating properties of Hood's Sarsaparilla overcome it, and how by vitalizing and enriching the blood it neutralizes and eradicates the poisoned matter from it, bringing to the convalescent the color, life and vigor of robust health.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—My little girl had the diphtheria last April. The disease left her very weak, blood poor, with no appetite, and she could not seem to rally from its effects. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA was recommended by a neighbor. After she had been taking it a few days we noticed a change for the better—she began to eat with a relish. It seemed to take out the poison the disease had left in her blood, the change being very noticeable in her face. She took it two months and fully regained her health, much to our delight. We now recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA with a great deal of pleasure. Very truly yours,

J. R. SMITH,
19 Butterfield Street.

"That Extreme Tired Feeling."

"The first bottle has done my daughter a great deal of good; her food does not distress her now, nor does she suffer from that extreme tired feeling which she did before taking HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA."

Our New York Fashion Letter.

SPRING MILLINERY.

Though having lived long enough now to be of "uncertain age," the capote bonnet comes to us a fresh beauty in its spring dress. That dress, however, is so old as to cause our grandmother's to seem of yesterday. Fashion has been digging among relics of far-away years, and dry-goods clerks will fall prostrate before emblems which long ago pleased mail-clad knights. Visions of middle-age decorations greet us. Ribbons are broadly woven to show them; scarfs and handkerchiefs are used the better to exhibit them; they are noticeable on bonnet materials, and the order of disposal is such as to bring them as much as possible into display. Armorial bearings, a crouching leopard, a rampant steed, etc., are seen at such refined millinery departments as that of Lord & Taylor, while colors are noticeably dull, in imitation of middle-age ideas. Again, however, we notice bright alternations, while colored ribbons, scarfs and handkerchiefs are wrought in both ways. Tinsel is a marked feature, either in decoration or woven in the fabric, while worsted laces, either as material or edgings, will be very largely used; and here we find old patterns which might have originated in the brain of some monk, brought to light once more.

VERY WIDE RIBBONS

Are a prelude to broad scarfs, that are not, however, as novel in millinery as the handkerchiefs, which are a striking innovation. Tied under the chin, the broad ribbons will form a stylish framework, but as the qualities are gauzy or soft canvas-like, the effect will not be too expanded. Unbleached cotton canvas is indeed an important element, and while entirely without attraction in itself, serves as a foundation to all manner of decorations. It is woven with colored silk alternations, usually in faded hues; or again we see tinsel embroideries or middle-age devices. Canvas handkerchiefs vary the picture, and canvas scarfs likewise, but we must not forget that the fabric is valued only as a foundation for portrayal. In shapes there are as yet very little novelty. The sharp peak over the forehead, shows in straw small difference from the wintry point to which we are habitu ted; the ever-flourishing capote sometimes appears with a plaiting of straw in front, sometimes with an upward jerk over the forehead, sometimes with a curvature at the back, and with minor varieties as to crown; the coronet bonnet with similar additions or takings away, remains a coronet. Fancy straws will be worn, but a large number are plain woven and dyed in shades to match dress goods. Many round hats have high pointed crowns with narrow rolling brims, and will give especial opportunity for showing off the scarfs and handkerchiefs of the day. Gay little embroidered dots and small figures in milliner's soft gauzes, remind us that

EMBROIDERED GINGHAMS

Are important in fine cotton goods. They replace conventional plaids and checks, yet plaids and checks appear to be real necessities in dress, so we have both styles. Other interesting cottons are fine tinted batistes, satteens, robbed however of much gloss, and repped Sicilienne. China silks will replace former stripes and checks; there is talk of watered silk again, both in dress goods and millinery, white velvet and its constant substitute and rival, Nonpareil velveteen, will be leading factors in spring and summer. Obligatory effects of contrast for light goods are necessary to the production of stylish outfits for cool summer days.

NOTE.

My first view of Mme. Materna was at a concert. Verdict, "A splendid singer, but how lacking in style the arrangement of her hair." Now she sings in opera, and we find her magnificent voice almost overshadowed by her dramatic genius. Her costumes sometimes in deplorably bad taste. A pale green veil wound around a brunette countenance, the same fatal color in her costume, united with large, pale-hued brocade, which causes her to look larger, when she needs all possible reduction for the impersonation of a young girl. Occasionally she gets hold of something suitable, and then how handsome she looks, since nature made her a woman of fine presence.

"Delays are Dangerous."

If you are pale, emaciated, have a hacking cough, with night-sweats, spitting of blood and shortness of breath, you have no time to lose. Do not hesitate too long—'till you are past cure; for, taken in its early stages, consumption can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," as thousands can testify. By druggists.

"What thing so good?" is the query of a poet somewhat confused; if he has a cold, the only good thing we know of is a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Lieut. E. W. Ranney, executive officer of the United States ship Portsmouth, at the navy yard at Norfolk, Va., disappeared about Feb. 14th, and no trace of him has been discovered.

The warmer weather often has a depressing and debilitating effect. Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes all languor and lassitude.

Chief Engineer F. A. Wilson, U. S. N., has reported for temporary duty at the Boston navy yard.

Dyspepsia.

Thousands of persons suffer from this distressing complaint, and never realize what their disease is until it assumes its worst forms. Wetherell's Sarsaparilla will positively cure dyspepsia in its worst form. Sold by all druggists, at $1.00 per bottle. Six for $5.

Lieut. C. M. Perkins, U. S. M. C., was detached from duty at the marine barracks, Boston, Feb. 23d, and ordered to the command of the marine guard of the flagship Tennessee, of the North Atlantic squadron.

An off Year.

This is going to be an off year. No political booms for "Plumed Knights" or "Reform" will help keep up the health and strength of the vast multitudes whose faith is pinned on the glowing party promises of election year. Multitudes of such will need a reliable tonic to tone up the system, a purifier to work off the bad blood, and a sure remedy for lame backs, rheumatism, biliousness, etc. Such a remedy is Kidney-Wort. It has long stood at the head of the list of kidney remedies, and it receives the highest praise from all that use it.

Medical Director A. C. Gorgas has returned from Washington to duty on board the Wabash, at Boston. For the past two months Dr. Gorgas has been in Washington as a witness before the committee investigating the frauds in the bureau of medicine and surgery at the navy department.

Delicate Ladies!

Who have that tired and all-gone feeling, and don't like to be disturbed, will continue to be troubled with this complaint until they renew their impure blood. Sulphur Bitters will cause new and rich blood to course through every artery and vein in the human system. See another column.

Lady Ellen Fortescue, alone, friendless and unknown, died in Chicago, on Feb. 19th, under the name of Ellen C. Williams. Lady Ellen was the wife of Sir William Fortescue, of England, who after losing all his property by gambling, came to this country and died in 1862.

Rev. Curtis Kinney, Pastor 2d Bapt. Church, East Lyme, Conn., says:—"I have used more than fifty bottles of D. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer. I think it cannot be improved for public speakers."

The British ocean steamships Claudon, with thirty men, the Fernwood with thirty-one men, and the Preston, with thirty-three men, have gone down at sea, with all hands. All of them sailed from New York.

The Mardi Gras Carnival at New Orleans

On Tuesday, February 10th, the scene of the Carnival festivities was unprecedented for gayety. Thousands from all portions of the world thronged the streets, after witnessing the ceremony of the drawing, and gave loud-spoken approval of the honesty of the 17th Grand Monthly Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, under the exclusive management of Gen'ls G. T. Beauregard, of La., and Jubal A. Early, of Va., and some $232,500 was scattered about. It will all go over again on March 10th, of which M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will inform you on application to him.

Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Consumption.

All Throat, Breast, and Lung Affections cured by the old-established "SWAYNE'S WILD-CHERRY." The first dose gives relief, and a cure speedily follows. 25 cts. or $1.00 at Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodlaw,s3

"No, you don't" replied the deacon, ignoring the money offered; "that's a blue chip. It's worth five dollars."—New York Sun.

An old country squire, who never looked at newspapers, came up all the way from Cornwall recently to attend the sexcentenary of his college at Oxford. As he entered the college gates he was politely presented with a bill for goods that had been supplied to him as an undergraduate forty-five years previously. He turned on the dun with indignation, not altogether speechless. "God bless you, sir!" he roared, "Lord love your heart! do you think I come up here once in every 600 years to be dunned?"

He did not know the Brooklyn girls very well, being a comparative stranger from Philadelphia, but he timidly remarked that he wished he were a leather belt, that he might clasp her waist. She turned upon him a warning blue light glance from her eloquent eyes: "Young man," she said, "if you couldn't squeeze harder and held on tighter than any belt that was ever fastened with a buckle, nobody has any use for you in Brooklyn. I can tell you." With a wild, bitter cry, he fled out into the black, black night.—Bob Burdette.

Did you ever see a woman play whist? No! Well, she does it somewhat as follows: "Oh, dear, I don't believe I can ever get these cards arranged—Now, let me see, that one goes there, and—oh, dear, I've dropped one on the floor—won't you pick it up?—Thanks—Now let me see—Oh, is it my play?—Mercy, I'm sure I don't know which one to play—There, I played the wrong one, but never mind—have I got to follow suit?—Well, if I can't follow suit can I trump? Oh, I wish I could have thrown away on that trick—could I? Oh, I'm so sorry—Now, how stupid I was I didn't see it was my partner's ace when I trumped, but never mind." And so it goes on, and at the end of the game her partner generally has to stand the ridicule of the other side because he was so badly beaten.—Boston Post.

The Rev. Penstock, who is one of the committee of three appointed to prepare an almanac for the exclusive use of inspired people, submitted a protest to the effect that his two companions insisted upon having the earth revolve upon its axis twice in twenty-four hours. He wanted an injunction to restrain them, and he hinted that such conduct on their part merited a public reprimand. "Brudder Penstock," asked the President, "what particular harm am it gwine ter do if dis world turns over once in twelve hours?" "Why, sah, de world can't do it." "Waal, maybe she can't, but I feels like givin' her a fair show to try it. It won't do any hurt, as I kin see, an' it may stir sartin folkses up to pay deir debts an' squar' up on deir house rent. Your protest am declared outer order.—Detroit Free Press.

When Gen. "Bob" Toombs of Georgia goes up to Atlanta on one of his periodical sprees he throws off all his Southern dignity and becomes for the time being "hail fellow, well met" with every one. Recently he sprinkled a little red over the town in the company of an aspiring young legislator, separating from him in a wee hour of the night. The next day the General met his whilom acquaintance in the lobby of the Markham House, the latter approaching him with a gracious bow and saying, "Good morning, General; how do you do-to-day?" The General took no notice of the remark, but turned and looked out of the window. "Why, General," resumed the other, "don't you remember me? I was with you last night." "Well, sir, what of it?" roared the old warhorse, turning upon him wrathfully. "Am I to be obliged to recognize every d—n fool who gets on a spree with me?"

Cuticura

THE GREAT SKIN CURES

Mrs. Smith's Case, and what the Rev. Mr. McKinstry has to say about it.

TO THE PUBLIC: I have been a fearful sufferer for fifteen years, most of the time with what has been called Eczema or salt Rheum, Psoriasis and Lepros and the like, and have already been told that there was no cure for me, and have been so discouraged that I had so too die as lee. I have been so badly afflicted sometimes that there was not the smallest spot from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet that was not diseased and as red as crimson. It would commence in small white spots, which had a silvery appearance, but were not deep, but if I attempted to heal them, or soon after their first appearance, they would burn and run together until there was a complete dry, red scale, which would become so full and as red as crimson. It would commence in small white spots, which had a silvery appearance, but were not deep, but if I attempted to heal them, or soon after their first appearance, they would burn and run together until there was a complete dry, red scale, which would become so full and as to crack and look fiery and angry, and the burning sensation would be almost intolerable.

I was at time so lame that I could scarcely get about, and could not dress myself without assistance. I had tried many remedies, and have paid $100 in a single instance to a physician, but have ever obtained only temporary relief. Although helped for a time, I was so relapsed again to be as badly troubled as ever, and during the winter of 1881 and 1882 I suffered so much as to be entirely discouraged. I saw Dr. Jolie, however, I was advised by Elder and Mrs. L. C. McKinstry, who are well known in these regions, to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES; and I felt somehow a little courage, from their favorable opinion of them, to try their virtue. About the second week of July last I commenced taking the remedies, and within six weeks I began to see a permanent improvement, until now (Oct 1) I am about as good as new, and my flesh is as the flesh of a child

MRS. BENJ. SMITH.

I certify that the above statement of my wife is correct, and I join with her sin expressing my gratitude for the great benefit he has received.

LATER.—I have seen Mrs. Smith recently and believe her to be thoroughly and permanently cured.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Feb. 24th.

Leslie's Convention and Concert company, headquarters at Chicago, Ill., have been organizing musical associations and chorus classes in several of the principal towns in York county. Tuesday of last week a branch of that company engaged the vestry of the 2d Methodist church, at the village, and organized a chorus class. The object of these classes in the different towns is to create an interest in vocal music; the classes hold three sessions a day, and at the end of a week's drill under the instruction of the company, are left in the hands of some good music teacher, and made a permanent society. The class at the village is composed of seventy voices under the direction of Prof. W. J. Harrington, assisted by Ella Mabella, Mrs. R. W. George, Etta M. Hopping and R. B. George. Their first appearance opened with a free concert, and closed Monday evening, the 23d inst., with a grand jubilee of seventy-five voices. The interest made manifest with this class would surprise those who might have hope for the greatest success. The old and the young joined in the chorus and exercises. The duet and solo singing by Prof. Harrington, Miss Mabella and Miss Hopping, was exceptionally fine, and was appreciated by the large audience present; in short, it was the best thing of the kind that has ever been given in town, and if Prof. Harrington should come again, as he says he shall, we will give him a crowded house.

The above class will continue, and have formed what will be known as the Kittery Musical Association, with the following officers: President, Rev. Perry Chandler; vice president, Mrs. John Steel; secretary, Mrs. Fanny Hill; treasurer, E. C. Nealley; conductor, Frank E. Rowell; assistant conductor, M. E. Tilton; organist, Charles E. Lovell,—and will hold its meetings every Monday evening at the 2d Methodist church.

Mrs. Buxton will give an entertainment at Trefethen's hall on Thursday evening, the 26th inst.

The Leslie Convention and Concert company left town Tuesday morning, the 24th inst., for Exeter, N. H., to organize a class in that town.

Mr. William Durgin has bought of Mr. Daniel McIntire the house formerly belonging to Augusta Jones, and has moved into the same.

Mr. Albert Gerry has bought a horse and other equipments, and is now ready to do teaming for any one.

Mr. William Stevenson has moved to the Foreside, as the house he formerly lived in has been sold to William Durgin.

George Kimball of York has moved into Joshua Gerry's house on the Post road.

It is said that the selectmen have appointed the best set of highway surveyors this year that has served in that capacity for many years, and it is thought by some to be for the interest of the town to always choose them in that way.

Another voter in town: To Mr. Geo. A. Peirce and wife, a son. SUB ROSA.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., Feb. 23d.

Mrs. Mary Booker, wife of Mr. William D. Booker, on Thursday last fell on the ice, and the doctor thought it likely she had sustained a fracture of the shoulder bone. On the same day Miss Lizzie Booker, sister of Wm. D. Booker, and living two miles distant, also dislocated her shoulder by falling on the ice. Curious coincidence?

On Friday last Mr. James Austin, while logging in the woods, received a severe bruising on one of his legs by a log rolling on to it.

We regret to learn of the painful accident which on Thursday last befell our old and esteemed friend Mr. Stephen E. Grant, proprietor of the Limerick house at Limerick, Maine, and formerly of the Cape Neddick house in this town. Mr. Grant was engaged in housing ice, and in some way fell a distance of eight feet, and with him fell a large cake of ice which broke the bones of his right leg entirely off about midway between the ankle and knee, the large bone protruding through the flesh over two inches. After the placing of the bones by the surgeons in attendance, profuse bleeding set in, to stop which required their skill for some time. At last accounts Mr. Grant was as comfortable as could be expected. We are indeed sorry for him, as he has brought the Limerick house up to a good reputation, and was doing well.

On next Sunday, March 1st, Mr. William P. Israel and perhaps others of Portsmouth will hold religious services at the York and Kittery Christian church at Beech Ridge in York; a general invitation is extended to all. P.

Osman recently killed a messenger from Taka bearing the news that the mudir of Dongola, assisted by the Shukrai tribe, engaged in battle the Hadendowas, who had attacked a friendly tribe that were supplying the English with grain. Two thousand of the Hadendowas were killed by the mudir and his allies.

At Korti, Feb. 24th, a grand durbar was held in the presence of the Habbabish and other sheikhs and the British troops. Lord Wolseley personally invested the mudir of Dongola with the order of St. Michael and St. George.

We will hazard a bit of advice to those who contemplate a visit to Washington about these days, and that is to purchase a round-trip ticket. A man who stays at Washington expecting something often becomes disappointed, and it is well to have the means of transportation for the home stretch. The fact is that however much the pressure for places, the new regime in deference to its own comfort,—nay, its ability to move at all, has advertised that it will go slow at first, and the great body of visitors will learn that many will have called but few be chosen. Let the procession move in order, without unseemly rush.

The Dover Democrat tells the following story: "For some time past a Newmarket grocer has been missing his pork from a certain barrel in his store. A few evenings since he took a large fish-hook and line, and sticking the hook in a piece of the pork awaited developments. Next day a lady living in the town, who has six or seven thousand dollars to her credit in the bank, was seen to come in. She purchased some trifling article, and then departed. Something peculiar was heard when she got near the store door, and all at once a chunk of pork flopped out of her pocket. She had got to the end of the fish-hook line, and something had to give way as the hook held fast in the pork. She was caught. The matter was fixed up in some way. She said she couldn't help doing it, for she was a kleptomaniac."

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your

Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me; I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am now able to do all my housework.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured me of Dyspepsia and those deathly Sick Headaches.

not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

MISS WHIDDEN'S DEBUT.

The rapid sale of tickets to Miss Whidden's concert at Music hall to-night, is evidence that the occasion is looked forward to with pleasant anticipations by the music loving people of our city. A fine programme is in preparation, and the best talent obtainable in Boston will lend its aid to make the debut of our young townswoman a memorable event in the musical history of Portsmouth.

A MUGWUMP YARN.

The Boston Advertiser's Washington correspondent, in stating that according to the opinions expressed by Mr. Cleveland to all who have visited him the federal offices of New England have been well managed, and removals will not be made in a hurry, adds:

A striking indication of this was in the action of Frank Jones. A delegation of citizens waited upon him recently, so he tells the story, to advise with him concerning the new postmaster at Portsmouth. He told them that he had no reason to believe that Mr. Peirce, as a faithful official, would not be allowed to serve his term out.

This story is entitled to about as much credence as the average Washington yarn. It is not at all likely that Mr. Jones made any such remark, because he knew that Postmaster Peirce's term expires early in March. But Mr. Jones doubtless regards it of far more consequence both to his party and the country that a proper set of cabinet officers should be selected, and the new administration become in working order before these minor questions of local patronage should be discussed. We think in New Hampshire the victors are behaving quite reasonably as to the spoils, and this is doubtless due to the fact that men like Mr. Jones will suggest to applicants the propriety of all efforts to obtain positions being made decently and in order, and the president-elect has been wise in early promulgating his views upon this subject.

MARGARET MATHER.

The size of Miss Mather's audiences this year on the New England circuit has been almost unprecedented. In a large number of Massachusetts cities the business done during her engagement has been the largest of the season. In Boston she has been most enthusiastically received by immense audiences. She closed her engagement at the Boston theatre Saturday night, the 21st inst. The house was filled, and the audience was very enthusiastic. Miss Mather was called before the curtain at the end of every act, and when the performance closed was thrice summoned. In response to repeated calls for a "speech," she said:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—When I first commenced my professional career my one thought was, Shall I succeed? It was a great burden for inexperienced shoulders, and I frankly confess I sometimes staggered under its weight. Your kindness during my first engagement, and its intensified duplicate, furnished a year later, strengthened my nature and made me aware of the fact that life holds for us all something that will brighter be when, with time and care, the face becomes wrinkled and the form bended. If, with conscientious study, I shall at last attain that degree in my chosen profession for which I am so diligently laboring, it may be pleasant for you to feel that you have been instrumental in accomplishing this end. Words of appreciation seem so cold when uttered that I must beg of you to judge me not by them but let my future acts speak for me. Farewell.

In October next Miss Mather will play her first engagement in New York. She is to appear at the Union Square theatre, which Manager Hill has leased for the next dramatic year. "Romeo and Juliet," elegantly staged and beautifully costumed, will be made the finest and most elaborate production of the tragedy ever seen in this country. A strong supporting company will be engaged for the star.

Manager Hill will have many interests next season. The beautiful Columbia theatre in Chicago and the pretty Court street theatre in Buffalo are both to be under his direction. Murray and Murphy's "Irish Visitors" are to tour under his management, opening their next regular season at the Boston theatre in August next.

MARITIME NOTES.

The U. S. S. Marion, Commander Merrill Miller commanding, left the navy yard, where she has so long been undergoing repairs, on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 25th, and proceeded down the harbor and out to sea. Her first destination is said to be Hampton roads.

The fishing schooner Soloman Poole, of Gloucester, Mass., Capt. Samuel Peoples commanding, sailed Jan. 1st on a halibut trip to the Grand bank, and no tidings of her have since been heard; the time of making the trip is from three to six weeks, and this schooner is given up as lost. She registered about eighty-six tons, carried fourteen men, and was insured to the amount of $6600.

"SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR."

A thrifty man never omits an opportunity to turn an honest penny, and thus when one of our most respected and reliable business men, in driving along Islington street recently, espied lying upon the sidewalk a plethoric pocket-book, he reined in his steed and alighting from his sleigh stooped down to secure the prize almost within his grasp. The sudden sailing away of the find by means of a tow-line extending from a barber's shop off against which the receptacle of supposed funds had awaited the victim, convinced the seeker after wealth that he had more important business elsewhere, and resuming his seat he drove off reflecting upon the lamentable fact that now, as in the olden time,

"Satan finds some mischief still For idle hands to do."

Grand Inaugural Ball.

Citizens interested in the project of holding a Grand Inaugural Ball, in honor of the election of Cleveland and Hendricks, met last evening and decided to hold the ball on Wednesday evening, March 4th, at Franklin hall, the music to be furnished by Eastman's superb orchestra of Manchester. The price of tickets has been fixed at $1 each, admitting a gentleman and lady, the number being limited to the capacity of the hall. Any cash surplus after paying expenses will be donated to the Children's Home.

His honor, Mayor Page, was chosen general manager, with the following committee of arrangements: Hon. Frank Jones, Hon. Daniel Marcy, Hon. Marcellus Eldredge, Capt. John G. Moses, Dr. John W. Parsons, Col. C. A. Sinclair, Dr. Francis Langdon, Samuel J. Gerrish, Dr. F. E. Potter, Daniel E Leavitt, Josiah H. Morrison, David Urch, H. F. Eldredge, Nath'l Winn, Mercer Goodrich, Hon. John S. Treat, Capt. E. D. Coffin, John W. Caswell Esq., Ed. S. Fay, Geo. B. French, C. M. Gignoux, Chas. E. Rand, A. P. Wendell, George Hill, Thos. E. Call jr., Wm. E. Littlefield, William Ward, Oliver H. Cook, Charles E. Boynton, John Conlon, Mark A. Scott, Horace S. Hatch, W. S. Hazel, George Boardman, J. Frank Magraw, E. W. Riley, Robert H. Hall, Fred Hasty, John G. Parsons, H. L. Aiken, T. W. Priest, Fred B. Haraden, Michael Crowley, W. H. Page, D. J. Sullivan, Jeff. C. Rowe, Henry Wendell, George Sanderson, Frank M. Dennett, Bert Rowe, Albert E. Gray, D. J Hurley, Edgar D. Stoddard, Fred E. Church, Daniel Casey, Aug. N. Wells, Thomas Ward, Herman Manson, Geo. A. Blaisdell, Warren Lear, William Conlon, Hugh J. McDonough, James Ward, D. J. Carroll.

The above general committee was divided into the necessary sub-committees on music, hall, decorations, invitations, printing, etc. The several committees are actively at work to-day, and there is no doubt but that the ball will be a grand success, and creditable to the democracy of Portsmouth, as well as its citizens. The object is not to make money for a few, but to furnish an evening's entertainment for our citizens—a proper celebration in recognition of the inauguration of President Cleveland, and the raising of funds for a worthy charity.

The tickets, which are now ready, will be obtainable from members of the committee appointed for their sale.—Times, Feb. 26th.

Alderman Janvrin on Wednesday, the 25th inst., commenced the work of tearing down and removing two ancient houses on the southwest corner of Washington and Court streets, the site of which is to be converted into a garden by Mrs. Tilton, the present proprietor. This was formerly the court portion of Portsmouth, and the two houses, though very old, showed few indications of decay. The timbers were of hemlock and pine of large dimensions; the cellars were well laid, and the foundations of large granite stones. The storeys of the houses, like most of those of New England of the early days, were built low, for the sake of warmth. These houses projected considerably into the street, and their removal adds much to the appearance of the Chase mansion, now the Children's Home. In the calm weather of Wednesday the dust of ages rose up as if in protest against the removal of old landmarks.

The programme for Miss Whidden's concert at Music hall this evening can be found in another column. Tickets can be procured at Goodrich's bookstore.

A grand soiree will be given in the south ward-room this evening, under the management of Mr. James T. Adams.

The committee on printing have given the printing of the city accounts for the year ending December 31st, 1884, to the Times office.

Mr. Martin Garrity was arrested on Wednesday on a charge of slandering Officer Oaro J. Hobbs by saying to him "If I had a mind to tell what I knew about you I could send you to state prison," for which Mr. Hobbs claims $5000 damages. Mr. Garrity furnished bail.

George A. Jackson's menagerie at Christian Shore has flourished all winter. Last week a fine brood of chickens (nine out of a setting of eleven eggs) were hatched out there, and are doing well. The woodchuck has not been out of his hole for six weeks, although his quarters are kept warm.

If you want to buy a side of sole leather, taps by the single pair or dozen, heels, cement, nails, pegs, awls, knives, brushes, daubers, blacking, emery straps, etc., or to have a new pair of boots made, or your old ones (of rubber or leather) repaired, visit No. 12 Hanover street; lowest prices in the city, and all work warranted. DIPHTHERIA!

THE PROSTRATION which follows Diphtheria, and the persistency with which it clings to the patient, are well known to all who have had any experience with this terrible disease.

The following letter shows how the restoring and invigorating properties of Hood's Sarsaparilla overcome it, and how by vitalizing and enriching the blood it neutralizes and eradicates the poisoned matter from it, bringing to the convalescent the color, life and vigor of robust health.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—My little girl had the diphtheria last April. The disease left her very weak, blood poor, with no appetite, and she could not seem to rally from its effects. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA was recommended by a neighbor. After she had been taking it a few days we noticed a change for the better—she began to eat with a relish. It seemed to take out the poison the disease had left in her blood, the change being very noticeable in her face. She took it two months and fully regained her health, much to our delight. We now recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA with a great deal of pleasure. Very truly yours,

J. R. SMITH,
19 Butterfield Street.

"That Extreme Tired Feeling."

"The first bottle has done my daughter a great deal of good; her food does not distress her now, nor does she suffer from that extreme tired feeling which she did before taking HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA."

Sold by all druggists. Price $1 a bottle or six bottles for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

KIDNEY-WORT

ON THE ENGINE.

Running a Locomotive While Deathly Sick—Something the Passengers Did Not Know—A Physician Saves an Engineer.

TAUNTON, MASS.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I am an engineer on the Old Colony Railroad, and run the Fall River boat train between Fall River and Lowell, residing in Taunton. For ten years I suffered severely from that death from dyspepsia. Often I had such blinding sick headaches that I could scarcely see. I think this was due partly to irregular habits of eating and partly to the jar of the engine. Sometimes I would snap like neuralgia, and again the pain would settle in my eyes, when would feel as big as a man's fist. My breath was very offensive. My food soured as soon as it enter my stomach. In fact my stomach felt as though it were a great raw and sore surface, and what agony it gave perhaps you can imagine.

In the summer and fall of 1876 when we had the heavy centennial travel, the constant ar brought on great attacks nearly every week and I thought I should have to leave the road. But I kept at work until the next spring, when I grew so much worse that I could virtually eat nothing, and concluded that my labor, and my life too, were about ever.

Remember that I had tried every medicine I heard of, and had been treated by some of the best physicians in Taunton and Lowell. At this critical time DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended to me. It was new to me, and with my experience of medicines, you can easily forgive me for saying that I had not a particle of faith in it.

I had taken but a few days when I began to get better. The raw and sore feeling left my stomach, and the snapping pains left my head, and soon I was able to eat, and have been since. It is the only thing that ever did me the least good, and it drove every ache, pain and discomfort completely out of my body. Now I keep KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY with me on my engine, and it goes wherever I go.

Why, I believe FAVORITE REMEDY will cure anything. One night, a while ago, John Layton, an engineer who runs the main line boat train from Boston, coming on my engine, was dead. He was worn out with work, had a high fever, and was so nervous he almost broke down crying. "Nonsense, John," I said, "cheer up. I've got something on my engine that will set you up in a fly." I took out my bottle of FAVORITE REMEDY, fitted the head and gave John a good dose. He went to bed. Two days after I saw him looking healthy as a butcher. "Dan," he said, "what was that stuff you gave me the other night?" "It was DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, I reckon, N. Y." said I. "Well, I don't care whose Remedy it is, it's the thing for a man on the railroad." So say we all.

Yours, etc., DANIEL FITTS.

This preparation goes to the root of disease by purifying the blood and rousing every organ into healthy action. It is useful at home, shops, in office—everywhere.

MALARIA.

as an anti-malaria medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless he has in his pocket a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver Complaints, Constipation and Piles, arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

The bishop warns Catholics that they will incur the penalty of being denied the holy sacraments of the church, and be debarred from all hopes of future salvation if they join "these emissaries of Satan."

All in the Line of Nature.

There is nothing in the line of magic or mystery about that wonderful and popular medicine, Parker's Tonic. It is simply the best and most scientific combination possible of the essential principals of those vegetable curatives which act powerfully and directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. But there neither is, nor will be, any successful imitation of it. It is all the time curing those who had despaired of ever getting well. For yourself, your wife and children.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

The use of iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of snuffs, powders or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

It is reported that Oscar F. Beckwith, who murdered (and ate) Vandercook on the mountain between Alford, Mass., and Austerlitz, N. Y., Jan. 10th, 1882, has been caught at South river, in the district of Parry sound on the Canada Pacific railroad, by New York officers.

THE OLDEST IN NEW ENGLAND.

COR. DEER AND VAUGHAN STS.

NEAR B. & R. R. DEPOT.

Having on hand the largest and best selected stock of this side of Boston, I would respectfully call your attention to the same, believing that in most cases it is better for persons about purchasing to see what they are buying than to buy of irresponsible agents with nice looking Photographs of Monumental work. Having a thorough knowledge of the business gained in the principal cities of the Union and still giving my personal attention, all will be satisfied who will give me a call, as to quality of work and prices.

Particular attention given to fencing cemetery lots with marble or granite posts or curbs.

Salvation Oil delights everybody. It can be had of all druggists and dealers in medicines. It eradicates pain by quickly removing the cause. It is a specific for neuralgia, rheumatism, and pain in the side, back, and limbs. Price 25 cents.

Mrs. Annie Sullivan, wife of John L. Sullivan, the Boston slugger, has sued for a divorce and the custody of their minor child, alleging extreme cruelty and gross intemperance on the part of her husband.

Dyspepsia.

Thousands of persons suffer from this distressing complaint, and never realize what their disease is until it assumes its worst forms. Wetherell's Sarsaparilla will positively cure dyspepsia in its worst form. Sold by all druggists, at $1.00 per bottle. Six for $5.

Mrs. Mackay has given a large cross to the Nuncio of Paris, in memory of the marriage of her daughter, the Nuncio having performed the ceremony. The cross is studied with diamonds and sapphires.

"That tired feeling" from which you suffer so much, particularly in the morning, is entirely thrown off by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

All things considered, the Philadelphia Ledger is the most prosperous newspaper in the world. It prints neither a Sunday or weekly edition, and yet Mr. Childs says that he cleared $452,000 on it last year, and adds that he did not fail to clear more than $1000 a single day during the year.

An off Year.

This is going to be an off year. No political booms for "Plumed Knights" or "Reform" will help keep up the health and strength of the vast multitudes whose faith is pinned on the glowing party promises of election year. Multitudes of such will need a reliable tonic to tone up the system, a purifier to work off the bad blood, and a sure remedy for lame backs, rheumatism, biliousness, etc. Such a remedy is Kidney-Wort. It has long stood at the head of the list of kidney remedies, and it receives the highest praise from all that use it.

Mr. S. L. Bunker, a son of Chang, one of the once noted Siamese twins, is thinking of purchasing a farm, and locating in the west.

Don't Look Like a Wreck.

"When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick." Yes, that is so. It is sad, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam is then the best investment. It stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Delicate, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation, and sold at the low price of 50c.

Mr. Porter, ex-governor of Indiana, is lecturing in the towns of that state about Gladstone.

Rev. Curtis Kinney, Pastor 2d Bapt. Church, East Lyme, Conn., says:—"I have used more than fifty bottles of Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer. I think it cannot be improved for public speakers."

—"In your sermon this morning I heard something that I never heard in any sermon before," said the deacon's widow to a clergyman who had tried the patience of his congregation to the uttermost. "And pray what was that, my dear madam?" inquired the minister, highly flattered. "I heard the clock strike the hour twice"

The Mardi Gras Carnival at New Orleans

On Tuesday, February 10th, the scene of the Carnival festivities was unprecedented for gayety. Thousands from all portions of the world thronged the streets, after witnessing the ceremony of the drawing, and gave loud spoken approval of the honesty of the 17th Grand Monthly Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, under the exclusive management of Gen'ls G. T. Beauregard, of La., and Jubal A. Early, of Va., and some $252,000 was scattered about. It will all go over again on March 10th, of which M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will inform you on application to him.

Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Consumption.

All Throat, Breast, and Lung Affections cured by the old-established "SWAYNE'S WILD CHERRY." The first dose gives relief, and a cure speedily follows. 25 cts. or $1.00 at Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodtjan9,85

Changing the Nose.

"The nose is simply a piece of cartilege," said a surgeon yesterday, "and its shape can be changed with ease. A clever Frenchman, some years ago, invented a machine for that purpose, and has made a fortune by it, so many people are troubled with noses whose shapes do not please their owners or their owners' friends. The machine consisted of a small shell in two parts, hinged together. It is made of iron japanned or enameled. It is in shape inside that of a perfectly molded nose, according to the type of the features of the wearer. Thus you can obtain a Roman, Grecian, retrousse, aquiline, or any other shape you desire. To apply the instrument the nose is first bathed in warm water at bedtime, and thoroughly heated and softened. Then it is well greased with olive oil, glycerine, vaseline, or other oily substances. Finally the nose-improver is fixed on and the sides clasped together, and the wearer keeps it on all night, taking care in the morning to wash in cold water only. It is a rather painful process at first, but after the first two or three applications of the improver there is no more trouble. In about a month the nose begins to take its new shape and at the end of from eight to ten weeks the alteration is said to be perfect and permanent—that is, until the patient becomes tired of that particular shape and is desirous of having another, when the same operation with another instrument is necessitated. I have known people change their noses four or five times in as many years. In that way a man could change the style of his nose as he changed the cut of his trousers."—St. Louis Republican.

Rules for Press Writers.

First—When you have filled both sides of the sheet, turn back and criss-cross the lines with some more chirography. This will make you a favorite contributor with the "powers that be."

Second—Always, in sending an article to the editor, accompany it with a note, saying, "This is one of my best efforts." He will take your word for it, and accept your effusion for publication, without reading the same.

Third—Don't fail to enclose a good supply of postage stamps—not necessarily as a guaranty for the return of your rejected MS, but the office boy may need them in corresponding with his girl.

Fourth—If your "rot" is in rhyme, bring it up in person to the sanctum. The boneyard proprietor—with whom every newspaper publisher has a contract—says that "dead poets make the best kind of soapfat!"

Fifth—Never "dot your I's, or cross your t's." In all well-regulated editorial rooms there is a man who is paid a large salary for that special duty.

Sixth—If you desire remuneration for a forwarded communication, you can use your own judgment as regards drawing on the editor at sight. Maybe he will honor your sight draft, and maybe not; probably, "not by a d—d sight!"

Seventh—the last and best rule is, to muzzle your cacoethes scribendi—and "write not at all."—Jeff. Joslyn, in Jingo.

Grant's Opinion of Sherman.

From the illustrated paper by General Grant giving his account of the Battle of Shiloh in the February Century we quote the following: "During the whole of the first day I was continuously engaged in passing from one part of the field to another, giving directions to division commanders. In thus moving along the line, however, I never deemed it important to stay long with Sherman. Although his troops were then under fire for the first time, their commander, by his constant presence with them, inspired a confidence in officers and men that enabled them to render services on that bloody battlefield worthy of the best veterans. McClernand told me himself on that day, the 6th, that he profited much by having so able a commander supporting him. A casualty to Sherman that would have taken him from the field that day would have been a sad one for the troops engaged at Shiloh. And how near we came to this! On the 6th Sherman was shot twice, once in the hand, once in the shoulder, the ball cutting his coat and making a slight wound, and a third ball passed through his hat. In addition to this he had several horses shot during the day."

Sick Wines.

The paternal tenderness with which wine is regarded, both by its producers and consumers, is amusing. They speak of its being "sick," describe its "diseases" and their remedies as though it were a sentient being; and its diseases, like our own, are now attributed to bacilli, bacteria, or other microbia.

Pasteur, who has worked out this question of the origin of diseases in wine as he is so well known to have done in animals, recommends (in papers read before the French Academy in May and August, 1865) that these microbia be "killed" by filling the bottles close up to the cork, which is thrust in just with sufficient firmness to allow the wine on expanding to force it out a little, but not entirely, thus preventing any air from entering the bottle. The bottles are then placed in a chamber heated to temperatures ranging from 45 deg. to 100 deg. C. (113 deg. to 212 deg. Fahr.), where they remain for an hour or two. They are then set aside, allowed to cool, and the cork driven in. It is said that this treatment kills the microbia, gives to the wine an increased bouquet and improved color—in fact, ages it considerably. Both old and new wines may be thus treated.

I simply state this on the authority of Pasteur, having made no direct experiments or observations on these diseases, which he describes as resulting in acetification, ropiness, bitterness, and decay or decomposition.

There is, however, another kind of sickness which I have studied, both experimentally and theoretically. I refer to the temporary sickness which sometimes occurs to rich wines when they are moved from one cellar to another, and to wines when newly exported from their native climate to our own. The wines that are the most subject to such sickness are those that are the most genuine—the natural, unsophisticated wines, those that have not been subjected to "fortification," to "vinage," to "plastering," "sulphuring," etc.—processes of cookery to be presently described.

This sickness shows itself by the wine becoming turbid, or opalescent, then throwing down either a crust or a loose, troublesome sediment.—W. Mattieu Williams, in Popular Science Monthly for February.

Vanity and Gloves.

"But to return to our first love, gloves," continued the volatile young lady, who spoke with a cultivated Boston accent, and viewed the reporter through glasses. "Give me at any time the vainest of females to serve rather than a vain man. Of all created things they are the worst," said she, turning up her keen brown eyes with an assumption of horror. "Actually, they all want their gloves so tight that they have to rub their hands with soapstone to get them on. It is a fact; many a time I have shortened the fingers of them. It takes a man of this type about seven times as long to decide upon and be fitted to a pair of gloves as any woman."

Handkerchiefs are no longer displayed peeping from the pocket or hanging from the fan handle or belt or bosom. The depth of a lady's purse or retiole is the place for the handkerchief, according to the latest dogma of fashion.

Cuticura THE GREAT SKIN CURES

Mrs. Smith's Case, and what the Rev. Mr. McKinstry has to say about it.

TO THE PUBLIC: I have been a fearful sufferer for fifteen years, most of the time with what has been called Eczema or Salt Rheum, Psoriasis and Lepra, and the like, and have always been told that there was no cure for me, and have been so discouraged that I had as soon die as live. I have been so badly afflicted sometimes that there was not the smallest spot from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet that was not diseased and as red as crimson. It would commence in small white specks, which had a silvery appearance, but were not deep, but if I attempted to heal them, or soon after their first appearance, they would burn and run together until there was a complete dry, red scale, which would become so inflamed as to crack and look fiery and angry, and the burning sensation would be almost intolerable.

I was at time so lame that I could scarcely get about, and could not dress myself without assistance. I tried many remedies, and have paid $100 in a single instance to a physician, but have ever obtained only temporary relief. Although helped for a time, I soon relapsed again to be as badly troubled as ever, and during the winter of 1881 and 1882 I suffered so much as to be entirely discouraged. Last June, however, I was advised by Elder and Mrs. L. C. McKinstry, who are well known in these sections, to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES; and I felt somehow a little courage, from their favorable opinion of them, to try their virtue. About the second week of July that I commenced taking the remedies, and within six weeks I began to see a permanent improvement, until now (1881) I am about as good as new, and my flesh is as the flesh of a child.

MRS. BENJ. SMITH.

I certify that the above statement of my wife is correct, and I join with her sin expressing my gratitude for the great benefit he has received.

B. SMITH.

I certify that the above statement is correct. Mr. Smith is a prominent man in this community, where he lives. He is a well-known dealer in stock, and his statement, with that of his wife, is fully entitled to credit.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

THE CENTURY CLUB.

NEW YORK, Feb., 1885.

There are very many clubs in New York. Indeed, from the reading of the memories of a man of the world, by Mr. Edmund Yates, who undertakes in a modest recital to tell us all that has happened to him since he was three years of age, we are informed that there are here many clubs, at which eminent literary gentlemen from over the water are dined. But there is but one Century.

No matter for its origin, its age, its associations and its proud record. I intend only to write concerning what one sees on a "Century night" at the club. New York, while regarded as the centre of trade, the key to speculation, the creditor city to which flows the surplus wealth of the country, is known to many only as the abode of the possessors of rapidly-acquired wealth. Indeed the literature of the Bantling Ball school and kindred weak effusions, if credited to the descriptive, instead of burlesque exaggeration, would greatly misguide the uninformed as to the characteristics of this great city. True, in its immense population, it contains men of all shades of character, occupations, tastes and results. But with its wealth it has its refined culture, its artistic tastes, its poetic appreciation and its literary merit, in rich abundance. In fact, New York in this respect, is to our country, what London is to England, what Edinburgh in its best estate has been to Scotland. While it has developed within its borders and encouraged by its patronage eminent artists as well as literary celebrities, it has also constantly attracted within its walls the men of high estate in these walks of life.

While there are men of wealth who are members of the Century club, wealth alone is by no means a passport to the honors of a "Centurion." Thus, one sees at the Century club on its gala nights the very best of the best men of this great metropolis,—merchant princes, because they possess in a nobility of character, a wealth far above riches; eminent divines, who have a breadth of Christian charity and brotherly love; artists, whose professional horizon has no limit; poets whose lines are the admiration of the whole continent; authors whose works are read in both hemispheres; the best representatives of the drama whom the world witnesses; the pre-eminent professional, financial and literary men of the day; in fine, the best representatives of the cultivated, polished society of New York.

Here too are first exhibited the new works of the artists, and here are the best criticisms upon their works. Here we find Albert Bierstadt, whose brush has given us such rare productions upon canvas of the grandest mountain scenery in the world, and whose soothing converse delights so many friends; also that noted artist Eastman Johnson, brother of the commandant of your trans-Piscataqua naval station, whole-souled and enthusiastic like every lover of nature, who can reproduce her brilliant scenes upon the "canvas warm,"—and indeed the list of famous artists could be extended to inconsiderable length. In a company composed of these and kindred spirits, of course the intercourse is of the most charming character, and the evenings are enjoyed with a zest known only to the participants.

On a side table, as the evening advances, is laid a repast for those who wish to partake of refreshments, but it attracts less than does the feast of reason, although intellectual discussions often tend to develop appetite for sustaining food. Later in the evening there come the leading editors of the city, the men under whose direction have been prepared the utterances of the prominent journals of the Western World upon every important topic, and which will, soon after their appearance, be read all over the United States. Everyone knows that at Washington each political incumbent, from the president down to the most insignificant member of our inefficient congress, looks sharp to early ascertain the opinion of the leading New York journals upon every important measure before congress, as well as every step of consequence proposed by the administration; and the men who thus to a great extent guide, if they do not govern, political parties, are here seen after a week's severe strain, in the enjoyment of a Saturday night's recreation far above that to be found by their cotemporaries of the profession in any other city. Among the men noted in journalism in former days, is seen Mr. McElrath, the former partner of Mr. Greeley in the early days of the Tribune, one of the most interesting octagenarian conversationalists anywhere met.

It was once remarked of a most fascinating literary man, whom I have known for many years, that he did not become brilliant till about midnight. Perhaps it is so with many of the frequenters of the Century. It takes some time for a gentleman in this metropolis to throw off the week's surroundings, and to enter into the atmosphere of true enjoyment. Then is the time when the distinguished stars who may then have dramatic engagements in the city, drop in, and the little coteries of talkers scattered around the rooms are seen to be in the most enjoyable relations.

I have no space in which to describe the rooms of the club, rich in the memories which cluster within its walls. The club have at times discussed the propriety of removing farther up town, but here it remains for reasons of its own. There is its library, with rare works, its conversation rooms, and its billard hall, upon whose walls hang artistic portrayals of the seven ages of man, each containing a striking likeness of some well known member of the club. Nor can I dwell upon the many privileges and honors of this ancient and distinguished organization. It is, as it ever has been, a credit to the great city; and for its members there comes at rare intervals any more enjoyable season than is derived from "a night at the Century." H.

Eastman Johnson, the artist, is to paint a portrait of Ex-Gov. Cleveland for the city of Albany. Mr. Johnson is a native of Fryeburg, Maine, and spent a part of his boyhood on a farm in Concord; and we are informed by a gentleman who then was a boy on the farm with him, but is now a leading manufacturer in this state, that Johnson was a far better adept with the pencil them with any farming tools.

Judge Richards of Ft. Dodge, Iowa, has presented to the Iowa state library an autograph and hitherto unpublished letter from George Washington, written from valley Forge to Caleb Gibbs, a captain in the continental army. The letter is valued at $1000.

MAKE HENS LAY

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your

Sulphur Bitters

Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me, I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am now able to do all my housework.

not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured me of Dyspepsia and those deathly Sick Headaches.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, Feb. 27th.

Barnabas L. Yeaton, charged with assaulting a young man named Winnie H. Clark, was adjudged probably guilty, and ordered to pay $2 fine and $6.90 costs. He appealed, and gave bonds in the sum of $100 to prosecute the appeal.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Feb. 25th, Mayor Page in the chair:

Present the full board, except Alderman Cook, who is sick.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Bill of Charles A. Canney, $24.75, for work on streets, was ordered paid.

Ald. Coffin, for the special committee on adoption of electric fire alarm, reported in favor of the Gamewell system. Report accepted, and further action deferred.

Committee on claim of city against Cleaves estate, of $280.17 for unpaid taxes, reported in favor of accepting $141.68 in full; report accepted and adopted.

Chief Engineer Marden, of the fire department, explained that the shovelling of snow from reservoirs was done at all hours of the night, and that trusty men to do the work could not be obtained for less than was now paid.

Voted inexpedient to appoint another superintendent of burying grounds.

Bill of Portsmouth Gaslight Co., $95.-42, for gas at police station, was referred to committee on police.

It was voted inexpedient to take further action in regard to the establishing of a time-ball.

John H. Slater appeared before the board in regard to the fees of the inspector of petroleum. Mayor Page said the fees were fixed by law, and the board consequently took no action.

The matter of electric fire alarm was again called up, and referred to the committee on fire department, with power to act; and concurrence of the common council was asked.

The council gave notice of readiness to meet the board in convention.

In convention, the mayor read a lengthy statement in regard to the condition of the city accounts when he assumed the administration, commenting quite severely upon the manner in which the collector's and city clerk's duties had been performed for some years.

In board of aldermen, resumed, the proprietor of a patent machine for sanding sidewalks with hot sand was before the board, and wanted one of his machines purchased at $250. No action was taken.

Voted that one thousand copies of the mayor's address be printed.

Ald. Coffin reported on the heating of the high school building, submitting a plan which would cost $1290. No action was taken.

Adjourned for two weeks, next meeting to convene at eight o'clock.

The common council referred the resolution on fire alarm to a committee, and adjourned.

S. P. C. A.

State Agent Marvin, of the S. P. C. A., has been in Strafford county looking after cases of cruelty to dumb beasts. As a result of his investigations a French Canadian named Ben. Lupien, of Strafford, was taken before Justice Wentworth of Rochester on Feb. 25th, and fined $15 for brutally beating a horse, the costs bringing the total up to $37.50, which Lupien paid. At the chopping camp where Lupien worked two horses were found in very bad condition, and the owner agreed to have them killed if a veterinary surgeon pronounced them incurable. At John C. Huckins' place in Strafford a sick ox was found, the owner making a similar agreement as to the disposition of the animal. Mr. Marvin and J. O. Adams of Manchester, secretary of the state board of agriculture, visited the barns of Mr. Everett Hill of Strafford, he having lost by some obscure disease twelve cattle out of thirty which he bought in Vermont last fall. At Barrington an ox belonging to Elisha Locke was found in a shocking state from disease, and was ordered killed. There was evidently urgent need in that region for the visit of the energetic state agent of the anti-cruelty society.

A farmer at Epping has just been arrested, and prosecuted by the agent of the society. Two yearlings were found dead of starvation, and two cows at the point of death; and all of the herd were in a suffering condition for lack of sufficient food. The owner lies in jail at Exeter awaiting the action of the supreme court.

The society is pushing its humane work with a vim worthy of the cause.

MARITIME NOTES.

The ship Grandee, Ellis master, cleared at Norfolk, Va., Feb. 24th, for Liverpool.

The ship Paul Jones, of this port, to arrive at Iloilo, Philippine islands, from Hong Kong, was chartered Jan. 6th to load at Iloilo for New York or Boston.

The British schooner "Mary C." finished discharging her cargo of wood pulp on Thursday afternoon, and was taken across the river in the evening to go on the marine railway at Kittery. Her keel was so badly damaged when she thumped on the Eastern Sister that a new one will have to be put in, and she will be recaulked all over. Mr. Daniel Littlefield will make the needed repairs.

It was rumored on the streets, Thursday, that the U. S. S. Marion grazed on Goat island ledge when going down the river on the previous afternoon, but we could learn of no grounds for the report other than that persons on Water street who were watching her progress saw her stop after passing through the narrows, and remain apparently stationary for some minutes, when she kept on down the reach. Her stopping may have been caused by her not answering her helm quick enough, necessitating her being held back by the screw to allow her time to swing so as to point clear of the ledge.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Chief Engineer B. F. Garvin, U. S. N., (retired,) recently in charge of the department of steam engineering at the navy yard, started with his wife for New Bedford, Mass., Thursday morning.

A Washington despatch of Feb. 25th says the detail of officers for the Omaha will be announced in a few days. Capt. Thomas A. Selfridge will be in command, with Lieut. Comdr. Edward L. Amory as executive officer.

Manager J. M. Hill, of the Margaret Mather company, is the owner of a fine pair of pacers which he will bring to Portsmouth, and take along with him through the eastern part of Maine. Miss Mather, after the fatigues of the evening, has the pleasure of taking a morning drive behind a $20,000 team. The pacers are said to have the fastest record in the country.

The Lucier Comedy company, who play at Music hall every evening next week and on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, are at Bangor, Me., this week, and the Commercial of that city said of the first entertainment that "Everybody was greatly pleased with the performance. Sam Bernard's impersonations were very amusing, and he kept the audience in roars of laughter. The clog dancing was very good, and in fact everything was much better than is generally seen in an entertainment of that kind. The closing sketch was very funny, and the audience grew quite hilarious during its presentation."

Mr. Editor: A well known "horse man" of this city was speeding a fast-stepping horse up and down Islington street on Thursday, and three or four times drove by a police officer at a speed of nearer twenty miles an hour than the legal five miles, without anything being said or done by the officer to stop the performance. Is this a "reform" city government? PEDESTRIAN.

The concert complimentary to Miss Florence P. Whidden, at Music hall Thursday evening, was attended by such an audience, for numbers and quality, as is rarely gathered in this city. The young debutante created a most favorable impression, and the entire concert was well received. We shall speak more at length of it to-morrow.

Mr. Edward F. Swasey was on Thursday reported to be dangerously ill.

In 1823, the bi-centennial celebration of the settlement of this city wound up with a grand ball, and all persons who attended wrote their names in a book, which was filed away for historical purposes in the Portsmouth Athenæum, and there remains. The managers of the Cleveland Inauguration ball desire to secure a list of all persons who attend that ball, for the purpose of filing away in the Athenæum, and also for publication in the local papers, and will have books at Franklin hall for signatures during the night of the ball.

Alderman William G. Billings starts this morning for Washington, to witness the inauguration of President Cleveland.

We are indebted to Hon. Martin A. Haynes for valuable public documents.

J. Warren Davis, until recently with J. H. Hutchinson, has hired the store on Market street recently occupied by J. M. Tebbetts, and will soon open a jewelry store.—Times.

Howe Call, Esq., city solicitor, started for Washington on Thursday morning, to witness the inauguration of a democratic president. It is the only chance that will ever be offered to witness anything of the kind.

There is to be a "ring tournament" at the Portsmouth rink on Wednesday evening of next week.

The art critic of the Boston Post, in his report of the exhibition of the Paint and Clay club, says: "In portraiture the portrait of Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody, by Mr. F. P. Vinton, easily takes the lead. It is admirable in every way, and to our mind must rank as one of Mr. Vinton's most successful works. The pose is dignified and solid, yet easy and graceful; the cloak which is wrapped about the form is picturesquely arranged, so that it softens what might otherwise be the harsh lines of the figure. The likeness is perfect, and above all, the artist has succeeded finely in rendering the genial, sunny expression and the fine intellectual character of his subject."

The trial of the suit for $1000, brought by Samuel J. Seavey of Farmington against the Eastern railroad company for causing the death of his daughter, Mrs. Emma J. Foye, in March of last year, was ended at Dover on Wednesday, Feb. 26th, by a verdict for defendant.

In the "Atlantic Monthly" for March Dr. Holmes definitely opens his "New Portfolio," which is exceedingly engaging. Beside the three serials by Mrs. Oliphant, Miss Jewett, and Mr. Craddock, which continue to increase in interest, there are several papers which are of value to thoughtful readers. The chief of these is a sketch by Clara Barnes Martin, called "The Mother of Turgeneffe," which gives a curious account of the early influences which surrounded the great novelist, and a strikingly vivid but not altogether pleasing picture of Russian home-life fifty years ago. Two scholarly articles, "Time in Shakespeare's "The Comedies," by Henry A. Clapp, and "Consolidation of the Colonies," by Brooks Adams, an almost painfully realistic story by Bishop, called "The Brown-Stone Boy," and a delightful Mexican travel paper, with the grateful title of "A Plunge into Summer," by Sylvester Baxter, complete the longer articles of the number. The continuation of the papers on Madame Mohl must not be forgotten. There are, besides, four really good poems, and a fanciful little article by Edith M. Thomas is so poetical in feeling that it naturally takes its place among the poetry. The usual careful book reviews and short notices, together with the Contributors' Club (which contains a criticism of Mr. Watts' pictures,) close this attractive issue. KIDNEY-WORT

ON THE ENGINE.

Running a Locomotive While Deathly Sick—Something the Passengers Did Not Know—A Physician Saves an Engineer.

TAUNTON, MASS.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I am an engineer on the Old Colony Railroad, and run the Fall River boat train between Fall River and Lowell, reaching in Taunton. For ten years I suffered everything but death from dyspepsia. Often I had such blinding sick headaches that I could scarcely see. I think this was due partly to irregular habits of eating, and partly to the jar of the engine. Sometimes my head would snap like neuralgia, and again the pain would settle in my eyes, which would feel as if they burst out. My breath was very offensive, and my food soured as soon as it entered my stomach. In fact my stomach did as though it were a great raw and sore surface, and what agony it gave perhaps you can imagine.

In the summer and fall of 1879 when we had the heavy centennial travel, the constant jar brought on horrible attacks nearly every week and I thought I should have to leave the road. But I kept at work until the next spring, when I grew so much worse that I could virtually eat nothing, and concluded that my labor, and my life too, were about over.

Remember that I had tried every medicine I heard of, and had been treated by some of the best physicians in Taunton and Lowell. At this critical time DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended to me. It was new to me, and with my experience of medicines, you can easily forgive me for saying that I had not a particle of faith in it.

I had taken it but a few days when I began to get better. The raw and sore feeling left my stomach, and the snapping pains left my head, and soon I was all right, and have been ever since. It is the only medicine that ever did me good, and it drove every ache, pain and discomfort completely out of my body. Now I keep KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY with me on my engine, and it goes wherever I go.

Why, I believe FAVORITE REMEDY will cure anything. Some nights a while ago, John Lawton, an engineer who runs the main live boat train from Boston, came on my engine sick as death. He was worn out with work, had a high fever, and was so nervous he almost broke down crying. "Nonsense, John," I said, "cheer up, I've got something on my engine that will set you up in a jiffy." I took out my bottle of FAVORITE REMEDY, fitted his head and gave him a good dose. He went to bed. Two days after I saw him looking healthy as a butcher. "Dan," he said, "what was that stuff you gave me the other night?" "It was DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, Rondout, N. Y.," said I. "Well, I don't care whose Remedy it is, it's the thing for a man on the railroad." So say we all.

Yours, etc., DANIEL FITTS.

This preparation goes to the root of disease by purifying the blood and restoring the liver to healthy action. It is useful at home, shops, in office—everywhere.

Dr. David Kennedy, Physician and Surgeon, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

as an anti-malaria medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It especially effects a permanent cure. Specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from impure blood or torpid liver. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is recommended as a boon and a beneficent friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

In the United States district court at New Haven, Conn., the grand jury found true bills against James M. Meech, Chas. Webb and William Roath, the Norwich bank defaulters. The prisoners pleaded guilty, and Meech and Webb were sentenced to imprisonment in the state prison for five years. Roath's sentence was four years at hard labor, and a fine of $1 and costs.

All in the Line of Nature.

There is nothing in the line of magic or mystery about that wonderful and popular medicine, Parker's Tonic. It is simply the best and most scientific combination possible of the essential principals of those vegetable curatives which act powerfully and directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. But there neither is, nor will be, any successful imitation of it, for all the time during those who had despaired of ever getting well. For yourself, your wife and children.

The republicans of Saco on Feb. 25th nominated Roscoe L. Bowers as a candidate for mayor to be supported at the polls March 2d. In this case nomination means election, Saco being strongly republican.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

In Philadelphia, during the two weeks ending Feb. 25th, there were sixty-two alarms of fire, twenty-eight persons were burned to death and twenty-three seriously injured, and $600,000 worth of property was destroyed.

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nosril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

—An engineer of a milk train stopped at every water tank on the road. He had previously run a cattle train, and stopped from force of habit to water the stock. The conductor and brakeman say that they never want to pass through such an ordeal again. Every time the train stopped, the covers of the cans flew off of their own accord.

"Yes; I shall break the engagement," she said, folding her arms and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks like he had a mouthful of mush. Besides, the way he hawks and spits is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

THE GREAT SKIN CURES

Mrs. Smith's Case, and what the Rev. Mr. McKinstry has to say about it.

TO THE PUBLIC: I have been a fearful sufferer for fifteen years, most of the time with what has been called Eczema or Salt Rheum, Psoriasis and Lepra, and the like, and have always been told that there was no cure for me, and have been so discouraged that I had no ambition. I have been so badly afflicted sometimes that there was not the smallest spot from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet that was not diseased and as red as crimson. It would commence in small white spots, which had a silvery appearance, but were not deep, but if I attempted to heal them, or soon after their first appearance, they would burn and run together until there was a complete fiery, red scale, which would become so inflamed as to crack and look fiery and angry, and the burning sensation would be almost intolerable.

I was at one time so lame that I could scarcely get about, and could not dress myself without assistance. I have tried many remedies, and have paid $100 in a single instance to a physician, but have ever obtained only temporary relief. Although helped for a time, I soon relapsed again to be as badly troubled as ever, and during the winter of 1881 and 1882 I suffered so much as to be entirely discouraged. Last June, however, I was advised by Elder and Mrs. L. C. McKinstry, who are well known in these regions, to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES; and I felt somehow a little encouraged from their favorable opinion of them, to try their virtue. About the second week of July last I commenced taking the remedies, and within six weeks I began to see a permanent improvement, until now (Oct 1) I am about as good as new, and my flesh is as the flesh of a child.

I certify that the above statement of my wife is correct, and I join with her she expressing my gratitude for the great benefit he has received.

City Finances.

Communication from the Mayor to the City Councils.

To the City Councils of the City of Portsmouth:

In compliance with the personal requests of some of your number for information, and in partial redemption of a promise made you in my inaugural address in August last, I have deemed it necessary and proper to lay before you some facts in relation to the finances of the city, and the condition of municipal affairs, in which you in common with all our citizens are at this time interested.

In the outset I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to our capable, faithful and obliging city clerk, for having brought order out of chaos in his office, and so making it possible for me to lay before you this statement, which I could not have done without the benefit of his labors. I would also invite you to inspect his books and his system of keeping the affairs of the city so well in hand and so plainly and correctly recorded that errors are impossible, and the printed accounts laid before the citizens must necessarily be accurate and reliable and not as they have been for so many years, inaccurate, unreliable and false.

When the city clerk took possession of the office he found that for the last five or six years the books which should contain the financial transactions of the city, and the treasurer's and collector's accounts, had not been made up. The accounts as printed and distributed to the citizens annually appeared in manuscript upon sheets certified as correct each year by the mayor and committee of the aldermen, but there were no books of account containing these accounts and nothing to show how the results stated were arrived at, or where the gentlemen certifying to the correctness of these accounts obtained information sufficient to warrant them in certifying to a condition of things which did not exist. Since that time the late city clerk has made up the accounts or written up the books from vouchers, memoranda and other sources, so that they are practically in shape.

It became apparent, however, that there were serious discrepancies which made it certain that errors existed, rendering the printed accounts, though they bore the certificate of experienced mayors, one of whom had held the office for several years, and upon which for this reason, if no other, our citizens have each year relied as correct, of very little value.

And now, without giving any opinions or suppositions of my own, but simply stating facts as they appear from the books, I would call your attention to the following, premising, however, the statement that the accounts with the late city treasurer, who was also collector from 1879 to the time of his resignation in July 1884, were not kept separately, but the accounts as treasurer and collector were united and kept as one,—a proceeding utterly wrong and conducive to error and confusion, if nothing worse.

The books of the city show that Dec. 31, 1879, the collector and treasurer owed the city the sum of $15,634.91, while the printed accounts show the indebtedness to be $19,194.56.

The books show that Dec. 31, 1880, there was due from this official the sum of $21,457.96, while the printed accounts show the indebtedness to be $25,179.38.

The books show that Dec. 31, 1881, there was due from this official the sum of $22,720.12, while the printed accounts show the indebtedness to be $26,030.61.

The books show that Dec. 31, 1882, there was due from this official the sum of $10,290.06, while the printed accounts show the indebtedness to be $24,721.81.

The books show that Dec. 31, 1883, there was due from this official the sum of $15,551.50, while the printed accounts show the indebtedness to be $29,473.47, of which sum $19,569.54 was cash on hand and on deposit.

It seems absolutely inexplicable why on or about the first day of January 1884 the city was borrowing large sums of money to pay its bills, when the treasurer according to his own showing had over $19,000.00 in cash on hand, yet the city did hire for this purpose within fifteen days after that date $10,000.00.

It also seems inexplicable, or in order for explanation, why the printed accounts, though they undertake to state the exact amount of the city debt, contained no mention of eleven thousand dollars hired during the month of December, 1883 and owed by the city on the thirty-first day of that month when the accounts profess to be made up.

But the city went on hiring money during the year 1884, paying interest therefor at the rate of five or five and one-half per cent. until June when it owed $37,000.00 upon notes given during the year.

A new collector was appointed for 1884, and the treasurer resigned in July, and soon after left the city to look after some business interests in the West. He came back in December and during that month and in January of this year the final making up of the books of the city was completed, and after turning in his accounts to the city clerk he returned to the West. Consequently I have had no opportunity since the books were made up to personally lay this matter before him as I very much wished to have done.

While here the late collector and treasurer is said to have collected some old taxes to the amount of four or five hundred dollars. He paid over to the treasurer $5,993.64 of which about $5,500.00 must have been in his hands after his resignation without right.

According to the city books, as stated above, there was due to the city December 31, 1883 from the collector and treasurer together only the sum of $15,551.50, although the printed accounts would make the treasurer alone have in his hands much more than that sum in cash. Tho' it is difficult to imagine why this official should allow the printed accounts to charge him with nearly double the sum then due from him according to the books, or why the mayor and committee of the board of aldermen should so certify over their own signatures, yet this was done and the treasurer and collector made no objection or complaint, so far as appears.

Taking it for granted, however, that the books are correct, and charging the treasurer and collector with what he received in 1884 and crediting him with payments, abatements and other proper credits there appears by the books to be now due from him to the city the sum of $9,075.82; but if we take the printed accounts to be correct there would appear to be now due from him the sum of $22,997.49, of which amounts I have understood that $3,868.01 would be due from him as collector and the balance as treasurer.

But I ought to state that I arrived at this sum of $3,868.01 as the amount due from him as collector from statements made by him when he paid over to the present treasurer certain sums, as to which account they belonged to. I have learned however that the late city clerk understands that of the sums paid over $1,346.33 more should be credited to the account as collector, making the balance due the city from the treasurer so much larger. Thinking, however, that the Assessors' warrant to the collector, on which he has credited the taxes paid, ought to show what amount of taxes in fact remains unpaid, I have carefully taken off the sums not appearing to be paid to him and the aggregate amounts only to $1,003.26. If this is correct there would appear to be only $1,003.26 of uncollected taxes for that year, and the balance of the $9,075.52 being $8,072.26 or of the $22,997.49 being $21,994.23, would seem to be made up of cash in somebody's hands either as collector or treasurer.

The amount of interest due the city upon the sums in the hands of this official as well as upon the $5,500.00 paid over lately, as above stated, depends, of course, upon the length of time they have been in his hands, and it seems impossible to determine this at present.

And while I am upon this matter of interest I would call your attention to the large sums of money the city has borrowed upon notes during the past years, on which a large amount of interest has been paid, when according to the books there was no occasion to hire such an amount of money, because the treasurer appears to have had a considerable part of what was needed, in his hands.

As you are doubtless aware it becomes necessary on the first day of January and July each year for the city to have on deposit in Boston the sum of $10,290.00 to meet the coupons then due upon the bonds issued to purchase the stock in the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad. The dividends received from this stock amount to this sum, but as we do not receive these dividends until the first or second day of the month, it becomes necessary to borrow the above amount for a few days when we do not have it on hand. I do not find that for the past six years the city has ever been able to deposit this amount without borrowing it. We were able to deposit it this year, however, without borrowing it and still have cash left in the treasury.

But in addition to this temporary loan, made twice a year, it appears that the city hired upon notes the following large sums:—

In 1879	$37,500
In 1880	63,500
In 1881	45,000
In 1882	48,168
In 1883	39,500
In 1884	38,000

and upon these loans thousands of dollars were paid as interest, a part of which at least, according to the books, ought not to have been paid and would not have been paid had the proper officials properly looked after the affairs of the city as required by their oaths of office and their duty to the tax payers.

On the 1st of March 1880 the city owed on notes $18,000.

On the 3d of March 1881 the city owed on notes $19,000.

On the 13th of March 1882 the city owed on notes $15,000.

On the 1st of March 1883 the city owed on notes $20,168.

On the 10th of March 1884 the city owed on notes $21,000, while in March 1885 the city will owe on notes or temporary loans nothing whatever. But the most astonishing part of this business is the fact that no charge or entry for these large sums of money has ever been made upon the books of the city by the city clerk, and though each year when the printed accounts were made up the city owed from $10,000 to $20,000, these accounts are silent upon the subject and the fact was concealed from the people.

The mere statement of the above facts ought to convince any one that something was wrong. You have, it is true, made some savings during the short time you have been in charge of the city affairs, and if we had had only bills of our own contracting to pay we should have saved more, but the total would fall far short of a sufficient explanation why the city treasury is to-day nearly $30,000.00 better off than it was one year ago.

I can find no bond given by the late treasurer as such, excepting for the year 1879, and if any city official for either of the last five years ever exacted such a bond, as required to do by law, it is not now where it can be readily found, and it never was approved by the Board of Aldermen as appears by the records.

Though it is not material to you, yet as tending to show what reliance can be placed upon the printed accounts for the year 1883, I would here state that though they show that the city owned December 31st real estate sold for taxes to the amount of $7909.15, this statement is incorrect. From the material at hand to aid me in ascertaining the correct amount at that date, I should not be justified in naming or guessing at any amount at present.

How these accounts misled us in regard to the falling due of bonds to the amount of $46,000, which in fact became due last September instead of January of this year, as stated in the accounts, you all remember.

Now, during the two years immediately preceding our election to the positions we now hold, the mayor then in office was powerless to carry into effect any reform, or shape the affairs of the city. His policy as well as his political opinions and professions were opposed to those of the city clerk and a majority of the city councils, while the committees of the councils, upon whom he must in a great measure rely for aid, were not of his own selection. And so, bound hand and foot, he was compelled to submit to their opposition and be carried along helpless in the path they laid out.

But for the four years previous to that a different state of things existed. The mayor and city clerk and a majority of both boards of the city councils were of one and the same political party and in policy, professions and practice were in accord. The various committees of the board of aldermen were of the mayor's own choosing and presumably were gentlemen upon whom he relied. He was master of the situation, and having had large experience in municipal affairs from long connection with the city government, it seems somewhat remarkable, to say the least, that he allowed that condition of affairs to exist which I have above described, and annually sent out to the tax payers, over his own signature, statements in regard to the affairs of the city under his administration which were misleading and false.

In my inaugural address in August last I called your attention to the large amount of taxes abated each year by the assessors at the request of the collector, either because he was too lazy to collect them, or, so many years elapsed before he attempted to do so, that the persons taxed died of old age or disease. There were abated

From the tax of 1879,	$5900.72
" " 1880,	3739.02
" " 1881,	2383.71
" " 1882,	2172.10
" " 1883,	2675.55

And as the collector for 1883 is absent and the tax is not collected in full, it is uncertain how much more, if not all, will eventually be lost. And this list of abatements does not include that large amount of taxes on real estate sold to the city, for which the city settles usually at a great discount and frequently gets nothing.

Now this system of abatements is wrong. No abatements should be made at the request of anybody, much less the collector, excepting in cases of mistake by the assessors, extreme poverty or death. The duty of the collector is plain. He can sell real estate for taxes assessed upon it or against the owner, he can seize personal property and sell it to pay the owner's taxes, or for want of either, he must arrest the person taxed and commit him to jail, and if the collector does his duty promptly and fairly, every good citizen will sustain him, and a great saving be made to the city.

Now, pardon me for saying one word as to our present financial condition. On the last day of December, 1884, in addition to the $22,366.00 received from the sale of a part of the city farm, the treasurer had on hand $14,942.30, and to-day he has $10,006.89, of which sum $2,000.00 is on deposit awaiting the presentation of overdue bonds and the balance of $8,006.89 is available funds for the payment of accruing bills. And, as you know, we have had no occasion to make any temporary loan and have paid all bills of our contracting that have been presented, besides paying a considerable number to a considerable amount, which were bequeathed to us as a legacy from our predecessors, some of them being extremely aged. There was also due the city on the first of January for uncollected taxes of 1884 the sum of $6,245.20, part of which has been already collected and a good share of the balance is certain to be realized.

The balance of uncollected taxes for 1881 and 1882 was all abated in a lump by the assessors in December last, and for this favor the collector paid the city the sum of $75.00. I have no comments to make upon such a transaction, and if I had, and should here make them, I presume the reply would be that it is none of my business. But when I find that on the bonds given by the collector, for those two years, as well as for the three years next preceding, the chairman of the board of assessors was a surety, and by such abatements he was relieved from his liability to pay the city the sums abated, I think I have the right, both as an official and as a tax payer, to insist that never again shall such a bond be taken by the city. The fact that the chairman of the assessors was surety upon the collector's bond may not have aided the collector to secure the abatements sought for and obtained during the past five years, but the temptation to relieve one's self from paying a large sum by simply "abating the tax," is too strong to be successfully resisted by all men, and the best of men ought not to be subjected to it lest they yield.

I regret that my official duty requires me to make these things public, but I am not responsible for them. I have endeavored to state matters as they actually appear from the books and accounts, and if any person can show that the apparent facts do him any injustice, I shall only be too happy to be informed of the error, and assist in removing any imputation upon any one that might be deduced from the above statement.

An off Year.

This is going to be an off year. No political booms for "Plumed Knights" or "Reform" will help keep up the health and strength of the vast multitude who put faith in pinned on the glowing party promises of election year. Multitudes of such will need a reliable tonic to tone up the system, a purifier to work off the bad blood, and a sure remedy for lame backs, rheumatism, biliousness, etc. Such a remedy is Kidney-Wort. It has long stood at the head of the list of kidney remedies, and it receives the highest praise from all that use it.

A RELIABLE PREPARATION.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Never before in the History of Medicine has a Preparation been so Universally praised as Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium. It goes right to the spot, and builds the system up as no other Medicin.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

By the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters the haggard appearance of the countenance and sallowness of dyspeptics are supplanted by a healthier look, and as the food is assimilated, the body acquires substance. Appetite is restored, and the nervous system refreshed with much needed slumber, through the use of this medicine, which is also beneficial to persons of a rheumatic tendency, and an inestimable preventive of fever and ague. For Sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

The President-Elect on the Silver Question.

Mr. Cleveland has written a letter in which he gives his views on the silver question. It is not stated whether the democracy of the ridiculous position of the discovery in relation to silver coinage is due to his own perspicacity or that of his coming secretary of the treasury, but he pronounces in favor of the suspension of silver coinage. The grounds he takes are the same which have been promulgated by the banks and other monetary institutions. Indeed, some financier has told Mr. Cleveland what a blunder his party are committing, and he tells his political associates that if this coinage is not suspended soon, it will lead to a financial crisis which it is the duty of Congress now to avert. There is but little time left for the democratic congressmen to take this hint, but Cleveland sees that a panic, just after his new administration gets fairly under way, would be a most disastrous episode in his presidential career, would wreck his chances for a second term, and doubtless strand the democracy high and dry on the lee-shore of an ignominious defeat. Cleveland therefore is wiser than his friends in Congress. But the silver men pay no attention to the ideas of the coming man, and refuse to consider his suggestions.

A Massachusetts Senator Lectures Senator Hale of Maine.

In the national senate recently, a resolution was offered providing that for the remainder of the session it be in order to move the application of the five-minutes rule to amendments proposed to appropriation bills. Senator Hoar objected to this, when Senator Hale of Maine remarked sarcastically that if the senator from Massachusetts wanted to spend all the time of the senate in talk rather than work, a large part of the business of the senate must necessarily be left undone. This seemed to nettle Mr. Hoar, who replied that a private pension bill might involve a precedent of the greatest importance, and he would never consent that a senator's remarks should be shut off in five minutes, and that he should be allowed to be heard only once upon one and the same question. In Mr. Hoar's judgment the "gibes" of Mr. Hale could proceed only from an imperfect comprehension by that senator of the constitution of his country, and the constitution of his senate. There was a good deal of laughter at Mr. Hale's expense, and the latter will probably not deem it worth while to attempt to stir up the Massachusetts senator again during this session. Mr. Hale apparently has some things to learn yet.

The Raymond and Whitcomb Excursions to New Orleans.

The last opportunity to visit New Orleans and the World's Exposition under the auspices of Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb will be offered on the 19th of March when a party will leave Boston via the Hoosac Tunnel route. Two days will be passed at the Sherman House, Chicago, two days at the Southern Hotel, St. Louis, and during the voyage down the Mississippi river visits will be made to Cairo, Memphis, Vicksburg, Natchez, Baton Rouge and to some of the plantation landings. While in New Orleans the party will remain on the steamer. The boat selected is the finest one of the St. Louis and New Orleans Anchor Line fleet, the "City of Bayou Sara," Captain Baker, and the party will have the advantage of a central and convenient location at the levee, near the foot of Canal street. Over a week will be passed in the Crescent City. The excursion will take place at a delightful season of the year, and the route is the pleasantest that could be chosen. Full particulars regarding the trip may be learned from a circular which will be sent by W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston, on application.

Coming Yacht Races.

James Gordon Bennett presided at a meeting of the New York Yacht club on the evening of Feb. 26th, when a challenge for two races for the America's cup was read. The challenges are from Sir Richard Sutton and Lieut. Henn, on behalf of the Royal Yacht squadron and the Royal Maritime club of England, respectively. The Ganesta is Sir Richard's yacht, and the Galatea belongs to Lieut. Henn. The match with the former craft will be sailed between August 10th and September 1st, and with the latter vessel before September 17th, both to be over an open ocean course. The challenge was accepted, and will be sailed under New York rules. James Gordon Bennett and W. P. Douglas were appointed to superintend the construction of an American vessel for the contest.

The senate committee on appropriations on Feb. 26th increased the naval appropriation bill as sent from the house by the net sum of $2,364,500. The principal items of increase were the appropriation of $2,000,000 for continuing work on the double-turreted monitors; $500,000 for the armament of new cruisers and gunboats; $115,000 on the appropriation for the construction of steel cruisers and gunboats; and $50,000 for the general maintenance of the bureau of yards and docks.

Judge Robert Logan, a republican member of the Illinois legislature, dropped dead in the state house at Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26th. This leaves the democrats one majority on joint ballot, and may ensure the election of a democrat to succeed Gen. John A. Logan in the United States senate.

W. L. Boone, an attorney since 1851, died at Independence, Mo., Tuesday, Feb. 24th. In the days of the Kansas troubles he was active, as editor of the Occidental Messenger, in holding up for Kansas her right to exclude slavery.

Martha Hale, wife of Hon. William Hale, died at Dover Feb. 26th. She was a daughter of the late Judge Samuel Hale of Barrington, and was born there June 3d, 1801. She married in January, 1831, her cousin, who survives. She was well known in the state, and was always prominent in charitable works and organizations.

Rev. Alfred Gooding's lecture on Pompeii, in the Unitarian chapel next Tuesday evening, will be a choice intellectual feast as well as a pleasing evening's entertainment. It will not be a series of extracts from the guide-books, but will deal largely with the home life and character of the ancient inhabitants as shown by their dwellings, furniture, ornaments, pictures, etc.; at the same time the physical features of the buried city will not be neglected, and the person who listens to the lecture will at its close know more about the ancient city than do many who have visited it.

Horace Mitchell, Jr., of Kittery Point, purchased for $5 the wreck of the lime schooner Frank Norton, of Rockland, Me., which was driven ashore near Fort McClary, and became a total loss.

The charter of the Kittery & Portsmouth Steam Ferry Co. was passed by the Maine house of representatives on Thursday last, with but little opposition. The bill in relation to a bridge over the Ogunquit river at Ogunquit, Wells, was also passed, by a small majority on a call of the yeas and nays.

There was a narrow escape from destruction, about 10:30 o'clock Thursday night, at the Vaughan street railroad crossing, of a man, horse and sleigh proceeding rapidly toward Dover. The train from Portland, with the engine bell ringing, was just coming by the corner of Russell street when the team was within about three yards of the track, and a collision must have occurred had not Yardmaster James Hart Twombly, who happened to be passing, made a spring and caught the horse by the bridle, and brought him to a sudden stop. If "Hart" never does another good deed in his life, he will have the satisfaction of knowing that he almost certainly saved a man's life on this occasion.

Do Not Delay

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt; and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur

Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me. I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am nowable to do all my housework.

should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Feb. 27th.

Daniel Kane, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90; he paid, and was dismissed.

James Hurley, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90; he did not pay, and was sent to Brentwood.

John Parks, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.00; he did not pay, and was sent to jail.

Mrs. Elmira Clark was before the court on complaint of Mary Williams, charged with being "a common railer." The parties live on Noble's island, and this affair, like one tried the previous day, seems to have grown out of a neighborhood quarrel. The hearing lasted a couple of hours, counsel being employed by both sides, the end being that Judge Batchelder gave Mrs. Clark some advice of very superior quality, and allowed her to depart.

MARGARET MATHER.

This evening, at Music hall, will be presented the dramatic treat of the season—Miss Margaret Mather in a splendid old comedy, with such support as Milnes Levick, Frederick Paulding, William Davidge, Kate Fisher, Jennie Harold and others.

That an actress who has won plaudits from the most exacting critics as Lady Macbeth, Juliet or the (to us) dismal Leah, can win equal or even greater favor with critics and public as Juliana or in other high comedy parts, is an evidence of talent such as must place this young lady in the foremost rank of her profession at no distant day, if indeed she is not already there. And when to such natural ability are joined marked personal attractions, and untiring industry and willingness—eagerness, rather, to learn, the highest success attainable on the mimic stage is within her reach.

Persons desiring to get chairs at the hall this evening will do well to scan the plan at Goodrich's bookstore early to-day.

EDWARD F. SWASEY.

Mr. Edward F. Swasey, whose death is announced in the usual place, enjoyed a large share of popularity and esteem among his young associates, and was respected by the community at large. He was industrious and of good personal habits, and a bright and cheerful companion. He was much interested in military affairs, and was called the best-drilled man in the city; he was the first captain elected by the Currier Guards in the late political campaign, and brought the organization to a high degree of efficiency, but was forced to resign by failing health. The cause of his death was quick consumption.

MISS FLORENCE P. WHIDDEN'S DEBUT.

A brilliant audience greeted Miss Whidden on Thursday evening at Music hall, on the occasion of her debut as a pianist, in a concert arranged and conducted by Prof. John Orth of Boston, complimentary to his talented pupil. Prof. Orth was assisted also by Mrs. E. Humphrey Allen, soprano, and the Temple Quartette, of Boston.

Miss Whidden appered in a dress of very pale blue satin with brocade draperies, and pearl ornamentation. The corsage was high in the neck and cut square in front, the perfect fit of the garment displaying the graceful lines of a shapely youthful form. The delicate tints of the azure-white satin harmonized with the fair debutante's rich complexion, and the tout ensemble was without a flaw. The good taste and common sense displayed in her costume at once won the approval of the audience, and her simple, unaffected manner pleased and put them en rapport with her. At the piano she seemed perfectly at home, and played the difficult numbers allotted to her with remarkable skill and vivid expression. Her touch and time were almost perfection, and the notes responded to her call as though her fingers were electrical with inspiration. It seemed surprising that one so young had obtained such a mastery over the piano.

Prof. Orth's playing even exceeded the high expectations of the many accomplished musicians in the audience. Mrs. Allen received a hearty welcome, and deserved it. And the Temple Quartette, as always, sang splendidly and were generously recognized. Two of their pieces, "The March of the Storm King" and "The Star of Love," were written and composed expressly for them.

As a whole, the concert was such as are of too rare occurrence in our city of culture and refinement. M.

WHO IS FRANK JONES!

The calm, if not cheerful manner, in which the average republican in office or out, contemplates the advent of the new regime, is in striking contrast with the testy spirit shown by some of the democracy. It seems now that the criticism upon the members designated for his cabinet by the president-elect is likely to be far more severe at the hands of his political friends, than from his opponents.

These are not our obsequies; but still, we like to see the fair thing done, even by our adversaries. Thus when we read that a prominent democratic senator, in commenting upon the cabinet rumors exclaimed, in supreme disgust—"Frank Jones? what next? who is he?" and went on with certain assertions as ungentlemanly as untrue, regarding Mr. Jones' social relations with Gov. Cleveland, we were inclined to take it up ourselves. Now we have not a single doubt of the fact that this office could be far better performed by our able democratic cotemporary in State street, but at this writing he is doubtless asleep in his peaceful mansion at the west end, perhaps dreaming of that comfortable position which we so heartily and confidently hope he will receive if his merits are only half appreciated. Shall we wait? or shall we yield to the impulse of the hour (late, we confess,—the hour, not the impulse,) and navigate in? Yes, we will expend a few words in informing the irate democratic senator that Frank Jones is a democrat who does not seek an office; that as a representative in the 44th and 45th Congress he had a very great influence which he wisely exerted toward keeping his party out of very many scrapes; that he attended the convention which nominated Mr. Cleveland, and largely by his efforts accomplished the result so much desired by the Cleveland men; that his contributions to the election fund were liberal, and that his counsel is sought because he has no selfish end to forward, and no private scheme to accomplish. Now all this we assert, because it is patent to every one in New Hampshire. We have never heard our townsman utter a word on the subject of a cabinet or other position; we are not in his secrets or his sympathies, but when we see a disgruntled senator speak disparagingly of Frank Jones, who in his politics, as in his business, displays more acuteness, has more influence and accomplishes greater results often than a round dozen of average time-honored politicians can begin to achieve, we just incline to step in and take a hand. The fact is the control of the democratic party, if it is to be controlled for its own good, has passed from the effete element which has so long kept it under, to a more vigorous management of which Mr. Jones is a type, and as to his powers as a political worker, as a manager of men, or a judge of the effect of political measures, we, who have helped fight the battles of the republican party in years past, have had a fine opportunity to form a correct estimate!

With Mr. Jones' political views or purposes we have nothing in common. But he advocates many public measures with far higher aims than mere party considerations. He is public-spirited and broad in his ideas, and if he is to be abused at all, let it be the privilege of the republicans to do the chastising. When we see a democratic senator or politician expresses doubts as to "who is Mr. Jones," after all that efficient member has accomplished for the democratic party, we incline to speak for him, though we doubt if he relishes our championship in this respect.

"Not to know me, argues yourselves unk own."

It was stated on Friday that a new candidate of formidable proportions, for the office of postmaster in this city, appeared in the field.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Mary Willey, having been loaded with ice at Kittery Point was on Thursday morning towed to the Isles of Shoals by the steamer Clara Bateman, which left her there to discharge her cargo, and came in. The tug went out again in the evening, and arrived back with the schooner about 11:30 o'clock P. M., berthing her at Broughton's wharf, where she will probably lie until the opening of the Maine lumber trade in the spring.

The prices of fish ruled comparatively low on Thursday and Friday, averaging about $2 per hundred pounds; some of the vessels refused to sell at that price, and went around to Gloucester, where only $1.80 per hundred was obtained. The moderating of the weather, and the arrival in Gloucester and Boston of very heavy fares from Georges, caused the decline in prices.

Mr. Nathaniel Wiggin on Thursday last had felled one of the largest and oldest elm trees in the state. It grew on the old Elwyn place near the Plains, and the stump where out measures seven feet in diameter one way, and five feet the other; the old patriarch is estimated by wood-chopping experts to contain twelve cords of wood. The tree was long past its best estate, and some of its larger limbs were dead or decaying.

DIPHTHERIA!

THE PROSTRATION which follows Diphtheria, and the persistency with which it clings to the patient, are well known to all who have had any experience with this terrible disease.

The following letter shows how the restoring and invigorating properties of Hood's Sarsaparilla overcome it, and how by vitalizing and enriching the blood it neutralizes and eradicates the poisoned matter from it, bringing to the convalescent the color, life and vigor of robust health.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—My little girl had the diphtheria last April. The disease left her very weak, blood poor, with no appetite, and she could not seem to rally from its effects. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA was recommended by a neighbor. After she had been taking it a few days we noticed a change for the better—she began to eat with a relish. It seemed to take out the poison the disease had left in her blood, the change being very noticeable in her face. She took it two months and fully regained her health, much to our delight. We now recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA with a great deal of pleasure. Very truly yours,
J. R. SMITH,

KIDNEY-WORT

ON THE ENGINE.

Running a Locomotive While Deathly Sick—Something the Passengers Did Not Know—A Physician Saves an Engineer.

TAUNTON, MASS.

Dr David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I am an engineer on the Old Colony Railroad, and run the Fall River b at train between Fall River and Boston, residence in Taunton. For ten years I suffered everything but death from dyspepsia. Often I had such blinding sick headaches that I could scarcely see. At times this was one part by to irregular habits of eating, and partly to the jar of the engine. Sometimes my head would snap like neuralgia, and again the pain would settle in my eyes, which would feel as big as a man's fist. My breath was very offensive, and my food soured as soon as it entered my stomach. In fact my stomach did as though it were a great raw and sore surface, and what agony it gave perhaps you can imagine.

In the summer and fall of 1876 when we had the heavy centennial travel, the constant jar brought on acute attacks nearly every week and I thought I should have to leave the road. But I kept at work until the battle ran when I grew so much worse that I could virtually eat nothing, and concluded that my labor, and my life too, were about over.

Remember that I had tried every medicine I heard of, and had been treated by some of the best physicians in Taunton and Lowell. At this critical time DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended to me. It was new to me, and with my experience of medicines, you can easily forgive me for saying that I had not a particle of faith in it.

I had taken it but a few days when I began to get better. The raw and sore feeling left my stomach, and the sharpness left my head, and soon I was all right, and have been ever since. It is the only thing that ever did me the least good, and it drives every ache, pain and disorder forever completely out of my body. Now I keep KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY with me on my engine, and it goes wherever I go.

Why, I believe FAVORITE REMEDY will cure anything. One night a while ago, John Layton, an engineer who lives in Fall River, took a freight train from Boston, came on my engine sick as death. He was worn out with work, had a high fever, and was so nervous he did not dare lie down or sleep. "Nonsense, John," I said, "cheer up, I've got something on my engine that will set you up in a jiffy." I took out my bottle of FAVORITE REMEDY, lifted his head and gave him a good dose. He went to bed. Two days after I saw him looking healthy as a honeycomb. "Don't be alarmed," said he, "what was that stuff you gave me the other night?" "It was DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, Rondout, N. Y." said I. "Well, I don't care whose Remedy it is, it's the thing for a man on the railroad." So say we all.

Yours, etc., DANIEL FITTS.

This preparation goes to the root of disease by purifying the blood and rousing every organ into healthy action. It is useful at home, shops, in office—everywhere.

MALARIA.

as an anti-malaria medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete without a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial fever from the system, prevents or cures chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, $ for $5, by all druggists.

Secretary McCulloch sent a communication to the house of representatives, Feb. 25th, in which he recommended an appropriation of $25,000 for the revenue marine service to protect the seal fisheries in Alaska. He said: "The seal fisheries yield annually to the government a revenue of about $300,000. The islands on which the seals are taken are protected from incursions of marauding vessels alone through the cruising of revenue cutters. The importance of protecting the seal fisheries lies not simply in securing the revenue from this source to the government, but in protecting the seal life from destruction. The islands of the Pribilov group contain the most important seal-rookeries of the world."

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

From a photograph taken of an elderly gentleman who committed suicide at the Atlantic hotel in Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 21st, after registering as Thos. Wilson of Detroit, Brooklyn people have identified him as J. Jones, a spice manufacturer of that city.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

Foster Post, G. A. R., of Nashua, celebrated its 18th anniversary Thursday evening. Prominent grand army visitors were present, including Department Commander Collis and Asst. Adjt. Gen. George E. Hodgdon, of Portsmouth. Young ladies took a prominent part in the literary exercises, following which a banquet was served, Commander Patrick Lanagan presiding. The post prandial exercises consisted of remarks by Commander Collis, Col. D. W. King and others.

The Raymond & Whitcomb Excursion to Mexico.

The first tourist party for Mexico arranged for by Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb, was so quickly filled that a second excursion became a necessity. The second party, which, like the first, will be limited in numbers, is to leave Boston Thursday, March 26th. The tour will be precisely like the first in all its details, the itinerary being a repetition of the other, while the same advantages of specially chartered Pullman palace sleeping-cars, dining-car, etc., will be enjoyed. Nearly two weeks will be passed in the Mexican capital, and a dozen other quaint and interesting cities of our sister republic, together with some of its ancient ruins and most picturesque places will also be visited. The journey will be taken in easy stages, and ample time is provided for rest as well as for sight-seeing. Mexico is one of the most interesting countries on the globe, and now that a tour of its chief cities can be made in comfort and luxury, Americans should embrace the opportunity to visit it and see with their own eyes the many quaint things travellers have told us about. The excursion will occupy forty-four days. Full details of this truly magnificent tour may be learned from a descriptive circular which will be sent by W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston.

A despatch from Tangiers says that the admiral commanding the United States steamer Lancaster, which arrived at that port a few days ago to support the demand of the United States consul for the release of two prisoners unjustly imprisoned, gave notice to the government of Morocco on Feb. 21st that twenty days would be granted, within which the prisoners should be liberated and reparation given, and if within that time the demands were not acceded to the admiral would denounce the Madrid convention of 1880 and refer the matter to the government at Washington for further notice. It is to be hoped the government of Morocco does not know anything about the condition of our navy.

Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain, may be relied on to effect a cure wherever an external application can be used. Price only twenty-five cents a bottle.

Lieut. John O Soley has been placed on the retired list of the navy by reason of physical disability.

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in; whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by taking Parker's Tonic when you feel "a little out of sorts." It would be money in your pocket. One hour of good, rejoicing health is worth half a dozen hours full of languor and pain.

Lieutenant-Commander Nichols, commanding the Pinta, reports to the department, under date of Sitka, Alaska, February 7th, that everything was quiet in that portion of the territory. Trouble occurred among the Indians at Kluck-Kwan, at the head of the Keku straits, in December, the result of a long-standing feud between two families. Eight men were killed, four from each family, and according to the Indian law, a life for a life; the affair ended there, and peace was made.

Take Warning.

At this season of the year when so many people become subject to attacks of biliousness, kidney troubles, constipation and all the list of troubles that arise from being housed up, or that are brought on by colds or exposure, it is the part of prudence to take warning from the experience of others and provide ourselves with means of escape from similar troubles. So wide is the fame of Kidney-Wort, that great remedy for all kidney and liver trouble, that almost every one knows of its great virtue for such cases. It should be kept in every household ready for an emergency.

Comdr. H. L. Howison and Lieut. Comdr. Horace Elmer are ordered to examination for promotion.

A Fact.

A good reliable gentleman of Stratham, N. H., says: "After using all other preparations, I tried Wetherell's Sarsaparilla, and it has entirely cured me of a troublesome skin disease. I found that one bottle went further than three or four bottles of other kinds of medicine. It commenced at once to help." Sold by all druggists.

The vacancy in the navy department caused by the retirement of Adm. Nichols, late chief of the bureau of yards and docks, it was on Friday last announced would not be filled by President Arthur. The duties of the position will be attended to by Chief Clerk Augustus E. Merritt, who has at various times been acting chief of the bureau.

"For economy and comfort, every spring, we use Hood's Sarsaparilla," writes an intelligent Buffalo, N. Y., lady. 100 Doses One Dollar.

NOW USE WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE POTASSIUM

It is a medicine that will build up the system, cure Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, and all humors of the body. The remarkable success of this medicine at home gives abundant proof that it is far superior to any other Remedy.

It Gives Me an Appetite.

L. L. LAMPREY, Exeter, N. H., says: "Wetherell's Sarsaparilla gives me a good appetite. I felt much improved before using half a bottle. June 17, 1881.

The Best Blood Purifier.

Myself and son have taken three bottles of Wetherell's Sarsaparilla and Iodide Potassium, and consider it one of the best blood purifiers and spring medicines I have ever used, and cheerfully recommend it to all who need such remedies. CHAS. HALEY, Exeter, N.H.

EARTH-MEN FROM AFRICA.

A Strange People Who Have Recently Landed at New York.

Sitting in a waiting-room of the Central railroad ferry-house a few days ago was as uncouth a collection of human beings as falls to the lot of New Yorkers to witness. Wrapped in coarse striped blankets, their heads covered with cloth caps two sizes too large for them, the small, peaked faces peered out of their coverings with a monkey-like gaze at the crowd of inquisitive Americans who gathered around. They were African earth-men or pygmies, recently brought here from the region of the Congo. Until lately the existence of these people has been questioned by scientific writers, but recent discoveries have proved the truth of the well-known assertion of Herodotus regarding the mysterious tribe of dwarfs who burrowed in the earth far back toward the center of the dark continent. Du Chaillu was the first modern traveler who investigated the matter and saw them in their own land, and described them as being small in stature, but larger than one is led to expect from the description of Herodotus, being something over three and a half feet tall, but still they are diminutive specimens of humanity. Their figures are slim and delicate, but very well formed.

The woman especially is capable of posing for an artist as a bronze Venus. They are all well clad, the women wearing coats and pants of coarse but warm material, and they frequently emitted a dry, hacking cough that showed the effect which our climate and that of England, whence they came last, is having upon them. Their faces denote but little intellect, yet they are possessed of much intelligence, and the children are surprisingly bright. The baby, sitting under a canopy of cap, was a study in himself.

His big, black eyes twinkled and snapped as he peered this way and that at the crowd, and he looked the brightest and best of the lot. His father, the king—they are all kings that come here—sat enwrapped in his royal blanket, with a long bow in his hand, and he appeared to notice nothing that went on around him. He wore attached to his hair in front, three small shells filled with some kind of cement or dirt to hold them on. These are royal trade-marks, none but he being allowed to decorate bangs in that manner, and he looked every inch a king of that sort. On their cheeks they all had a ragged scar—this is also a royal mark, and is made by scratching with an arrow and rubbing in coloring matter—a rude sort of tattooing. In addition to these marks each one had the joint of his right hand little finger taken off. This is a general tribal mark. They all showed their fingers and all were alike in this disfigurement. Their skin is not black, but a sort of coppery brown, something like our Indians, but a shade or two darker and richer in tone. They have but little hair and that is curled like pigtails.

The most curious thing about them is their language. It is a series of indescribable clucks, made by turning the tongue backward against the roof of the mouth and snapping it forward—not the sound one makes when starting a horse, but just as inarticulate and seemingly unintelligible to a human being. They cackled and clucked among themselves, and the gentleman in charge clipped in and fired his tongue at them, and then the reporter tried it, and clucked them, "Here's my regards."

It seemed incredible that men could converse among themselves with such an elementary form of speech, it not being elevated above the twittering of a sparrow. One certainly could easier translate the barks and whines of his dog into English. They seem to be satisfied with it, and that is certainly enough.

They have quite a collection of African arms and curiosities in their possession—short and long bows, with sinew or hide strings; spears and arrows of reed, poisoned with the juices of plants, and capable of making havoc in the ranks of an enemy. It is, in fact, in this manner only, that they can be formidable, as an ordinary white man could easily manage three of them. They decorate themselves in the manner usual among savages, with shells, beads, and feathers, the latter being quite ornamental and artistic. They have a collection of ostrich feathers, heads and horns of gazelles, gemsboks and elands, tiger and leopard skins, and lions' claws—all trophies of their skill in the chase and showing what a superiority even pygmies have over the brute creation.—New York World.

A New York reporter was staying for a short time in Georgia. He happened to witness a fight between two well-known local politicians. Thinking he could turn a few honest pennies, he hastened to the office of the local newspaper. "Got a bully story," he said. "Fight between Judge A—— and Sheriff F——. How much do you want?" "Why, those two men are on the shoot," replied the editor in chief. "I'd have to quit the town if I published anything about them." Next day this interesting item appeared: "Two well known politicians had an altercation yesterday." The New York reporter thinks there isn't much newspaper enterprise in Georgia.

A beggar rang at the door bell about breakfast time one morning last week and demanded something to eat. The servant replied that they did not encourage tramps at that house. "Tramps!" retorted the man with indignation. "I ain't no tramp. I'm a respectable beggar." "Well," replied the servant, "we don't encourage those either." "Ye don't?" was the sneering rejoinder. "What do yer encourage? Stuffin' yourself full, I s'pose, while yer feller-creaters is a starvin' for a glass o' suthin' stimerlatin'. That's what you are!" And off he went, leaving behind him his undisguised contempt.—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

The Stone and Clay Builders of Arabia.

The aspect of Arabia is that of a decayed country. While the ancient Arabians bored deep wells in the rock, walled them with stone, and built stone houses, their Moslem successors were clay builders, and now the Bedouins only dig shallow pits with their hands and a stick. Among the oldest Arabian remains are large erect stones such as would be called Druidical in Britain, and buildings of huge irregular blocks, such as are commonly called Cyclopean or Pelasgian. Monuments of uncertain age, built of unhewn stone, are frequent in the valleys and on the surface of the Harrat (or butte) el-Aneyrid, near Medyin Salih. They are shaped like beehives, and are about twelve feet high, and twenty-five across. In one place 150 of them stood together. Each is built over a sepulchral cell; access to which is obtained through a hole in the top.

A Child That Was Like a Bird in a Cage.

A little Newport child of rich parentage, carefully nursed and richly clothed and guarded tenderly by its elders, was driving by the orphans' home the other day, when it caught the sound of the many childish voices in the yard where the children were at play. It eagerly asked: "Oh, mamma, what is that?" "They are poor little orphans, without any parents," impressively answer the mother, hugging her darling closer. "Oh, mamma," exclaimed the child, crossing his little hands over his velvet gown and drawing a deep sigh, "how I wish I was a poor little orphan!" The mother appreciated the situation, and has since given her child companionship of its own stature and a little more freedom from fine clothes and constant nursing.—Boston Transcript.

"Oh, mother," said a little girl Sunday morning, while being dressed for Sabbath school, "I feel perfectly awfully; I've such a horrid old pain, you know." "Where do you experience the painful sensation?" inquired the solicitous mother. "Right down here," she replied, emphasizing the statement with eloquent gestures of her little hands, "right down her in my new pink sash!"—Breakfast Table.

ORDERS!

FOR all kinds of Fruit Trees and Shrubberies from one of the most reliable N. J. sections in the country, taken by WOODBURY SEAVEY, at his Seed Store, tap1 Nos. 62 and 64 Market Street.

Dr. G. W. Littell, druggist, Creston, Ohio, writes as follows: "I am selling St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-cure, and I can say that it brings comfort to many households."

The Farmington (Me.) Chronicle says that there is strong prima facie evidence that a human body found in a pasture in North Searsport last April, which has never been identified, was that of a well-known Farmington lady who, a year before the body was found, was discharged from the insane asylum and went to the seashore for the summer. She had money and her friends fear that she was murdered.

From the worst stages of heart disease I consider myself cured by the use of DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR.—T. M. Towns, Tilton, N. H. Thirty years have proved the Heart Regulator a sure remedy. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

William Nugent was drowned while tending at Mrs. Vanderveers' pavilion at Coney Island last August. His widow brought a suit for damages in the New York supreme court, charging that the means to prevent loss of life at Mrs. Vanderveers' place were not ample. The jury last week rendered a verdict for $5000 in favor of Mrs. Nugent.

Buy "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" if you want a pure whiskey, and take no other. The genuine bears the signature of Chester H. Graves & Sons on the label and over the corks. Druggists and grocers have it.

THE LUCIER COMEDY CO.

This company, which opens at Music hall this evening, to continue through the week, has just been playing in Bangor, Me., and the Commercial of that city says:

The general charge of admission was only ten cents, and yet there have been few, if any, variety entertainments in our city that have given so much satisfaction. The Lucier company gave a good entertainment in every particular. It was clean, bright, healthful and full of variety, and there were no long waits between the different performances. Without mentioning all the details, it is proper to state that the Lucier family itself is the principal attraction, and it is well worthy of commendation. Mr. Sam Bernard, the Jew wender, Mr. Harry L. Woodbury, John Fenton, the clog dancer, Miss May Fenton in her character songs, Miss Louise De Luisi in her songs and dances, and Miss Stella Long, pianist, are all artists. Without dwelling on details we can assure the public that this is a first-class variety entertainment.

JAMES M. FROST.

Mr. James M. Frost, who died in North Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 27th, was born at Newcastle, N. H., in 1819, and consequently was in his 66th year at the time of his death. He learned the carpenter's trade in Portsmouth, but went to Boston in 1841, and with his elder brother, John O. Frost, went into business as a builder on the corner of Broad and Broad streets, in which he continued (for a long time in partnership with his brother and afterward alone) up to the time of his death. He married a Boston lady, who died at noon on Feb. 26th, after an illness of nine days, his own decease occurring a little more than twelve hours later, at the close of a sixteen days' illness. They leave a son and daughter, both grown up. Mr. Frost was a prominent Odd Fellow of North Cambridge, and his funeral was conducted by the order on Sunday, the 1st inst.

Mr. Editor: There seems to be a fund of grim humor in Mayor Page's indictment against his predecessors in office, when he says Mr. Treat was not guilty, because his policy was opposed to that of the city clerk and a majority of the councils!

Does this young statesman suppose that his constituents are so uninformed as to believe that whenever Ex-Mayor Treat desired to perform any act or discharge any duty, incident to his office, the city clerk, this inefficient official, and a majority of incompetent city fathers, prevented the chosen representative of the democracy from properly discharging his sworn duty and for which he was paid a handsome salary?

The mayor is the chief executive officer of the city, and it is his duty to cause to be executed the laws and regulations of the city. If he is interfered with in the proper exercise of these functions, there doubtless is a remedy by law or in some way. Fancy Frank Jones, when mayor with a majority of the city councils opposed to his "political" opinions, being prevented from properly discharging his executive duties! We might as well suppose the present official, when he undertakes to regulate the bell-ringing on a holiday, being overridden by some subordinate or even a private citizen!

No! In the eloquent language of G. Cleveland, "the office is executive." To the rising Chief Magistrate who seeks to criticise so many officials at one fell swoop allow me to remark, let your comments "take any shape but that."

CURIO.

Mr. E. C. Stickney, the athlete, has been presented by Osgood Lodge, I. O. O. F., with a handsome silver medal as the "Champion heavy-weight lifter." The medal was placed on exhibition in Hutchinson's window on Friday.

There was quite a large and bad hole in the sleighing in the middle of Vaughan street Saturday forenoon, which caused much inconvenience to passing teams, one of which in trying to avoid it slued over on to the sidewalk and the horse was thrown down, but fortunately no damage was done. It was fixed all right by the street commissioner in the afternoon.

A great number of teams from the surrounding country were in town on Saturday evening, the several stable yards being literally packed full of sleighs. They were from Newcastle, Hampton, Greenland, Newington, and even from Exeter, the attraction being Miss Margaret Mather at Music hall. There were also a good many teams from Kittery and Eliot among the lot.

A new bowsprit is being put in the schooner Yankee, at C. E. Walker's wharf, by Warren Keen. The stick was cut by him at Foye's farm in Rye.

The ice is evidently breaking up on the upper waters of the Piscataqua, and is coming down to the sea divided in small cakes as it passes through the bridges.

Mr. J. F. Dean, who appeared at Music hall on Saturday evening as Balthazar in "The Honeymoon," with the Margaret Mather company, made his first appearance on any stage in the old Temple, which formerly occupied the site of Music hall, on the evening of Sept 16th, 1864, on which occasion "the great moral and religious drama, 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' as the advertisement in the Chronicle of that date read, was presented under the management of Charles E. Bidwell & G. W. Pike, who had a lease of the building and produced plays every evening, with matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Dollie Bidwell, then and for years afterward a popular favorite here and elsewhere, took the part of Mrs. St. Clair, and "Little Cora Janvrin" was the Eva; Mr. Dean, who had previously for some time been employed in the Nowell shoe factory, took an important part in the cast, and filled it as well as it has ever been filled here. The Temple, during Bidwell & Pike's occupation of it, was called the "Temple of Amusement," and was nightly thronged with citizens and transient persons brought here in large numbers by the war operations then in progress.

There were many arrivals of fishing vessels on Saturday and Sunday, they generally bringing in considerable fares, and the fish running quite large. Prices ruled low, in consequence of large quantities of fish having been taken into Boston, and of the recent moderating weather. The buyers here were paying $1.25 to $1.50 per hundred pounds. The last month's high prices paid, over $5 per hundred pounds on some days, did not prove remunerative to the purchasers.

Smelt fishing at Great bay is still continuing. The fishermen in general have been only moderately successful there this winter; occasionally, however, some one has made a large catch. John W. Blake brought in to G. & A. W. Stott, one day last week, fifty lbs. There were seined in York river, a narrow stream, by one man last week, 700 lbs. This fish has been of late retailed here at from 12 1-2 to fifteen cents per lb., while in Boston they have been quoted at ten cents per lb. But the fish thus sold in Boston are brought from the British provinces and eastern Maine, and are said to be of a different species from and inferior to those caught in the waters of western Maine, New Hampshire and eastern Massachusetts.

About twenty-five mechanics and laborers were "discharged" from the steam engineering department at the navy yard on Saturday, the more polite but often delusive term "suspended" seeming to have itself suffered suspension for the present.

Naval Constructor George R. Bousb has been ordered from the Boston navy yard to temporary duty at Washington. General Foreman William C. Hichborn will have charge of the construction department during his absence.

Gen. Grant Dying.

Despatches of Feb. 28th from New York state that Gen. Grant is very sick, and the physicians have little hope, if any, of his recovery. He is breaking down generally, but the great trouble is a malignant cancerous growth at the roots of the tongue.

The National theatre at Washington was burned on the night of Feb. 26th; loss $175,000.

John Killoy, a youth employed in the New Haven wire mill, was horribly mangled, and killed, Friday, by being caught in the machinery.

How Baking Powders are Made.

While rival companies are disputing as to what ingredients are to be found in the "best baking powder," the public will be interested in the following definition of these now indispensible articles, as given by Appleton's Cyclopedia, the acknowledged American authority:

"The best baking powders are composed of bitartrate of potash (cream of tartar,) tartaric acid, carbonate of ammonia, and soda bi-carbonate, bound together by a little starch."

The wind for the last few days has been veering toward the eastward, the regular precedence in this climate of the gradual approach of spring.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe

A running sore for 14 years cured. HENRY H. GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything a man could, the sore discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had about lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

have saved my life. There is nothing like them. I earnestly entreat all afflicted with impure blood to try them and be cured.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores.

MARGARET MATHER.

A large audience assembled in Music hall on Saturday evening to witness Miss Margaret Mather's impersonation of Juliana in Tobin's comedy of "The Honeymoon." The part of Juliana is one which requires a nice perception of the author's design. It contains the imperious and commanding bride expectant, the chagrined and mortified spouse, succeeded by the dutiful, loving and obedient wife. Miss Mather's conception of the character of the provoked woman on discovering what she conceives to be the gross deception of the duke, is one of intense passion and almost ungovernable temper, restrained only when she is made to behold the "key of the situation." Throughout this varied role Miss Mather shew herself capable of the delineation of these different phases of character, to the life. There is no reason why she should not have been able to achieve success. To a most graceful carriage and fine form, with an interesting and attractive face which can give expression to the feelings and utterances of the occasion, with an exquisite taste in dress and a most adroit manner in posing, she adds a seemingly thorough appreciation of the author's sentiment,—though we have never before supposed that the Spanish brides of the last century made their wedding tour of fifty miles, clad in their bridal dress. Still, the time of the play may have been before the more appropriate travelling costume of the present era came into vogue.

Miss Mather was received with a gentle murmur of applause on her entry to the stage, but as usual in our city the audience was far more attentive and appreciative than demonstrative. The support for the most part was quite good; some of it, excellent. Mr. Paulding as Capt. Rolando was graceful in his gesticulations throughout his diatribes upon the gentler sex. Miss Fletcher had just enough of a dash of humor to sustain her part admirably. Mr. Levick evidently missed the stimulant of deserved applause, which the audience seemed to omit not as if undeserved, but for some reason the listeners did not "catch on" and do their part in this respect. Why the frequenters of Music hall, when a sterling English comedy which for four score years has delighted lovers of the drama on both sides of the Atlantic is presented, cannot afford to lend to the stage their seal of encouraging approbation on occasions like this, we wot not. The play, and its impersonation, deserved liberal applause. This however must not only be generously impulsive to afford to those behind the footlights the proper encouragement to good deeds, but the audience and actors must be en rapport for a successful result in such instances.

Our criticism has drifted from the stage to the auditorium, because, as we have before had occasion to note, there are times when even a cultivated audience like that frequently in attendance upon excellent representations of admirable plays in Music hall, have seemed doubtless to the stage to have been

"Remote, unfriended, melancholy, slow."

This is not the characteristic trait of those who go to entertainments of this kind elsewhere. We need in our composition more enthusiasm, and if we cannot find that which to applaud in the actor, at least we can show a manifestation of our appreciation of the dramatist, however indifferently, to our tastes, their sentiments may be presented.

Miss Mather commences an engagement at the theatre in Portland, Me., this evening.

TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO.

The invitations to the Inaugural ball given in honor of the election of Buchanan and Breckenridge, Wednesday evening, March 4th, 1857, contained the following information: The music for the occasion was furnished by Bond's Quadrille band of Boston. An elegant supper was served, and the price of tickets including supper and the admission of a gentleman and lady was three dollars. The committee of arrangements consisted of Messrs. T. J. Sheldon, Joseph Holmes, John E. Rider, John Stokel, Edward N. Fuller and James H. Head. The gentlemen managers were:

Richard Jenness, Daniel Marey, Robert Morrison, William Pettigrew, Chas. W. March, Abner Greenleaf, Charles L. Woodbury, H. F. Wendell, Albert E. Hatch, W. B. Vennard, Joseph Holmes, J. G. Hadley, A. J. Beck, A. H. Hoyt, Nehemiah Moses, Peter Jenness, J. Warren Towle, N. K. Haynes, Frank Fuller, L. Akerman, A. Q. Wendell, F. J. Beal, G. H. Randlett, Alfred Tucker, Augustus Jenkins, William Downs, John Stokell, Leonard Cotton, Andrew H. Jones, Israel Marden, Zenas Clement, John R. Reding, Samuel Cushman, Wm. J. Leighton, Chas. T. Emery, James H. Head, John E. Rider, T. J. Sheldon, Moses H. Goodrich, S. J. Dodge, Lafayette Laighton, Edward N. Fuller, Wm. Hand, George Haynes, Thomas H. Odlon, Wm. H. Hackett, Wm. Laighton, Albert Gregory, John Harrut, H. S. Hartshorn, Jere. D. Goodrich, H. Poyser, John H. Jackson, Joshua Hickey, Uri Lamprey, Hampton, Albert Blaisdell and Simes Frink, Greenland, Rufus Dow, South Hampton, W. H. Dudley, Brentwood, T. J. Parsons, Rye, T. D. Hobbs, North Hampton, J. M. Weare, Seabrook, John S. Wells and Alvah Wood, Exeter.

FLOOR MANAGERS.

Albert R. Hatch, C. W. March, W. H. Hackett, Samuel Lamprey, F. N. Mathes, T. J. Sheldon, H. F. Wendell, N. K. Haynes, John Stokell, James H. Head, John E. Rider, Joseph Holmes.

Of the sixty-four persons named as general managers there are now living eighteen, and possibly one or two more; of these, four are now republicans. Of the twelve floor managers five survive, three of them being still solid in the democratic faith.

The ball, which was held in old Congress hall, (the building having since been burned and rebuilt,) was a grand affair, and was attended by the elite of the city, including many who then were or since have been of the opposite political faith.

This was the last inauguration ball given in this city. The democrats from that date to the present have had no chance to celebrate in this way the election of their presidential candidate, and the long-victorious republicans never attempted anything of the kind. In 1861, when the first republican president took his seat, the muttering thunders of the war cloud which was then darkening the land with its shadows were too plainly and continuously heard for any such light festivity to be thought of; in 1865 the horrors of a desperate and protracted war, and the deadly peril in which "government of the people, by the people, for the people," was placed, would have made talk of an inauguration ball seem almost sacrilegious.

During President Grant's incumbency the troublesome questions of reconstruction, resumption, etc., occupied the popular mind; and there was no brilliant cause for hilarity over the Hayes election, with its dangerous disputes and its weak results. When Gen. Garfield was elected there was no talk of an inauguration ball; and in fact, we do not know that such an affair was ever even suggested by the republicans of this city.

BLAMELESS, BECAUSE A DEMOCRAT.

"Here you are! Mayor Page's Bombshell!" was sounded through the streets and in the vestibule of the postoffice on Friday evening, by numerous urchins who had for sale the local evening papers containing the mayor's communication to the city councils concerning the management of the city finances, or the keeping of the financial records, by several preceding municipal administrations. In looking over this bombshell our attention was particularly attracted by the following paragraphs:

Now, during the two years immediately preceding our election to the positions we now hold, the mayor then in office was powerless to carry into effect any reform, or shape the affairs of the city. His policy as well as his political opinions and professions were opposed to those of the city clerk and a majority of the city councils, while the committees of the councils, upon whom he must in a great measure rely for aid, were not of his own selection. And so, bound hand and foot, he was compelled to submit to their opposition and be carried along helpless in the path they laid out.

But for the four years previous to that a different state of things existed. The mayor and city clerk and a majority of both boards of the city councils were of one and the same political party, and in policy, professions and practice were in accord. The various committees of the board of aldermen were of the mayor's own choosing, and presumably were gentlemen upon whom he relied. He was master of the situation, and having had large experience in municipal affairs from long connection with the city government, it seems somewhat remarkable, to say the least, that he allowed that condition of affairs to exist which I have above described, and annually sent out to the tax payers, over his own signature, statements in regard to the affairs of the city under his administration which were misleading and false.

"Mayor Page's bombshell" would have had much greater explosive force had he left out altogether the extract we have reprinted, which is not the utterance of a "reform" official, but the special pleading of a partisan lawyer. His argument amounts to just this: Certain duties devolve upon the mayor of the city; these duties were not performed by Mayor Trent or Mayor Sise; but Mr. Treat, being a democrat, should not be blamed for neglecting his duty, while Col. Sise, being a republican, should be blamed for exactly the same neglect. The two gentlemen named took the same official oath, had the same legal powers and the same responsibilities as chief executive of the city, and if one is deserving of censure the other is equally so.

CHARLES E. LAIGHTON.

The death of Charles E. Laighton, Esq., the oldest survivor of the merchants who were prominent in Portsmouth thirty years ago, at the advanced age of eighty-five years and three months, took place on Friday evening, Feb. 27th.

Mr. Laighton came of an old family, noted and well known by that name for the last century in politics and business in this ancient town, being the son of Luke Mills Laighton and Mrs. Elizabeth (Mendum) Laighton, daughter of Capt. John Mendum. In his early days he became a clerk to Thomas W. Penhallow, a successful hardware importer and shipowner, who was succeeded by Sherburne & Blunt, afterward Sherburne & Pickering. This business was afterward taken by Hon. Richard Jenness, who was succeeded by Bennett & Treadwell, and then by Hon. John H. Bailey, where Pryor & Matthews are now located on Market street. He afterward was in the employment of Ebenezer Wentworth, Esq., a wholesale merchant, who giving up business, was appointed cashier of the branch United States bank; and he then was employed by J. H. & T. Hall, wholesale West India merchants.

In 1822 he commenced business on his own account as a grocer, at the corner of State and Washington streets. While placing his goods in the store he was struck by lightning, and rendered temporarily blind, causing his confinement in a darkened room for three weeks. He remained in this store for ten years, and then relinquished it to John Harrat, entering into partnership with Mr. Timothy Hall in the wholesale West India and grocery trade under the firm name of Hall & Laighton. This firm carried on business in one of the stores in the range of brick buildings on Market street extending northward from Bow street, then known as Merchants' Row. This branch of Portsmouth's business was then declining, and proving unremunerative to Mr. Laighton he removed to the store in Exchange buildings, Pleasant street, where he spent the remainder of his active life in successfully conducting the wholesale and retail grocery business, for many years in his own name only, and latterly under the firm of Charles E. Laighton & Son, he admitting to partnership his son Charles M. Laighton, whom he had brought up in business with him and trained to his own rigid creed of honesty and commercial honor.

It will thus be seen how Mr. Laighton acquired the methodical business habits for which he was noted, and which with his unswerving integrity caused his credit to always remain peefect. And by reason of his long experience, his knowledge of goods was unexcelled.

He never engaged in politicies, being particularly averse to public notoriety, though he did serve as orderly sergeant of the celebrated Gilman Blues, then under command of Captain (afterward Colonel) Joshua W. Peirce, which proceeded to Rye beach in 1812 to repel a reported raid of British boat's crews, the only supposed invasion ever made or even attempted upon the territory of New Hampshire. Though little inclined to familiarity with strangers, in his associations with those with whom he was well acquainted he was pleasant and agreeable; and no charge even was ever brought against his good name.

The teams coming into town from the country on Saturday reported the sleighing good, but many vehicles belonging here were running on wheels.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that Hoop's SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
MRS. S. S. MOODY,
No. 75 Broadway.

"Inventors cannot confer a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them in an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.
"BOSTON, October 19, 1878.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir:—You procured for me, in 1849, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Consumption.

Notwithstanding the great number who yearly succumb to this terrible and fatal disease, which is daily winding its fatal coils around the thousands who are unconscious of its deadly presence, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will cleanse and purify the blood of scrofulous impurities, and cure tubercular consumption (which is only scrofulous disease of the lungs.) Send three letter stamps and get Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on consumption and kindred affections, with numerous testimonials of cures. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

The Powhatan arrived at St. Domingo Feb. 14th; she was to sail on the 17th for Jamaica and thence to Carthagena, and expected to arrive at the latter place Feb. 28th.

Khasm Mons, a messenger sent by Gen. Buller, has arrived at Korti. He states that according to the most reliable native accounts the rebels when they entered Khartoum pillaged the town and massacred the people. Gen. Gordon, with a number of Shageihs, retreated into the Catholic church and refused to surrender. The Mahdi then upon shelled the church to pieces, and everybody within was killed.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

The new library building at Dartmouth college has a capacity of 120,000 volumes, leaving ample space for future addition to the library, which now contains 55,000 volumes. The architecture is Romanesque, and the carving is done in a most skillful manner. The material used is red brick and sandstone. The building is to cost about $60,000, of which $30,000 was bequeathed by a Mr. Wilson of Providence, R. I. The building is to be known as Wilson hall, in his honor.

Quaker Testimony.

Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has been a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city while bathing some years ago was thrown violently against the life line and the injuries received resulted in an ovarian tumor which grew and enlarged until death seemed certain. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great value in preventing miscarriage and alleviating the pains and dangers of childbirth. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

In the famous case of Emma F. Sprague vs. the town of Bristol, for injuries alleged to have been received through a defective highway, J. S. H. Frink of Greenland, the referee, has made a return in favor of the town. The action was tried before a jury at the supreme court in Plymouth in 1880, resulting in a disagreement, after which the plaintiff asked for reference.

C. H. Barber of Pownal, Vt., has lost fifteen sheep from his flock of 400 by some new disease. The sheep are noticed staggering, the head is drawn back and rests on the shoulders, and in a few hours they lie down and never rise again.

Joseph Spones, white, was arrested at Staunton, Va., Feb. 26th, and taken to Lexington, charged with outraging four of his daughters. The community is indignant, and threats of lynching are freely made.

On Wednesday, Feb. 25th, Ran Smallwood, a prominent member of the law and order organization in Letcherm county, Ky., met McClelland Adams, a desperado, and a quarrel ensued. Pistols were drawn, and Adams was shot and killed. Adams had killed two men in January, and deded the authorities. Smallwood has not been arrested.

Isaac V. Wilson, who is discovered to be the richest man in Philadelphia, boasts that while acquiring his fortune of $15,000,000 he also acquired abstemious habits and that his personal expenses now are not more than $1500 a year.

Somewhere in Georgia there is a church, which is called "The Sister's Church;" all the members are women. The chief work of their missionary society is to send Dr. Ball's Cough Syrup to the Indians, who suffer largely with coughs and colds.

Fred H. Knight is under arrest at Royalston, Mass., charged with inciting and procuring the burning of a building occupied by him as a livery stable.

The President of the Cambridge, Mass., Fire Ins. Co. says: "I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as a building up and strengthening remedy."

Mallett Green, a negro, was committed to await the action of the grand jury at Babylon, L. I., on charges of grand larceny and incendiarism. On the 20th of last September, Green, after robbing the house of B. Philips at Bay Shore, while the family was away, set fire to the mansion. The flames were extinguished, however, before much damage was done. Green was a servant in the house and was missing, and kept out of the way until the 27th inst. when he was taken into custody.

Cow boys stopped the Pacific express at Mingusville, Dakota, Feb. 27th, made Conductor Clark dance the can-can on the platform, and varied the monotony by shooting at his feet. A posse was called out from Mandan which arrested the whole party, and took them to the headquarters of the Missouri division of the army on the east-bound train.

Mothers, always use Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild, safe tonic. 25c.

A young man who shot himself through the heart on Tuesday on the ice bridge below Niagara Falls, was Charles Wellbecker, son of a hop merchant of New York city. He was twenty-five years old, was his father's bookkeeper, and was well known in the hop trade. Mr. Wellbacker said: "I know of no reason why Charley should take his life. He had not been well for over a year, and was troubled with despondency and insomnia. His habits have always been good."

Take Warning.

At this season of the year when so many people become subject to attacks of biliousness, kidney troubles, constipation and all the list of troubles that arise from being housed up, or that are brought on by colds or exposure, it is the part of prudence to take warning from the experience of others and provide ourselves with means of escape from similar troubles. So wide is the fame of Kidney-Wort, that great remedy for all kidney and liver trouble, that almost every one knows of its great virtue for such cases. It should be kept in every household ready for an emergency.

The Swedish steamer Norden has been run into and sunk off Cuxhaven, England, by the English steamer Cumberland. Twenty-one persons aboard the Norden were drowned.

A Fact.

A good reliable gentleman of Strathan, N. H., says: "After using all other preparations, I tried Wetherell's Sarsaparilla, and it has entirely cured me of a troublesome skin disease. I found that one bottle went further than three or four bottles of other kinds of medicine. It commenced at once to help." Sold by all druggists.

John P. Addams, the veteran actor, author and manager, died at the city hospital in Boston on Friday, Feb. 27th, after a long illness. He was born in Boston March 9th, 1815, and went on the stage there at an early age. He played a wide range of parts, but finding himself most successful in Yankee characters he adopted that line of business for many years. He acted in nearly all the theatres in the eastern and middle states, and in the 50s went to California, where he remained for several years. Later he visited Australia on a professional tour. Of recent years he has lived in Boston, but has not acted on account of a bronchial trouble, which affected his voice. His last appearance on the stage was at a benefit given him in the old Gaiety theatre some seven years ago.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites,

In Incipient Consumption

Seems to possess remedial powers of great efficacy. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Makes pure blood and builds up and fortifies the system against further inroads by disease.

Nettie Parker, six years of age, daughter of Benjamin Parker of Gloucester, while coasting Saturday, was run over by a sled and received serious cuts about the body. Mrs. Parker, the mother of the girl, while cleaning a lamp chimney, nearly severed two of her fingers, the chimney bursting in her hand.

NOW USE WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE POTASSIUM

It is a medicine that will build up the system, cure Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, and all humors of the body. The remarkable success of this medicine at home gives abundant proof that it is far superior to any other Remedy.

It Gives Me an Appetite.

L. L. LAMPREY, Exeter, N. H., says: "Wetherell's Sarsaparilla gives me a good appetite. I felt much improved before using half a bottle. June 17, 1881.

The Best Blood Purifier.

Myself and son have taken three bottles of Wetherell's Sarsaparilla and Iodide Potassium, and consider it one of the best blood purifiers and spring medicines I have ever used, and cheerfully recommend it to all who need such remedies. CHAS. HALEY, Exeter, N.H.

CANCER FOR MANY YEARS.

A family servant has been afflicted for many years with a cancer on her nose, and was treated by some of the best physicians, and she did remedies used without benefit. Finally we gave her Swift's specific and she has been completely cured. JOHN HILL, Druggist, Thomson, Ga., August 16, 1884.

Nose Eaten Off!

John Nayes, a young man near here, had a cancer on his face which has eaten way his nose and part of his cheek, and was rendering up to his cy s. As a last resort he was put on Swift's Specific, and it entirely cured him. His face is all healed over with new flesh, and his general health is excellent. His recovery is wonderful.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS CELEBRATED

The fittest subjects for fever and ague, and remittents, are the debilitated, bilious and nervous. To such persons, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords adequate protection by increasing vital stamina and the resistant power of the constitution, and by checking irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels. Moreover, it eradicates malarial complaints of a dyspeptic type, and stands alone unequalled among our national remedies.

Queen Victoria's determined announcement that she shall keep Beatrice with her after the marriage to the impecunious Prince Henry of Battenberg is believed to be prompted partly by her love for Beatrice and more by the belief that she can board the beggarly Battenberg cheaper than Beatrice can.

The Campbellite Church, the denomination to which Mr. Garfield belonged, has purchased 18,000 acres of land, at $1.75 per acre, and taken up 20,000 acres additional, near Redding, Shasta county, Cal., on which they intend to found a colony. Mr. Froude is going round the world, partly for the sake of his health and partly because, as he says, "I have grown tired of the chatter which my last volumes on Carlyle have brought forth, and I thought that in six months, at any rate, the world would forget the existence of so unlucky a person as the biographer of Carlyle."

Experiments have lately been made in Paris which it is to be hoped will lead to a process of heating railway carriages by electricity. A Gramme machine generates a current that produces heat in boxes similar to the present hot-water pans, but which will differ from them in uniformly accomplishing the object for which they are designed.

In the lead production of different countries Spain holds the first place, the amount reaching some 120,000 tons in one year, or one-sixth more than America, which comes next on the list, while Germany follows with 90,000. Of Spain's total production some 67,000 tons are derived from one district, that of Linares, in which more than 800 mines are registered.

There is a Baptist Church in Pittsylvania county in which is kept a cradle. During a single sermon often as many as half a dozen babies are rocked in it. A child is not half so apt to make itself disagreeable in a cradle as in it's mother's arms even, and hence, as soon as one such begins to give trouble, it is placed in the church cradle.—*Richmond (Va.) After Mr. Thomas Whittaker had been giving a temperance lecture at the Alexandra palace, London, a friend said to him: "Why, Thomas, I heard you say the same things twenty years ago. I can't think how you can go on repeating the same old stories." "Ah! Did you?" replied Mr. Whittaker. "Well, I've heard you lots of times, and for the life of me I can't remember a single thing you ever said."

The Adams family is renowned for its diary writing. John Adams began a diary Nov. 13, 1755, just after his twentieth birthday, and continued it with breaks until Nov. 21, 1777. The diary of his son, John Quincy Adams, was begun soon afterward, and ran through its course until 1848. It is said the third generation has done similar work, so that 100 years of history will be found in the family annals. —Boston Journal.

Prof. E. L. Ritchel, of Bridgeport, Conn., has invented a poisonous airbomb, which is charged with gases several times compressed and impregnated with poisonous vapors which will prove quickly fatal to any creatures breathing them. With one of them he killed twenty rats in an inclosure. The bomb exploded will charge a radius of 100 feet with silent death. An army bombarded with such bombs would have to retreat or be annihilated.

This is a Laramie, Wyo., criticism on a Western actress; "And Stringham—the sublime and beautiful Sadie—how shall we find the words to characterize her? She was a symphony in red. She had rouge enough on her face to paint the town, the general effect being hightened by a crimson dress of antique design. She repeated several times that she was ready to 'beg from door to door to save her starving child,' and that's about what she will have to do if she depends on the stage for a living."

Mr. Dolby's book on Dickens as a lecturer confirms the opinion that Dickens brought on his death by overwork and over-excitement. According to Mr. Dolby, the reading of the murder scene in "Oliver Twist" by Dickens brought up the reader's pulse from its normal 72 to 118. "On these occasions he would have to be supported to his retiring-room and laid on the sofa for fully ten minutes before he could speak a rational or consecutive sentence." Yet this reading he gave very frequently.

The diameter of trees varies not only from summer to winter, but from day to day. They are larger from noon to twilight the next morning than from twilight until noon; they are smaller in the winter than in summer. Water and the sap of trees expand not only in proportion as they rise above, but also when they go below the freezing point. Low temperature as well high promotes evaporation, and the trees evaporate from their branches in winter, and so the colder the weather the more they shrink.

When I consider, says Labouchere, how very few things there are in this world really worth knowing, and that most of these can be picked up in conversation; that reading, writing, and arithmetic are all that a man wants to start with in life, and that the largest fortunes have been reached by men setting out with no other equipment. I can't believe that it is necessary to catch a child from its mother's arms at 5 (the legal age), and keep him in school till he is 13, and thereby ruin health and destroy his happiness, at the expense of the ratepayers, in order to give him a fair chance of earning his living.

Mr. Gladstone is a prowler. He loves back streets. It is no unusual thing to see him looking in the windows of a bric-a-brac store. Summer days he often strolls from Parliament to his house in Harley street, an interested spectator of all that is going on around him. He is not well dressed. His trousers are generally baggy at the knee. His tall collars are always familiar in caricatures. He rarely buys a new hat. He has a strong, hard, bony face, a powerful forehead, a characteristic nose, a firm mouth (a little too hard in its lines). He would strike the most ordinary observer as a man of great intellectual physique.

A suit has been opened in London by Charles Finch, who claims to be the successor of Lord Aylesford, against the son of Lady Aylesford, who has for years been the mistress of the Duke of Marlborough, who is the reputed father of her child. Adulteration of Beer.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune writes that paper as follows concerning the adulteration of beer, which it is asserted has been rapidly increasing of late years:

A bill is now pending in the New York senate, having passed to a third reading, which is so important to the community at large, and especially to the friends of temperance, that I wonder it has not attracted more attention. It provides that all brewers shall, by a label on their barrels or bottles, tell what their ale or lager beer is made from. Those unacquainted with the facts do not appreciate the necessity for such legislation; if they did, no amount of money could defeat this bill, as was done last year.

Every one knows how much the comparative consumption of spirituous liquors has decreased within the past few years. This has been largely due to the introduction and general use of lager beer, which when made from pure materials is but slightly intoxicating, and to many persons is positively beneficial. The substitution of this mild beverage for fiery rum and whiskey has been welcomed with joy by most lovers of the temperance cause.

Lately, however, an adulteration has begun in beer, as in other articles of daily use, which threatens to undo all the good accomplished. In place of the harmless ingredients heretofore used in those liquors, some manufacturers, it is claimed, have substituted drugs which make their beer as poisonous as the vile compounds which it replaced. The result is that the beer drinker either poisons his stomach, or returns to whiskey, with the composition of which he has some acquaintance.

Romance in Real Life.

Mrs. Oscar Reed of Lewiston, Me., has just found her half-sister and half-brother, whom she never knew existed until recently, though she had been acquainted with them for years. Mrs. Reed's father, a sailor, died when she was an infant, and she was taken by her grandmother. The sailor's widow after a reasonable time married a man named Grover, and disappeared from the knowledge of her first husband's family. Recently Mrs. Reed learned that her mother had had two children by her second husband, and not long afterward the discovery was made that a Mr. Upton, a near neighbor of the Reeds' and who had worked beside Mr. Reed in a shop for a year, was the husband of Mrs. Reed's half-sister, and that John Grover, a youth of eighteen who had called at Mr. Reed's after milk for over a year, was Mrs. Reed's half-brother.

The schooner James A. Garfield, Captain Thomas Bolan, arrived at Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 28th, after an absence of nearly seven weeks on a fresh halibut voyage to the Grand banks. Great anxiety had been felt for her safety, and there was consequently great rejoicing on her arrival; she also brought the welcome intelligence of the probable safety of the schooner Solomon Pool, which sailed from Gloucester Jan. 1st on a similar voyage, and whose owners had lost all hope of her ever returning again to port. Captain Bolan reports that he saw the absent schooner three weeks ago, and was fishing near her on the banks, and he believes that she has been detained by being surrounded by ice, and that if it does not close in upon her and crush her she will arrive home safely before many days. If this proves correct, it will be the first instance recorded for many years of a fishing schooner coming to port safely after so long an absence, and when all interested had lost hope of her ever returning. The James A. Garfield brought 15,000 pounds of fresh halibut.

In Union county, Ky., Feb. 21st, Moses Caton, a farmer, and his sons, hanged Caton's wife because she would not deed certain property to her husband. Twenty men, led by the county magistrate, went to Caton's house to arrest the family. Arriving there they met with resistance, whereupon they fired upon them, shooting Mose Caton in the ankle and John Caton through the lungs. Caton's daughter, Annie, in attempting to shield her father, was shot in the abdomen. Finally the Catons surrendered and were taken to the Morganfield jail. John and Annie are both badly wounded. An attempt was made to take them away from the squire and posse and lynch them while on their way to Morganfield, which was unsuccessful, but it was the talk of Union county that the villains must swing.

The Portland Advertiser remarks: "Chicago people are rejoiced over the conviction of the McDonald gang concerned in the Leman-Brand ballot-box fraud in the last election. It is indeed a matter for rejoicing, for the millionaire gambler and his tools had intrenched themselves so firmly and obtained such control of the city politics that there seemed to be no hope of dislodging them. The ring had become nearly as powerful and fully as corrupt as the Tweed ring in New York. But McDonald's lieutenants went too far when they began to stuff the ballots, and tried to count in a democrat when a republican had been elected. The fraud was clumsy and easily detected, and the offence being within the jurisdiction of the United States courts McDonald's money could not save Mackin, Gallagher and Gleason from indictment, trial and conviction. Though action has been taken for a new trial, and the scamps are out on the gambler's bail, they have small chance of escape. It is to be hoped that a new day is beginning for misgoverned Chicago."

At Ashland, Mass., on the night of Feb. 28th, Charles Foster was found dead in his bed with a bullet hole in his breast. He had a revolver in his hand, one chamber of which was empty. About twenty years ago he was confined in the Worcester asylum and at the town farm as dangerously insane, but was discharged fifteen years since as harmless. He lived a hermit life since then, and had accumulated some property.

Nathaniel William and Miss Cheever of Pine Bridge, N. Y., were returning from church Sunday when their horse ran away and both were thrown out. William's skull was fractured, and he died in the evening. Miss Cheever had one of her legs broken, and it is feared received fatal internal injuries.

The village of Ephrata, Pa., is excited over the sudden disappearance of George W. Grant, aged thirty-five, a married man, and Miss Sallie Spotts, a comely young woman, twenty-three years old. Miss Spotts had two large Saratoga trunks and was prepared for a long journey. Grant leaves a wife and three children. Miss Spotts was a nurse in the Grant family. It is alleged that Grant took about $2000 in cash with him, and a number of creditors are interested in his whereabouts.

George Canning Longley, whose death at Prescott, Ont., is announced, had taken, it is said, more degrees in Masonry, and was an honorary member in more grand bodies than any other one man in the world. At the time of his death he was grand master general of the royal and oriental rites of Freemasonry, as well as grand commander of the ancient and accepted Scottish rite.

A New Haven, Conn., paper says that a widow and former resident of New Haven, who recently died out west, found herself at one period of her life suffering actual poverty, on the day that R. B. Hayes, whom she had jilted, was inaugurated president.

Jim Griffin, Al McGuire and another man attempted to rob the state treasurer's office in Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 28th, in the middle of the afternoon. The attempt was expected, and two detectives in waiting caught the two men named, after filling one of them moderately full of buckshot. The third man escaped.

Rear Adm. George H. Preble, retired, died very suddenly at Longwood, Mass., March 1st, aged sixty-nine years.

people, who are prominent and influential, send us their testimonials, certifying what a vast amount of good Sulphur Bitters has done them.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe

A running sore for 14 years cured. HENRY H. GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything a man could, therefore discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had almost lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

have saved my life. There is nothing like them. I cordially entreat all afflicted with impure blood to try them and be cured.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores.

They Will Cure You.

The well known Manager of the Raymond Excursions to California, I. A. WHITCOMB, says: No other medicine can equal Sulphur Bitters for biliousness and dyspepsia. They have cured me when all other remedies failed.

THE LUCIER COMEDY CO.

The Lucier Comedy Co. had a good audience at Music hall on their opening, last evening, caused much mirth, and received hearty applause. Their entertainment is full of music and comedy, and "takes" immensely with all who attend. The admission is cheap, but the show is not, by any means. Go and see it.

The regular monthly meeting of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for March, was held Monday afternoon at the office of the society. Mr. Marvin presided. The state agent made a report of the cases of cruelty attended to by him and the local agents for the quarter ending March 2d. [While the meeting was in session a telegram was read requesting the presence of the state agent at Rochester immediately, to arrest a man for beating a horse to death. A few moments later a similar complaint and request were received from Pittsfield.]

The president stated that the work of the society is increasing rapidly; demands for the services of the agent are received from distant parts of the state faster than any man could possibly attend to them, and the expenses of carrying on the work grow faster than the means for doing it are received. Contributions to help carry on the reform are needed, and will be gratefully received and acknowledged.

The agent's report was as follows:

Horses lame, relieved from work,	14
" " medical attendance procured,	15

STEADY, BOYS.

Washington despatches informs us that Frank Jones, A. W. Sulloway and Chairman Stone are at Washington, ostensibly to witness the inauguration ceremonies, and incidentally, to put on file their wishes as to the patronage in New Hampshire at the hands of the new administration. It is predicted that the naval office at Boston is to be given either to Col. John H. George or Henry O. Kent, with chances, according to a republican correspondent, in favor of the latter. The collectorship of internal revenue is to be taken by Mayor Page as soon as he straightens out the financial affairs of the city. Mr. Jones will file at once the papers recommending E. S. Fay for postmaster, and a suitable nominee for collector of the port. The selections rather tend to dissipate the hopes of the ancient moss-back element of the party. It is a fresh horse which is being groomed, now. No old party hacks need apply; as the more vigorous element, even if recently gathered to the fold, is now to be favored, to the exclusion of that time-honored class of expectants who so long have borne the brunt of the battle, who have learned to labor and especially to wait, alas! only to chew the bitter cud of disappointment. Truly there be manifested at times, selfishness in politics. For what then have these men of the old school so long trained in the ranks of the democracy with hope deferred, if not to be rewarded, now the democracy have come to their estate? And now to be excluded for the parvenus! It is too bad. There is a ripple of displeasure which fills the air from Christian Shore to Newcastle bridge. It will be heard in its discordant strains for a while, but soon all will be peaceful acquiescence to the will of the powers that be. Selah.

The lecture to be given on Pompeii at the chapel of the South Parish on Court street, this evening, will afford a rare opportunity to listen to an attractive speaker and an intelligent visitor to this ancient wonder. The illustrations, with their descriptions, carry one to the long-buried Italian city concerning the history of whose long sleep there is so much interest. A more profitable or pleasant way of spending an evening hour than devoting it to this subject cannot be devised. The lecture begins at eight o'clock, with an admission fee of thirty-five cents.

The "ring tournament" at the Portsmouth rink to-morrow evening is an entirely new feature in roller skating. The contestants, armed with suitable sticks, will skate around the rink in a designated track, and as they go will endeavor to carry off with their sticks a ring suspended by a slender string. Two rings will be offered for capture, and may be seen at Hutchinson's to-day.

There were twenty-four arrivals of fishing vessels on Sunday, with good fares. Early Monday afternoon there came in the schooner Gertie Freeman, with 9000 lbs., and the Comet, with 11,450 lbs. of fish; these two vessels hail from Newburyport. The price of fish at last accounts was two dollars per hundred pounds.

Mr. Frank Norton, while assisting in tearing down the old house at the corner of Washington and Court streets, fell from the second story on Saturday afternoon to the ground, a distance of about ten feet. He was taken up insensible and conveyed to his home, where he soon revived. He escaped serious injury.

A very handsome floral design representing the "Gates Ajar," was contributed by the members of the late Currier Guards as a memorial to their former comrade and captain, Edward F. Swasey, whose funeral took place Monday afternoon.

The steamer Williamsport, Miller master, arrived at this port on Monday from Philadelphia with 1618 tons coal to J. Albert Walker.

Mr. O. L. Frisbee, manager of the Oceanic at Star island, informs the Journal that at the Shoals on Feb. 16th the sea and tide were higher than at any time since 1851. At Star is and the wharf was overflowed, a portion of the sea wall near the Oceanic destroyed, and other damage done; a rock weighing thirty tons was moved on the breakwater. At White island the walk was washed away, and the boat-house door stove in. At Londoner island Elvin Newton's wharf was broken down. At Smuttynose island the wharf was overflowed, and the water came up to Mr. Brewster's door, doing slight damage on that island. At Appledore Messrs. Ingerbredson's whaleboat was sunk, with a ton of coal on board; the bath-houses were carried away, and the water nearly united between "Broad" and "Bab's" coves, making two islands of Appledore. On Cedar island a building was blown down.

The schooner J. H. Eells, Greenlaw master, from Port Johnson with 252 tons coal to E. F. Sise & Co., arrived at this port on Monday.

It is announced that A. F. Howard, Esq., will resign the position of collector of customs on April 1st. There are twenty-seven days intervening between that date and the 4th of March, and a great many things can happen in twenty-seven days.

Arrived at New York on Sunday, March 1st, the ship Grandee, of this port, Evans master, 107 days from Hong Kong, China, and ninety days from Anjier, Java, thus adding a score to her reputation for making good time, she having previously made one passage from New York to Callao, Peru., in eighty-six days, and another the following season in sixty-nine days, when under command of Capt. B. F. Jacobs of this city. Capt. Evans reports that on January 7th, in latitude thirty-three south, longitude sixteen east, he spoke the ship Baun, from Calcutta for Demarara with 600 coolies; the Baun reported having a contagious disease on board, and had lost eighteen coolies up to that time. Capt. Evans sailed as mate with Capt. Jacobs from the time the Grandee was launched until Capt. Jacobs was forced by an affection of the eyes to give up the command, when on his recommendation Mr. Evans was promoted to master. The passages the Grandee has made under Capt. Evans' command shows the selection to have been a good one.

The well or excavation in the solid granite ledge announced as having been recently disloverad at the Isles of Shoals, it is now said was known to the old fishermen there, years ago. They called it "the Devil's Hole," and in rains it was filled with water which was sometimes used for drinking purposes, and sometimes for washing fish. There is debate among them as to whether it might have been artificial, or whether its formation was natural. Some people go so far as to say that it was made by the Northmen, who sailed along the coast a long time before Christopher Columbus discovered America in 1492.

Postmaster Peirce, Walter H. Page of the Times, George E. French, Michael Crowley and others, started from this city Monday morning for Washington, to see the inauguration. E. C. Neulley of Kittery also passed through the city on the same errand. A number of ladies have also gone on, among them being Mrs. James F. Jenness and Mrs. Joseph Parry, who started last week, as also did Hon. Frank Jones. Ichabod Cole, Esq., of Eliot, is another who will aid in giving eclat to the inauguration.

Hon. Moses H. Goodrich has recently received several large loads of bark at his tannery on Christian Shore, and is grinding it when the tide serves. This is the first lot of bark he has received for a long time, the water in the pond having been kept too low to permit the utilizing of his bark mill.

The Brest (France) and St. Pierre (Miquelon) section of the "Compagnie Francaise du Telegraphe du Paris a New York" cable, which was broken on January 19th, was repaired Feb. 28th, thus restoring continuous communication by this route between this country and France. The repair, which was made by the cable steamer Minia, Capt. Trout, has been a very quick one, as apart from the bad weather and ice floes encountered there are no less than half a dozen other cables running through Ravenal bay, where the break occurred.

Ice cutting in Strafford county is finished. There is said to have been a large yield, and of fine quality.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
MRS. S. S. MOODY,
No. 75 Broadway.

Quaker Testimony.

Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has done a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city while bathing some years ago was thrown violently against the life line and the injuries received resulted in an ovarian tumor which grew and enlarged until death seemed certain. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great value in preventing miscarriage and alleviating the pains and dangers of childbirth. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

One Feels the Luxury of Benevolence.

Many thousands of the visitors to the great Industrial Expo Hion at New Orleans view the Children's Charity Hospital there with delight, and that they too have a heritage and share in the benevolently by which it is maintained, as The Louisiana State Lottery contributed in one donation of one million dollars, payable in installments for its maintenance, about which M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give any information.

The best etiquette for a man is not to boast of his virtues. It is also exceedingly ineleganit to annoy society with his coughs and colds, when he can find relief in a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

—Does President Cleveland eat with his knife? This, next to the formation of his cabinet, is the all-absorbing question of the hour. One newspaper has, at great trouble and expense, investigated the matter, and can state positively that Cleveland does not eat with his knife. He eats with his jaws.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melins Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Dizzin ss, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for those ers of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELINS.
69 Harrison Street.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb 22d, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Bilious Sick Headaches. It ought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of a nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DERREVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined India spices or medicines to one state or locality, but is shipped as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for most the time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.
as an anti-malaria medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S
FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

"Adam the goodliest man of men since born," still could not be called exactly enviable, for when he tilled the ground in the dewy twilight and caught a sharp touch of rheumatism, he had no Salvation Oil for his cure, and no twenty-five cents to try it.

—"Who is that across the street?" "Oh, that is a very close friend of mine." "Indeed!" "Yes. Never lends a cent."

"100 Doses One Dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

—A city photographer went into the suburbs for the purpose of taking a bull from life. For a two-mile run the chances seemed good for the bull taking the artist from life.

Take Warning.

At this season of the year when so many people become subject to attacks of biliousness, kidney troubles, constipation and all the list of troubles that arise from being housed up, or that are brought on by colds or exposure, it is the part of prudence to take warning from the experience of others and provide ourselves with means of escape from similar troubles. So wide is the fame of Kidney-Wort, that great remedy for all kidney and liver trouble, that almost every one knows of its great virtue for such cases. It should be kept in every household ready for an emergency.

The Sherwood sisters, Daisy and Gertie, of the "Cinderella" burlesque opera troupe, which opened at the American theatre in Hartford last week, have received intelligence of a windfall of $25,000 each from a relative who lately died in Germany. The Sherwoods are the daughters of a Boston physician, and are very pretty girls of eighteen and sixteen years, respectively.

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in; whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by taking Parker's Tonic when you feel "a little out of sorts." It would be money in your pocket. One hour of good, rejoicing health is worth half a dozen hours full of languor and pain.

—A capital idea of some of the New York papers is to publish the portrait of a "missing man," because if the man should happen to see it he would undoubtedly return to kill the publisher, and thus get found.

A Fact.

A good reliable gentleman of Stratham, N. H., says: "After using all other preparations, I tried Wetherell's Sarsaparilla, and it has entirely cured me of a troublesome skin disease. I found that one bottle went further than three or four bottles of other kinds of medicine. It commenced at once to help." Sold by all druggists.

—Another famous legend has struck a snag. It is now asserted that when Rome was burned fiddles had not been invented, and consequently Nero could not have indulged in the musical pastime attributed to him. Alas! with the disappearance of the Captain Smith-Pocahontas, the Tell-Apple and other allegories, what will the school children of the future do for pretty fables?

NEW YORK 134 YEARS AGO.

The City Slave Trade—Queer Advertisements—An Old-Time Theater Notice.

In the year 1751 New York was a queer little place, with a slave market at the foot of Wall street, and public notices of runaway slaves, or of the public sale of men and women, were posted in the streets. Here are some notices from the New York Gazette of 1851:

Run away on Sunday night, the 3d instant, from Judah Hays, a Negro Wench, named Sarah, aged about 30 years; she is a likely wench, of a mullatto complexion; was brought up at Amboy, in Col. Hamilton's family; and has had several masters in the Jerseys. She dresses very well, and has a good parcel of cloaths, and speaks good English. Whoever takes up the said Wench and brings her to her said Master, or secures her in any County Gaol, so that he may have her again, shall receive 40 shillings reward and all reasonable charges.

The Public Whipper of the city of New York being dead, if any person inclines to accept that office, with £20 a year, he may apply to the Mayor and be entered.

A very valuable negro fellow, getting too much liquor, got into a canoe in the harbor, and, after paddling about a little, tumbled over and was drowned.

This is to give notice that Elizabeth Boyd is going to remove next door to the Widow Hog's, in Broad street, near the Long Bridge, and will continue as usual to graft pieces to knit jackets and breeches, not to be discerned; also, to foot and graft stockings and gentlemen's gloves, mittens, or muffatees made out of old stockings, or runs them in the heels. She likewise makes children's stockings out of the old ones.

Among the articles advertised to be sold by Ebenezer Grant, in Hanover square, are: "Jamaica rum, by the five gallons, Common Prayer Books, Wesley's Preparation for the Sacrament." Here is an editor's appeal:

Kind readers, you have now had gratis three supplements running; O that it would excite such of you who are upward of two, three, four, and five years in arrears to remember the printer.

An Irish servant maid, who has two years of her time, to be sold. Inquire of the printer hereof.

The Albany Post sets out on Saturday next; letters may be left at Mr. McEvers, near the city hall, or at the North River, at the house of the said Post.

Last Monday night several of the glass lamps put up about the city were taken down by persons unknown, and left whole in the meat market. It is thought to be done by some daring rakes in order to convince the owners how easy those lamps might be demolished without discovery.

All our common water carriage being so long stopped has occasioned a vast rise in the price of firing in this city, to the great distress of the poor as well as others.

A likely negro wench and sucking child to be sold. The wench about 19 years of age; can do all sorts of housework, and very handy.

An Irish servant man, aged about 28 years, to be disposed of for four years' servitude; he will answer either country work or gardening.

The Posts for Boston and Philadelphia will set out on Monday, the 30 inst., at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, precisely, to perform their stages weekly during the summer season.

In an obituary of 1752 of Isabella Morris, "Widow and Relict of His Excellency Lewis Morris, Esq., late Governor of the Province of New Jersey," she is described as "Liberal without prodigality, frugal without parsimony, cheerful without levity, exalted without pride, in person amiable, in conversation affable, in friendship faithful, of envy void."

In an advertisement of a race to be run at Hempstead Plains in 1752, there is a notice appended: "If any Foul play, the judges of the race may give the money to any horse they please, as is expressed in the written articles."

A city paragraph runs as follows:

"We are desired by several gentlemen, well-wishers of the city, to entreat the respective inhabitants to use their utmost endeavors, during the warm weather to keep the streets sweet and clean, as it is everbody's concern, being the most effectual means, under God, for our preservation from sickness."

It appears that the theater-goers of 1751 had some of the same causes of complaint that exist now, as may be seen by the following:

"Whereas, Several reports have been unkindly spread that Mr. Kean, for his benefit night on Monday last, had caused a greater number of tickets to be printed than the house would hold, this is to certify that, according to the best of my knowledge, there were but 161 pit tickets, 10 boxes, and 121 gallery tickets printed in all, and it is well known that a larger number have been in the house at one time.

JAMES PARKER.

N. B.—Tho' it was then determined not to receive any money at the Door, it was afterward found to be a measure impracticable to be followed without Great Offence, and such whose Business who could not permit them to come in time have since had their money returned. THOMAS KEAN.

Whereas, it has been reported that Mrs. Taylor, in playing her part in my Benefit, endeavored to perform it in a worse manner than she was capable, and that it was done on account of a falling out between us; This is to certify that there was no such difference between her and me, and I believe her being so much out in her part was owing to her not getting the Part in time. THOMAS KEAN.

A Very Conscientious Reporter.

It is a breach of confidence for a member or an officer of the Senate to disclose the transactions of a secret session, until the removal of the injunction of secrecy by a formal resolution of that body. Still, newspaper correspondents generally manage to find them out, in some way. So well known was their accomplishment in this direction, that senators would oftentimes go to the reporters for information as to what had been done in secret session, instead of the reporters to the senators! Once, a senator, going to the Senate rather late in the afternoon, met a correspondent coming from the Capitol. The lawmaker asked what was being done in the Senate. "Oh, nothing important," was the answer. "They have just gone out of executive session and are now discussing the subject they had up yesterday. The senator was evidently interested in some nomination or other business, and so he persisted and asked the correspondent what action had been taken in executive session. The newspaper man coolly eyed the senator for a few moments, and then cautiously remarked: "Well, you Congressmen are getting to be such free talkers. I think I'd better not tell you!"—Edmund Alton, in St. Nicholas for February.

In an official account of the laying out of new streets for the city in 1807, signed by Gouverneur Morris, Simeon DeWitt, and John Rutherford, commissioners, the following paragraph occurs:

To some it may seem a matter of surprise that the whole island has not been laid out as a city. To others it may be a subject of merriment that the Commissioners have provided space for a greater population than is collected at any spot on this side of China. They have in this respect been governed by the shape of the ground. It is not improbable that considerable numbers may be collected at Harlem before the high hills to the northward of it shall be built upon as a city, and it is improbable that (for centuries to come) the grounds north of Harlem Flats will be covered with houses. To have come short of the extent laid out might therefore have defeated just expectations, and to have gone further might have furnished materials to the pernicious spirit of speculation.—New York Sun.

Cleveland's Cabinet.

President-elect Cleveland arrived in Washington on Tuesday, and went to the Arlington house.

It was "semi-officially announced" in Washington on Tuesday that Mr. Cleveland had finally decided upon his cabinet as follows:

Bayard, secretary of state;
Manning, secretary of the treasury;
Endicott, secretary of war;
Whitney, secretary of the navy;
Lamar, secretary of the interior;
Vilas, postmaster general;
Garland, attorney general.

The Silver Men Talk Back.

However pleasant may be the sunrise of the new administration, there appears at early dawn, a cloud in the otherwise serene political skies of its new dispensation. The silver men resent Mr. Cleveland's suggestions, and say in a long letter, which some silver magnate whom silver mines have in some way infatuated may have drafted, that they believe in the independence of the legislative branch of the government, and assert that they will at all times, by the Eternal, maintain it! or words to that effect.

Now these men are just too foolish for anything in their self-donation. Does not Mr. Cleveland also hold that his office is executive, and when such of these silver men who are selected to Congress, come to the White House to see about the post-offices in their districts, what will Grover say? Will he incline to heed their requests, or will he regard the presidential position as "purely executive." He will have them there. In the meantime, fortunately for Messrs. Jones, Sulloway and Stone, there are no congressmen from New Hampshire on the democratic side of the house. If there were, it is quite apparent where they would be found in this controversy.

To California and the Pacific Northwest.

Messrs. Raymond and Whitcomb have planned a magnificent tour to the Pacific Northwest, in addition to the three grand excursions to California already announced. The party will leave Boston April 30th, and as far as San Francisco and Monterey, Cal., will follow precisely the same route as the other transcontinental excursions. The divergence will be made at San Francisco, and Oregon, Washington Territory, the Puget sound country, British Columbia, and Idaho will be visited, the party returning through Utah, the same as the others. The scenery upon the Columbia river, around Puget sound and throughout that region, is magnificent, and the opportunity to group in one grand round of pleasure travel the wonders of the Rocky mountains, southern California, the Yosemite valley, the Pacific northwest with its grand mountain scenery, the great plains, Great Salt lake and Niagara Falls, —with Alaska and the Yellowstone National Park also, if desired,—is certainly very attractive. The tour last year proved very successful. A circular containing full details will be sent by W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston.

A Missouri Hero.

A St. Louis, Mo., despatch says there is considerable talk about the Frank James case, owing to the fact that the Minnesota officials are after the notorious bandit for the murder of Cashier Haywood at Northfield, Minn. Frank James was with the band of robbers who entered Northfield and met with such a warm reception there, and it is claimed that he is the man who ordered Haywood to open the bank safe, and who ran a knife across his throat to enforce his demand. To the dead scoundrel Jesse James is, however, given the full credit of Haywood's death, he firing the shot which killed him. All the cases against Frank James in Missouri have been disposed of, and now the authorities of Minnesota are after him. He is now at Butler, Mo., and a petition is being circulated in that vicinity praying the governor of Missouri not to honor any requisition for the illustrious bandit. It is stated that Gen. Joe Selby is the prime mover in his behalf in that county, as he sent a man to work up the scheme, and, as a result, the petition was placed in the hands of an ex-county official for circulation. It is further stated that should it appear that this fails to accomplish the desired end, another case will be made out against "Col." James in Missouri, and, by continuing the case from term to term, thus keep him in the hands of the law in Missouri for an indefinite period, thereby rendering it impossible for him to be taken to another state to answer for his misdeeds and to receive at least a portion of the just punishment due his infamous crimes.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, Me., March 2d.

Mr. Edward L. Moulton, who is an honest citizen and termed "one of the Lord's poor," having been unable to work for several months past, was called upon on Wednesday evening last by a party who pleasantly surprised the family and left a bountiful supply of the necessaries of life. The hearts of Mr. Moulton and his worthy wife were thus gladdened, and the donors are none the poorer. "The poor ye have always with you," and "It is more blessed to give than to receive," are the mottoes the party took with themselves and their gifts. The statement about the return of bread cast upon the waters was verified. The writer hereof contributed his mite, and behold! the next morning was the recipient of two complimentary tickets to the Grammar School Exhibition at the village. Sudden retribution! The S. S. S. hall was packed to its utmost capacity, and the exhibition was a decided success. The weight of years and bodily infirmities prevented our attendance, and we therefore deputed the boy and girl to use the tickets. Our kindest thanks are extended to the giver of the tickets, and as it was unprecedented in this place, you may rest assured that we were surprised.

A horse trot took place on Thursday last on Chase's pond, between a horse driven by a Mr. Parker of North Berwick, and one owned and driven by C. L. Grant of York. Grant beat in five straight heats. Considerable excitement prevailed. Some fine stepping was shown by both horses.

Messengers have arrived at Korti from Omdurman, who report that the followers of the Mahdi were much dissappointed at the small amount of plunder which they found at Khartoum. The privations of the rebels have been increased by the addition to their numbers of the garrison at Khartoum, whom they are now compelled to support. The rebels do not appear at all willing to encounter the English troops, and the Mahdi is in constant fear of treachery on the part of his chiefs, among whom great dissension exists.

A dispatch of Sunday, March 1st, from Concord, says: "Adventists here who believe in the immediate second appearance of the Lord have begun to hold daily meetings and to prepare for it. Elder Levi Locke in an address to-day said "that prophetic Scripture as well as temporal events point with great certainty to the 19th of May next as the day of the Lord's coming.'"

Jesse A. Whitehouse died at Dover on the 1st inst., aged seventy-four years. He was the oldest militiaman in New England, having joined the New Hampshire militia nearly sixty years ago. He was color-bearer of Company A (Strafford Guards,) and went to Yorktown, Va., with the company on the occasion of the centennial celebration, three years since. He never was sick until his fatal illness.

people, who are prominent and influential, send us their testimonials, certifying what a vast amount of good Sulphur Bitters has done them.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe

A running sore for 14 years cured. HENRY H. GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything a man could, the sore discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had about lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do, have saved my life. There is nothing like them. I earnestly entreat all afflicted with impure blood to try them and be cured.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores.

They Will Cure You.

The well known Manager of the Raymond Excursions to California, I. A. WHITCOMB, says: No other medicine can equal Sulphur Bitters for biliousness and dyspepsia. They have cured me when all other remedies failed.

RING TOURNAMENT.

At the Portsmouth rink, this evening, the original feature of a "ring tournament" will be introduced, and the efforts of the swiftly-moving skaters to carry off the suspended ring on the point of a stick will no doubt create plenty of fun. It will be the first entertainment of the kind, and two nice rings will be the prizes for the successful lancers.

THE LUCIER COMEDY CO.

A crowded house greeted the Lucier Musical Comedy Co. last evening. This entertainment is a first-class one of the kind, in every respect; every performer is an artiste of merit. The musical part of the programme, by the Lucier Family, is worth five times the price of admission. Mr. J. D. Lucier, the blind cornetist, ranks high in his profession.

The company on Tuesday evening gave continuous satisfaction from the time the curtain rose until the close of the entertainment. They afford lots of fun, and it only costs ten cents to enjoy it, with the best seats in the house at twenty cents including admission.

The performances Wednesday and Saturday afternoons are especially for ladies and children, children being admitted to the reserved seats for ten cents.

THE INAUGURATION BALL

Takes place in Franklin hall this evening. The hall will be very handsomely decorated, the music will be good, and there will no doubt be a very joyous occasion.

The committee of arrangements have voted to sell gallery tickets, limited in number to the seating capacity of the gallery, at fifty cents each; on sale today at and after noon, at M. Goodrich's.

Any surplus funds after paying expenses, will be donated to the Children's Home.

PORTSMOUTH MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

At the seventh annual meeting of the Portsmouth Medical Association, held on Feb. 27th, the following officers were elected:

President, Dr. Andrew B. Sherburne;
Secretary, Dr. John W. Parsons;
Treasurer, Dr. N. L. Folsom;
Business Committee, Drs. Hall, Parsons and Jones.

At the same meeting the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the members of the Portsmouth Medical Association a Cottage Hospital, with a few beds, conducted on an economical plan, is a desirable and much-needed institution in this city.

Resolved, That it is with gratification we learn that much substantial work has already been done towards securing for this community such a hospital, and that we trust the public will so aid the directors that its doors may be open for the reception of patients at no distant day.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., March 3d.

A sociable was held in Trefethen hall last Thursday evening, by several ladies of the village, and was successful in every particular. There were quite a number of persons from Portsmouth present. Medcalf's orchestra furnished music.

Rev. Alexander Hamilton, of the 1st Methodist church, was the recipient of a pound party at the hands of his parishioners, on Wednesday evening, the 25th ult.

A union meeting of the Good Templars in Kittery and York will be held with Morrill Lodge of North Kittery on Friday evening, the 5th inst. Samuel C. Hamilton of Saco, the newly-elected District Templar, is expected to be present.

We are informed that since the singing class at the 2nd Methodist church last week two young men who follow the occupation of painting have continued to practice the art of music daily, so pleased are they with their new-found talent, and passers-by are wont to listen as their melodious voices are heard sounding the gamut.

Mr. Samuel Swain has bought a farm in Candia, N. H., and his grandson Frank Swain will move to it next spring.

Whipple Lodge of Good Templars, at the village, will celebrate its 19th anniversary soon.

The annual town meeting of Kittery will be held Monday, the 30th inst.

SUB ROSA.

EDWARD W. TUCKER.

Mr. Edward W. Tucker died at his residence on Rye road in this city on Sunday evening, March 1st, in the 67th year of his age. The house in which he died has been held in the name of Tucker for over 175 years, descending by inheritance from father to son; but it will now pass out of the family name, Mr. Tucker leaving no children. The deceased seemed much older than he really was, having been quite feeble for years past. About three weeks before his death he was found by a gentleman who was driving through Rye road, hanging by his arms to a well-curb and unable to climb over it, he having got down in the well to chop a hole through the ice which had formed there; and last week, as Mr. Wm. E. Rand, a farmer living on Rye road, was passing the Tucker place, his dog, which after the manner of his species had been investigating matters on both sides of the road as his master drove along, commenced to act so strangely that Mr. Rand was induced to follow him, and found Mr. Tucker lying senseless in his barnyard, where he must have soon perished from cold had help not arrived when it did. The exposure in his feeble condition probably caused his death, which resulted from pneumonia. Mr. Tucker was a quiet, unobtrusive, honest, industrious farmer, not inclined to make new acquaintances, yet courteous to strangers with whom he was brought in contact, and pleasant and agreeable to persons whom he knew well.

There is to be a basket supper at the Methodist chapel this evening.

A flagstaff was put up on the southerly end of the Portsmouth Brewing Co.'s brewery on the 3d inst., extending twenty-six feet above the ridge, and having a barrel for a truck. The stars and stripes will be displayed from the staff to-day.

Rev. Alfred Gooding's lecture on Pompeii, at the Unitarian chapel Tuesday evening, was closely followed by a highly cultivated audience throughout the hour and a half of its delivery, the chapel being filled to its utmost capacity.

The ice on the north pond is rapidly breaking up, and the pond will soon be entirely clear.

A branch of the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R., was organized at Lancaster on Friday evening by Mrs. A. P. Kent of this city and Mrs. C. L. Hayes of Kittery.

Mr. Oscar Laighton, while on his way to church last Sunday morning, in passing through Ceres street was struck by an avalanche of snow and ice from the roof of the lofty buildings on Market street which back on Ceres street, and was knocked senseless, receiving some bad bruises and cuts about the head, neck and hands. Mr. Laighton, though pretty sore, was able to take the afternoon train for Boston.

On Tuesday afternoon at ebb tide the fishing vessels were all out.

A San Francisco correspondent says: "The will of Mrs. Shillaber, sister-in-law of the author of 'Mrs. Partington,' shows an estate valued at $500,000, mostly in local real estate and securities. Mrs. Shillaber was well known in society here, but spent most of her later years abroad."

By a letter dated on board the U. S. S. Hartford, at Valparaiso, Chili, Jan. 14th, from Mr. Thomas J. Brooks of this city, ship's printer, intelligence is received of the death of Mr. Thomas F. Tate of this city, a member of the ship's company, who died very suddenly the previous day of hemorrhage of the lungs. The body was taken ashore on the afternoon of Jan. 14th and placed in the Catholic cathedral, and on the morning of the 15th the ship's company were to attend high mass in the cathedral at seven o'clock, after which, by permission of the Chilian authorities, the remains were to be interred in the Catholic cemetery. Measures had already been taken for the erection of a suitable monument to mark his grave, at the expense of the officers and seamen of the ship.

A great many eels of large size have of late been speared in the creeks of the Hampton marshes, where they bed in the winter months. This fish, which is much esteemed by bon-vivants, from prejudice is not much sought for here, where so many other varieties of fish are brought in. Mr. Ephraim L. Cook, formerly of York, Me., but now of Hampton, has dealt in them considerably, but has been obliged to take them to Newburyport lately, not finding a satisfactory market in this city.

The city clerk of Dover only issued three marriage licenses during the month of February. Of the contracting parties two were born in Ireland, two in Maine, one in New Hampshire and one in New Brunswick. The oldest bridegroom was forty-five years old, and the youngest twenty-five; the oldest bride registered as thirty years old, and the youngest twenty-one. In Portsmouth eight marriage licenses were issued during February; three of the couples belonged in this city, and three couples in Maine; of the other two couples, one each of the parties belonged here, a Portsmouth man marrying a Kittery girl, and an Illinois groom taking a Portsmouth bride.

"The Century" for March is an excellent number. Among the papers are the interesting "First Fight of Iron-clads" and "In the Monitor Turret;" this last is by the late Commander S. Dana Greene. The recollections of Charles O'Conor, and the reminiscences of Daniel Webster, are readable and enjoyable. The "Land of the False Prophet" is of especial interest, with its accurate map; and a beautiful poem, "A Vigil," by Edmund Clarence Stedman, is also found in this number. The likeness of Capt. Van Brunt on page 751 will be recognized by many of our residents who knew the gallant naval hero when he was attached to our naval station over thirty years ago.

Vegetine is the great health restorer—composed exclusively of barks, roots and herbs. Pleasant to take; children like it.

Numerous loads of hay were brought to the Parade last week for sale. The latter part of the week the hay sold at $15 a ton; it comprised all grades, from very fine to decidedly coarse. There were also brought in many loads of wood, which seemed to be readily disposed of. The teams were mostly from York county, with horses as the motive power.

For costiveness, biliousness, headache and all feverish habits use Dr. Seth Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

The national senate has passed the house bill granting a pension of $50 per month to Mrs. Greene, widow of Commander S. Dana Greene, who died at the Portsmouth navy yard last December.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
MRS. S. S. MOODY,
No. 75 Broadway.

"What thing so good?" is the query of a poet somewhat confused; if he has a cold, the only good thing we know of is a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

A fire-damp explosion occurred in the Usworth colliery at Sunderland, Eng., March 3d; 150 men were in the mine, and thirty-six dead bodies were taken out in a short time. How many of the miners escaped is not stated.

"Rough on Coughs."

Ask for "Rough on Coughs," for colds, coughs, sore throat, hoarseness. Troches. 15c. Liquid, 25c.

In the municipal election at Saco, March 2d, Hon. Roscoe L. Bowers, republican, was elected by a majority of ninety-nine; the republicans also carried five of the seven wards of the city.

Thin People.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures dyspepsia, impotence, sexual debility. $1.

"They say" that Hon. E. C. Moody of York, whose ancestral property extends several miles through that ancient town, is expected to be appointed to a prominent position at Washington under the new administration. Ed., after having long enjoyed an easy position on the navy yard, became a greenbacker, and was a member of the democratic-greenback council of Gov. Garcelon of Maine; of course he could not be on the navy yard after that, and his horny hands demonstrate that he has since been a hard-working farmer.

"Rough on Pain."

Cures colic, cramps, diarrhœa; externally for aches, pains, sprains, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism. For man or beast. 20 and 50c.

Mr. H. L. deRochement of Manchester, N. H., real estate agent, recently sold the Ossipee Pond hotel at Waterborough Centre, York county, owned by W. G. Brown, to Mr. B. H. Hoyt of Boston, who will improve it extensively, and make it a summer resort. The deeds were passed Feb. 24th. The region of the hotel is a beautiful spot, the lake known as Ossipee pond being five miles long, and furnishing excellent fishing, boating, etc.

Mothers.

If you are failing; broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

The Beneficial Circle, with members of the Commandery, U. O. G. C., of Eliot, and invited guests, spent a very pleasant evening, Feb. 27th, with George A. Hammond, Esq., and family, at their residence, being well entertained with music, vocal and instrumental, followed by a generous and choice collation, and pleasant social intercourse. At a late hour in the evening a vote of thanks was passed to the host of the evening and his family, for their courteous and liberal hospitality, and then, after all joining in singing the doxology, the party separated with feelings of thankfulness for the pleasant associations of their much-loved order.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

—An old darkey in Kentucky signs himself Col. Henry Clay Jones. When asked why he should prefix that title to his name, as had no right to it, he replied: "Yes, I has, sah." "But you are not a colonel." "Dat do'n mean colonel, boss! dat colored."

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching; very distressing, particularly at night; seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about parts affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also, for Tetter, Itch, Salt-rheum, Scald-Head, Erysipelas, Barber's itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases. Box, by mail, 50 Cts.; 3 for $1.25. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila., Pa. Sold by druggists.

Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Consumption.

All Throat, Breast, and Lung Affections cured by the old-established "SWAYNE'S WILD-CHERRY." The first dose gives relief, and a cure speedily follows. 25 cts. or $1.00 at Druggists.

Rupture Cured

Permanently or no pay. Our new and sure method of treating rupture, without the knife, enables us to guarantee a cure. Trusses can be thrown away at last. Send two letter stamps for references, pamphlet and terms. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

In the municipal election at Portland, Me., on the 2d inst., there was no choice for mayor. John W. Deering, democrat, had 2960 votes; John H. Fogg, republican, 2610; A. F. Cox, prohibitionist, 413; scattering, one.

Quaker Testimony.

Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has done a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city while bathing some years ago was thrown violently against the life line and the injuries received resulted in an ovarian tumor which grew and enlarged until death seemed certain. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great use in preventing miscarriage and alleviating the pains and dangers of childbirth. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

Admiral Jouett, commandant of the North Atlantic squadron, has been instructed to send one of the vessels of his squadron for the relief of destitute American citizens at Livingston, Central America, where they had gone to obtain work on a proposed railroad. If the department could find some mode of relief to the projectors of some of these remote railways it would clearly demonstrate the blessings of our government in its care for its people.

Educated and Experienced.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass., who have a thorough knowledge of pharmacy, and many years practical experience in the business. It is prepared with the greatest skill and care, under the direction of the men who originated it. Hood's Sarsaparilla may be depended upon as a thoroughly pure, honest, and reliable medicine.

In Philadelphia a rent-collecting company is to apply for a charter, with a capital of $100,000. How the corporation will manage it when it strikes an impecunious tenant, is not stated:

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.
In Incipient Consumption
Seems to possess remedial powers of great efficacy. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Makes pure blood and builds up and fortifies the system against further inroads by disease.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.
Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR:—I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for Indigestion and Dizziness, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS,
69 Harrison Street.
That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from Tarrytown. The writer is none other than Mr. DeRevere, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:
TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of that nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.
DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:
MILLVILLE, N. J.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia from the time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recognizing my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever saw or heard of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.
as an anti-malaria medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S
has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of the medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

There was a man of our town and he was wondrous wise. He jumped into a bramble bush and scratched out both his eyes. And when he saw his eyes were out, with all his might and main, He bought a bottle of Salvation Oil, and rubbed them in again.

Three Yale students have sued the town of New Haven, Conn., for refusing to allow them to vote.

Scrofula diseases manifest themselves in the spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood, and removes every taint of scrofula.

A train carrying democrats to Washington was fired into at Baltimore on Tuesday evening, 3d inst., a ball passing through the hat of a passenger.

Mothers, always use Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild, safe tonic. 25c.

Alexander Watson took "Rough on Rats" at Clinton, Ia., March 3d, and died. A "friend" gave it to him as a joke, and before he was aware of it, Watson had eaten the bread.

Take Warning.

At this season of the year when so many people become subject to attacks of biliousness, kidney troubles, constipation and all the list of troubles that arise from being housed up, or that are brought on by colds or exposure, it is the part of prudence to take warning from the experience of others and provide ourselves with means of escape from similar troubles. So wide is the fame of Kidney-Wort, that great remedy for all kidney and liver trouble, that almost every one knows of its great virtue for such cases. It should be kept in every household ready for an emergency.

At Baltimore on the 3d inst. the detectives caged ten suspicious characters who were on the way to the inauguration.

A Fact.

A good reliable gentleman of Stratham, N. H., says: "After using all other preparations, I tried Wetherell's Sarsaparilla, and it has entirely cured me of a troublesome skin disease. I found that one bottle went further than three or four bottles of other kinds of medicine. It commenced at once to help." Sold by all druggists.

WIT AND HUMOR.

The young man who sows wild oats is apt to reap his sown.—Texas Siftings.

He—I don't see Charley and Clara together lately. She—No, they've broken off. He—For good? She—Yes, for her good.—Yonker's Statesman.

A young lady who was sadly inexperienced sent a rich widower of her acquaintance a pair of plush bellows as a New Year's remembrance, and now they don't speak. At least he doesn't.—Boston Beacon.

An exchange says that for a variety of reasons it is a good thing for a young lady to learn how to support herself. Probably one good reason is that corset strings are not always to be depended upon in an emergency—Boston Post.

A New York coachman has taken a new departure. He didn't run away with the millionaire's daughter, but eloped with the plain, everyday governess of the millionaire's children. This man deserves a leather medal.—Omaha Republican.

A woman in town became so interested in a poetical calender for the new year that she tore off all the leaves to read the sentiments expressed thereon. That of December 31, 1885, has the proverb, quite appropriate in her case: "Haste makes waste."—Boston Journal.

Penitentiary Official—"If you have any trade, prisoner, state it." Prisoner (just entered)—"Well, boss, I was brung up a bartender, and I'd like to work at that." He was put to the bars of the casting-pot of the foundry as the nearest mode of accommodating him.—Huntsville (Tex.) Item.

Priest—"Pat, I believe I saw you asleep in church last Sunday." Pat—"No, indade, your riv'rance didn't; you might a' seen me with me oies shut, but diell a bit o' sleep could I get anyhow, wid your screechin' and your thumpin' of the poor cushions—long life to ye!"—London Judy.

He was a Yale student. Likewise he was close to Ikey Hartenstein's. Wrinkles marked his full dress suit. "Ah, yes, yes," he exclaimed. "It's quite the proper thing now, you know, to have your best clothes rumpled; shows you're popular; shows you call a good deal, you know."—New Haven News.

Mose Schaumburg: "Dot schwallow tail goat vas schoost splendid to go dot barty to and make mashes dose girls on." Customer: "Yes, but one of the tails of the coat is missing." Schaumburg: "Never mind dot. For dot tail what was gone dot goat from, I gives you for noddings a pair of India rubber shoes."

The Boston Journal tells how a lady in the Hub cured herself of snoring. "She attached to her eye-glasses," it says, "a small metallic spring, on the end of which is a wheel made of gauze. This wheel connects with a small ostrich feather, and the heavy breathing of the snorer starts the wheel and the feather tickles the ear."

A Madison county girl wrote to her cousin in Brooklyn to come up and spend a month on the farm; they were going to have husking bees and dead loads of fun. The Brooklyn girl replied that she would not come, as the last time she was there she was stung by a horrid bee, and didn't want any more of it.—Brooklyn Times.

Little Pauline had been reproved for some misconduct and was sitting on a small chair by the window, looking very disconsolate. "Halloo!" said papa, chan ing to come in as two big tears were about ready to fall. "Look at Pauline! Why, what is going to happen?" "It has happened," said Pauline, solemnly.—Harper's Bazaar.

In Chicago a few days ago a man had his hand literally frozen stiff to an umbrella which he was carrying before he realized the extent of the cold. It is pretty much the same way in other cities. A man must "freeze on" to his umbrella, if he wishes to retain possession of it. If he doesn't some other fellow will freeze on to it.—Norristown Herald.

A bookmaker witnesses in the street the accidental death of an acquaintance. He sets off to break the news to the widow. He is charged not to tell her too abruptly. At the house he asks for "Mme. Widow X." "I am Mme. X," says the lady, "but I am not a widow." "Would you like to bet on it?" responds the bookmaker.—French Joke.

A minister forgot to take his sermon with him to church, and his wife discovering the mistake, sent it to him in charge of a small boy, who was to receive 10 cents for the job. Presently he returned for the money. "You delivered the sermon, did you?" she asked. "No, mum," he replied, "I jest guv it to him; he's a deliverin' of it himself."—New York Times.

Mrs. Benderly, on returning to her house from a walk, went into the kitchen and said to the colored cook: "Matilda, I hear from the neighbors that you have been having visitors here while I was away. That must not happen again." "All right, mum.—I'll told de culled gemman, what am payin' me 'tenshuns dat after dis he must call on me while you am in de house."—Texas Siftings.

"Isn't that just awful maw?" exclaimed a pretty Chicago belle. "What fear?" asked her mother. "Why, they've taken Maud S.'s shoes off and are going to make her go barefooted, the papers say. It's just horrible. I'll warrant any one who would make me go barefooted would know it!" and her bright eyes snapped indignantly, while her gentle mother sighed heavily and toyed with a bottle of new-mown hay.—Chicago Tribune.

"I saw a beautiful little baby on the street to-day," observed Miss Gusher. "Did you speak to it?" "Indeed, I did. I tickled it under the chin and said, 'Oh! oo pitty itte tootsie wootsie.'"—"What did the baby do?" "Do! It straightened up and yelled like mad. I never saw such a badly behaved young one. What was the matter with it do you suppose?" "I don't know, but I expect it didn't understand you. It probably was a Boston baby.—Drake's Traveller's Magazine.

"Let me see, you told me your husband's business in the States was'"—"Literary pursuits," replied the ex-cashier's wife to her Canadian neighbor up near Montreal. "He was a famous writer, was he?" went on the Canadian encouragingly. "Oh, yes," said the wife; "he made all his money by writing." But a caller or something else prevented her telling her friend that her husband's writings had consisted of forging his employer's checks.

"Mr. Jenkins," replied Miss Greatheart to a caller at the Greatheart mansion the other evening, "is the window-shutter business a profitable one?" "Window-shutter business?" ejaculated Jenkins. "Why, I don't know anything about the window-shutter business." "You don't?" replied Miss Greatheart in surprise. "Why, pa said this morning that you made $12 by raising Mr. Henderson's blind last night." Mr. Jenkins changed the subject by asking Miss Greatheart how next Wednesday's matinee would strike her.—New York Sun.

"Dese hyah eriquakes am te'ble things, ain't tu?" observed an old colored man on a Southern train. "Yes, indeed they are." "Speck da is jist too te'ble fo any use. But I dunno jis' why, boss, but some way or odder I am wishin' an eriquake would come into ouah neighba'hood, I does."—"That's a strange wish." "Yes, I knows it is, boss, but yo' see, it is dis way like. Times is mighty ha'd, an'—an' de culled man is a cuyus pussun, yo' know, an'—an'—an he like to see what he hyahs tell on, yo'know, an' times is mighty ha'd, an' meat is ha'd to git, yo' know, an'—an'—an'—"—"Well, what is it?" "Yes, boss, an' down in my neighba'hood de chickens roosts high, an'—an'—an' I just like to see once what effect a eriquake 'ud have on 'em, I would."—Chicago Herald.

DISFIGURING HUMORS HUMILIATING ERUPTIONS Itching and Burning! TORTURES

I have tried for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICULA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MARYVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

North Carolina Climate.

Postmaster and Justice of the Peace, Company Shops, Alamance Co., N. C., Mr. M. M. Sheffner, writes, he has used St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism, cuts, swelled ankles and knees, pains in the back and sore throat. One or two applications in each case has always cured, and he believes the Great German Remedy is the best in the world.

—Nothing makes a fat man learning roller skating so mad as to have the band come in with a terrific clash on the cymbals every time he sits down real hard.

From the worst stages of heart disease I consider myself cured by the use of Dr. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR.—T. M. Towns, Tilton, N. H. Thirty years have proved the Heart Regulator a sure remedy. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

—After the new boy lately employed at the surgeon's office had carefully sprinkled the icy sidewalk with ashes he was called up stairs, given a week's wages for his misguided enterprise, and gently but firmly told to go home to his mother. It was explained by the surgeon that the lad was entirely too fresh.

New England in Winter.

Several persons have from time to time inveighed against our New England weather. We remember that Mark Twain in a speech at the New England Society's seventy-first annual dinner in New York, a few winters ago, essayed to be uncommonly funny at the expense of our climate, and said that in the spring he had counted one hundred and thirty-six different kinds of weather inside of four-and-twenty hours? In his speech, which he afterward published with his Stolen White Elephant stories, the Connecticut humorist omitted to explain by what kind of a glass he had contemplated in the meteorological researches on that occasion. We cannot answer for other localities in the eastern states, but we have remarked that during the latter part of February, while there came severe storms up the coast, some of which left heavy coats of snow in New York city, they passed out to sea before reaching our favored region, and we had sunny days and balmy winds while our New York neighbors shivered through chilly blasts and wintry surroundings. We think our weather the past winter has been noted for one feature,—its lack of extremes, or its average respectability, and while several of our townspeople have sought the more genial temperature of southern climes, the question occurs, "have they really seen better weather than we have enjoyed, who remained at home?"

Florida has been considered a sort of winter paradise, a land abounding in orange groves, Key-West cigars and land speculators. A correspondent from New Orleans thus describes a day at Pensacola: "The sun gave out an intense heat, there was a warm south wind and the air was that of summer. The trees retained their foliage, and a stranger would naturally imagine that he had at last found that delightful winter climate which he had been led to expect. But it was not long before a 'norther' set in, and in a few hours the temperature lowered to thirty degrees. Winter clothing and a glowing fire were found to be essential to comfort. The inhabitants here believe that they are the proprietors of the most wonderful climate in the world, and the stranger who is not prepared to admit that as a fact is set down as prejudiced. But it is a superior climate to that of New Orleans, as the experience of travellers and the meteorological records prove."

Such is the versatile climate, in a region where none of the comforts incident to a well-appointed New England home can be found, to which the northern person in delicate health seeks on a visit to Florida, whence return so many invalids in caskets after a disappointment ending in death.

The man or woman who grumbles at the staid and substantial winter weather of our New England coasts should make a journey to Florida, live in the contracted quarters of a damp hotel, make an impartial record of his or her discomforts, and then return to bless and not to blame the weather of their native heath.

Gen. Grant Placed on the Retired List.

In the national house of representatives, Wednesday forenoon, March 4th, the bill authorizing the president to place Gen. Grant on the retired list of the army was passed by a vote of 198 to 78. It having previously been passed by the senate it was at once sent to the president, who signed it, and nominated Gen. Grant for retirement, the senate unanimously confirming the appointment in open executive session, amid tremendous applause.

OLD COLLINS.

Freight train No. 47 rattled and bumped along over the snow-covered track, making the frozen bridges screak. In the dense forest no cry of night hawk nor howl of wolf was heard. The night was terribly cold and the hawks, sensitive to a wind so cutting, had sought the hollow of the groaning oak; and the wolf, though half famished, growled and snarled in his cheerless den.

"The new year is coming in with the chill of death," said old Collins, the conductor, holding his lantern between his knees and picking at the wick with his knife.

"Coming with both ears nipped off," replied Bill Anderson, a brakeman, throwing open the stove door and stirring up the fire with the poker.

Old Collins was a peculiar man. For twenty years he had been a freight conductor. No one ever heard him speak of his family; no one ever saw him laugh. The "boys" said that he was a "crank," and Anderson, in his good natured way, often asked him why he didn't go on the stage and play grim tragedy. One day, old Collins, after reading a letter, tore the paper into small pieces, threw the fluttering handful toward the door of the caboose, and said: "Thank God."

Anderson looked up and asked: "What's the matter, old man?"

"Nothing."

Shortly afterward, when the train stopped at a station, Anderson gathered up the scraps of paper that had been blown back from the doors, put them together, and read, "Died in this city last—" That was all he could make out; and, as the old man entered the car; he slily threw aside the bits of paper.

Since that time old Collins had seemed to be more cheerful; still, no one ever heard him laugh.

"Where do we stop next?" asked Anderson.

"Finchley Creek," replied the old man, putting his lantern on the box beside him, "up grade, too. I wish we didn't have to stop any more to-night. This cold weather hasn't helped my rheumatism any, let me tell you."

"Gregory," called Anderson to a man who sat nodding, "you needn't go to sleep. Have to go on top pretty soon."

"There ought to be a law to prevent a man from going anywhere such a night as this," replied Gregory, stretching himself.

"It's got to be done by somebody," said the old man, taking up his lantern. "I think myself that we'd all feel better in an oyster saloon. Well, here we are," he added as the engine whistled.

"Any man who has any doubt about the weather," said Collins, when the train started again, "can have all doubts removed by—Anderson, who've you got there?" pointing to an object wrapped in a blanket, lying on the floor.

"A woman, sir."

"Don't you know we are not allowed to take passengers?"

"Yes, sir; but she begged so hard and looked so cold and sick that I could not refuse her."

"That's all well enough, Anderson, but you know your orders. She must get off at the next station."

"Please don't," implored a weak voice. "I believe I am dying now."

Her face was turned from the conductor, who had sat down on a box near her. "They wouldn't let me stay by the fire at the station, for the agent's daughters were there."

"Who are you?" asked Collins.

"Nobody, sir."

"Where is your home?"

"Nowhere."

"Have you no parents?"

"My mother died when I was small."

"Where is your father?"

She did not reply, but turning her face further away from Collins sobbed aloud.

"Where is your father?" repeated the conductor.

Another sob.

"Is he dead?"

"No, sir; but he thinks I am. When I last saw him, years ago, he cursed me, and said that God was unjust for permitting me to live. Some time ago I wrote to him, signing another name. I told him that his daughter was dead."

The old man sprang to his feet. "My God, Pauline," he exclaimed, "My God, is it you?"

Dropping on his knees beside her, he raised her and put his arms around her. For a time neither of them spoke. The wrinkles in the old man's face, down which tears were fast rolling, seemed, under the rays of the lantern which Anderson was holding, silvery drains of a crushed heart's emotion.

"Don't put me off, father; please don't."

"Poor child," sobbed the old man, kissing her. She put her arms around his neck. The train whistled, but no signal was waved. On through the howling wind; on over bridges that groaned.

"Mr. Collins," whispered Anderson, touching the old man, "she is dead. Mr. Collins, let us lay her down on the blanket."

The father and daughter, in sitting position, were leaning back against Gregory.

"Let us put her down," repeated Anderson, removing the old man's arms. "All we can do—great Lord, Gregory, they are both dead! Poor old man. Rheumatism struck his heart."

When No. 47 ran from a howling, bitter night into the glorious sunshine of a new day—a new year, the father and the daughter lay side by side. Yes, the new year had come in with the chill of death.—Opie P. Read, in Courier-Journal.

President Cleveland.

Grover Cleveland and Thomas A. Hendricks were on the 4th inst. duly inaugurated as president and vice president of the United States for the ensuing four years. The pomp and show of the occasion exceeded any previous one. "Jeffersonian simplicity" not being visible to any great extent; 100,000 strangers were in Washington that day. President Cleveland's inaugural was very short.

Captain John Traynor and Fritz Federman, who sailed in the thirteen-foot dory Harold T. Bibber from St. Johns, Newfoundland, for England, have now been out 160 days. No news has been received from or of them since their departure. Dr. Bibber of Bath, Me., who furnished the dory and for whose son the boat was named, states that the men will probably never be heard from, and that the boat must have been run into and sunk with her crew. Captain Traynor's wife, who resides in Georgetown, Me., still clings to the belief that her husband will arrive safely in England.

It is stated that a physician in Warren makes his professional rounds on snow shoes.

The schooners Race Horse and Sardinian, from Rockland, Me., for New York, sailed from Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 14th, and up to March 3d nothing had been seen or heard of either of them, and it is feared they foundered in some of the heavy gales during the latter part of February. The Sardinian has frequently made trips to this port in seasons past.

Twenty-six deaths to eight marriages and six births is the way the record stands—not especially favorable to the increase of our population. Six of the deaths occurred in other places, but even deducting these the deaths more than three times outnumber the birthe; among the decedents were eight persons over seventy years of age, and four over eighty years of age. Of the sixteen persons united in wedlock just half were residents of Portsmouth.

INAUGURATION DAY.

The democrats of this city on Wednesday morning, the 4th inst., called the attention of the public generally to their joy over the arrival once again of the inauguration day of a democratic president and vice president, by firing a salute of thirty-eight guns at Langdon park, whence the reports sounded loudly all over the city. The flagstaff at Liberty bridge was decorated with five ensigns, the largest one at the top and the smallest one at the bottom; the Portsmouth Brewing Co. displayed an ensign from the pole put up on their brewery the previous day; and flags were also flying from the city building, the Rockingham house, the handsome pole in Mr. James F. Jenness' garden on Hanover street, from several of the vessels in the harbor, and from a number of private residences. Over the custom house building the revenue flag was hoisted. The steamer Williamsport, Miller master, had her flag flying at the mainmast head as she steamed out of the harbor for Philadelphia.

There was no unseemly-hilarious mirth displayed by our democratic brethren during the day, their joy generally being of that quiet description which can get along without noisy demonstration; and then again, there is a decidedly strong undercurrent of dissatisfaction, on the part of those democrats who have found out that they are to be still counted in the ranks of the "outs," over the alleged selection of other members of the party to be the "ins" as soon as the various republican officials can be removed to make room for them.

At sunset the democrats fired another salute, of just how many guns we do not know, but there were a lot of them, and they were fired in quick time. At about the same hour a "band" appeared on the streets, and was at first taken to be the salvation army, but it proved to be only a lot of the "Sons of Rest," a democratic organization whose members propose to husband their strength until they can expend it in the government service "on the yard," and who went to the foot of Daniel street to cheer and escort home the present navy yard employes, their music consisting of a big drum, half a dozen little drums, a pair of cymbals, several tin horns and a "kazoo." The building on Daniel street in which the sons take their rest at present, was brilliantly illuminated with a Chinese lantern later in the evening.

The inauguration ball at Franklin hall in the evening was attended by a great throng, including many republicans; among those on the floor none attracted more attention than Gen. Josiah G. Hadley, who went through "the mazy" with as light a foot as many of less than half his years. Eastman's orchestra, of Manchester, made the music; the hall was very handsomely dressed, reflecting credit on the taste and industry of the decorators; and the ball was a success.

FIRE.

The alarm of fire sounded out by the south wardroom bell about eleven o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, the 4th inst., came from the Haven schoolhouse, where a slight but very dangerous blaze had been caused in a somewhat unusual manner.

It seems that in the room occupied by Miss Smart's school is a rat-hole; there may be more than one, but there is one in particular,—or was one, for it is burned out now,—down which some of the boys had for a long time been dropping bits of paper, until the accumulation must have been quite large. Wednesday forenoon a colored boy named George Hector thought he would have a little fun, and lighting a match, dropped it down the rat-hole, following it with a second match and then a third; the paper took fire, flame and smoke poured out of the rat-hole, and the small boy found he had stirred up all the fun he wanted. The children were promptly dismissed, and taking their books with them as they went out, were soon in the open air without any accident having occurred

On the alarm being given, Messrs. George Randall and Russell Walden, who live near by, hastened to the schoolhouse, and by their energetic and well directed efforts saved the building from great injury if not from destruction. The fire ran along between the floors under three rooms, and three holes were cut in order to get at the fire. The fire department turned out with commendable alacrity, but their services were not required. The damage is small.

Mr. John O'Brien, "Cash or Trade," will on the 1st of April put two more peddler carts on the road, the revival of business in his line warranting it. His notice to the public will appear to-morrow.

It has but recently transpired that Timothy Cronin, representative-elect from ward three, is ineligible, he not having been a resident of the state the constitutional length of time.

The tug Clara Batemen towed the British schooner "Mary C." to the Kittery marine railway on the 4th inst., the schooner D. K. Ham having come off. The latter vessel was towed across to Randall & Caswell's wharf by the Clara Batemen.

We are informed from Washington that Mr. Joseph B. Fletcher of this city has been appointed a carpenter in the navy. Mr. Fletcher was on the "Bear" in the Greely relief expedition, as a carpenter's mate. Lieut. Emory gives Mr. Fletcher a splendid record, and reports to the department that much of the excellent morale of the ship was due to his excellent habits and discipline. He was recommended for appointment by the chief of the bureau of construction, Theodore D. Wilson, Constructor Thomas E. Webb, Constructor Philip Hichborn and others. Lieut. Emory's report concerning Mr. Fletcher was flatteringly endorsed by Commodore Schley; with such support his appointment was a foregone conclusion. Mr. Fletcher has our hearty congratulations.—Penny Post.

Mr. Franklin Cole, an accomplished mechanic who reluctantly left his work to be appointed on the late police force, where he proved to be a trusty and valued officer, is now engaged at the planing machine at the navy yard, under the sawmill; the workmen were this week engaged in finishing hard pine deck plank, six inches by four, for the Vandalia. v.

The "Rockingham Standard," the local temperance semi-monthly paper, edited by Rev. W. A. McGinley of this city and printed at Concord, has suspended publication.

Mr. Edward C. Stickney, the well known athlete, made his first record on the 4th inst. at putting up the 12-lb. dumbbell from shoulder to arm's length, the record being eighty-one times in forty seconds, and the certificate being signed by Mayor Page and City Marshal Norton.

The steamer Williamsport, Miller master, which left for Philadelphia on Wednesday forenoon, March 4th, had her flags flying in honor of the inauguration of the new president and vice president.

The Biddeford Times of Feb. 28th said: "All the coal dealers of the two cities have mutually agreed to deliver coal to customers at six dollars and a half per ton, commencing Monday, March 2d. Seven dollars is the price which has been received by them all winter. This season has been quite a profitable one in that line of business." In Portsmouth, since about the middle of last year, house coal of the best quality, well screened, and delivered in any part of the city, has been sold at $5.50 per ton.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that Hood's SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system; and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the lack of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
MRS. S. S. MOODY,
No. 75 Broadway,
Lowell, Mass., Jan. 15, 1885.

Liver, Kidney or Stomach Trouble.

Symptoms; Impure blood, costive bowels, irregular appetite, sour belching, pains in side, back and heart, yellow urine, burning when urinating, clay-colored stools, bad breath, no desire for work, chills, fevers, irritability, whitish tongue, dry cough, dizzy head, with dull pain in back part, loss of memory, foggy sight. For these troubles "SWAYNE'S PILLS" are a sure cure. Box, (50 Pills), by mail, 25 Cts., 1 for $1.00. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila., Pa. Sold by Druggists.

London Hair Restorer—Great English Toilet Article. Restores growth, color, gloss, and softness. Removes dandruff. Aristocratic families of Great Britain endorse it. Elegant dressing. Fragrantly perfumed. The favorite of fashion. At druggists for 3c 15d, or 75 Cts. in U. S. money.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching; very distressing, particularly at night; seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about parts affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also, for Tetter, Itch, Salt-rheum, Scald-Head, Erysipelas, Barber's Itch, Blotches, all scaly, rusty Skin Diseases. Box, by mail, 50 Cts.; 3 for $1.25. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila., Pa. Sold by druggists

Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Consumption.

All Throat, Breast, and Lung Affections cured by the old-established "SWAYNE'S WILD-CHERRY." The first dose gives relief, and a cure speedily follows. 25 cts. or $1.00 at Druggists.

Consumption.

Notwithstanding the great number who yearly succumb to this terrible and fatal disease, which is daily winding its fatal coils around the thousands who are unconscious of its deadly presence, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will cleanse and purify the blood of scrofulous impurities, and cure tubercular consumption (which is only scrofulous disease of the lungs.) Send three letter stamps and get Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on consumption and kindred affections, with numerous testimonials of cures. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

An eighty-three-years old woman of Nashua has made twenty-five pairs of trousers this winter. During the same period her eighteen-years-old granddaughter has attended five balls, and painted a plaque for which any one not a judge of art would pay fifty cents. But of course a woman of eighty-three years has outlived her usefulness.

Quaker Testimony.

Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has done a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city while bathing some years ago was thrown violently against the life line and the injuries received resulted in an ovarian tumor which grew and enlarged until death seemed certain. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great value in preventing miscarriage and alleviating the pains and dangers of childbirth. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

Peter Carrington and William Martin had a quarrel for the possession of a seat in a car at Lynchburg, Va., on March 3d, when the former was shot and killed. They were on the way to the inauguration ceremonies. The murdered man is a son of Mayor Carrington of Richmond, Virginia.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

In Incipient Consumption

Seems to possess remedial powers of great efficacy. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Makes pure blood and builds up and fortifies the system against further inroads by disease.

—A man in a crowd found elbow room quickly by telling a neighbor that he was sitting on his revolver.

—A satisfactory servant. Lady—"You have no beaux, cousins or men to bother around, I hope?" Servant (seeking a place)—"Nary a won, mun, ownly an owld baste of a husband!"

—Simon Cameron says the secret of long life is motion. The tramp lives to a good old age.

—"I am surprised, John," said an old lady when she found the old butler helping himself to some of the best old port. "So am I, ma'am. I thought you had gone out," was the reply.

One Feels the Luxury of Benevolence.

Many thousands of the visitors to the great Industrial Exposition at New Orleans view the famed Charity Hospital there with delight, feel that they too have a heritage and share in the benevolence by which it is maintained, as The Louisiana State Lottery, contributed in one donation of one million dollars, payable in installments for its maintenance, about which M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give any information.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodtjanp,85

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Mellus Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Diarrhœa, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELLUS.

69 Harrison Street.

That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from Tarrytown. The writer is none other than Mr. Dutterow, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of that nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the time I was sixteen years old. I had consult d various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.

as an anti-malaria medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

A despatch from Havana states that the Spanish authorities have captured Bamachea and four other insurgent chiefs in Cuban waters. The five prisoners have been condemned to be shot at Cardenas.

A Fact.

A good reliable gentleman of Stratham, N. H., says: "After using all other preparations, I tried Wetherell's Sarsaparilla, and it has entirely cured me of a troublesome skin disease. I found that one bottle went further than three or four bottles of other kinds of medicine. It commenced at once to help." Sold by all druggists.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

CANCER FOR MANY YEARS.

A family servant has been afflicted for many years with a cancer on her nose, and was treated by some of the best physicians, and the old remedies used without benefit. Finally we gave her Swift's Specific and she has been completely cured.

JOHN HILL, Druggist, Thomson, Ga., August 16, 1884.

Nose Eaten Off!

John Naves, a young man near here, had a cancer on his face which in a certain way his nose and part of his cheek, and was extending up to his eye. As a last resort he was put on Swift's Specific, and it entirely cured him. His face is all healed over with new flesh, and his general health is excellent. His recovery is wonderful.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

The fittest subjects for fever and ague, and remittents, are the debilitated, bilious and nervous. To such persons, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords adequate protection by increasing the vital stamina and the resistant power of the constitution, and by checking irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels. Moreover, it eradicates malarial complaints of an obstinate type, and stands above unequaled among our national remedies.

Samuel Foote's Offer of a Dish of Chocolate.

Macklin was a teacher of his art, and, with a slight sprinkling of regulars, his company was made up of amateurs and pupils. Among the latter was a young fellow about town, well known at the Bedford Coffee House for his wit, named Samuel Foote, who here made his first appearance upon any stage as Othello to his tutor's Iago. The future famous comedian was short and stout, with a round, full, flat face, and his appearance in tragedy must have been as funny as a modern matinee debut. Nevertheless, he obtained an engagement at Drury Lane for comedy parts. Here he made such a success as a mimic in the character of Bayes, in "The Rehearsal," that, finding himself overshadowed by the genius of Garrick, he determined to turn manager on his own account. Failing to procure a license, he took a leaf out of Mr. Cibber's book, and on April 22, 1747, announced that a concert of music would on that day be performed at the theatre in the Haymarket, after which would be given gratis a new entertainment called "The Diversions of the Morning," and a farce taken from "The Old Bachelor," called the "Credulous Husband"—Fondlewife, Mr. Foote—and an epilogue by the B—d—d (Bedford) Coffee House. The diversion and the epilogue consisted in mimicry of the best-known men of the day—actors, doctors, lawyers, statesmen. Had he contented himself with this he might not have been interfered with; but the managers of the patent houses could not tolerate such an infringement of their rights as a performance of one of the most popular comedies of the time. They appealed to the Westminster magistrates, and on the second night the constables entered the theatre and dispersed the audience. But Foote was not so easily to be put down. The very next morning he published the following announcement in the General Advertiser: "On Saturday afternoon, exactly at 12 o'clock, at the new theatre in the Haymarket, Mr. Foote begs the favor of his friends to come and drink a dish of chocolate with him, and 'tis hoped there will be a great deal of company and some joyous spirits. He will endeavor to make the morning as diverting as possible. Tickets to be had for this entertainment at George's Coffee House, Temple Bar, without which no one will be admitted. N. B.—Sir Dilbury Diddle will be there, and Lady Betty Frisk has absolutely promised." No one knew what this advertisement meant, and a crowded house was the inevitable consequence. When the curtain rose, Foote came forward and informed the audience that "as he was training some young performers for the stage, he would, with their permission, while the chocolate was getting ready, proceed with his instructions before them." Then some young people, engaged for the purpose, were brought upon the stage, and under the pretense of instructing them in the art of acting he introduced his imitations. The authorities did not again interfere with him, so he altered the time of his entertainment from morning to evening, and the title to "Tea;" and to drink a dish of tea with Mr. Foote, as going to his theatre came to be styled, was the rage of the season. Next year he called his performance "An Auction of Pictures." Here is one of his advertisements: "At the forty-ninth day's sale at his auction room in the Haymarket, Mr. Foote to exhibit a choice collection of pictures—some entirely new lots, consisting of a poet, a beau, a Frenchman, a miser, a Taylor, a sot, two young gentlemen, and a ghost, two of which are originals, the rest copies from the best masters." In this he mimicked the peculiarities of Justice Devell, Cock, the auctioneer, and Orator Henley.—Belgravia.

Actors Not Pariahs.

When a youth, well brought up, takes to the stage, he should not be immediately treated as a pariah. On the contrary, if ever there be a time in a young man's career when, more than ever, he stands in need of good home traditions, the companionship of his equals, and the encouragement of his superiors, it is when he has honestly chosen, as a means of earning his living, the stage as a profession. That, for evident reasons, it has been usually selected by the dissolute, the idle, and those to whom any restraint is distasteful, accounts to a great extent for the disrepute in which the stage has been held. Of course the statute book and the Puritanism of the seventeenth century have much to answer for in the popular estimate of the players. There is a strong leaven of Puritanism among us, and, in some respects, so much the better; but also among very excellent people of various religious opinions there has been, and it exists now, a sort of vague idea that the stage has always been under the positive ban of the church. In the temporary laws and regulations of different countries, enforced by narrow-minded men, civil or ecclesiastical, may be found the origin of this mistaken notion. The church has never pronounced on the stage the anathema. On the contrary, she has patronized the stage, and the first mimes who entered France from Italy rather resembled members of a religious order in their pious fervor than actors of a later date in their laxity. If players were refused Christian burial, it was when they had neither lived nor died as even nominal Christians, and in such cases even "maimed rites" would savor of hypocrisy. In France the actors themselves were under this hallucination. M. Regnier tells us how in 1848 a deputation of comedians went to Mgr. Affre to ask him to get the sentence of excommunication removed from the theatrical profession. In the time of Louis XIII. the actors were excellent churchgoers, had their children baptized, frequented the sacraments, and were on the best terms with the cures of Paris; and it will be a consolation to those actors among us who, like the doll in the song, "pine for higher society," to be reminded that the grand monarch himself did not disdain to stand godfather to the first born of Moliere, and to do the like office to the third child of Domenico Biancolelli, the Italian harlequin.—Barnard, in the Fortnightly Review.

Chinese Tangle-foot.

Samtchoo is the famous drink of China. It is made from rice. The grain is steeped twenty or thirty days in water and then gently boiled. When it is soft and pulpy and completely diluted by the heat it is allowed to ferment in vats of glazed earthenware. The yeast is made from wheat, several wholesome ingredients being added during the process of fermentation, such as fruits and flowers to impart a pleasant flavor and color. At the end of several days it is drawn off into glazed vessels, where a second process of fermentation goes on. It is then shipped in jars all over the empire. The lees are distilled and yield a strong liquor. In the Loo Choo Islands, south of Japan, this liquor is common and very intoxicating, but the natives counteract the effect of it by using the oil from a fish, to-do-noero, a small fish, a sort of seal covered with hair, having four feet like a hog. This is considered a cure for drunkenness.

In years they have reigned Queen Victoria stands ninth among the sovereigns of the world.

The Paris Charivari has a very clever picture of the divorce problem in an alleged toy for children. On an ordinary stand are figures of a man and woman standing at either end and facing each other. They are joined by a band which so connects them that they can not be separated except by cutting it apart. On this band are strung several children, who, if the band is cut, will slip off the loose ends and fall down. The problem is to cut the bands without jeopardizing the position of the children. It points to a moral very graphically, and one worth considering by the community in connection with our frequent and easy divorce. —New York Ledger.

President Cleveland's INAUGURAL.

Fellow Citizens:—In the presence of this assemblage of my countrymen I am about to supplement and seal by the oath which I shall take, the manifestation of the will of a great and free people. In the exercise of their power and right of self-government, they have committed to one of their fellow-citizens a supreme and sacred trust, and he here consecrates himself to their service. This impressive ceremony adds little to the solemn sense of responsibility with which I contemplate the duty I owe to all the people of the land. Nothing can relieve me from anxiety lest by any act of mine their interests may suffer, and nothing is needed to strengthen my resolution to engage every faculty and effort in the promotion of their welfare.

Amid the din of party strife, the people's choice was made, but its attendant circumstances have demonstrated anew the strength and safety of a government by the people. In each succeeding year it more clearly appears that our democratic principle needs no apology, and that in its fearless and faithful appreciation is to be found the surest guarantee of good government.

But the best results in the operation of a government wherein every citizen has a share, largely depend upon a proper limitation of purely partisan zeal and effort, and a correct appreciation of the time when the heat of the partisan should be merged in the patriotism of the citizen.

To-day the executive branch of the government is transferred to new keeping. But this is still the government of all the people, and it should be none the less an object of their affectionate solicitude. At this hour the animosities of political strife, the bitterness of partisan defeat, and the exultation of partisan triumph, should be supplanted by an ungrudging acquiescence in the popular will and a sober, conscientious concern for the general weal. Moreover, if from this hour we cheerfully and honestly abandon all sectional prejudice and distrust, and determine, with manly confidence in one another to work out harmoniously the achievements of our national destiny, we shall deserve to realize all the benefits which our happy form of government can bestow.

On this auspicious occasion we may well renew the pledge of our devotion to the Constitution, which, launched by the founders of the republic and consecrated by their prayers and patriotic devotion, has for almost a century borne the hopes and the aspirations of a great people through prosperity and peace, and through the shock of foreign conflicts and the perils of domestic strifes and vicissitudes. By the Father of his Country our Constitution was commended for adoption as the result of a spirit of amity and mutual concession.

In that same spirit it should be administered, in order to promote the lasting welfare of the country and to secure the full measure of its priceless benefits to us, and to those who will succeed to the blessings of our national life.

The large variety of diverse and competing interests subject to federal control, persistently seeking the recognition of their claims, need give us no fear that the greatest good to the greatest number will fail to be accomplished, if in the halls of national legislation that spirit and amity and mutual concession shall prevail in which the Constitution had its birth. If this involves the surrender or postponement of private interests, and the abandonment of local advantages, compensation will be found in the assurance that thus the common interest is subserved and the general welfare advanced.

In the discharge of my official duty I shall endeavor to be guided by a just and unrestrained construction of the Constitution, a careful observance of the distinction between the powers granted to the federal government and those reserved to the States or to the people, and by a vigilant appreciation of those functions which by the Constitution and laws have been especially assigned to the executive branch of the government.

But he who takes the oath to-day to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, only assumes the solemn obligation which every patriotic citizen on the farm, in the workshop, in the busy marts of trade and everywhere should share with him. The Constitution which prescribes his oath, my countrymen, is yours. The government you have chosen him to administer for a time, is yours. The suffrage which executes the will of all freemen, the laws and the entire scheme of our civil rule, from the town meeting to the state capitals and the national capital, is yours. Your every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate, under the same high sanction, though in a different sphere, exercises a public trust.

Nor is this all. Every citizen owes to the country a vigilant watch and close scrutiny of its public servants, and a fair and reasonable estimate of their fidelity and usefulness. Thus is the people's will impressed upon the whole framework of our civil politics, municipal, state and federal; and this is the price of our liberty and the inspiration of our faith in the republic.

It is the duty of those serving the people in public place to closely limit public expenditures to the actual needs of the government, economically administered, because this bounds the right of the government to exact tribute from the earnings of labor or the property of the citizen, and because public extravagance begets extravagance among the people. We should never be ashamed of the simplicity and prudential economy which are best suited to the operation of a republican form of government and most compatible with the mission of the American people. Those who are selected for a limited time to manage public affairs are still of the people and may do much by their example to encourage, consistently with the dignity of their official functions, that plain way of life which among their fellow-citizens aids integrity and promotes thrift and prosperity.

The genius of our institutions, the needs of our people in their home life, and the attention which is demanded for the settlement and development of the resources of our vast territory, dictate the avoidance of any departure from that foreign policy commended by history, the traditions and prosperity of our republic. It is a policy of independence, favored by our position and defended by our known love of justice, and by our power. It is the policy of peace, suitable to our interests. It is the policy of neutrality, rejecting any share in foreign broils and ambitions on other continents, and repelling their intrusion here. It is the policy of Monroe and of Washington and of Jefferson—"peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none."

A due regard for the interests and prosperity of all the people demand that our finances shall be established upon such a sound and sensible basis as shall secure the safety and confidence of business interests, and make the wage of labor sure and steady, and that our system of revenue shall be so adjusted as to relieve the people from unnecessary taxation, having a due regard to the interests of capital invested and workingmen employed in American industries, and preventing the accumulation of a surplus in the Treasury to tempt extravagance and waste.

Care for the property of the nation and for the needs of future settlers require that the public domain should be protected from purloining schemers and unlawful occupation.

The conscience of the people demands that the Indians within our boundaries shall be fairly and honestly treated as wards of the government, and their education and civilization promoted, with a view to their ultimate citizenship; and that polygamy in the Territories, destructive of the family relation and offensive to the moral sense of the world, shall be repressed.

The laws should be rigidly enforced which prohibit the immigration of a servile class to compete with American labor, with no intention of acquiring citizenship, and bringing with them and retaining habits and customs repugnant to our civilization.

The people demand reform in the administration of the government, and the application of business principals to public affairs. As a means to this end, civil service reform should be in good faith enforced. Our citizens have the right to protection from the incompetency of public employes who hold their places solely as the reward of partisan service, and from the corrupting influence of those who promise, and the vicious methods of those who expect, such rewards, and those who worthily seek public employment have the right to insist that merit and competency shall be recognized, instead of party subserviency or the surrender of honest political belief.

In the administration of a government pledged to do equal and exact justice to all men, there should be no pretext for anxiety touching the protection of the freedmen in their rights, or their security in the enjoyment of their privileges under the Constitution and its amendments. All discussion as to their fitness for the place accorded to them as American citizens is idle and unprofitable, except as it suggests the necessity for their improvement. The fact that they are citizens entitles them to all the rights due to that relation, and charges them with all its duties, obligations and responsibilities.

These topics and the constant and ever varying wants of an active and enterprising population, may well receive the attention and the patriotic endeavor of all who make and execute the federal law. Our duties are practical, and call for industrious application and intelligent perception of the claims of public offices, and above all, a firm determination by united action to secure to all the people of the land, the full benefits of the best form of government ever vouchsafed to man.

And let us not trust to human effort alone, but humbly acknowledging the power and goodness of Almighty God, who presides over the destiny of nations, and who has at all times been revealed in our country's history. Let us invoke his aid and his blessing upon our labors.

To-day he is Chester A. Arthur, Esq., of the law firm of Arthur, Knevals & Ransom, Mutual Insurance building, Nassau street, New York city. May his briefs be as numerous as his griefs are few.

The Globe can pay a pleasant compliment to the late president without having to "take back" anything it has said about him, its opposition having always been courteous and gentlemanly, though quite pronounced on occasions. The fair and manly manner in which the radical democratic Globe spoke of him at the time he assumed the presidency was in bright contrast with the base and (as experience has proved) unjust attacks made upon him by a large proportion of the "high-toned" republican papers.

President Cleveland's Cabinet.

President Cleveland on Thursday, March 5th, sent to the senate the following nominations to be members of his cabinet:

Secretary of state, Thomas F. Bayard of Delaware;

Secretary of the treasury, Daniel Manning of New York;

Secretary of war, William C. Endicott of Massachusetts;

Secretary of the navy, William C. Whitney of New York;

Secretary of the interior, Lucius Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi;

Postmaster general, William F. Vilas of Wisconsin;

Attorney general, A. H. Garland of Arkansas.

The nominations were all referred to committees, Senator Riddleberger objecting to the customary immediate consideration of the nominations of those who were members of the senate. Mr. Riddleberger made a few remarks, saying in substance that his objection to Mr. Bayard arose from the belief that he was un-American. At 12:40 P. M. the senate adjourned without confirming any of the cabinet nominations.

people, who are prominent and influential, send us their testimonials, certifying what a vast amount of good Sulphur Bitters has done them.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe who are now living, send us their testimonials. We publish nothing from dead persons, or give false names.

A running sore for 14 years cured. HENRY H. GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything man could, the sore discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur

Sulphur Bitters

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had about lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

have cured my life. There is nothing like them. I earnestly entreat all afflicted with impure blood to try them and be cured.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores.

They Will Cure You.

The well known Manager of the Raymond Excursions to California, I. A. WHITCOMB, says: No other medicine can equal Sulphur Bitters for biliousness and dyspepsia. They have cured me when all other remedies failed.

A REVOLT IN THE CAMP.

There is no denying the fact that a very large number of democrats are thoroughly dissatisfied with the prospect of the postmastership being given to Mr. E. S. Fay. There is no special objection to the capacity of Mr. Fay for the discharge of the duties of the office, but it is claimed by the faithful that he is neither a democrat in good standing nor a pronounced mugwump,—but he is to be given the office because Mr. Jones desires it. A remonstrance against the appointment is being signed and is to be sent to Washington at once.

This looks like an open revolt against the powers that be. Of course as soon as Mr. Jones returns he will set matters aright, but the air is full of expletives at this initial act in the programme. The democrats say that they intend to protest against the system of having Ex-Congressman Jones make the appointments. They apparently forget that this subject of the appointment of postmaster was discussed at length in committee a short time since, and Mr. Fay carried the caucus over the candidate voted for by Mr. Jones, and that the latter is simply carrying out the behest of the political assemblage of when he was a member!

Come, gentlemen, Let us have peace.

THE LUCIER COMEDY CO.

Music hall was filled on Thursday evening with an audience that was generous in applause at the innumerable good things presented. A new programme was offered, and gave the utmost satisfaction. This excellent variety company will close their engagement in this city to-morrow, with performances afternoon and evening.

ALABAMA CLAIMS ALLOWED.

In the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims, on the 2d inst., judgments in favor of the following persons and estates were rendered:

T. Salter Tredick, executor of Mrs. A. E. S. Toppan, $3199; William H. Hackett, as administrator, $444; J. Albert Walker, as adm'r, $1893, $888, $444; Moses A. Safford, as adm'r, $444; estate Washington Williams, $257; True M. Ball, $448; Daniel Marcy, $2121; estate John Davis, $391; estate F. W. Fernald, $864, $888; John Sise, as executor, $2521; S. H. Goodall, as adm'r, $151; estate Richard Jenness, $210; estate John C. Bush, $165; J. C. Ross, $108; W. Ross, Jr., $556; W. D. Fernald, $151; J. H. Butler, $151; J. J. Pickering, as adm'r, $168; Wm. S. Frost, $27; estate Horton D. Walker, $888; estate John Knowlton, $444; estate John Harrat, $444; Sarah A. Stone, as executrix of Capt. Wm. Stone of Kennebunk, Me., $888; Samuel Adams, $222; George W. Pendexter, $888; Charles H. Mendum, as adm'r, $576.

RING TOURNAMENT.

The "ring tournament" at the Portsmouth skating rink on the evening of the 4th inst. was the first entertainment of the kind we have heard of, and was productive of much sport for the participants and spectators, the attendance being quite as large as could reasonably have been expected, with a variety entertainment at Music hall and an inaugural ball at Franklin hall, the same evening. The ring, a heavy gold circlet, was suspended by a bit of silk twist at a distance of about six feet from the floor, just high enough to allow the tallest of the skaters to pass under it without striking it with their hats or heads; each skater was supplied by the management with a stick about two feet long, and small enough to pass through the ring; and the game was, when skating at speed and keeping up with the procession, to impale and carry off the ring. It was twenty-five minutes from the commencement of the fun before the ring was captured, which was finally done by Mr. Willie Wright; the ring was hit often enough, but an unsuccessful hit would set it swinging so that a dozen skaters would pass it without being able to even get a jab at it.

It was noticed that the lady skaters were at a disadvantage as compared with their male competitors, on account of their averaging a less height; so the management decided to give the ladies a chance by themselves, and to suspend another ring to be competed for by ladies only on the evening of Wednesday, the 11th inst.

The fire at the Haven school on the 4th inst. caught in Miss Ham's room, and not in Miss Smart's as reported.

Capt. Daniel W. Marden, of the navy yard ferry steamer Emerald, arrived home from San Francisco on the 4th inst., and took charge of the Emerald on the 5th, relieving Capt. H. W. Trefethen, who had for the previous four weeks been running the boat to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

We learn that Major Urch is at Washington awaiting an opportunity to confer with the president upon the post-office appointment. It is said that the major has a protest from several prominent democrats against the appointment of the last man up for the office of postmaster, and will consent to take it himself rather than see the wrong timber attempted to be fayed into a snug berth like this.

A new engine for the steamer Mystic has been completed and set up at the works of the Portsmouth Machine Co., and will be placed in the boat when she is taken off the river to receive her annual spring overhauling preparatory to engaging in the summer's business. The new engine is a piece of work which the Machine Co. need not blush to have inspected, as a handsomer job is not often turned out of any shop; it is of nearly double the power of the Mystic's present engine, and her new boiler it is said has plenty of steaming capacity for it. When the new engine is in position, and the other projected improvements completed, Capt. "Rashe" is strongly of opinion that it will bother any other boat on the river to give the Mystic her back water.

The Penny Post of Thursday, the 5th inst., says: "The rowdy element in the democratic party came to the front last night. It was doubtless extremely funny going down to the navy yard landing with drums and horns, to insult the workmen as they came home from the yard, but decent people fail to see where the fun comes in. The 'Sons of Rest' organization had nothing to do with the demonstration; the honor (?) properly belongs to the 'Cold and Hungry Club' whose head-quarters are in the brick building on the corner of Daniel and Penhallow streets."

Col. Dan. Lamont, as private secretary to Gov. Cleveland, had a salary of $4000. As private secretary to President Cleveland, the pay is $3,250. Recently the "Private Secretary" told Gov. Cleveland that he did not see how he could accept the present position at Washington, "See here, Dan," said G. C., "If you are not going down there I am not." This was a settler, and Daniel went forward to his work like a little man.

—A Mr. Collar recently married a Miss Link in Dakota. They should wear the yoke of matrimony easily.

—The Philadelphia papers have much to say of the Gas Trust. The meter is not the gas-trust referred to, however. The man who trusts in that does worse than he who puts his trust in princes.

—"Here's a whole ball of twine," said the irritable old gent to his musical niece, "and now I want a stop put to this 'thing of settin' down in the parlor hull hours at a stretch, raisin' the neighbors, yelling about the 'The Lost Chord.'" She is now learning a new song.

—Edwin (who is fond of lecturing his future bride)—"Well, good-bye, Angy. I don't know how it is—but I always seem to leave you in tears!" Angelina (tenderly, through her sobs)—"I—I—I'd sooner you should leave me in tears, love, than never leave me at all!"

—A story is told of Bishop Bloomfield revisiting the University chapel at Cambridge after long absence. Finding the same verger there whom he remembered in his college days, he said to him: "You have much to be grateful for." "I have, indeed, my lord," replied the old man, "for I have heard every sermon that has been preached in the chapel for fifty years, and bless the Lord, I am a Christian still."

TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and powerful advocates with whom I have had official intercourse." CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.
"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy, or more capable of securing for them as early and favorable consideration as the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.
BOSTON, October 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Salvation Oil is the greatest pain-destroyer of any age or clime. For the cure of neuralgia, rheumatism, and wounds occasioned by accidents, such as cuts, bruises, sprains, burns, and frost-bites it has no equal. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

Passed Asst. Surgeon Charles W. Rush is detached from the naval academy, and ordered to the Omaha March 20th.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other diseases. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

Medical Inspector A. A. Hocking is detached from the Powhatan, and ordered to the Pensacola.

"Rough On Toothache."

Instant relief for neuralgia, toothache, faceache. Ask for "Rough on Toothache." 15 and 25c.

Medical Inspector George S. Beardsley is ordered to the Norfolk navy yard.

Pretty Women.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity Don't fail to try "Well's Health Renewer."

Surgeon J. G. Ayers is ordered to the naval laboratory at New York.

"Rough On Itch."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ringworm, tetter, salt rheum, frosted feet, chilblains.

Pay Inspector Arthur Pritchard is ordered to the Pensacola.

Life Preserver.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Well's Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots.

Asst. Engr. I. N. Hollis is ordered to special duty under the advisory board.

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in; whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by using Parker's Tonic when you feel "as little out of sorts." It would be money in your pocket. One hour of good, rejoicing health is worth half a dozen hours full of languor and pain.

Surgeon Edward Kershner is detached from the Vermont, and ordered to the Omaha. Surgeon G. R. Bush is ordered to the Vermont.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.
In Incipient Consumption
Seems to possess remedial powers of great efficacy. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Makes pure blood and builds up and fortifies the system against further inroads by disease.

Passed Asst. Surgeon G. P. Lumsden is ordered to the Wyandotte.

Quaker Testimony.
Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has done a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city while bathing some years ago was thrown violently against the life line and the injuries received resulted in an ovarian tumor which grew and enlarged until death seemed certain. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great value in preventing miscarriage and alleviating the pains and dangers of childbirth. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

The American Variety theatre at Hartford, Conn., was closed March 4th, the proprietress, Laura Lechlar, whose real name is Mrs. Charles Reynolds, having decamped owing numerous bills. J. V. Farrar's "Cinderella" company, playing at the theatre, were left penniless, as were also the troupe of Bedouin Arab athletes. They have left the city.

Take Warning.
At this season of the year when so many people become subject to attacks of biliousness, kidney troubles, constipation and all the list of troubles that arise from being housed up, or that are brought on by colds or exposure, it is the part of prudence to take warning from the experience of others and provide ourselves with means of escape from similar troubles. So we advise the fame of Kidney-Wort, that great remedy for all kidney and liver trouble, that almost every one knows of its great virtue for such cases. It should be kept in every household ready for an emergency.

One Feels the Luxury of Benevolence.
Many thousands of the visitors to the great Industrial Expo. held at New Orleans view the renowned Charity Hospital there with delight, feel that they too have a heritage and share in the benevolence by which it is maintained, as The Louisiana State Lottery, contributed in one donation of one million dollars, payable in instalments for its maintenance, about which M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give any information.

Advice to Mothers.
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodlian8,85

HUDSON RIVER R. R.
Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rond ut, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR:—I have used your medicine, called DR KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Dizzin ss, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.
89 Harrison Street.
That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from anyone. The writer is none other than Mr. Delivere y, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:
TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. It ought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of it at nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.
DR. KE NEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined to its sphere as usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:
MILLVILLE, N. J.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the time I was sixteen years old. I had consult d various physicians, but could find no re lef; therefore had aim s given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.
MALARIA.
as an anti-malaria medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S
FAVORITE REMEDY
has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

The execution in the prison at Philadelphia, on the 5th inst., of Dr. Goerson, had a terrible effect on Joseph Barrett and Joseph Taylor, the former of whom was serving a ten years sentence for attempted murder, and the latter under sentence of death for murder. The two prisoners were in cells where they could hear the sound of the execution, and both were terribly frightened; when the drop fell, Barrett sank to the floor of his cell, dead, and Taylor had a series of convulsive fits of the most shocking character.

Fooled by a Granger.

Representative John J. O'Neill, of Missouri, is a veritable son of the soil. Among his granger con tituents he is a granger himself, and what he does not know about horses, cattle and patch products is not worth knowing. His district lies in the upper part of St. Louis, but as it embraces the billy-goat and garden-truck suburbs of the metropolis of the Mississippi his constituency is somewhat rural. To this element Mr. O'Neill has long been a walking encyclopedia of information concerning crops and live stock. During his last campaign, while he was canvassing, he met one of his farmer constituents driving a cow. He at once began to air his knowledge of bovine breeds with which, he said, he had been familiar since his earliest boyhood days, when his father used to send him out in the ghostly twilight to hunt for truant calves.

In the height of his enthusiasm he offered to buy the cow the farmer was driving. The farmer was not anxious to sell, but said he would take $65 for her. "Drive her out up to my house," said O'Neill, "and I'll be there to pay you the money." The farmer, however, suddenly regretted that he had consented to part with his favorite cow, and began to think of some way to get out of the trade. All at once a bright idea struck him. Said he, "Let me tell you, Mr. O'Neill, I want to be honest with you. The cow's gentle and a good milker, but there's one thing about her that I ought to tell you of. She has no upper teeth." "Of course that changes the trade," said O'Neill; "you wouldn't expect me to take a cow with such a deficit as that. But you bring me a good milker with sound upper teeth and I'll buy her." When the story got out there was great excitement in the cabbage end of his district and the farmers turned against him en masse. O'Neill learned, to his horror, that cows did not have any upper teeth. He tried to explain, but it was no use. The gangers swore they would not have a Congressman who was "blamed fool enough to believe that cows had upper teeth."

As a result O'Neill was almost overthrown. He was only re-elected by the skin of his own upper teeth. Since the election he has bought a whole library on the anatomy of domestic animals, and is determined that no designing granger shall catch him napping next time.—Washington Republican.

Three Nationalities.

The following plaint by an Italian artist aptly illustrates the difference in the national character of the three persons mentioned:

I work in my studio one day ven one gentleman vid the lunettes come in, make one, two, tree bow, very profound, and say, "Gutt Morgen, Meinheer!" I make one, two, tree profound bow, and say de same. Den de gentleman look at my picture very slow and deliberate; den he say, "Dat is good; dat is beautiful; dat is very beautiful; dat is voudrous fine." Den he say at last, "Meinheer, vil you per mit me to bring my friend, de Baron Von A., to see your fine work?" I say, "Sare, you vil do me one favor." Den he make tree more bow more profound dan before, and he go vay. De next day he bring his friend de baron, and dey two make six bow, all very profound, and dey say dat all is very beautiful, and den de baron say, "Sare, vil you let me bring my friend de Count Von B. to see dese so fine work?" and den dey make der bow once again and go vay, and I see dem no more. Dat vas one German gentleman.

Another day, one little gentleman comes in vid one skip, and say, "on jour, monsieur! charme de faire votre connaissance." He takes up his lorgnette, and he looks at my first picture, and he say, "Ah, very well. Sare, that is one very fine morsel." Den he pass quick to anoder and he say, "Sare, dis is truly admirable; after dis beautiful picture nature is vort nothing," and so in two minutes and a half he got through dem all. Den he twirl his cane, and stick out his chain, and say, "Sare, I make you my compliment; you have one great talent for de landscape; I shall have the honor to recommend you to all my friends; au revoir, monsieur," but I see him never again. He was a French gentleman.

Another day, I hear one loud tap vid one stick at my door. Ven I say, "Come in," one gentleman walks forward, and nods his head, but takes never off his hat. He say, "May I see your picture?" I bow, and say, "Vid pleasure, sare." He no answer, but look at me a long time and say not a word. Den he look at anoder and say notting. Den he go to anoder and look, and say, "Vot is de price of dis?" I say, "Forty louis, sare." He say notting, but go to the next and look for one long time; and at last he say, "Vat is de price of dis?" Den I say, "Sare, it is sixty louis." Den he say notting, but look anoder long time. Den he say, "Can you give me pen and ink?" and ven I give it he sit down and he say, "Vot is your name, sare?" Den I give him my card, and he write out the order on Torlonia for sixty louis; he give me de order vid his card, and he say, "Dat picture is mine; dat is my address; send it home; good morning." And so he make one more stiff nod and valk away. Dat vas one American gentleman.—London Standard.

One Poor Chamois.

We had made good progress, when of a sudden Franz gave a loud whistle and then fell flat down. The other two guides immediately followed his example and beckoned us with excited gesticulations to behave in a similarly foolish manner. Thereupon we, too, sat down, and inquired what the purport of this performance might be. It turned out that there was a very little chamois about half a mile off. Knowing that it would be impossible to induce the guides to move on till the animal had disappeared, we seized the opportunity of taking an early breakfast. The guides meanwhile wriggled out on their stomachs, with eyes starting out of their heads, possessed by an extraordinary desire to miss no single movement of the object of their attention. "See, it moves," said Franz in a whisper. "Himmell it is feeding," said Burgener. "It must be the same that Johann saw three weeks ago." "Ach! no, that was but a little one" (no true chamois hunter will ever allow that a brother sportsman can possibly have set eyes on a larger animal than himself). "Truly, it is fine." "Thunderweather! it moves its head." In their excitement I regretted that I could not share, not being well versed in hunting cracks my own experience of sport in the Alps being limited to missing one marmot that was sitting on a road licking its paws. In due course the chamois walked away. Apparently much relieved by there being no further necessity to continue in their former uncomfortable attitudes, the guides sat up and fell to a warm discussion as to the size of the animal.—Above the Snow Line, Clinton Dent.

Not a Victim of Insomnia.

A prominent attorney, who is of a rather observing disposition, had noticed that the night policeman of his ward was always to be found loafing in and about a certain saloon at all hours of the day. One morning he accosted the helmeted individual and said:

"Say, Thomas, I have often wondered how you, being a night policeman, could manage to be around all day. When do you find time to sleep, anyway?"

"When do you suppose?" asked the astonished copper. "I'm on my beat from 6 in the evening till 6 in the morning, and twelve hours sleep is enough for any man."

The attorney was almost struck dumb by the candor of the guardian of the peace, and he no longer doubts the ability of a policeman to get plenty of sleep.—Scissors.

The Skating Rink.

Roller skating is becoming a national pastime, spreading rapidly, seizing on every class of the community. A great army of shrewd men are coining money by providing facilities for it; while a goodly percentage of the public have forsworn all other forms of amusement and cleave to roller skating only. A literature, ephemeral but voluminous, has sprung up to give voice to the pastime; and the funny men of the comic papers have stopped joking about spring poets and mothers-in-law while they illustrate in prose and poetry the humors of "rinking."

Roller skating may have objectionable features, but its growth into a sudden popularity has a humorous and grotesque side as well. The clergy have properly enough called attention to the evils incident to it, though unfortunately their zeal has sometimes been greater than their discretion, as when one of them informed his horrified congregation that had it not been for skating rinks thousands of young people would never have fallen. He had heard casually that young people frequently fell in these places, and supposed that a fall into sin was meant. It is also a well-attested fact that the clergy have unwittingly done much to advertise the pastime by preaching against it; and many rinks in country towns have attained their popularity largely in this way.

We read of an old man in Michigan eighty years of age learning to skate, and thus getting rid of numerous diseases that had threatened to shorten his days. The teachers and pupils of a large school in Illinois adjourned in a body the other day, and went to one of the rinks of the town, where they found the trustees already on rollers, "rinkulating" to the inspiring strains of a local brass band. The citizens of Milwaukee are said to have forgotten the taste of beer in their eagerness to learn roller skating.

Out in Ohio we hear of a bri-less lawyer developing a marvellous skill in roller skating, and now he is not only famous but rolling in wealth. He is generally supposed to have the most eloquent pair of legs in the Western Reserve. Another state has an "infant Phenomenon" on skates who (or is it which?) earns a weekly salary that would make the best freak in a dime museum turn green with envy. Another state boasts an international roller skater, whatever that may mean; and still another peripatetic genius caters to the pious trade by giving exhibitions in aid of a debt-burdened church, or of a parson who would like to see the color of his salary.

Still again the news is flashed over the wires that a Michigan young woman has threatened to commit suicide unless her father allows her to go roller skating. She rejects with scorn her sire's offer to compromise by letting her go to all the minstrel shows that come into the town, and declares that the issue is roller skating or death. With this spirit abroad in the country it is not wonderful that the travelling theatrical companies are doing a poor business.

In the midst of all this hubbub the verdict of the physician and the moralist on the evil results of roller skating is unheeded, and the fun goes merrily on.

Our attention has been called to an article in a late issue of the Portsmouth Journal, but we think the evils therein enumerate are confined to such well conducted rinks as those in our city. The enjoyment seems to be limited to no region or class of persons; indeed, the entire respectability and decorum of those who frequent these resorts is vouched for by the vigilance of the managers and their inflexible rules.

But there is one phase of the subject which deserves candid consideration. Conceding that in this country we need more amusement, and that in a sanitary point it is better to have such recreation as will afford exercise as well as pleasure, the rinks serve a good purpose. But far above this reason is the welcome fact, that as rinks are frequented, drinking saloons and similar idling places are found to be proportionately avoided. Thus it is that this new kind of amusement, in its results, is achieving a far more beneficial effect upon young persons than all the prohibitory laws, temperance lectures or salvation armies combined can accomplish. They are unwittingly reforming our young men, they lead to more elevated tastes in amusements, to a greater respect for virtue and a more determined avoidance of vice. They may, if inefficiently conducted, like any other place of recreation prove deleterious in their effects, but throughout the country they have thus far sensibly diminished the dram shop, the cheap saloons and the ill-favored resorts of idlers, and invited their visitors to a class of amusement at once enjoyable and beneficial, when indulged like any similar recreation to a proper extent.

An eminent New York physician says: "On the whole, I am in favor of the exercise, and think it is a good sign that young Americans should have some such occupation, which combines pleasure and exercise. As a nation we are only too much inclined to neglect physical exercise. Compare the halls of young Americans with those of young Englishmen. The contrast is striking." But of course doctors disagree upon this subject, just as lawyers and other professional men take opposite views of questions.

But the fact is patent that while in other countries the people retain the same habits and character as to their amusements which they may have inherited from their ancestors, and are content therewith, a new departure of recreation flourishes for a while in our land. The rink will have its day. It will amuse and exercise the whole country, to be succeeded by some new discovery which will for a time satisfy the appetite of our people, who, as the natives of other lands come among us with their holiday pastimes and habits of recreation, are beginning to change very materially from grave to gay in their traits in these respects.

Another Worthless Navy.

The duke of Edinburg, commander of the British channel fleet, made a speech in London on the night of March 5th, in which he said that the vessels under his command were fearfully deficient in the equipment required by modern methods of warfare. He was not inclined to be an alarmist, but he knew that England's best ships would be powerless to guard against some of the vessels of the despised South American republics. The fault was not in the construction or the handling of England's men-of-war, but in the absence of repairs rendered necessary by wear and tear and stress of weather. He was not opposed to the building of new and swift cruisers, but he believed that the existing vessels should be kept in serviceable condition, and he implored the people to vote in favor of appropriating the necessary funds for this purpose.

A Silly Farce.

In the case of William Rauscher, second mate, and Ferdinand Kolpen, boatswain of the American ship I. V. Chapman, brought to New York from London on extradition proceedings, charged with the murder of Peter Janssen on the high seas, United States Commissioner Shields rendered a decision in New York on the 5th inst. He discharged Kolpen on the charge of murder, but held him him as a witness against Rauscher. The court entertained the motion of Ex-Judge Dittenhoefer to discharge Rauscher on the charge of murder on the high seas, and held him under the statute to answer a charge of cruel treatment of Janssen, one of the ship's crew. Janssen was only an old sailor, anyway, and his brutal murder by the officers of the ship was only a lark. The idea of punishing them under the American maritime laws is absurd.

The senate on Friday unanimously confirmed President Cleveland's nominations for cabinet officers, Riddleberger withdrawing his lonely opposition to Bayard.

Despatches from London have announced the determination of the English government to run a pipe line across the desert from Suakim to Berber for the purpose of furnishing water to locomotives and troops. The experience of American engineers in pumping oil from the Pennsylvania oil fields to the seaboard proves that the work can be done with ease. The firm of Henry R. Worthington, of New York, the largest builders of pumping engines in the world, and the builders of the engines used in pumping oil along the pipe lines, have received the contract for the pumps, and have sent the first pump.

The stockholders of the New Hampshire Democratic Press company, at a meeting in Concord on the 5th inst., effected a permanent organization by choosing the following as directors: Hon. C. H. Amsden of Penacook, George W. Crockett, John M. Mitchell of Concord, John F. Jones of Contoocook, Samuel Hood, 2d, of Hooksett, Albert S. Waite of Newport, Hon. John F. Clountman of Farmington, David H. Young of Manchester, Charles G. Smith of Haverhill.

At a meeting of the governor and council, last Thursday, Harry Dearborn, who was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in 1877 for placing obstructions on the track of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railway at Northfield, was pardoned, his health being such that he cannot possibly live. The application for pardon of Thomas Wood of Concord, serving a term in the penitentiary for highway robbery, was laid on the table till the next meeting.

A cannon was prematurely discharged Wednesday, March 4th, at Tottenville, L. I., while being fired in honor of the inauguration, and the charge went into a crowd of young men. Joseph Judge's cheek was torn away and his sight destroyed. He is believed to be dying. A dozen others were wounded, some having shattered hands, scalp wounds and ribs broken.

Charles A. King of Albion, N. Y., a leading citizen and teller of the Orleans County National bank, committed suicide Thursday morning. He went into the office of Dr. Bailey and said, "my accounts are all straight, but I am tired of living," took from his pocket a revolver, and shot himself in the brain. He has a small chance for recovery.

—Of two sisters who blew out the gas in Rochester the other evening, one rescued herself by soon gaining an open window, while, according to the Democrat, "the other was attended by Dr. Reed, narrowly escaped death." There appears to be a non sequitur here somewhere.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe

GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything a man could, the sore discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had about lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. This afternoon and evening the last opportunity will be afforded to witness the excellent entertainment offered by the Lucier Comedy company; the afternoon performance is intended more especially for ladies and children, the latter being admitted to the reserved seats for ten cents only. It is a mighty good show for the prices—a good show anyway, in fact.

MATRIMONIAL.

At the Union house, Hampton, on the 5th inst., Miss M. Ardelle Whittier, daughter of O. H. Whittier, Esq., the genial and popular proprietor of the house, was united in marriage to Mr. Everett Townsend of New Jersey, Rev. W. W. Fay of the Congregational church performing the ceremony.

The bride-elect entered the parlor, which was very tastefully decorated, leaning on the arm of her father, preceded by four little girls dressed in white, who strewed flowers in the way; they were followed by the groom, conducting the bride's mother, who is an invalid. The father gave away the bride, and the compact was sealed by a ring. It was altogether a very brilliant as well as pleasing affair, though a very quiet one. The happy couple left on the evening train for Boston, and from there will proceed to New Jersey, where they will make their home.

A WORK THAT IS NEEDED.

Col. Marvin, state agent of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, went to Rochester early one morning this week in answer to a telegram from officer Geo. F. Willey of that town, to arrest and prosecute a French Canadian wood-chopper at a lumber camp in North Barrington. The offender was arraigned before Judge Wentworth of Rochester, and pleaded not guilty, but the active society-man had pretty thoroughly investigated the case, even to the extent of employing Dr. Smith, a veterinary surgeon of Rochester, to hold a post mortem examination of the abused horse, by which means it was found that the hungry animal had been forced to eat chaff, leaves and even coarse sand to alleviate the distressing pangs of famine. Evidence was also discovered that the poor creature had been overloaded, and fearfully whipped to force him to draw a heavy load of cord-wood through a swampy path in the woods. The testimony of the surgeon was amply corroborated by the statements of two eye witnesses who were present when the torture was inflicted. The accused, Theodre Billedeau, admitted on trial that he killed the animal with a manure fork the morning after the alleged beating, which accounted for the battered condition of the dead animal's head. The prisoner was adjudged guilty, and ordered to pay a fine of fifteen dollars and costs, and to give bonds in the sum of one hundred dollars for his good behavior for one year.

While at the lumber clearing Col. Marvin discovered another old, worn-down horse at work, and ordered a Frenchman, its owner, to put it up and give it suitable medical treatment and plenty of good food; the poor creature however had not gone far toward home before it fell and broke a leg, and was mercifully killed to end its distress.

A barn in Farmington was then visited, where a cow suffering from cancerous tumors was discovered. The odor exhaled from the diseased animal was frightful, but other cows were confined in the loathsome atmosphere, and the visitors were told that the milk of the afflicted cow had been utilized until recently when the hired boy refused to milk the cow any longer.

The record of these cases, and of others recently given somewhat in detail, with the publication of the state agent's report for the quarter ending Feb. 28th, showing among other things that the agent had investigated during the quarter two cases in which horses had an eye knocked out and one in which the animal had ribs broken, and that he found four horses and five cows starving to death and three cows actually dead from starvation, show that the good work of the society, energetically as it has been prosecuted ever since it was commenced, has but just begun. But besides aiming to repress cruelty by making it legally dangerous for brutal men to vent their brutal rage on dumb creatures, the society seeks to elevate the public by inculcating humane sentiments in the minds of the young of both sexes. The society, in its ends and the means employed to attain them, merits the most liberal pecuniary aid as well as the hearty moral support of the people at large.

FIRE.

An alarm of fire was given about two o'clock Saturday morning, caused by the burning of a barn on Holmes court belonging to Mr. John O'Brien. The building was wholly destroyed, with a quantity of rags and other paper stock, three peddler carts, and some other goods. Mr. O'Brien's horse was gotten out safely. The barn was consumed in a short time, before the fire department could get there. Mr. Oliver Locke, with a little hand-pump and buckets of water, did excellent service in keeping the house from taking fire.

Miss Margaret Mather will probably appear again at Music hall before the season ends, as Lady Macbeth.

The work on the Rockingham house has made considerable progress during the recent fine weather. The side walls now indicate the height of the building, and the timbers for the roof are being placed in position. The roof is to be covered by Perkins & Sons of Boston, under a contract. The white marble tablet in the centre of the front has given place to handsome brown stone, on which pears "Rockingham" in large letters.

Mr. Daniel C. Leavitt is making extensive improvements upon his new residence at 41 Middle street. Among other changes Mr. Leavitt has removed the bay windows to have them replaced by larger ones. The cellar has been enlarged, and the house otherwise made more convenient and attractive.

An interesting little girl of four years was taken to Hampton from Portsmouth last spring by a lady who was boarding at the Union house. On the Sabbath she was taken to church, where the pastor baptised several children, some of whom were about her age. She was very much interested, and wanted the lady to let her go up and be baptised. She said: "The minister has water enough; see, there is some on his hand now." The lady of course could not take the responsibility of having it done without the consent of the parents, and to pacify the child told her that if the minister wanted her, he would call her to him. She watched eagerly every movement until the service ended; then she looked up with tears in her eyes, saying, "He did not want me." She went back to the hotel with a sorrowful little face, wishing that she could be given to God. The next we heard of the child, after her return to her home, was that she was sick with whooping cough; then word came that she was dead. God had taken her to himself, and she was indeed one of his lambs, and had been gathered to his fold. G.

—A story from London states that to spare extra expense, a wedding party consisting of six persons drove to the church in one cab, five inside and one on the box. After the ceremony was over, the clergyman began to address a few appropriate words to the newly married couple. While he was speaking, the bridegroom made his way to the clerk and said: "I say, I wish you'd ask your guy'nor to cut it short, as we've hired the cab by the hour."

The fishing fleet brought in about 75,000 lbs. of fish on Friday; the prices were low, averaging about $1.25 per hundred lbs. Most of the receipts were shipped to New York, there having been large arrivals at Boston, which to a considerable extent caused the low prices. The principal buyers were Randall & Caswell, and Elvin Newton.

The fishing schooner Solomon Poole, of Gloucester, which sailed from that port Jan. 1st for a Grand bank trip, had not returned up to March 6th, and the gravest fears were entertained for her safety and that of her crew of fourteen men. She has been reported as seen surrounded by ice on the banks, Feb. 9th, and there is still a faint hope of her return.

—It was during a murder trial. A witness for the defence was on the stand. "What do you intend to prove by this witness?" "That the prisoner is insane," replied the attorney. "Does the witness know anything about insanity? Is he an expert?" "Expert?" repeated the lawyer; "well, I should say he was. He knows all about insanity. Why, your honor, he has been as crazy as a loon for the past ten years."

—Perhaps the queerest marriage that ever took place was down in Georgia recently. Squire Christler was called upon to hitch a couple, and on getting down to the river he found it impossible to cross. The groom's case was a desperate one however, and so the squire had him tie a stone to the license and throw it over. He then proceeded to wed them together at the top of his voice. The groom afterward said that it was a sort of half-way of doing business, but as the squire was too far off to receive any pay, he felt perfectly satisfied.

Vegetine is the great health restorer—composed exclusively of barks, roots and herbs. Pleasant to take; children like it.

—"Will the coming man drink wine?" asked Mr. James Parton in an ancient article which almost everybody has forgotten. He won't as a general thing. He will probably think he is drinking wine, but it will be the same old decoction of logwood, cast-off boots and other inscrutable mysteries that the world has been imbibing since the time of Noah.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that it I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Many other cures might be given the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
MRS. S. S. MOODY,
No. 75 Broadway.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a trace of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

Quaker Testimony.

Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has done a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city while bathing some years ago was thrown violently against the life line and the injuries received resulted in an ovarian tumor which grew and enlarged until death seemed certain. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great value in preventing miscarriage and alleviating the pains and dangers of childbirth. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

—According to Edmund Gosse, he saw all of literary Philadelphia when he saw three men, and now about 15,000 Philadelphians are spelling his name with two o's.

A general court martial has been ordered for the trial of Medical Director Philip S. Wales on charges preferred by Secretary Chandler of neglect of duty in the administration of the office of surgeon general of the navy, and of chief of the bureau of medicine and surgery.

Take Warning.

At this season of the year when so many people become subject to attacks of biliousness, kidney troubles, constipation and all the list of troubles that arise from being housed up, or that are brought on by colds or exposure, it is the part of prudence to take warning from the experience of others and provide ourselves with means of escape from similar troubles. So while is the fame of Kidney-Wort, that great remedy for all kidney and liver trouble, that almost every one knows of its great virtue for such cases it should be kept in every household ready for an emergency.

The local legislature at Victoria, British Columbia, has passed a bill to prevent Chinese immigration. It goes into effect upon the close of the present session, a fortnight hence. It imposes a fine of $50, or six months' imprisonment on any Chinaman, not a previous resident, who attempts to enter British Columbia. It is stated that the early date on which the act becomes a law will enable its enforcement during the interval before an order for disallowance by the Dominion government arrives.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melins Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. K nn dy, Rond ut, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for fifteen and Diarrhœa, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for those ers of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELINS.

Harrison Street

THE DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Rai road, is shown by the following from any town. The writer is none other than Mr. Delleven, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 18 4.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with sev re attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Hea ches. I sought it was due to impure blood and a disordered stomach, the system I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It is the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of it at nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DERVERE.

DR. KE NEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is fast as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, R ndout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for m the time I was sixteen years old. I had consult d various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had ceased to put up in cases of ever re overs, and health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It is the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.

as an anti-malaria medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of the medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation, and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

"I have thee on the hip," cried rheumatism seizing his victim and tossing him on a suffering bed. "Not so," he cried, "not so! Wait, my ancient foe, just five minutes, until the boy brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, then we'll see who wins the day."

—"What's the reason you didn't speak to Jones when he passed us just now?" "He insulted me the other day." "What did he say to you?" "He called me an old ass." "Called you an old ass! How ridiculous! Why, you are not old."

Disgust.

The disgust that many feel for worthless medicines should not prevent sufferers from using a truly reliable preparation like Wetherell's Sarsaparilla. This is one of the preparations which has real merit. Try it. $1. Six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or will send for it.

—There cannot be a doubt that coming science will equalize climate. The climatometer is coming. Fuel will be unnecessary. When a bachelor returns to his rooms in the evening he will simply telephone "Turn on the tropics, with a dash of British Columbia."

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

—At a recent examination of a young man who applied for a certificate admitting him to the active field of education, the examiner asked: "What is a compound fraction?" The man replied: "A compound fraction is a fraction of a fraction and partakes of the verb and adjective." "That's a new way of answering the question," said the examiner, "but I reckon you are right."

18 Negroes!

Who left the United States for Liberia last year have lately returned, being unable to stand the climate. Everybody going to a new climate should have a bottle of Sulphur Bitters with them as a safeguard against disease. — Hartford Courant.

—A high school girl in Massachusetts being examined on Milton's "Paradise Lost," said that Moses lived on Mount Helicon, in Greece, and that he wrote the book of Psalms. In the same school the question was asked, "who was Cadmus?" and the answer was, "He was the first letter-carrier in Greece."

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in; whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by taking Parker's Tonic when you feel "a little out of sorts." It would be money in your pocket. One hour of good, rejoicing health is worth half a dozen hours full of languor and pain.

—"Pa," observed John Grap, Jr., "I don't exactly get onto this Egyptian business; do you?" "Certainly." "Well, sas! What is El Mahdi fighting for?" "For his country." "Well, what is John Bull fighting for?" "For his country." "For whose country, pa, El Mahdi's?" "Yes; shut up and let me read."

Especially Desirable for Children.

A lady physician at the Child's Hospital, at Albany, N. Y., says: "We have been using Scott's Emulsion with great success, nearly all our patients are suffering from bone diseases and our physicians find it very beneficial."

—The spirit of the press—Cider.

—Not exactly what he meant to say: Brown—"Oh, how do, Black? I'm almost ashamed of myself for not calling before. But I've put it off and put it off, until it did seem that I never would call." Black—"Don't mention it, my dear fellow. You are very kind, I'm sure."

A RELIABLE PREPARATION.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Never before in the History of Medicine has a Preparation become universally related as Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium. It goes right to the spot, and builds the system up as no other Medicine.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

PREPARED BY A. S. WETHERELL, Druggist and Chemist, — LOWELL, MASS. —

INOCULATED POISON!

Some eight years ago I became the victim of a fearful blood poison, communicated by a nurse to my infant, and choice throughout the body, and suffered for six long years. The Mercury and Potash treatment seemed to drive the poison further into my system only to break out in worse form on other portions of my body. Three months ago I began taking Swift's Specific, and it has cured me sound and well. Its other great blessing which has come to mankind in years.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

CELEBRATED

The fittest subjects for fever and ague, and remittents, are the debilitated, bilious and nervous. To such persons, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords adequate protection by increasing vital stamina and the resistant power of the constitution, and by checking irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels. Moreover, it eradicates malarial complaints of an obstinate type, and stands alone unequalled among our national remedies.

The Widow.

"There is something wonderfully fascinating about widows," said Jack. "They hold a great advantage over the unmarried girls that come in competition with them. While your miss is blushing and putting a fellow to all sorts of desperate attempts to make himself agreeable, your widow is quietly making him think he is the handsomest and smartest man in the world. You see she puts him in good humor with himself and then he is sure to be in good humor with her. She knows to an ounce just how much flattery a man will take from a woman, and she also knows that this earth does not contain the full amount. She is the terror of her sex. The married women are afraid of her, for she knows too much, and the girls detest her, for they feel she is a rival in the field with tactics of which they are in sublime ignorance. Naturally the unhappy position excites sympathy, and the men view her as a sacred trust bequeathed to them by some departed saint that they are bound to respect. Then they are so cozy, comfortable and confidential. They tell you all their little woes and troubles, and hopes and annoyances, and the first thing you know they make you feel like a father to them. Yes, widows as widows are angels, but as wives—well, as I am married to one of them, I am not at liberty to say.

Splendors of Stamboul's Temples.

A French traveler has just returned from Stamboul with a wonderful story of the sights he saw. He is eloquent about two thrones, of enamelled gold, with incrustations of pearls, rubies and emeralds. In another room he saw two caskets, even more magnificent, studded with rubies and diamonds, in which the hairs from the Prophet's beard are jealously preserved. There are also several curious instruments made of gold and thickly studded with gems on the back, which were used as portable "scratching posts." Another room was hung with armor and scepters; caskets and escritoires lay on the table. The old escritoires are all shaped like a pistol; the inkstand is placed at the spot occupied by the trigger, and the reeds and a penknife are in the barrel. There are also inkstands in the shape of trays, each containing five saucers, for ink, dyeing powder and other odds and ends used by the writers. In another room are the costumes of all the Sultans down to Mahmoud II. Each of the costumes has a silk scarf attached, together with a magnificently chased dagger hung in diamond aigrette. Then, heaped pell-mell, are the keys of the fortresses of the empire, and finally comes the sacred treasure, consisting of the relics of Islam; the mantle and standard of the Prophet, his sword and bow; the swords of the first Caliphs, and the oldest manuscripts of the Koran.—New York Sun.

Preferred the Fiddle in the Grocery.

One night while John McCullough was playing "Virginius" in Little Rock a lean, old fellow from the hills, while standing at the foot of the opera house stairs, was accosted by an acquaintance, who asked: "Uncle Billy, are you going to see the show?" "What sort o' show is it, Lige?" "One o' these here actin' shows, whar men an' women come out on a platform an' bow an' scrape." "Hosses in it, Lige?" "No hosses, Uncle Billy." "Then I don't b'lieve I'll go up. I got enough o' that sort o' thing when Abe Spiller's school shed down. We've seed all they can do. Come on there an let's go 'round here whar that fellow is jaylin' a fiddle in a grocery."—Arkansaw traveler.

Children's Likes and Dislikes.

Some people think it perfectly right that children should be made to eat everything that is set before them; but in carrying out this singular theory too often the gravest injury results. An eminent city clergyman told me the other day that the mere sight of liver cooked in any form made him ill. When quite a little fellow his stern father, who was one of the sort that would permit no "nonsense," as he expressed it, with regard to children's likes or dislikes as far as food was concerned, insisting that they should not exercise any taste or choice in the matter, required him to eat some liver which had been put on his plate. There was something about the particular piece of liver that set the child against it, but he was forced to swallow the repulsive morsel, and ever since his stomach has rebelled even at the thought of the gross piece of tyranny which was practiced on him. It is a sound rule for all of us that with respect to food our likes and dislikes are the best guide as to what is good for us, and it is safe to eat upon the plan that whatever we relish will prove on the average harmless and wholesome, and whatever produces disgust will prove, as a general thing, indigestible. A recent writer on this point has fully expressed my opinion in saying that "nothing can be more wrong than to make children eat fat, for example, when they don't want it. A healthy child likes fat and eats as much of it as he can. If he shows signs of disgust at fat that proves him to be of a bilious temperament, and he ought never to be forced to eat it against his will. A good many of us have disordered digestion in after-life simply because we were compelled to eat rich food in childhood which we felt instinctively was unsuitable to us."

In certain portions of West Africa the natives eat all enemies taken in war.

Make a Beginning.

We sometimes dream of certain things we would like to do; we even go so far as to plan some things out. But we never begin the execution of them. Once begun, we should be reasonably sure of carrying them on to completion. The real hindrance is the fact that we never begin. Of course, for anything of importance there is need that there be wise planning. But planning may be so elaborate as to absorb all the energies, and the execution never be undertaken. The men who achieve are those who go ahead, plan or no plan, and do something. The great works of the world have been accomplished because those concerned have started them, made a beginning and carried them through. This is equally true in proportion on a smaller scale in the private sphere. Many of us can accomplish much more than we do by simply going ahead and doing the things that present themselves to be done. This applies, of course, more especially to work aside from but collateral to our ordinary avocation.

He Explained.

"Samuel," she said, as she suddenly looked up from her knitting, "what is this 'ere railroad war I see referred to in the papers?"

"They're bin cuttin' down rates, Hanner," he replied.

"What for?"

"Way, it's just this: S'posen there were four of us farmers a-haulin' gravel from Liverpool to Bungtown for so much a load, and half of us lyin' idle half the time for want of loadin.' I cut the price down five cents a load, an' the gravel begins to fly. Naybur Smith he cuts five below me, and Johnson goes below him, and Tompkins gits right down to haulin' fur nothin' an' furnishin' his own axle-grease. It comes my turn fur a drop, an' what do I do but offer to haul gravel from Liverpool fur nothin', an' load with stone from Bungtown at the same time."

"But you wouldn't make anything."

"Exactly, Hanner—exactly. All I could hope fur would be the benefits of leg exercise. All the railroads make out o' this is to keep their sir side tracks clear fur sheep pasture."—Wall Street News.

DISFIGURING HUMORS HUMILIATING ERUPTIONS Itching and Burning! TORTURES

I have tried for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure and wh- use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "work," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

—Ristori played at Athens, Georgia, a night or two ago. The orchestra elicited thunders of applause by playing "Billy in the Low Grounds" during the execution of the Earl of Essex, while Queen Elizabeth yielded up the ghost to the tune of "Dixie."

I have taken one bottle of DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR for Heart Disease and find it all I could desire.—A. A. Holbrook, Worcester, Mass. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

—"Ma," said Johnny, "where do good good little boys go?" "To heaven, I suppose," replied ma. "I don't mean when they're dead," answered Johnny, in a tone of disgust; "where do they go when they're alive?" "I don't know," remarked the mother absently; "I suppose they stay at home with their mammas." "Oh," said Johnny, "I thought may be their mammas sometimes took 'em to the theatre." Johnny's mother caught on.

Dr. H. L. Bowker, Massachusetts State Assayer, purchased himself from several wholesale druggists the samples he analyzed of "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" Whiskey. It cannot, therefore, be said that the samples were different from the article sold by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston. He pronounced it of remarkable purity and excellence. A Question in Dispute.

If we may credit the despatches from Washington at the close of last week, "the New Hampshire delegation" were not very much gratified at the prospect of retaining the naval office of the Boston custom house as a New Hampshire emolument.

Massachusetts has a cabinet member now, and these little crumbs of comfort will not be allowed to blow over the line into our state, without an effort on the part of the Bay State democrats to prevent it. In fact, the democrats have no hesitancy in affirming that New Hampshire had the secretaryship of the navy and the naval office during the last administration, and now she must stand back and let others have a chance.

These fair and equitable divisions of the spoils will be a source of annoyance to the leaders for some time to come. As to the naval office, the present problem is, not whether Col. George or Col. Kent shall receive the appointment, but whether any New Hampshire man shall succeed Col. Hall.

The Secretary of the Navy.

Our townspeople and neighbors on either side of the Piscataqua have of course a lively interest in everything that pertains to the navy, and although much was said in the newspapers concerning the probable appointment of Mr. Jones, as well as Ex-Congressman Morse and Gen P. A. Collins of Massachusetts to this position, still it is pretty clear that the president in the selection of his New England cabinet adviser regarded the wishes of the independents, expressed or implied, in this respect. Neither of the gentlemen named suited the refined tastes of the Back Bay region of Boston, and when the late president of the Portsmouth Brewing Co. went to Albany to press Patrick Collins, the thing became overdone, and Mr. Cleveland decided that Patrick was not the man for Galway. Mr. Jones we are told was never seriously considered by himself or the president as a candidate, as he had enough to attend to without devoting his time to re-establishing a navy. Mr. Morse preferred to be invited to the place, and would not seek it. Thus it was that gentle shepherds of the fold who subscribed toward the defeat of the man from Maine were to be recognized, and the blue blood of Essex came to be represented in the cabinet. The new secretary of the navy is the prime of vigor, and is of Yankee stock, as will be seen by the following sketch:

William Crowninshield Endicott, of Massachusetts, was born in Salem, the city of his residence, in 1827. His father was William Putnam Endicott, descended in a direct line from old John Endicott, the de facto governor under the charter, and his mother was a daughter of Jacob Crowninshield, a member of Congress, and Jefferson's secretary of the navy. William C. Endicott attended the Salem schools, graduated from Harvard college in the class of 1847, studied at the law school and with Nathaniel J. Lord, and was admitted to the bar in 1850. A few years later he formed a partnership with the late J. W. Perry, and continued with him until his appointment by Governor Washburn a justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts in 1873. He was a member of the Salem common council in 1852, 1853, and 1867, and in the latter year was elected president of that board. He was city solicitor from 1858 to 1863.

Judge Endicott resigned his place on the supreme bench in 1882 on account of his health and made an extended tour of the continent. For a few months past he has been one of the counsel of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company. He was a whig down to 1860, when he joined the democratic party. He was the regular democratic candidate for governor last autumn, and notwithstanding the Butler defection, he ran considerably ahead of his state ticket and received many votes from outside his party. He is a member of the Historical Society, and one of the board of overseers of Harvard college. He is generally regarded as a dignified and able lawyer. He is fine looking, being over six feet in height, and having a fine head of iron-gray hair and regular features. He married his cousin, a daughter of George Peabody, and has two children, a son and a daughter.

The Secretary of War.

William Collins Whitney of New York city is the youngest member of the new cabinet. He was born in Conway, at an at about 1800 inhabitants in Franklin county, Massachusetts, on the fifth day of July, 1842, so that he is not yet forty-three years old. His father was General James S. Whitney, an old line democrat, who was superintendent of the Springfield armory from 1854 to 1860, and collector of the port of Boston. The new secretary of the navy graduated from Williston seminary at Easthampton, entered Yale college in 1859, divided with his classmate, Professor William G. Sumner, the first prize for English essays, and was chosen orator of his class. He graduated from the Harvard law school in 1865, and studied law in New York city with Abraham R. Lawrence, now a judge of the supreme court of New York. In 1871, Mr. Whitney took a prominent part in the organization of the Young Men's Democratic Club, and in 1872 he served as an inspector of schools in New York city. He was active in the crusade against the Tweed ring, and attracted the friendship of Mr. Tilden, which he has never lost. He became corporation counsel of New York on the downfall of the Tweed ring, and made a reputation in the litigation over fraudulent claims against the city by his celerity, energy and ability in clearing off the cases. It is estimated that his direct savings to the city amounted to $2,000,000. It is said that it was Mr. Tilden's purpose, had he been elected, to offer Mr. Whitney a place in his cabinet. He was a pronounced advocate of a specie basis for the currency during the inflation craze of 1874, and he is regarded as a member of the reform wing of the democratic party. His wife is a daughter of Senator Henry B. Payne of Ohio, and he occupies a high social position in New York. His relationship to Senator Payne has been made the basis of insinuations that he will represent the interests of the Standard Oil company in the cabinet. Mr. Whitney has an attractive personality and has been popular in school, at college and in society. He is about six feet in height, with a rather light complexion, dark hair and erect figure.

MRS. ALBERTINA JOHNSON. tf

—When Rome was burned fiddles had not been invented, says a writer, and the New England story is therefore declared a myth. Probably he played an accordeon.

—"A man who works in a New York distillery claims to have seen a ghost." A man who works in a distillery is liable to see anything, things—unless his mouth is closed will be a pollock.

—"Is your husband sleep sound?" asked a friend of his wife in the course of a call upon Mrs. Sandell. "Sound?" responded Mrs. Sandell. "Why, I should say! I don't think anybody else ever heard him snore. It's enough to stop an alarm clock." The caller murmured that she knew it was.

—A San Francisco father entered a saloon one evening, and, to his infinite surprise and unspeakable mortification, discovered his only son seated at a card table indulging in the wicked game of poker. He bounced the youth unceremoniously; then, looking at the vacant chair at the table, he noted that his hair had left a very promising hand, and so he sat right down and finished it and raked in the pot.

—Robert L. Winthrop proposes that inauguration day shall be restored to April 30th. April 1st would be a more appropriate time for the ceremonies. Several thousand statesmen who expect cabinet positions get badly fooled on inauguration day.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Duck Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PERM, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." E. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

Living People

who are now living send us their testimonials. We publish nothing from dead persons, or give false names.

people, who are prominent and influential, send us their testimonials, certifying what a vast amount of good Sulphur Bitters has done them.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe Sulphur Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had about lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

A running sore for 14 years cured. HENRY H. GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything a man could, the sores discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur Bitters have saved my life. There is nothing like them. I earnestly entreat all afflicted with impure blood to try them and be cured.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores.

Sulphur Bitters

They Will Cure You.

The well known Manager of the Raymond Excursions to California, I. A. WHITCOMB, says: No other medicine can equal Sulphur Bitters for biliousness and dyspepsia. They have cared me when all other remedies failed.

THE WEATHER.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 4 degrees above zero.

Sky clear.

SOLAR ECLIPSE.

There will be an annular eclipse of the sun on the 16th inst., beginning in New England at about twelve minutes past twelve o'clock, noon, "eastern standard time."

HIS SPOUSE WAS NOT PRESENT.

"Is your wife here?" enquired a robust but attractive dancer at the inauguration ball in Franklin hall, of her partner, as they conversed while the floor managers were arranging the sets. "No," said he; "it's Lent, you know, and she wouldn't come." "Say, what are ye giving us?" returned the fair enquirer with a slight foreign accent; "ye are the third gintleman that has told me the same story, and do ye think that I don't keep Lent as well as the best of ye?" Just then the music struck up a lively air, and if the conversation proceeded further in that direction the voices were drowned in the caller's utterance "Address partners."

"VERY HUNGRY."

The "Charge of the Six Hundred" was but as a mild skirmish compared with the charge of hungry democrats in this vicinity upon those of the party leaders whom they think will have the serving out of the official pap. For a quarter century the aforesaid leaders have been accustomed at every election to promise offices most liberally as rewards for partisan zeal, without once being called on to redeem their promises; the force of habit is strong, and during the late campaign the promises were more liberal in number than ever, and now that a democratic national victory has unexpectedly caused the promises to fall due, the promisers are in a quandary. Every office has been promised over and over again, and the scramble is tremendous; and it is to be feared that there will not only be much disappointment but a great deal of dissatisfaction in the ranks of the unterrified ere the spoils are all distributed.

RUNAWAYS.

The horses attached to the hook and ladder truck, while going to the fire Saturday morning, took fright at the sparks issuing from two of the steamers which were stationed at the south millbridge, and quickly turning dashed up Pleasant street at a rapid run; the driver was thrown off, but fortunately escaped injury, and the horses were stopped before any damage had been done to either the animals or the truck.

The horse attached to one of Hett Brothers' baggage and express wagons took fright near the railroad station about noon on Saturday, and running down Deer street to Market street, turned toward Noble's island, and collided with several vehicles, the first being a carriage belonging to Mr. John I. Trefethen of Newington; Mr. Trefethen's wife was in the carriage, and was thrown out by the shock, but escaped without serious harm. The runaway next hit a wagon belonging to Orlando Goodwin of York, and careened on a wagon owned by Daniel Hammond of Eliot, badly damaging both, and was finally stopped in front of Mr. George Scott's. The baggage wagon was somewhat used up during the melee.

WHY HE LAUGHED.

"Say, Tom," called out one of a little squad of smiling democrats gathered on Daniel street, Saturday afternoon, to a stout and jolly-looking navy yard employe who came rolling up street from the landing, "Say, Tom, how did you like the music? Rather pleased you, didn't it? I saw you laughing as you came up street."

"What music?" said Tom, with a puzzled expression on his face.

"Why, the music made by that band of good democrats that escorted you fellows up from the landing on inauguration day."

"Oh! them fellers; yes, I remember. But I wasn't laughing at them or their music—I didn't care anything about them—was too long on the police force to care for anything they could say or do. I was only laughing to think what a job the democratic congress would have, to appropriate money enough to keep the yard going in copper if that crowd once got a foothold there. I tell you, none of that gang will ever be sent to state prison for earning an honest living. It makes an outside door-mat tremble, and try to hide under the steps, to see one of them fellows go by. They—but where in the deuce has he gone?" the closing query being addressed to the squad of democrats generally, on noticing the disappearance of his interlocuter; "I intended to explain things to him, but it seems he don't want to learn. Well, so long, boys!" and he rolled along once more on his way home, his jovial features unshadowed by any cloud of displeasure.

THE LUCIER COMEDY CO.

The Lucier Comedy company closed a very successful week at Music hall on Saturday evening, having played every night during the week, and given matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The company is a good one, and the entertainment afforded by it is equal and in many respects superior to most of the fifty-cent variety shows on the road.

On Friday evening there was a little act not down in the bills. It has long been the custom for a lot of hoodlums and hobbedehoys to run for gallery tickets to such shows as they care to attend, and at the close of the first act to make a rush for whatever seats may be unoccupied in the balcony, where they proceed to make themselves so "fresh" as to annoy respectable people all over the house. The management proposing to stop this performance—we hope they will stick to their resolution—requested Officer Hobbs on Friday evening to clear the balcony seats of their unauthorized occupants, and he did so; and while he was clearing one side of the centre, the crowd on the other side hissed him vigorously. The elder Lucier, a blind man and an excellent cornetist, was playing a solo at the time, and playing it beautifully; and supposing the uproar and hissing to be intended for him, he ceased playing, and in energetic but unexceptionable language told the hoodlums some very plain truths regarding themselves. Mr. Hobbs, who is now, as when formerly on the force, an efficient and faithful officer, paid no attention to the hissing, but proceeded to clear out the "geese" the same as he had their friends.

The hoodlum element has had altogether too much swing in Music hall, and it is to be hoped a new leaf is to be turned over in this respect.

Mr. Wm. P. Walker, at his tailoring establishment on Market square, is receiving a large stock of goods suitable for spring suitings, which he will make up in the best style at reasonable prices.

We shall read with much interest the next ringing editorial in the Times in denunciation of narrow partisanship in the selection of navy yard workmen, and of running the navy yard as a "vote factory." The writing of such articles is an easy matter for the Times, it having been used to it for many years.

Elder George W. Sederquist of Salem, Mass., who is well known to Adventists in this city through his having frequently supplied the Advent pulpit here during the long time the society was without a settled pastor, has resigned his charge in Salem, to become an evangelist. He will open a series of meetings in Hartford, Conn., early in April.

It is rumored that there is considerable displeasure expressed by the members of the Young Democratic club, alias "Little Tammany," a club of unterrified but very youthful and inexperienced democrats organized to look after the distribution of patronage by the Cleveland administration, on account of their being wholly ignored by the powers that be. These young gentlemen will by-and-bye learn that they are only very small toads in a very large puddle.

There were a great many country teams in town Saturday, on wheels, the drivers reporting the roads in the surrounding districts to be generally in good condition for travel, though a little rough. There was considerable hay brought in, of good quality, and it was soon disposed of on the Parade at $15 per ton.

Postmaster Fay; that's what it is be, if Hon. Frank Jones supports him for the position, as is generally reported to be the case. The advocates of the claims of Major David Urch and Mr. Winthrop Hoyt may as well make a note of this, and save themselves useless trouble.

Willis E. Dodge, Esq., night editor of the Manchester Union, was in this city on Saturday, and according to custom spent a portion of his brief visit in a social chat with the Chronicle editor.

Hon. Frank Jones and Hon. Marcellus Eldredge arrived home on Saturday from Washington.

The weather on Saturday and Sunday was the genuine spring article,—thick clouds and chilling air one hour, warm sunshine the next, wind dodging half around the compass, and occasionally a "spit" of snow. People who enjoy such weather no doubt liked it.

Rear Admiral Thomas T. Craven, on the retired list of the navy, and Medical Inspector C. J. Cleborne, on the active list, were in this city on Saturday.

There were very heavy arrivals of fish on Saturday and Sunday, but the prices ruled very low, in some cases only $1 a hundred being paid. Elvin Newton on Sunday shipped to New York seventy-five boxes, averaging 500 lbs. to a box. One hundred thousand pounds are reported to have been brought in during Saturday night.

The fishing schooner Albert Woodbury, Downs master, arrived at this port last week with a full fare, but without selling proceeded to Boston, as she was to take on board there a portion of her outfit.

At the American house, Boston, rooms are now let with or without meals. Location central, house newly furnished.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

—Mr. Sampson is a very irascible man, and is in the habit of punishing his boys very severely. Not long since he observed that one of his sons needed a new pair of pants. He scolded the boy for wearing out his clothes so fast. "Pa, no pants can last any time the way you hit," replied the son reproachfully.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person. Three bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day. Words cannot express our feelings towards you. Geo. W. Green, Campti, La.

—Fair Tr gedienne—"And so you liked my performance." Gallant Admirer—"O, it was the very acme of tragic art! But I am almost sorry I went; I caught a fearful cold." "Cold! why, the room was warm." "Yes, but the floor was so damp." "Indeed! what could have caused that?" "The tears." She gave him a free ticket for the season.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

—A Newark butcher who was asked to contribute to a charitable institution one day last week made a very poor impression when he said: "Sorry, ladies, I can't do anything to-day, but I will send you up a quarter in the morning." They thought he was "horrid" until they learned by illustration in the morning that a butcher's quarter was a quarter of prime beef.

Doctors!

Of all the different schools in the country, have thousands die every year of Bright's disease of the kidneys, who could be living to-day if they had used Sulphur Bitters. They are unequalled in the world for all diseases of the kidneys.—New Haven Union.

Hannah Sawyer, a well known Friend minister, died in Dover, March 4th, at the age of eighty years. She was born in Dover, May 28th, 1804, and married Levi Sawyer in July, 1826. She had been a minister for over forty years, and was noted for her charities to the poor and her attendance upon the sick.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

Frightful Whooping-Cough.

Dr. Edward C. Hughes, Rockford, Ill., (Graduated N. Y. City 1866,) voluntarily testifies:—"Some years ago my only son, aged four, had an attack of the whooping cough, characterized by the most violent spasms I have ever seen in a practice of 18 years. Had several consultations with eminent physicians and all ordinary and extraordinary remedies were resorted to. The paroxysms were simply frightful. I believed the child would die. I reluctantly tried Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer and the effect was magical. Three bottles cured him."

Wm. B. Corbin and John H. Gaines killed each other in a saloon fight at Grant, Ky., March 5th. Both were hightoned.

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is readily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

The Maine legislature adjourned Saturday. The biennial sessions are no longer than the average of the annual sessions.

Housed Up.

For the last three months a great many people have been housed up, because they have not felt able to withstand the stormy wintry weather that has prevailed. Most unfortunately the confinement and the close air of modern houses during the winter season, is very enervating, and the system needs help to enable all the organs to do their proper work. If these organs have been inactive the consequences are showing themselves in the bilious condition of the system, or in constipation of the bowels, or in disorders of the kidneys, with all the aches and pains that accompany these complaints. If you are in this condition from any cause you should make a faithful trial of that well known remedy Kidney-Wort. It acts at the same time on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and is therefore especially fitted to correct this torpid condition of the system.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melins Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Dizziness, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELINS.
59 Harrison Street.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 18 4.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headache. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered stomach the season I was advised by my FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of the nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is fully filled as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for nine time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had also a given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of a stomach, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.

MALARIA.

as an anti-malaria medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Housed Up.

For the last three months a great many people have been housed up, because they have not felt able to withstand the stormy wintry weather that has prevailed. But unfortunately the confinement and the close air of modern houses during the winter season, is very enervating, and the system needs help to enable all the organs to do their proper work. If these organs have been inactive the consequences are showing themselves in the bilious condition of the system, or in constipation of the bowels, or in disorders of the kidneys, with all the aches and pains that accompany these complaints. If you are in this condition from any cause you should make a faithful trial of that well known remedy Kidney-Wort. It acts at the same time on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and is therefore especially fitted to correct this torpid condition of the system.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Never before in the History of Medicine has a Preparation been so Universally ruled as Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium. It goes right to the spot, and builds the system up as no other Medicine.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

Preserving His Reputation.

He had been living on crusts and apple-cores and the remains of free lunches for weeks, and the best bed he could scare up was a box half-full of musty straw. He was begging nickels of pedestrians yesterday when a gentleman took him into a restaurant and said to the proprietor:

"Here, give this man some sort of a meal. I suppose he will be glad to fill up on most anything."

When the waiter approached to take his order the tramp said:

"Now, then, make me a nice piece of toast, browned evenly on both sides, and bring it here with quail on it. I want my beef-steak rare—rare, mind you, and if you have any genuine Mocha coffee in the place you may make me a cup."

The waiter went off and brought in a glass of milk and some corn-beef and bread, and the man shoved it back and left the place with the remark:

"I had an idea when I came in here that there wasn't any tone about this place. Some folks don't seem to know the difference between a hash house and a banquet hall."

When the average American won't kick there is something about him that ought to be investigated.—Detroit Free Press.

Jokes.

"A little nonsense now and then Is relished by the wisest men."

"All things are big with jest," said Herbert, and a certain learned and noted preacher recently wrote an excellent article showing that the Bible, the best of books, has a vein of humor running through parts of it. Jokes are as "old as the hills." They came into existence with man, and have kept pace with him, and in this age of rapid transit, travel around the world in less than eighty days, making the hoary world laugh and grow fat. No matter that the jokes that come from all quarters of the globe, and seem so new and rich to us, are the same old jokes that the learned and serious ancients laughed over thousands of years ago. The man who is too serious to enjoy a good laugh over a good joke is too serious to live. There is something woefully deficient in the composition of such a one and he cannot be a pleasant companion, hence finds life something of a burden. It is an incomprehensible fact that the men who have laughed loudest and longest over a witty story or a rich joke are men of the greatest learning and deepest thought, philosophers, sages, preachers, lawyers, editors, and all professional people. It is not possible for two well-read or well-educated men to be together an hour, no matter how important the business that called the meeting, without one or both relating a good joke or story, or an anecdote of some great man great and famous in his day. There is no trait of character so strongly developed in human nature as curiosity, and it is curiosity that makes us listen so eagerly to everything that is told of both the dead and living; their conversation, their disposition, character or appearance, and we eagerly accept it. Whether it be true or false, kind or unkind, is no affair of ours; it is "good to know," hence acceptable.—Cleve and Leader.

The Gift of Expression.

Every grade of intelligence, from common dullness to talent of the highest and most brilliant order, depends for its degree upon the possession and use of this power—the gift of expression. Expression is commonly associated with speech; we use it, however, in the more general sense of whatever tends to make public the inner life. Conversation, public speaking, all writings, paintings and songs, inventions of every kind, and every act, public and private, which goes to make up life's history; all these are channels for the expression of human nature. Genius, to be real, must give forth true expression; and it is not genius unless it meets with the stamp of public approval. All may not be able to tell what is in them, but all can recognize the truth of what is told. The utterances of genius may fall temporarily upon dull ears, and the utterer sink, discouraged, into an obscure grave, for genius can not live without its compliment of appreciation; but in the progress of the race, a point is reached where the truths his utterance crystalized are seen to shine forth in all their beauty, and thenceforth his name is canonized.

The Anthropophagi.

William Churchill, in an interesting lecture on his personal experiences among the Cannibals of Southern Polynesia, reported by the San Francisco Chronicle, said:

As regards color, the inhabitants of the Fiji Islands are copper-colored; the women are tall, willowy, and well formed. The son of one of the kings of those regions was six feet two inches tall and weighed 240 pounds, and was the finest specimen of physical manhood the speaker ever saw. Farther north the color of the natives was black, and in New Guinea a charcoal mark was lighter than the tint of the native skin. There are no cannibals in the Fiji group, as is commonly supposed, no man having been eaten there for six years. South of the Fiji, toward Australia, is a group of 180 islands known as the Solomon group. In these islands cannibalism is daily practiced. The speaker related an incident that happened to him on the island of Malicollo.

Having landed from his schooner he approached the town, which is always built a few rods from the shore, and found a number of women seated in the largest house. He addressed them in their dialect, but they would not speak, though it is as hard for a woman to keep silence in those regions as it is in a more civilized community. The women left the house, and he followed them to the shore, where a native had just landed from his canoe. This man was followed by about two hundred others, in their canoes, who carried among them a dead native. This man they had killed in a war on a neighboring tribe. The man was tied with grass ropes and carried to a public square by the women, all taking care not to touch the body. Three men then extracted the entrails from the body, while others dug a large hole in the earth. The cavities of the body were filled with heated stones; then the body was placed in the hole, and heated stones heaped on it. After a two-hours' dance and incantation the body was thought to be done to a turn, and was taken from its roasting-place and carried around on sticks and introduced to each warrior. It was then placed in a sitting position and was approached by the chief, who inquired if it had been satisfactorily treated, and as the body did not avail itself of the opportunity of expressing its gratification the priest of the town answered for it. After this ceremony the body was cut with knives of stone used only for sacrificial purposes.

The choicest morsels of the roasted flesh, according to the native taste, were the upper arms and the thighs, and these human delicacies were reserved to tickle the palate of the chief. The rest of the body was divided among the warriors, with the exception of the head, which was given to the priest, and the hands and feet, which were contemptuously handed to the women. The pieces of human flesh were all placed on banana leaves and each man waited until all had been allotted their share. Then the toasted portions were poised simultaneously on wooden forks and deposited down the cavernous throats of the assembled cannibals, exceeding relish being shown in the feast of human flesh, though the next day most of them had the colic. The greatest care was taken not to touch the flesh with the fingers. The leaves of banana were thrown in a large fire, the wooden forks were placed in a running stream and were allowed to remain there for three days. The only men who touched the body were those who prepared it for cooking, and these were driven into the woods with stones, where they were compelled to stay for three days without eating. After this probationary period they were allowed to return, having been thought to have expiated the fault of touching the human remains.

The Massachusetts Democracy.

Some of the Boston democrats are highly dissatisfied with the selection of the secretary of war. Endicott, as the New England member of the cabinet. They contend that while Endicott will lend honor to the administration he will not help gain democratic votes in the state of Massachusetts, or build up the party. Now if the democrats of Massachusetts really want to change the time-honored policy of the silver-tails who have, before the influx of the Irish vote, studied to keep the party "conveniently small," so that the federal offices they did not help to win could be easily divided, they miss their guess as to Endicott. It is of no use to prate about the great ability and popularity of Gen. Collins; the Irish vote in the state can be secured if there is any danger of losing it, without paying for it with a cabinet appointment. But what is needed is not the cancellation of Broad street but of Beacon street.

The party leaders are agreed, and Mr. Cleveland also is of opinion that the Independent element can recruit some excellent material for the democratic party, of what it is sadly in need. In case of an election too, how could the blarney of Collins compare in effect with the efficacy of the flow of Standard Oil which the secretary of the navy could turn on. Mr. Cleveland, under the suggestions of Daniel Manning and Frank Jones, has been wise in these matters of selection. It is decidedly slow in the Massachusetts democracy, while admitting that Endicott is the ablest man for the position, to contend that the president should make the appointment with a view of aiding the party to do in Massachusetts what it should do without his aid. As far as the interests of the country are concerned, the appointment is an eminently proper one, and reflects credit upon the good judgment of the president.

A New Organ.

The democracy believe that there is need of a new organ to be established at Concord, which shall be a leading light to the party, and perhaps in some degree attain the position in democratic journalism which the Patriot, under the able editorial conduct of the late Gov. Hill, held as to its party in New Hampshire in years long past.

To this end, there have been meetings at Concord, and an organization effected which promises to take the shape of a corporation which shall purchase of Mr. Pearson a newspaper now printed at Concord called the People and Patriot, made up of what was left of two former discordant democratic organs, create harmony among certain incongruous elements of the party at the capital, and start a vigorous paper which shall be staunch in its advocacy of democracy, protect the people from the moneyed aristocracy which seeks to rule the unterrified, oppose the encroachment of railway corporations, combat the iniquity of the lobby, create an integrity in politics, and if Mr. Cleveland conforms to its views, sustain the new administration.

The element which is to guide and govern this new creation is composed of time-honored and venerable men, orthodox in their politics, but who for the most part, as far as possessing in themselves the elements of bringing into existence and maintaining in the field which opens to it a vigorous, beautiful and self-sustaining newspaper, have some time since gone by.

There was a time when the democracy took their cue from a central organ, to doubt whose teachings or to question whose ukase was treason, punishable with political death. Those were the days when this ancient and quondam powerful party in our state relied upon the Jeffersonian sentiment of the rural districts, and drew its majorities from localities from year to year unchanging and reliable; but since those days the manufacturing cities of Manchester, Dover and Nashua, with their large number of naturalized citizens, have become a power in the party, and in these cities newspapers have grown into positions in the democratic newspaper field which cannot be ignored. In short, the one is no longer taken from the centre, but oftimes comes from the circumference of the party's circle. It will be a difficult task for the managers of the new sheet to find a man to edit their journal who can teach Foster's Democrat, the Manchester Union or the Nashua Gazette lessons in politics. In fact, Bro. Foster has become a power with his party, and his establishment of a paper upon the sound and successful basis upon which his "Democrat" exists to-day is sufficient proof of his ability. No salaried man can be found to do service for the new corporation which can approach that which men like Isaac Hill and Joshua Foster have accomplished for papers that have become famous, as did the New York Tribune, by reason of its founder and conductor.

But the democracy look forward to flush times, and the Concord democrats do not relish the fact that the Union, at Manchester, should have the lead in Merrimack county as well as in Hillsborough. From what is whispered in the ear we hear that no one man is to be allowed to have a controlling ownership in the paper, but it is proposed to start upon that basis of fraternity and equality which allows no undue prominence in its direction; and yet it is hinted that one of its objects will be to restore the somewhat demoralized democracy to a proper sense of the evils of railway consolidation, and to educate its readers into an opposition to the wishes of the projectors of a through line from Boston to the west over the soil of the Granite State. The pungent editorials in this direction of the late Mr. Burke can hardly be duplicated by any new hand which may work the bellows, but the organ possibly may be able to pitch the tune, however much it may fail to effectually produce the music of the late composer.

New Hampshire's New Senator.

In the senate, on the 9th inst., the credentials of Hon. Henry W. Blair as senator from New Hampshire to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of his late term were presented. Senators Hoar, Dawes and Edmunds moved that Mr. Blair be sworn in at once; Vest and Saulsbury objected; finally at the request of Senator Harris, the matter was laid over for one day by unanimous consent.

Masonic Ceremony.

An impressive service was held in the Park theatre at Boston on Sunday evening by Mount Olivet Chapter of Rose Croix, Ancient and Accepted rite of Free Masons, in memory of those members of the chapter who have died during the past ten years. These ceremonies, which are held every decade, were made more solemn and impressive by the stage surroundings.

The scene set represented the interior of a cathedral, except that where the alter should have been was a large catafalque, upon which rested a handsome casket. From the base of the catafalque projected a shelf, on which were seven lighted candles, and between every two candles was a bouquet of roses. At each end of the catafalque was a golden cross. Above the base was a tomb, on which the coffin rested, and on the front of this tomb were the words "In Memoriam." The draperies of the catafalque and of the casket were purple and black broadcloth. Four tripods, each containing burning incense, surrounded the catafalque. On each side of the proscenium were erected broken columns, on which were lettered the names of the dead in whose honor the services were held.

In the rear of the catafalque two balconies had been constructed, on which stood neophytes in full robes, and around the columns of the cathedral were neophytes clad in the same manner. On the right of the stage, looking toward the audience, was a dais on which were the Grand Orator and Associate Grand Orator in full robes and mitres. To the left was a throne on which was seated the Most Wise and Perfect Master, wearing his full regalia.

The services were of an allegorial nature, picturing the shadow of death, the promise of faith, the confidence of hope, the farewell of love, the committal to earth, the victor's reward and the message from Heaven. The ritual of the service was conducted by the authors, Charles T. McClenachan and J. H. Hobart Ward, of New York. The music was rendered by a select chorus of twenty-four voices and an orchestra of twenty-five pieces. About 2000 spectators were present.

A salvation army meeting in Chicago was broken up by a gang of roughs on Sunday. We didn't suppose there was anybody in Chicago worth trying to save.

At Woodstock, Vt., Mrs. Henry Taft killed herself Sunday with "Rough on Rats."

A correspondent of the Biddeford Times, writing from Cape Porpoise says: "Mrs. Clara Nunan, wife of Arthur Nunan, who has been sick for a long time, and whose case was given up by the physician, has been raised by prayer. Mr. Mayo of Biddeford and Elder William Mitchell of Kennebunk prayed with her one day, and a request was sent to the church in the evening for a special season of prayer in her behalf. The next day she got up and dressed, and in less than a week she was able to attend a prayer meeting at the church. She told the audience what the Lord had done for her. This is the truth and it can be proved by many who visited her in her sickness and since her recovery."

Mr. Adolph Enau, foreman of Norton's brickyard, York, was in town Saturday.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PREE, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

Do Not Delay

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also some Bronchial Throat and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me. I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am rowable to do all my housework.

not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and like seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur

Bitters should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured me of Dyspepsia and those deathly Sick Headaches.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, March 9th.

John Lynch, charged with brawl and tumult, was dismissed, for though it appeared that he made noise enough to pass for a brawl and tumult of very respectable proportions, it did not appear that his mind was in such a condition as to render him fully responsible for his acts. From all that we hear, we are of the opinion that this unfortunate man is totally unfit to be at large, and that his friends are very much to blame for not putting him under proper restraint.

THE MAYOR'S BOMBSHELL.

The Times on one evening last week observed:

Two of the republican papers of the city have said something about Mayor Page's expose of the miserable management of municipal affairs by the recent republican city governments—but have utterly failed to touch the merits of the case or to defend their party. It remains for the Journal now to try its hand. Somebody ought to rise and explain. Who will do it?

We do not know who ought, or who will; certainly the Chronicle will not, as all we know of the matter is what was stated in "Mayor Page's bombshell," and our only allusion to that was to call attention to the narrow partisanship of the mayor, as exemplified in his declaration that Mr. Treat should not be blamed because he was a democratic mayor, and that Col. Sise should be blamed because he was a republican mayor.

If some person connected with the late city government has wrongful possession of $20,000, more or less, of the city's money, as the mayor in his "bombshell" implies but does not assert, it would seem to be the mayor's duty, as chief executive of the city, to take measures to find out where that money is and to recover it if possible, or at least to bring the guilty party to justice. The depositing in the city treasury of that alleged missing twenty thousand would be more effective as an argument in favor of the "democratic reform" city government than forty such documents as the "bombshell."

Whether Mr. Hadley, the late treasurer and collector, is a defaulter, as the mayor's "bombshell" was generally assumed to imply, or whether the apparent deficiency was due to a vicious system of bookkeeping, we do not feel called upon to decide; but we will remark that Mr. Hadley's returning to the city and paying over to the new treasurer some $6000, after being for six months many hundreds of miles from the city, was a very strange performance for a defaulter to go through with.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

On Friday last a man entered the police station as a lodger, giving the name of James Clark; he was evidently not wholly right in his mind, and was kept at the station until something more could be learned of him, as his stories concerning himself were very wild and contradictory. Monday afternoon he had been let out of his cell into the corridor to warm himself. Officers Hobbs and Watkins then being in charge of the station; soon a strange sound attracted attention to his cell, and the officers entering found him hanging from the top bar of the cell door by a strip torn from a blanket. He was cut down, and though much exhausted soon revived, and became so violent that the officers were forced to lash him down to the floor. He appears to be from forty-five to fifty years of age, and is supposed to have escaped from some asylum.

Robert Foster, who was in the station when the man was cut down, was bitten through one hand by him while assisting the officers. The city physician afterward gave the crazy man a quieting potion of some kind, which soon put him to sleep.

TWEED'S OLD GAME.

The Biddeford Journal has been conducting a hot fight against the democratic city government of that place, charging the officials with dishonesty. Being challenged for proof of its assertions, the Journal on Friday last made the following specific statement as to what was done in one department:

The teams which hauled the paving and sand, and did other heavy trucking, were hired at the rate of $3.50 per day for each team. When the owners presented their bills at the mayor's office, warrants were drawn against the city at the rate of four dollars a day! The owners received $3.50 per day as agreed upon, signing receipts for four dollars! and leaving in the hands of the city treasurer, as blood money, fifty cents per day for every day their teams had worked!

The Journal challenged the mayor or the democratic ring to put it to the legal proof, promising that in case such action were taken and it did not fully sustain its allegations, it would give $1000 to any public charity the mayor should designate.

A Washington dispatch to the Boston Traveller of Monday says that Calvin Page, Esq., of this city, is to be collector of Boston.—Portsmouth Journal.

If our neighbor had read the paragraph more carefully he would have found that it was the collector of internal revenue for which the mayor was booked. The democracy of Massachusetts are not quite ready to remove our friend of the Traveller from the office of collector of the port before his term expires, to make a place for a New Hampshire man. The tenure of the office of collector of internal revenue is not for a stated term, and that officer necessarily retires when the administration or the local committee having these matters in charge is ready for the change.

Hon. Frank Jones was present at the swearing in of Secretary Manning at the treasury department on Saturday. Had he been in Portsmouth on that day the kind of swearing he would have heard would have been somewhat different. But it will all blow over in good time.

Ætna 54-inch Sacking for sale by Ayers & Locke for sixty-five cents, real value $1.00.

Gov. Hale has re-appointed William H. Palmer, Esq., a justice of the peace for the county of Rockingham.

Although the mercury on Monday morning was nearly down to zero, the weather was quite pleasant and did not seem nearly so cold as the thermometer indicated. There were an unusual number of country teams in town, for a Monday, including several loads of hay, which sold at $16 per ton.

"Zozo," a spectacular drama which takes about sixty people to represent, and two car-loads of scenery, will shortly be presented at Music hall—for three nights, at people's prices.

There will be a social assembly in the town hall at Rye on Thursday evening, March 19th, with tickets placed at fifty cents each.

The democrats of Rye on Saturday evening, the 7th inst., held their caucus for the nomination of candidates for town officers to be elected on Tuesday, the 10th; Joseph W. Garland was chosen chairman and Charles E. Sleeper secretary, and candidates were nominated as follows: Gilman H. Jenness, moderator; John O. Drake, town clerk; Charles J. Brown, treasurer; Joseph A. Brown, supt. school committee; Joseph W. Rand, Albert C. Locke, Joseph W. Seavey, selectmen.

Among the fish brought into this port this winter have been large quantities of "crawm." Some people are very fond of the various kinds of small fish included under this technical name, but in this fish-catching district few persons will eat them; a person passing through the markets of the large cities, however, as for instance the Fulton market in New York, will often notice a good supply of them, which sell readily to those who do not have too particular habits. Most of the crawm landed here is boxed and sent to New York, the fishermen getting only moderate prices for it.

A great many teams from the country have been carrying fish offal from the wharves here this winter, to be used for enriching the soil.

G. Harrison Jenness, Esq., of Rye, who was seriously ill in Washington some weeks ago with congestion of the brain, has arrived home in very good condition, considering.

The severity of the late winter—we hope it is the "late" winter, for we have had all we want of it, including a dozen or so of severe colds—has hindered the sportsmen of Beech ridge, York, from venturing out of their comfortable quarters beside the farm-house fires. Mr. Samuel Donnell, who ordinarily makes a big record as a mighty hunter, has shot only one fox this season.

Notwithstanding the democratic national victory there is in their ranks at least one youthful rebel, if the following story is true. We are informed that a Mr. Tobey, living at Kittery Foreside, a staunch democrat who is employed out of the state, was away from home on inauguration day; but his son, a boy ten or twelve years old, on that day had his campaign flag stretched across the street in front of the house, with the names of Cleveland and Hendricks draped in mourning. Some one asking, "Well, Johnny, what will your father say about this?" the lad replied; "I expect he will be awful angry, but I can't help it; I can't swallow Cleveland so easy!" As to the subsequent proceedings, if any, our informant did not know.

A new steam engine has just been set up at Norton's brickyard in York, and the sawing and planing of lumber it is said will be carried on there, as well as the making of bricks and other operations.

It is rumored that Mr. James B. McIntire of Beech ridge, York, will take charge of the Goodwin house at York harbor during the season. Mr. McIntire recently took unto himself a wife, so the popular hotel will not be without proper feminine supervision.

Mr. Martin Kingsbury of York has the timber on the ground ready for the building of a new house, barn and blacksmith shop. Mr. Henry Grover, of Beech ridge, will erect the buildings.

A series of revival meetings, lasting seven weeks, has recently been held at Cape Porpoise by Mr. Mayo, an evangelist from Biddeford. The number of conversions is reported at over sixty.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day. Words cannot express our feelings towards you. Geo. W. Green, Campti, La.

—"Shall I give you a quarter or a half portrait?" asked the artist of Mr. Vanderguild. "Give me a whole portrait, sir. Money is no object with me."

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, loss of appetite, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

Don't Wear Cumbersome Trusses

When our new method without use of knife, is guaranteed to permanently cure worst cases of rupture. Send two letter stamps for references and pamphlet. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

—A large cake of ice was lying on the pavement, and several small boys were chipping pieces of it. The ice man drove them away several times. Finally he observed: "If you knew what this ice is going to be used for you wouldn't be so anxious to eat it." What is it? chorused the boys in unison. "It's going to the undertaker's to preserve a corpse with." They let it alone.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

—It is said that the custom of making New Year's calls is on the wane. Last year "best society in New York merely hung out baskets." To travel about the city all day in a suit hired for the occasion, dropping cards into baskets, is about as wild and hilarious fun as to sit on a fence and see your best girl go by with another fellow.

Frightful Whooping Cough.

Dr. Edward C. Hughes, Rockford, Ill., (Graduated N. Y. City 1866,) voluntarily testifies:—"Some years ago my only son, aged four, had an attack of the whooping cough, characterized by the most violent spasms I have ever seen in a practice of 18 years. Had several consultations with eminent physicians and all ordinary and extraordinary remedies were resorted to. The paroxysms were simply frightful. I believed the child would die. I reluctantly tried Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer and the effect was magical. Three bottles cured him."

—Looking for board: Applicant (to the landlady)—"I am willing to pay a good price, madam, but I am very particular about my food. I am under the doctor's care constantly, and suffer dreadfully with dyspepsia." Landlady—"Oh, I am sure you will be pleased with my table if that is the case sir. My boarders all have dyspepsia."

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

—A deaf mendicant, who who was in the habit of blowing a cornet through the streets of New York, met with remarkable success one day last week. His hat was nearly filled with coin. When he repaired to his lodgings he related his experience to his comrades by the sign language and was surprised to learn that he had not made a sound all day. His cornet was broken.

—Little Clara was taken with sudden but not serious illness. "Mamma," she said, "do you think I shall get well?" Mother—"Of course you will, darling." Clara—"I don't think I shall, mamma; and I think it's best I shouldn't. Being under five, I could get into heaven for half fare."

—The news that a Mexican railway company has bought six hundred wooden saints at an average of fifty cents each, in order to use them as fuel, throws a good deal of light upon the progress of civilization in Mexico.

One Feels the Luxury of Benevolence.

Many thousands of the visitors to the great Industrial Expo Hibition at New Orleans view the renowned Charity Hospital there with delight, feel that they too have a heritage and share in the benevolence by which it is maintained, as The Louisiana State Lottery, contributed in one donation of one million dollars, payable in installments for its maintenance, about which M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give any information.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rond ut, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Diazin ss, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.
69 Harrison Street

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. It ought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of it at name, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the time I was sixteen years old. I had consult d various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had also given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended. I tried it and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S
FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

"Histories make men wise, Poets witty." But what in the world does a man want with either when he has sprained his ankle. No sir, not these, not these! Give him but one bottle of Salvation Oil. The greatest cure on earth for pain.

Mrs. Charles A. Dare, wife of the landlord of the Kimball house at Dover, was probably fatally burned Monday night by her night dress taking fire from an open fire place.

The combination, proportion and process in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, are peculiar to this medicine, and unknown to others.

Gen. George B. McClellan accepts an invitation to deliver an oration on Decoration day at Anticlam, where he commanded the union forces on the day of the memorable battle.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., is excited over the elopement of Mrs. Robert Albertson, a beautiful young woman having one child four years old, which she left with her husband, who is a wealthy carriage manufacturer. She had been much in company, at the skating rink, with Prof. R. Raddi of the New York Conservatory of Music, who left Wilkesbarre the day Mrs. Albertson disappeared.

Disgust.

The disgust that many feel for worthless medicines should not prevent sufferers from using a truly reliable preparation like Wetherell's Sarsaparilla. This is one of the preparations which has real merit. Try it. $1. Six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or will send for it.

Gen Briere de l'Isle, commander of the French forces in Tonquin, telegraphs the war office that his loss during two days' fighting to relieve the beleaguered French garrison at Thuyenquan was sixty-six killed and 132 wounded. The garrison itself lost fifty killed and thirty-three wounded during the seven assaults upon the town by the Chinese troops. Thirty officers were among the killed on the French side. From this it would appear that John Chinaman is getting into fighting trim.

Housed Up.

For the last three months a great many people have been housed up, because they have not felt able to withstand the stormy wintry weather that has prevailed. But unfortunately the confinement and the close air of modern houses during the winter season, is very enervating, and the system needs help to enable all the organs to do their proper work. If these organs have been inactive the consequences are showing themselves in the bilious condition of the system, or in constipation of the bowels, or in disorders of the kidneys, with all the aches and pains that accompany these complaints. If you are in this condition from any cause you should make a faithful trial of that well known remedy Kidney-Wort. It acts at the same time on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and is therefore especially fitted to correct this torpid condition of the system.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Never before in the History of Medicine has a Preparation been so Universally praised as Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium. It goes right to the spot, and builds the system up as no other Medicine.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

Could not buy them for me what Swift's Specific has done for me. It cured me of Scrofula in its worst form, after I had suffered with it fifteen long years, and had tried all the remedies, only to break down my health and make me almost helpless. MRS. ELIZABETH BAKER, No. 2. Acworth, Ga., July 15, 1884.

INOCULATED POISON !

Some eight years ago I became the victim of a fearful Blood Poison, communicated by a nurse to my infant, and thence through the breast, and suffered for six long years. The Mercury and Potash treatment seemed to drive the poison further into my system only to break out in worse form on other portions of my body. Three months ago I began taking Swift's Specific, and it has cured me sound and well. It is the best blood cleansing which has come to mankind in years. MRS. T. W. LEE, Greenville, Ala., Sept. 4, 1884.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

CELEBRATED

The fittest subjects for fever and ague, and remittents, are the debilitated, bilious and nervous. To such persons, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords adequate protection by increasing vital stamina and the resistant power of the constitution, and by checking irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels. Moreover, it eradicates malarial complaints of an obstinate type, and stands alone unequaled among our national remedies.

Gaul and Teuton, Retrogressive or Progressive Savages.

Where Tacitus and other Roman writers spoke in glowing terms of the Teutonic races, their remarks on the Gauls, the ancient inhabitants of France, were not only far from complimentary, but happened to touch on points on which Frenchmen are particularly sensitive. Tertullian, who was a great admirer of the Jews, is very wroth with Tacitus because he used very anti-Semitic language. He actually called Tacitus a "Brawler and the greatest teller of lies." The French do not differ much from that opinion, not so much because Tacitus spoke ill of the Jews and likewise of the Celts of Gaul, as because he spoke so well of the paysans du Danube. The ancient classical writers dwell rather strongly on the unfavorable side of the Celtic character. It is well known how low an opinion Aristotle formed of Celtic morality. Strabo says that the Celts are simple, but proud and sensitive, fond of dress and ornaments. It is even hinted that they dyed their hair, and allowed their mustache to grow, so that it interfered with the comfort of eating and drinking. Strabo goes on to say that they are not malicious, but reckless, changeable, fond of innovation, and never to be depended on. They are quick in their resolutions, but often inconsiderate, fond of war, brave, but intolerably conceited if victorious, and quite demoralized if defeated. Polybius confirms that their first onslaught is terrible, but both Cæsar and Livy agree as to their want of steadiness and perseverance. Other Latin authors add that they are unmanageable and inclined to revolutions, and that, owing to continual faction, many are obliged to leave the country and to try their fortunes as adventurers elsewhere. At the death of a nobleman his widow was, as a matter of course, subjected to a trial as to whether she had been the cause of her husband's death. Strabo affirms that it was their custom to cut off the heads of their enemies after a battle and to hang them on the heads of their horses or nail them over their doors. While German scholars composed this mosaic out of all the stones that classical writers had ever thrown at the inhabitants of Gaul, French writers retaliated by either throwing discredit on Tacitus, the supposed encomiast of the Germans, or by showing that the account which Tacitus gives of the ancestors of the Teutonic race proves better than anything else that, at his time, the Germans had not yet emerged from a state of the grossest barbarism, and were incapable, therefore, as yet of vices which they maintain are the outcome of a more advanced state of civilization.—Max Muller, in the Nineteenth Century.

The Art of Conversation.

The real fault we commit is our failure to recognize the pleasure that is given by the narration of even the most trivial incident in carefully apportioned words. No one in talking takes the trouble to form his sentences according to the most ordinary rules of grammar. Our national shyness has stamped us, among other vulgarisms, with that false shame which makes us fear the charge of pedantry if we talk in other than the most clumsy and disjointed way. We are afraid to venture on a phrase—a combination of words that will convey our meaning of the moment until familiarity has made it commonplace, and then we drag it in by the head and ears on every occasion till it becomes nauseous from its frequency. There is a dreary heaviness in our conversation born of deficient imagination. We discuss, or rather utter our words about the most ordinary matters with a solemnity which at first sight looks like earnestness, but we are not in earnest. We should resent the imputation. Every nation has its own peculiar snobbery—every nation, and each rank in that nation, and class in that rank, and each individual. One phase of it with us is the way in which we copy the habits or manners of the rank above us. The desire to copy implies deficient tact and power of observation, and the effect of the copying is very much that of the maid-of-all-work in a lodging house who tries to copy the dress of the ladies on whom she waits. She has neither the material out of which to make the clothes nor the power of wearing the clothes properly if she had them. The calmness and absence of emotion of patrician manners not unnaturally suggests imitation. People who from their birth upward have been accustomed to deference naturally acquire a manner which takes that deference for granted—an attitude from which the element of assertion is eliminated. The favored classes with whom that is the case have also feasts of other things besides the deference of their fellows. Treasures of many kinds are heaped upon them whether they will or not.—All the Year Round.

'Twas Very Beautiful.

They sat in lover-like simplicity at the starboard end of the sofa, twittering sweet nothings that were carried up to the throne of love on platters of priceless pearl by Cupids with iridescent wings that gleamed in the golden smile of Venus with drops of ambrosial dew.

"That's a beautiful morceau, isn't it?" she murmured with boarding-school ecstasy, as she quotd some gem of beauty.

"Ah, yes," he answered; "more so than anything I've seen for some time."

Then a great horse blanket of infinite silence fell upon them, broken only by her small brother as he wriggled from beneath the sofa and fled like a lost soul through the parlor door.—Washington Hatchet.

A Story for the Children.

There was a little story told by Mr. A. S. Solomons in his recent address before the Y. M. H. A. which will interest the children. "When I was abroad," he said, "a short time ago, I received a letter from a young lady—a young lady three and a half years old and unmarried — accompanied by a translation wherein the wish is expressed that I bring her home a large India rubber dog of the 'pug' species. I complied with her reasonable request, and she was delighted, especially because of its rare ability to squeak when pressed to do so. While handling it in her presence a few days ago, and finding it impossible to get a sound out of it, she took it from me, examined it critically for a few moments, and then, looking up at me with that earnestness and sincerity so peculiar to children, said: 'Do you know, I think my puggy has swallowed his squeak.'"—Jewish Messenger.

In a Clam Abattoir.

"You've no idea how 'fectionate sum ov these young clams, is," meditatively remarked an uncommonly seedy-appearing tramp, as he gazed wistfully into the glass box at the clam counter of a West-side restaurant yesterday a ternoon. "Takes a hard-hearted man to run a clammery. I was once a prosprus clam-butcher myself, but I was too chicken-hearted for the business, and I came to want. W'y w'en wun ov them little necks wud be sick I've seen 'em gather round him, and sung up and kee' him warm, almost human-like—oh, sum folks don't think clams hez feelins, but they hez. W'y, w'en I've bin goin to open a dozen on a half shell, I've had 'em look up so pitiful as wud make Cogswell's monument cry, an' I couldn't stand it, an' I've put 'em back an told the feller a lie ez how they weren't new, like. Better spare the lives ov a couple ov dozen, an give 'em to me to take care ov."

A hook which had been slowly descending from the ceiling was fastened into the collar of the man's coat, he was drawn up, run along the overhead tramway, and deposited along with the other garbage, in the area. He had narrated his last action.—Rochester Democrat.

The owners of the fishing schooner Solomon Poole, of Gloucester, Mass., have given her up for lost, with all on board. She carried fourteen men all told, the captain, Samuel Repley, being the only one married so far as is known.

"I have taken one bottle of DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR for Heart Disease and find it all I could desire.—A. A. Holbrook, Worcester, Mass. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

The fishing schooner Oscar & Hattie, of Swampscott, Mass., from Georges bank, arrived at Boston March 10th, and reports that on March 6th she lost a dory with John Barratt of Swampscott, who leaves a widow and children, and Peter Churni, a native of Norway. The weather was clear at the time, and it is supposed they overloaded the dory when they hauled in their trawls.

Dr. H. L. Bowker, Massachusetts State Assayer, purchased himself from several wholesale druggists the samples he analyzed of "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" Whiskey. It cannot, therefore, be said that the samples were different from the article sold by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston. He pronounced it of remarkable purity and excellence. Grover Cleveland's "Luck."

"Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them."

In the list of men who have had greatness thrust upon them, entirely apart from any merit or achievements of their own, there is no instance more striking than the case of the present president of the United States.

Four years ago, who outside the state of New York had ever heard of Grover Cleveland? Indeed, how many in that state, or even in Buffalo, the city of his home, had ever heard of him? Very few indeed, beyond a limited circle of personal friends, and the clientele of a moderately successful lawyer.

To-day he is president of the United States — chief magistrate of 60,000,000 people, elected to that lofty position over a man whose name was famous in the land years and years ago. Greatness has indeed been thrust upon him.

Buffalo is a republican city. It had long been ruled by an unscrupulous ring, to oust which from power the better element of the republican party organized a bolt. Grover Cleveland was suggested to the bolters as a man of unblemished name, who would command the united support of the democrats, if accepted by the republicans; he would do as well as anybody, being unknown, so he was accepted, and triumphantly elected over the ring candidate.

Then came the Folger nomination for governor, in 1882, and the extended bolt in the republican party. Mayor Cleveland's nomination by the democrats was urged by a leading republican paper, which promised its support; the idea was adopted; he was nominated for governor "to beat Folger," and was elected by the enormous majority of 192,854.

Then came the presidential nomination, the question with the democrats being "Whom can we nominate to defeat Blaine?" Cleveland was strongly supported, bolting republicans again taking the lead; he carried off the prize, and was elected.

That his election as mayor of Buffalo and governor of governor of New York were entirely aside from his own merits or political strength, was shown in the fact that in the national election he did not carry his own election district, his own ward, his own city or his own county; and that his enormous majority of 192,854 in the state was cut down to 1087—and this notwithstanding the stampede of Catholics from Blaine to the democratic side caused by Rev. Dr. Burchard's "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" speech. In Buffalo, which he carried by 5752 in 1882, he was beaten in 1884 by Mr. Blaine by a plurality of 1052.

Certain it is that Grover Cleveland's luck for the past four years has been unexampled, and that it made him president; yet he is as truly the president of the American people as was George Washington, Andrew Jackson or Chester A. Arthur. As such he is entitled to the support of the people, and it is to be hoped that his old luck will attend him during the next four years, so that he can retire at the end of his term with as large a share of national good will and esteem as are enjoyed by Ex-President Arthur.

Gen. Grant's Illness.

Judging from all the reports made, Gen. Grant is steadily sinking under the wearisome effects of the disease which must soon end his life. The hero's life work is done, and his existence can probably now be numbered by weeks, if not even by days.

The Scramble.

A Washington despatch of March 9th says: "The number of applications for postmasterships received to-day at the post-office department has never been equalled in any previous day, and the first assistant postmaster general found it necessary to detail a special force of employes to file the applications. When the aspirants presented their claims in person they were informed that they must file their applications, and await their consideration in regular order. The commissions of sixty-eight presidential postmasters expire during the present month, and over 250 such commissions will expire before the beginning of the next session of Congress."

Boycotting Beer.

The Central Labor Union of New York city at a recent meeting resolved to boycott the beer of a certain brewer for discharging some of his men who were active in forming a union of his employes. It is said that the brewer against whom the boycott was ordered has made arrangements to have his beer put in the casks of other brewers, so that the workingmen will not know that they are drinking his beer. This move on the part of the enemy will be met by refusing to drink any beer in the shops where the obnoxious beverage has been sold, except it is the brew of a designated brewer who employs "union" men. A proposition to boycott beer altogether, and drink whiskey, was voted down by the German members of the union.

The Latest Qualification.

A gentleman recently from Washington informs us that when one of the ex-congressman of the democratic persuasion is towed into the presidential presence by senatorial or similar influence, as soon as the name is heard Daniel Lamont looks at the Record to see how he voted or dodged on the silver question, in the last of the session. If he was not sound in this important action, Dan wags his civil-service ear, and Grover says in a tone which to the ear of the practiced politician is in its effect unmistakable, "Well, sir, we will consider your application in due course,"—and the sooner the ex-representative buys a through ticket for his late district, the better it will be for his finances. The new president, though he saw Washington for the first time on the evening of the 3d of March, has not lived in Albany for a while without learning something of the way "how not to do it."

The First Steel Pen Makers.

The word "Pen," in Holy Scriptures, refers to either an iron style, or to a reed; the latter being the earliest form of pen used for writing on papyrus.

One of the earliest attempts to make steel pens is attributed to Wm. Gadbury, England, who, for his own use, constructed a clumsy article from the main spring of a watch. Steel pens were first brought into use about the year 1803.

James Perry, of London, commenced to manufacture pens in 1824, and was the founder of the firm name Perry & Co., who are now the largest pen makers in the world.

Their celebrated "U" and Falcons for correspondents, and fine points Nos. A. O. 4 and 1073 for schools, are, without doubt, the cheapest perfect pens in use—they can be had from all stationers. Sole agents for the United States, Messrs. Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor, & Co., New York.

The municipal election of Biddeford was held on Monday, the 9th inst., and resulted in a decided victory for the democratic ring which has run the city for some time past, their candidate for mayor, Staples, having 1357 votes to 744 for Warren, a democratic ex-mayor of the city, who was supported by the republicans and "citizens." The mayor on the morning of election day appointed 125 special constables "to prevent intimidation of voters at the polls" by the republicans, according to his story, but in reality to buy their votes for Staples with the city's money, as the republican papers allege—an allegation borne out by the fact that the only disturbance at the polls during the day was caused by one of the specials getting so drunk and disorderly that even the democratic regular police could not ignore him, one other special being arrested for bribery. The democratic ringsters have been making a good thing out of the city, and don't propose to give up their grip on the treasury as long as there is any money in it.

Last August, among the deeds left for record with the register of deeds for York county was one conveying Duck island and Smuttynose island from the state of Maine to Jeremiah M. Mason of Limerick, for $150. Mr. Mason has not yet removed his purchases, the two islands named yet remaining at the Isles of Shoals.

Do Not Delay

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur should be kept in every family.

Sulphur Bitters

A. Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured me of Dyspepsia and those deathly Sick Headaches.

A GENUINE DEMOCRAT.

Mr. William S. Willey, who lives on Lafayette road, engaged Capt. Edward D. Coffin to fire a salute of thirty-eight guns at his (Willey's) place on the afternoon of March 4th, in honor of the inauguration of Cleveland and Hendricks, which was done accordingly,—to the great mystification of many persons, who were at a loss to tell where the guns were being fired. Mr. Willey having heard that a report has been circulated to the effect that the expense of firing the salute was defrayed by subscription, requests us to state that the bill, $27.92, was paid out of his own pocket without aid or contribution from any person, and shows us the receipted bill to prove it. Mr. Willey says further that he voted for Andrew Jackson at his second election, and has ever since fought the battles of democracy without reward or the hope of it, except such as could be derived from the knowledge that his party had triumphed; and he never received a dollar from either or any political party, nor asked one.

ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Among the judgments announced by the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims on the 9th inst. were the following:

William H. Rollins, adm'r, $1437; Wm. Stokes and Wm. Conn, executors, $1495; George W. Haven, $120; Alfred W. Haven, $120; George W. Haven, $394; William H. Hackett, adm'r, $1190; Wm. Simes and Joseph S. Simes, exe'rs, $993; Henry C. Barnabee, trustee, $396; Andrew P. Preston and Wm. H. Preston, exe'rs, $198; John Neal, $992; Thomas E. Call, adm'r, $793; Wm. D. Fernald, $396; Oliver Wilson, $396; John F. Matthews, $396. In case No. 2618, the judgement entered on March 2d was affirmed except as to Moses A. Safford, adm'r, against whom judgment was rendered for the United States.

NEWCASTLE BAND OF HOPE.

The Newcastle Band of Hope numbers about fifty members, of whom less than half are regular in attendance. The names of those who do not attend will at the next meeting be dropped from the roll of membership. Following is a list showing the number of credits earned by the children during the past quarter; each lesson, including Golden Text and Truth, counts 100, making a total of 1200 for the quarter:

Seddie C. Meloon, 900; Addie M. Meloon, 845; Janie L. Hubley, 590; Idella C. Wheeler, 555; Veranus C. Rand, 475; Mabel F. Hubley, 445; Annie R. Hubley, 330; Minnie E. Poole, 370; Cora Campbell, 275; Nellie Poole, 270; Freddie Cole, 250; Seddie E. White, 250; Mary L. Emery, 200; Lavinia Yeaton, 175; Ida M. Poole, 170; Fannie C. White, 165; Gertie Wells, 140; Andrew B. White, 100; Selina H. Wheeler, 75; Mamie P. Simpson, 25; Charlie Meloon, 25.

Names of members who have earned no credits for the quarter: Hattie H. Amazeen, Walter Becker, Cassie Burke, D. Card, Cedric C. Campbell, Alvah H. M. Curtis, Etta Davidson, Dana J. Davidson, Willie Emery, George Frost, James W. Pridham, John W. Pridham, Mary A. Preble, Geo. P. Ricker, Geo. A. Simpson, Geo White, Chester J. Wheeler, Flora Yeaton.

There seems to be a gleam of interest awakening with regard to this poor little struggling Band, so that the prospect appears to brighten. We trust that the next quarter's report will make a better showing than that of the past.

NEWCASTLE, 9th March, 1885.

Ring tournament, for ladies only, at the Portsmouth rink this evening.

About half-past ten o'clock Tuesday forenoon the roof of the carpenter shop on Warren street occupied by Charles H. Kennison was discovered on fire, and an alarm was rung out. The fire department quickly responded, but their services were not required, as a few buckets of water extinguished the flames. Loss trifling. The fire caught from sparks from the chimney.

The selectmen of ward three are about to call a special election in that ward for the purpose of choosing a representative to the general court, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the recently-discovered ineligibility of Timothy F. Cronin, who was elected representative at the November election, and who at that time had been a resident of the state but fifteen months, the constitution requiring a two years residence.

The bluebirds, harbingers of spring, are arriving from the south, and are to be seen in the neighboring fields.

The president has directed that applications for office shall come through the heads of departments, instead of directly to the White House. This is a set-back for Major Urch, who will have to send his well-signed petition through the postmaster general; whereas Mr. Jones will slip the papers he wants acted upon into Dan Lamont's hands, while the major's battery advances through the slow marches of official progress, and for ought we see will be badly left.

At the town meeting in Greenland Tuesday the following officers were chosen: Moderator, John Hatch; clerk, Lorenzo T. Duntley; treasurer, Edwin A. Peterson; selectmen, Andrew J. Norton, W. H. L. Brackett, Edwin H. Bickford; assessors, Wm. A. Pierce, John E. Seavey, Charles Foss; school committee, Charles W. Pickering, Edward Roby, Rufus W. Weeks; auditors, Edward Holmes, Charles W. Marden.

The schooner Margie, formerly for some years owned at this port, arrived at New York on the 8th inst., full of water. She was being towed from Portland, Me., to New York, by the tug Storm King, and on the night of Friday, the 6th inst., when passing through the sound struck a large cake of ice, which cut her through, causing her to fill.

Howard Stockton, Esq., treasurer of the Cocheco Manufacturing Co., has been elected vice commodore of the Beverly yacht club. It is well to have a vice-commodore who earns his living by running water, as it is to have a treasurer who knows how to carry sail in a calm.

Fifteen dogs, some of them considered by their owners to be very valuable, died on Sunday from poison in Berwick. Who it was that went on the war path against the canines in this cowardly and illegal manner, is not known.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., March 10th.

At the termination of the term of school in district one on Friday, the 6th inst., the teacher, Mr. Fred A. Fernald, was presented with a valuable gold pencil by his scholars as a slight token of their esteem for him.

Morrill Manson of North Kittery lost a valuable ox last week by the animal falling on the ice. This is the second one he has lost within eight months by accident, and some of his friends have started a subscription paper for his benefit.

Whipple Lodge of Good Templars had an entertainment and supper on Thursday evening, the 5th inst., in honor of its 19th anniversary.

We understand that Benjamin Ordway will move this spring from the Gowen Wilson farm in North Kittery, where he has lived many years, to the Cutts farm in Eliot, near the Kittery line. Frederick Shaw will move to the Wilson farm, as the farm on which he now lives is offered for sale.

There are several petitions in circulation by our democratic friends for some of the positions at the navy yard. Rumor has it that James E. Chase will succeed John Wentworth as store clerk in the yards and docks department. It also says that Jefferson T. Lewis has a long petition for the same place. Jeff. is a good fellow and thoroughly capable of attending to the duties of the position, and we should like very much to see him snugly tucked into that warm berth, but if all reports are true Chase has the inside track, and is likely to be the winning man in the race.

Mr. Joseph Langton, who recently went to Orange county, Florida, for his health, has much improved since his stay in that delightful climate. It is rumored that he will return after the "ides of March" to accept the position of boss teamster on the navy yard under the new regime.

The Free High school closed last week after a successful term.

Rev. Alexander Hamilton, of the 1st Methodist Episcopal church, is moving this week from Mr. T. J. Pettigrew's house, where he has lived since Mrs. Pettigrew went to Washington last fall. Mr. Hamilton will take up his abode in the parsonage until Conference meets in April.

Kittery Point bridge has been extensively repaired and put in thoroughly good condition under the supervision of Mr. Jacob Remick, and is now in far better order than for many years.

YORK CORNER, ME., March 9th.

On opening and counting the jar of beans at Howard Staples' store in South Eliot on Saturday, the 28th ult., John H. Staples was declared the winner of the prize, five lbs. of the best tea, his guess being 6023. There were fifty-one guesses, varying from 1125 to 9000. There were 6054 beans in the jar. The manner of doing the business was to give a guess to each customer buying at one time goods amounting in price to one dollar or more.

I see by the Biddeford Journal that at East Waterboro' "Mr. James Tebbetts had a stranger come into his home a few days ago; he weighed ten pounds. It is a boy." I infer from the report that "it" must be a small "he" boy, and not a big female girl.

A New Way to Pay Old Debts.

Shakespeare tells how this can be accomplished in one of his immortal plays; but debts to nature must be paid on demand unless days of grace be obtained through the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is not a "cure-all" but invaluable for sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, consumption, and all diseases of the pulmonary and other organs, caused by scrofula or "bad blood." Scrofulous ulcers, swellings and tumors are cured by its wonderful alterative action. By druggists.

There is a big strike of hands on the Missouri Pacific railroad and traffic is to a great extent suspended.

Heart Pains.

Palpitation, dropsical swellings, dizziness, indigestion, headache, sleeplessness cured by "Wells' Health Renewer."

The coal miners in the Pittsburg, Pa., district, struck on the 9th inst. for better pay. A bitter contest is anticipated.

"Rough On Corns."

Ask for Wells' "Rough on Corns." 15c. Quick complete cure. Hard or soft corns, warts, bunions.

At Pearlington, Miss., on the evening of March 7th, the house of Mrs. Jane Snowps was burned while she was at church, and her three children perished in the fire.

"Buchu-Paiba."

Quick, complete cure, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, scalding, irritation, stone, gravel, catarrh of the bladder. $1. Druggists.

John O'Neil is held for trial in $5000 at Boston on a charge of causing the death of Winifred S. Morrissey in a saloon, by pouring kerosene on her clothing and setting it on fire.

"Rough on Coughs."

Ask for "Rough on Coughs," for colds, coughs, sore throat, hoarseness. Troches, 15c. Liquid, 25c.

The committee on the Murray Hill church in New York have reported to the New York Presbytery that they proposed to retire Rev. Dr. Burchard as pastor emeritus, on a salary of $500 a year, to make room for a younger and more energetic pastor, and that both Dr. Burchard and his congregation had accepted the proposition.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was through a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day. Words cannot express our feelings towards you. Geo. W. Green, Campti, La.

An infernal machine was found in an unoccupied house in Cork, Ireland, on the night of the 8th inst., and contained seven pounds of powder. The police are busily engaged in searching for other machines of the same kind, having been notified that a number of them had recently been introduced into the city.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Liver, Kidney or Stomach Trouble.

Symptoms: Impure blood, costive bowels, irregular appetite, sour belching, pains in side, back and heart, yellow urine, burning when urinating, clay-colored stools, bad breath, no desire for work, chills, fevers, irritability, whitish tongue, dry cough, dizzy head, with dull pain in back part, loss of memory, foggy sight. For these troubles "SWAYNE'S PILLS" are a sure cure. Box, (30 Pills), by mail, 25 Cts., for $1.00. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila., Pa. Sold by Druggists.

London Hair Restorer—Great English Toilet Article. Restores growth, color, gloss, and softness. Removes dandruff. Aristocratic families of Great Britain endorse it. Elegant dressing. Fragrantly perfumed. The favorite of fashion. At drug. lists for $1 75, or 75 Cts. in U. S. money.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching; very distressing, particularly at night; seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about parts affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also, for Tetter, Itch, Salt-rheum, Scald-Head, Erysipelas, Barber's Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases. Box, by mail, 50 Cts.; 3 for $1.25. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila. Pa. Sold by druggists

Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Consumption.

All Throat, Breast, and Lung Affections cured by the old-established "SWAYNE'S WILD-CHERRY." The first dose gives relief, and a cure speedily follows. 25 cts. or $1.00 at Druggists.

"If solid happiness we prize," says the poet Cotton, "within our breast this jewel lies," but if we have a cold there, the happiness can only be secured by using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

By a powder mill explosion at Newburg, N. Y., March 9th, two men were killed and one fatally hurt. The explosion was heard twenty miles away.

Doctors!

Of all the different schools in the country, have thousands die every year of Bright's disease of the kidneys, who could be living to-day if they had used Sulphur Bitters. They are unequalled in the world for all diseases of the kidneys.—New Haven Union.

At Durant, Miss., March 7th, three colored children were fatally burned through the house taking fire while they were locked in. Two white boys were badly burned while trying to save them.

President Cleveland on the 9th inst. nominated Charles S. Fairchild of New York to be assistant secretary of the treasury, and John C. Black of Illinois to be commissioner of pensions.

Frightful Whooping Cough.

Dr. Edward C. Hughes, Rockford, Ill., (Graduated N. Y. City 1866,) voluntarily testifies:—"Some years ago my only son, aged four, had an attack of the whooping cough, characterized by the most violent spasms I have ever seen in a practice of 18 years. Had several consultations with eminent physicians and all ordinary and extraordinary remedies were prescribed in vain. The paroxysms were simply frightful. I believed the child would die. I reluctantly tried Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer and the effect was magical. Three bottles cured him."

The famous Holstein cow, Echo, owned by F. C. Stevens, proprietor of Maplewood stock farm at Attica, N. Y., and which gave birth to male triplets March 4th, died on the 7th. Her owner refused $25,000 for her, and was offered $5000 for her calf if a male. She had the largest milk record in the world. The calves are doing well.

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

Hon. William Caldwell died in Augusta, Me., Sunday, after a brief illness, aged seventy years. For forty-three years he was first a clerk in the treasurer's office and then state treasurer for several successive terms.

JAMES PYLE'S PEARLINE is considered the best washing compound of the day by all who once give it a trial. It cleanses the most delicate fabric without injuring it. Sold by all grocers.

It is announced that the plan adopted for the defence of Suakim by Gen. Wolseley is as follows: The Indian contingent will encamp on the right of the town and the Guards on the left, while a semi-circle of redoubts 400 yards apart will be formed 1800 yards from the inner line of defences, connecting with the latter. The water supply is abundant, but the troops suffer greatly from the heat.

What They Do in New Orleans Nowadays.

The great crowds in New Orleans, at the Exposition, flock to purchase Tickets in the Louisiana State Lottery, on Tuesday, Feb. 10th. The sum of $255,000 was fairly paced by the hand of fortune where it will probably do the most good. As sample bricks, how the golden treats her votaries, we note that Ticket No. 29,605 drew the First Capital Prize of $75,000, and was sold as a whole to a resident of San Francisco, Cal., and collected through the Nevada Bank of that city. Ticket No 88,414 drew the Second Capital Prize of $25,000, and was sold to a party in New Orleans, La., visiting the Exposition probably. Ticket No. 1,730 drew the Third Capital Prize of $10,000, and was sold in 8 fns, one to Reuben Joel, 62 Munroe St., Lynn, Mass.; another collected through First National Bank of Birmingham, Pittsburg, Pa. Nos. 70,929 and 90,476, drew each $5,000 and were held in New Orleans and Cincinnati, O., &c., &c. The whole thing will be repeated again on April 14th, next, of which Mr. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give all information on application.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Dizziness, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.
69 Harrison Street.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 23d, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headache. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of that nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the time I was sixteen years old. I had consult d various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever know of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.
As an anti-malarial medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S
FAVORITE REMEDY
has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

Quicker than Electricity.

City Alderman, Hon. R. C. Payne, Brisbane, Queensland, Australia, writes, that he tried many remedies, including galvanic batteries and Turkish baths, for rheumatism, and finally used St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-cure. It gave him instantaneous relief.

Gov. Marmaduke of Missouri and Major C. C. Rainwater, the latter a prominent citizen and democrat of St. Louis, are having a sharp dispute, and calling each other liars and scoundrels in the papers.

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in; whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer, or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by taking Parker's Tonic when you feel "a little out of sorts." It would be money in your pocket. One hour of good, rejoicing health is worth half a dozen hours full of languor and pain.

Mt. Sterling, Ohio, has had a "rink elopement." Miss Minnie Zahn, eighteen years old, daughter of the rink proprietor, an expert on skates and belle of the village, having run away with H. Seymour Hicks of London, Ohio, a wealthy and good looking young man about ten years her senior. The fact that there was no opposition to the match and no motive for the elopement makes the affair mysterious. Hicks had more than once offered the girl marriage within two years, but had been rejected.

Disgust.

The disgust that many feel for worthless medicines should not prevent sufferers from using a truly reliable preparation like Wetherell's Sarsaparilla. This is one of the preparations which has real merit. Try it. $1. Six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or will send for it.

—Some weeks ago, when corn was at its lowest notch, a Missouri farmer brought a load to town and inquired the price. "Fifteen cents" was the reply. The farmer paused and gazed upon the ground thoughtfully. At last he said: "I wonder if there ain't any place in town where I could trade that load of corn for a load of cobs. I'm about out of wood."

Housed Up.

For the last three months a great many people have been housed up, because they have not felt able to withstand the stormy wintry weather that has prevailed. But unfortunately the confinement and the close air of modern houses during the winter season, is very enervating, and the system needs help to enable all the organs to do their proper work. If these organs have been inactive the consequences are showing themselves in the bilious condition of the system, or in constipation of the bowels, or in disorders of the kidneys, with all the aches and pains that accompany these complaints. If you are in this condition from any cause you should make a faithful trial of that well known remedy Kidney-Wort. It acts at the same time on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and is therefore especially fitted to correct this torpid condition of the system.

Liver, Kidney or Stomach Trouble.

Symptoms; Impure blood, costive bowels, irregular appetite, sour rising, pains in side, back and head, yellow urine, burning when urinating, clay-colored stools, bad breath, no desire for work, chills, fevers, irritability, whitish tongue, dry cough, dizzy head, with dull pain in back part, loss of memory, foggy sight. For these troubles "SWAYNE'S PILLS" are a sure cure. Box, (30 Pills), by mail, 25 Cts., 5 for $1.00. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila., Pa. Sold by Druggists.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Never before in the History of Medicine has a Preparation been so Universally valued as Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium. It goes right to the root, and builds the system up as no other Medicine.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial disease, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating Medicine.

INOCULATED POISON!

Some eight years ago I became the victim of a fearful Blood Poison, communicated by a nurse to my infant, and thence through the breast, and suffered for six long years. The Mercury and Potash treatment seemed to drive the poison further into my system only to break out in worse form on other portions of my body. Three months ago I began taking Swift's Specific, and it has cured me sound and well. It is the greatest blessing which has come to mankind in years.

A Chinese Review.

The Prince's large blue tent was pitched on a slightly rising ground apart from the others, and was constantly surrounded by gorgeous officers in bright young raiment, with round, flat black hats and long feathers, who were galloping to and fro, directing grand charges of cavalry. It did seem so funny to see a whole army of ponies; for there are no horses here, unless the foreign residents chance to import any. These Eight Banners are all Manchus or Mongol Tartars, or at any rate are descended from such. Chinese troops being ranged under the grand standard. Th se Eight Banners which, as I have said, are multiplied, are plain white, red, blue, and yellow, and the same colors repeated, and distinguished by a white edge and a white spot. These companies are supposed to defend different sides of the city, the colors having some mystic relation to the points of the compass; except that yellow is in the middle, where it guards the Imperial Palace. Red guards the south, blue the north, and white the west, while the east is nominally given up to the green standard, which, however, being composed of Chinamen, is not admitted to the honor of guarding the forbidden city. I am told that the Banner Army numbers upward of a hundred thousand men, who supply Tartar garrisons for the principal cities of the empire. We got out of the cart and secured a good position on a small hillock, whence we had a capital view. A number of Tartar soldiers who were off duty gathered round, and were quite captivated by the loan of my opera glasses. Then they showed us their wretched firearms, (which certainly did not look as if any European could have superintended the arsenal where they were manufactured,) and also their peculiar belts, containing charges of powder only; and yet we are told that in addition to first-class firearms, which are being ceaselessly manufactured at the Government arsenals at Tien-Tsin, Shanghai, Canton, Foo-Choo, Nankin, and other less important places, the Chinese Government spares no expense in buying both ammunition and firearms of European manufacture. I suppose they are kept in reserve for real war! A picturesque company of archers rode by on stout ponies, holding their bridle in the right hand and in the left their bows, the arrows being cased in a leathern quiver, slung across the shoulders. As to their swords, instead of hanging from the waist, they are stuck under the saddlebags; each man's cap is adorned with the tails of two squirrels, which is the correct military decoration. Now though we Scots are quite ready to believe that blackcocks were created for the express purpose of bequeathing their tails to adorn the caps of the London Scottish, (the said tails having very much the jovial, independent character of the bird itself,) it really is impossible to see the fitness of things in selecting our little squigs as military emblems, unless to suggest the wisdom of he who fights and runs away! Anyhow, it now seems as if we might find a profitable market for all the thousands of squirrels' tails which are annually wasted in our north country woods. I quite forgot to take note of the fan and the pipe, which I am told are invariable items in the accoutrements of the Chinese soldiers.—Begbrarie.

"The Offerings of the Dead."

Among the many remnants to heathen custom of the wandering Israelites, as recorded in the one hundred and sixth Psalm, it is stated that "They joined themselves unto Baal-peor, and ate the offerings of the dead." Probably few among us fully realize how tremendous a proportion of the world's worship, in all ages, and in all countries, has ever been, and even continues to be, lavished on deceased ancestors. Next to the simplest forms of nature worship must assuredly rank that only of the great departed—the heroes are exalted to the rank of demi-gods—but the human ancestors of every degree. Time would fail us, were we to allow ourselves a retrospective glance over bygone ages, to note the place held by this reverence among all the mightiest races of the earth. We find it in the rude worship of African tribes, when the careless slaughter of a snake or a crow is sufficient to exasperate races who believe that under these forms their ancestors are guarding them from harm. And in many Pacific isles that reverence takes almost identical forms, and the fear of angering the dead, and the necessity of propitiating them, is a perpetual care overshadowing the living.

To turn to the more elaborated systems of civilized man, we cannot but note how largely homage to the dead enters into the devotions of the living. Look, for instance, at India, and the Brahminical teaching on this subject accepted by two hundred millions of our fellow-subjects. They are taught that no matter how good a man has been, if his funeral rites are not properly conducted, and his cremation is neglected, he becomes a malignant demon (unless indeed his remains should find their way to the holy River Ganges). The man who dies a violent death—by the hand of the executioner, by suicide, or by accident—and whose corpse is not rescued and duly honored, becomes a Bhuta, i. e., an evil demon. Should it be impossible to recover the body, his son ought to make an image of sacred kusa grass to represent him, and cremate that in his stead.

Among the unhappy demon-spirits are numbered all those who have died without leaving sons to make offerings on their behalf; therefore the ancient Vedas provided for special services of extraordinary length, and most intricate ritual, to be conducted by 16 classes of priests. These continued for weeks, and sometimes even for years their object being to obtain from the favor of the gods an unbroken line of descendants for three generations, in order to secure the proper performance of funeral rites. As every man was bound to secure the happiness of three past generations, so he himself was dependent on the three that came after him, and thus were seven generations ever linked together.

In those ancient days, 500 B. C., ere cattle had become objects of worship, a cow was sacrificed at funerals that the dead might feast on the aroma, as doubtless the survivors did on the substantial reality; portions were also placed in the hands and on other parts of the corpse, which was then burned, and the spirit was wafted upward on the smoke. Then for many days the family daily offered balls of rice at the place of cremation, that the germ of a new body might feed thereon and develop; till this was accomplished, the dead was a restless, disembodied ghost, incapable of suffering hell or enjoying heaven. After this the ashes were collected in an urn and buried, and thenceforth periodical offerings of water and rice balls were offered, with prayers to all the dead relations of the three last generations, who then, as now, were wholly dependent on the living for the supply of all things needful to them, as well as for their deliverance from purgatory.—C. F. Gordon Cummings, in the British Quarterly Review.

An English physician has been trying to count the nairs on the human head. He quotes the average number of hairs per square inch at 1,066, and estimates about 128,000 hairs for the entire head as a general rule.

Leland Stanford, Senator from California, has arranged to leave his fortune of $15,000,000 to the State of California. The State debt of California, $3,000,000, is to be paid, and the large balance is to be used as a fund for a thorough system of popular education.

DISFIGURING HUMORS HUMILIATING ERUPTIONS Itching and Burning! TORTURES

I have tried for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, a exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You are at liberty to use my name as one as I can give them to any one, and as we live now known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the results will speak for themselves.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby preventing all sorts of disease. I paint, and all the stuff we daily use, leaving the skin pure and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is to recommend such an article.

An Important Food Reform.

Production of Chemically Pure Cream of Tartar—Total Elimination of all Lime Impurities—New Discoveries in Refining—A Long Stride Toward Pure Food.

(New York Tribune.)

Discoveries of much importance on account of the relation they bear toward a more wholesome food supply and consequently, upon the public health, have been recently made in the process of refining cream of tartar. Cream of tartar, as is well known, is a bitartrate of potassa purified from the crude tartar, or argol, which collects in a chrystalline deposit upon the bottom and sides of wine casks during the fermentation of the wine. This tartar, in its crude state contains lime and other impurities, which no process of refining known prior to that here described was able to entirely remove. It has been possible, it is true, to neutralize the lime to some extent by the aid of chemicals, and this method was resorted to in order to procure cream of tarter in small quantities for pharmaceutical purposes; but it was open to serious objection in view of the fact that the chemicals employed for this purpose were not always wasted out but remained in quantities that were uncertain and prejudicial to its quality. The supposed impossibility of removing the lime has, accordingly, caused cream of tartar to be classed and sold as pure when it did not contain more than five per cent of this impurity. The major part, however, of that used in commerce, or for culinary purposes, contains the tartrate of lime to an extent much greater than five per cent, not infrequently being found, upon analysis, debased to a degree equaling one-fourth or more of its entire weight.

In a report upon the subject of food adulteration made to the New York State Board of Health by Professors Chandler and Love, it is stated that of 27 samples of cream of tartar bought from dealers as pure 16 were adulterated with various mixtures from 30 to 95 per cent, while of the remainder all contained tartrate of lime, some as high as 10 59 per cent.

The serious character of this adulteration is more readily appreciated when it is recollected how largely cream of tartar enters into the preparation of the food of every family. In connection with soda in baking powder it is the chief agent now employed for raising and making light and digestible all our biscuit, cake, and other pastry, and is besides, in many communities, superseding the old-fashioned yeast for all leavening purposes, so that it is employed to some extent in almost every meal of which we eat. The amount of cream of tartar used in this country in a year in baking powder and otherwise in the preparation of food, is estimated at ten million pounds. If this were 99 per cent pure—a high estimate—we would consume one million pounds or more of lime annually as a substitute for bread. So large a deterioration becomes appreciable in the deprivation of our food of a portion of its nutritive elements not only, but if, as is now supposed, this excess of lime taken into the system has a relation to the painful affections of the kidneys so prevalent in this country, its bearing upon the health of the entire community is too important to be overlooked.

The new process by which cream of tartar is produced 100 per cent pure—that is, with the lime totally eliminated,—by treating the crude material under pressure instead of using any chemicals whatever for the purpose, was the discovery originally of a German chemist, but has been developed and perfected by the Royal Baking Powder company of this city, through whose efforts a few years since in behalf of a high standard of purity in food, the public was rid of the poisonous alum baking powders at that time so prevalent.

The determination of this company to place upon the market only absolutely pure goods, and the impossibility of doing this from the cream of tartar of commerce, made it apparent that some new method must be sought by which cream of tartar could be procured in large quantities, free from lime and chemically pure. The cream of tartar refiners of this country and Europe when approached upon the subject, declared such a result impossible, and declined to incur the expenditure necessary to make the trial. The Royal Baking Powder company, accordingly, resolved to solve the problem for itself; and having secured the aid of the best chemists of Europe and America, proceeded with its investigations and discoveries until the result, after several years of labor and the expenditure of over half a million dollars in the purchase of patents, perfecting of processes, and the erection of buildings and machinery, was reached in the complete attainment of the end sought. The works (now owned by the New York Tartar Co.) are located in Brooklyn, and exceed in size and capacity any other similar refinery in the world. They produce a chemically pure cream of tartar, which is now exclusively used for pharmaceutical preparations, and in the manufacture of the celebrated Royal Baking Powder.

The energy and outlay that have effected this, will undoubtedly be fully rewarded by the public which will chiefly benefit by the successful issue of the investigations. People are coming daily to more fully appreciate the value of pure and wholesome food. By the exclusive use of the chemically pure cream of tartar, the Royal Baking Powder is produced entirely free from lime, and absolutely pure, qualities possessed by no other baking powders yet made. A baking powder entirely free from lime or other impurity must not only contain more strength or leavening power and produce better food and therefore be more economical for use, but what is more important, possess qualities of superior whole-omeness.

Chemists and physicians have looked upon the experiments with much interest, and regard their success as a matter of much importance.

The Skating Craze.

Under the above heading the New York World says that "Fifty thousand people attended the roller-skating exhibition at Madison Square Garden during the week. This, in a country of majorities, makes roller-skating a public event. As these people do not while attending the Garden play seven-up, or drink, or throw dice, 40,000 rum-sellers will rise up and complain of the immorality of roller-skating, and a score of dime museums will denounce the impropriety of such assemblages. But so long as twenty thousand girls who stand upon their feet all day as floor clerks, and excite the pity of the community with their hardships, can shake the light fantastic skate at night over twenty miles of floor, it will be useless to oppose the rinks. The factories that are now making roller skates do not have anything to say of the immorality, and the thousands who flock to this new and popular divertisement appear to think that they get the worth of their money. When we consider what an advantage these skates are to young people who wish to get away from mammas and duennas while flirting, and how all the intrigues and by-play of the ball-room and masquerade are enhanced when the feet are winged, we should not wonder at the enjoyment of the skaters themselves or at the interest of the onlookers."

A Valuable Assistant.

The inestimable value to a public man of an accomplished private secretary is shown in the following extract from an Albany letter to the Chicago Tribune:

Having been brought up himself in the Tilden school of politics, Lamont worked on Cleveland until the latter, although naturally frank and brusque, became as slick and reserved as his mentor. He carefully revised his correspondence, and it is said that only two letters that Cleveland has written since he was governor were not read by Lamont before they were sent—the famous letter to Kelly, asking that Grady be not re-elected senator for the sake of Cleveland's personal comfort, and the still more famous letter to "my dear Mrs. Beecher." Of the latter, indeed, Lamont only learned when it was published. It so surprised him that he went to Cleveland and said:

"Governor, they have got off a forgery on you. Just look at this letter some knave must have written in your name to make you ridiculous"

"But, my dear fellow, I wrote that letter." Cleveland sheepishly replied, and Lamont dropped the subject. But he has taken good care ever since that Cleveland does not take the bit in his mouth and let his unacceptible nature get the better of him. After having closely studied the relations between Cleveland and his private secretary as far as such a thing is possible, it is hard to escape the conclusion that Cleveland keeps his mouth shut so well only because he does not exactly know what to say until he has been enlightened by his friend and secretary.

A magazine containing 6000 lbs. of nitro-glycerine exploded at Bradford, Pa., March 10th, blowing the manufactory to atoms, tearing up trees by the roots, and scooping great holes in the earth. Two men were killed, one being torn to fragments so small that only one or two pieces could be found.

Miss Oneda Pulsifer, a handsome and accomplished young woman of twenty-five, poisoned herself with laudanum in a hotel at Seymour, Conn., on the 9th inst. She had been betrayed by Wm. G. Douglass, a master carpenter, under promise of marriage, and afterward found that he already had a wife living.

In the supreme judicial court at Portland, Me., in the case of Brown vs. Rand, wherein the sons of the late John B. Brown sought to remove John Rand, a well known lawyer, from the office of trustee under the will of Mr. Brown, for conduct unbecoming a trustee, in his treatment of his co-trustees, Judge Haskell has decided that Mr. Rand be removed. From this decision Mr. Rand has appealed. Judge Haskell's opinion, stating the facts in the case and the law applicable thereto, is published in the Portland Advertiser.

The cabinet follow the lead of the president, and are in favor of sustaining the rules of the civil service to their fullest extent, selecting officials solely for their worth and value to the government. As the democrats wished to see Mr. Cleveland elected that the great principles of the democratic party might be maintained by a president of their choice, of course they do not care for the offices and are content with the result.

Spring Medicine

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

Do Not Delay

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur

Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me. I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am now able to do all my housework.

should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured me of Dyspepsia and those deathly Sick Headaches.

THE WEATHER.

For New England To-day:
Warmer, generally fair weather.

The thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 14 degrees above zero.

Snowing.

YIELDING TO THE INEVITABLE.

According to the Washington correspondent of a leading "independent" paper, "The Maine men are determined that no one person shall control their patronage, if they can help it."

In New Hampshire the same determination attempted to assert itself, but found it could not help it, and consequently subsided.

Treasurer's Report.

The following report has been handed us for publication:

Less amount expended	222 38
Showing a balance or net income of	$53 22

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM S. HAZEL, Treas.
Portsmouth, N. H., March 10, 1883.

The above is a careful statement of the receipts and expenditures, and as every cent received is accounted for, it will be of interest to those of our citizens who always like to study the details of matters of this kind. It will be seen that the net income or amount which the Children's Home will receive is $53.22.

A WHIG INAUGURATION BALL.

The Penny Post of the 10th inst. had the following in regard to the grand ball given in this city by the "old line whigs" in 1849 to celebrate the inauguration of the president and vice president elected by whig votes,—the last time that party ever had a chance to celebrate anything of the kind:

We were shown to-day the ticket and order of dances of the inauguration ball at the old Franklin hall on March 5th, 1849, given to celebrate the inauguration of General Taylor. The managers were Ichabod Goodwin, James W. Emery, G. M. White, E. F. Sise, Ira Hazelton, B. B. Swasey, G. W. Pallivey, C. C. Jackson, Samuel P. Hatch and Frederick Rowe. The order of dances consisted of nine cotillions, Fisher's Hornpipe, Chorus Jig, Hull's Victory, Portland Fancy, Boston Fancy, Money Musk, Rustic Reel, Sisters, and only one waltz. The chorus Jig was a draw dance.

TOWN ELECTIONS.

At the Newington town meeting on Tuesday, the 10th inst., party lines were ignored. The first and third selectmen chosen are republicans, the second selectman and town clerk, democrats; school committee, republicans. Several democrats united with republicans in bringing about this result of a non-partisan town government. Officers were elected as follows: Moderator, Frederick Pickering; clerk, Henry H. Downing; selectmen, Henry Bean, James B. Pickering, Benjamin S. Hoyt; treasurer, Frank Pickering.

At the election in Epping there were two tickets,—a union ticket bearing the names of three democrats and two republicans, and a straight democratic ticket. The democratic candidates were elected, except the town treasurer, to which office Walter N. Stickney, republican, was chosen. The other offices elected were as follows: Selectmen, Asa S. Robie, Daniel True, Daniel W. Cate; clerk, Frank P. Fisk. Amount of appropriations, $6,000.

South Newmarket elected republican officials. Selectmen, Austin J. Neal, Jerry Malchy, Nathan G. Howard; clerk, H. Jenness Paul; treasurer, George O. Paul. Appropriated for schools, above the amount required by law, $825; highways, $500; reduction of debt, $1132; for fire purposes, $200, observance of Memorial day, $25; total appropriations for the year, $5090. Amount of town debt, $1132; cash in treasury, $410.

In Rye the democratic ticket prevailed. Moderator, G. H. Jennes; clerk, John O. Drake; selectmen, Alfred C. Locke, Joseph W. Rand, Albert H. Drake; supt. of schools, G. H. Jenness; treasurer, Charles J. Brown; collector, Aaron Rand; auditors, Emery C. Jenness, Charles D. Garland. Amount to be raised by taxation, including highway tax, $8,000; amount appropriated for support of schools, $1500. Town debt, $4157.

Newcastle elected the following officials: Moderator, Wm. L. Flynn; clerk, Howard M. Curtis; selectmen, George W. Towle, Thaddeus Tarlton, Wm. F. Melson; treasurer, Howard M. Curtis; assessors, Robert F. White, Chandler Martin; supervisors of checklists, Ambrose Card, Oliver V. Randall, Simeon C. Flanders; supt. school committee, Geo. W. Towle; collector of taxes, John Amazeen; auditors, John Albee, Moses R. Curtis. The town debt is $26,000.

At the meeting in Newmarket it was voted to exempt from taxation for ten years any manufacturing industry that would locate there and employ a capital of $10,000.

Ruel Durkee was again defeated in the town election at Croydon on Tuesday. This is the third reverse of the ancient politician in an effort to regain power in local affairs. He will attend at the session of the legislature all the same, and on his hat will be pasted the text "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house."

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Three Brothers, Capt. Upton, was on Wednesday, the 11th inst., being made ready to proceed to Salem, Mass., to be used in towing, in place of the tug White Swan, which was partially burned at Salem some time since, and is now undergoing repairs.

The schooner Charles H. Trickey, Capt. Kelley, which has been laid up during the winter at the wharf back of the Marvin cod liver oil manufactory, was on Wednesday of this week being made ready to engage in the summer's business; the steamer Three Brothers was alongside in the afternoon, engaged in throwing out the schooner's centreboard. It is the intention, if the preparations can be completed, for her to sail to-day for Bristol, Me., to load granite for New York.

Capt. Drew, of Dover, was in town this week, looking after the repairs to the tug-boat Ann, preparatory to her summer operations on the river. It is understood that she will this season carry the same crew as last year, with the exception of John Huniley, who is said to be engaged as fireman on another river steamer, and whose place will be taken by Capt. Drew's son.

The schooner D. K. Ham, Capt. Garland, has come across the river from the railway at Kittery, and will soon be refitted for the brick trade. She is now lying at Pier (C. E. Walker & Co.'s) wharf.

The British schooner "Mary C.," which struck on the Eastern Sister ledge some weeks ago while on the trip from the British provinces to Newburyport, and came into this port in a sinking condition, is on the ways at Kittery, being somewhat extensively repaired by Daniel Littlefield. Her keel was so badly split and broomed as to necessitate a new one; she will be recalked all over, and will be fitted with a complete set of composition rudder-braces, made by Isaac Furber, in place of the iron ones she had on when she arrived; and when she leaves this port she will not only be a better vessel than when she struck on the ledge, but better than when she was launched.

Mr. Samuel H. Marshall, deputy collector of customs, is confined at home with an attack of rheumatism.

Owing to the destruction of his pedler carts by fire on the occasion of the burning of his barn, on the morning of the 7th inst, Mr. John O'Brien, "cash or trade," will not put three carts on the road on the 1st of April, as he had announced. In this connection Mr. O'Brien desires to publicly thank Messrs. Charles W. Holmes, George A. Perkins and the Adams boys for prompt, energetic and willing assistance rendered at the time of the fire.

There was a large attendance of skaters and a considerable sprinkling of spectators at the Portsmouth rink on the evening of the 11th inst., when the ring tournament for lady skaters only, took place. There were many contestants for the prize, and for twenty-five minutes they created a good deal of quiet mirth by their attempts to spear the suspended ring; at the end of that time it was captured by Miss Annie Marr, of Kittery.

The English sparrows have not been seen on the streets much during the late cold term. It is not to be supposed that these vivacious birds are all dead yet; but they have sense enough, probably, to hunt for the deep recesses of the woods, where they can remain sheltered, comparatively, from the extreme severity of the weather.

The bill to enable the Eastern railroad to issue preferred stock in exchange for certificates of indebtedness was ordered to a third reading in the Massachusetts senate on Tuesday, March 10th.

Mr. George H. Remick, who has been at his home in Kittery during the last seventeen weeks in consequence of inflammatory rheumatism, is about returning to his work at the Eastern railroad car shop in Salem, Mass.

At Berwick, at the annual town meeting on the 10th inst., the following officers, all republicans except the overseer of the poor, were elected: Moderator, C. E. Marshall; clerk, J. H. Stillings; selectmen, John Gowell, W. D. Clark and M. F. Webster; treasurer, A. K. Downs; supervisor, W. S. Mathews; overseer of poor, C. W. Mathews; town agent, M. E. Clark; auditor, G. W. Stillings. Appropriations—Poor, $2000; schools, $2500; highways and bridges, $2500; bonds and interest, $2200; Triumph engine company, $300.

The national senate on the 10th inst. voted, thirty-six to twenty, to seat Henry W. Blair as senator from New Hampshire, and he was immediately sworn in.

The section hands employed on the Texas Pacific railroad at Dallas struck on the 10th inst.

Oscar Wilde's new book, "Impressions of America," will be eagerly read by all who assisted to make the poet's trip so decided pleasant. His impression of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a matter of little consequence, as the public have already pronounced it the remedy for coughs and colds par excellence.

Rev. Mr. Packard, pastor of the Free-will Baptist church in Goulc, is to go to Alton. Rev. Lincoln Given of Oakland, Me., has accepted a call to the church at Goulc.

"Rough On Toothache."

Instant relief for neuralgia, toothache, faceache. Ask for "Rough on Toothache." 15 and 25c.

The steam heater in a Wagner sleeping car on the New York Central railroad exploded at Syracuse, N. Y., smashing the interior and blowing off the roof; all the passengers were in the dining car; two railroad men were slightly hurt.

Pretty Women.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity Don't fail to try "Well's Health Renewer."

Solicitor General Phillips has tendered his resignation to the president, to take effect upon the appointment and qualification of his successor. He does not propose to embarrass the attorney general by vacating his office until provision shall have been made to fill it.

"Rough On Itch."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ringworm, tetter, salt rheum, frosted feet, chilblains.

Daniel Lambert, thirty years old, unmarried, a farm worker, broke through the ice on the old canal between Lonsdale and Berkeley, R. I. He was rescued and started to walk home, a quarter of a mile, but dropped dead on the way.

Life Preserver.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Well's Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots.

Thursday night, 5th inst., a fine appearing, well-dressed young woman stopped at the residence of Michael Welch of Waterbury, Conn., with a newborn babe in her arms and in a very feeble condition. She worked upon the people's sympathies, and gained permission to leave the child at the house until she went down town and married its father. Nothing more has been seen or heard of her, though most diligent search has been made. She was evidently a woman of the better class of society, and the boy baby is exceedingly bright.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive today. Words cannot express our feelings towards you. Geo. W. Green, Campti, La.

—Looking for board: Applicant (to the landlady,)—"I am willing to pay a good price, madam, but I am very particular about my food. I am under the doctor's care constantly, and suffer dreadfully with dyspepsia." Landlady.—"Oh, I am sure you will be pleased with my table if that is the case sir. My boarders all have dyspepsia."

Educated and Experienced.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass., who have a thorough knowledge of pharmacy, and many years practical experience in the business. It is prepared with the greatest skill and care, under the direction of the men who originated the Medal Hood's Sarsaparilla may be depended upon as a thoroughly pure, honest, and reliable medicine.

—The news that a Mexican railway company has bought six hundred wooden saints at an average of fifty cents each, in order to use them as fuel, throws a good deal of light upon the progress of civilization in Mexico.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed combines French brandy, Jamaica ginger, smart-weed and camphor water, the best possible agents for the cure of diarrhœa, cholera morbus, dysentery or bloody-flux and colic, or to break up colds, fevers and inflammatory attacks.

The new gallows made for the execution of Samson, the Lake Village murderer, was taken to Concord from Laconia on the 10th inst., and conveyed at once to the state prison. In construction it differs little from that formerly used, except that the drop where the prisoner stands is depressed lower than the rest of the floor. Samson, who is to be executed in April, is in as good health as can be expected, and seems to fully realize the enormity of the crime for which he is to suffer.

Frightful Whooping Cough.

Dr. Edward C. Hughes, Rockford, Ill., (Graduated N. Y. City 1866,) voluntarily testifies:—"Some years ago my only son, aged four, had an attack of the whooping cough, characterized by the most violent spasms I have ever seen in a practice of 18 years. Had several consultations with eminent physicians and all ordinary and extraordinary remedies were resorted to. The paroxysms were simply frightful. I believed the child would die. I reluctantly tried Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer and the effect was magical. Three bottles cured him."

The Washington Republican publishes an interview with Postmaster General Vilas, in which that gentleman is quoted as having said: "The programme of the whole cabinet is to select officials for their worth and value to the government," and as having further said that "The policy of the administration is to bear out the civil service rules to the full extent in the management of the various departments. I shall enforce the rules here."

The use of Iodoform or mercurius in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

At Big Stone Gap, Wise county, Va., Maggie Reynolds, who was engaged to Jim Mitchell, eloped with his rival, Joseph Henton, and got married. They returned home, and a crowd assembled to dance, and drink applejack and whiskey, in honor of the occasion; and Mitchell and Henton had a fight in which the former was worsted. The next evening Henton and his wife were murdered half a mile from their house while returning from a singing school.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rond ut, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for Dyspepsia and Dizzin ss, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for those ers of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.

69 Harrison Street

That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from Arrytown. The writer is none other than Mr. Delevere, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 18 4.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with sev re attacks of Dizzin ss and Blind Sick Headaches. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state o the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been a completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of it at nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DELEVERE.

DR. KE NEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined i its sphere o usefulness to one state or locality, but is h rded as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, R ndout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia fr m the time I was sixteen years old. I had consult d various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had also given up in despair of ever re overin my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It is the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

A new play is about to be produced entitled "what shall he do with it;" well, if "it" is a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, he'd better take a spoonful three times a day until he gets rid of his cough or cold.

Disgust.

The disgust that many feel for worthless medicines should not prevent sufferers from using a truly reliable preparation like Wetherill's Sarsaparilla. Fair is one of the preparations which has real merit. Try it. $1. Six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or will send for it.

In the district court at Fall River, Mass., March 11th, Mrs. Elizabeth Watson was bound over in $1000 for assault and battery. She had been employed to take care, during the day, of a five months' old child of a Mrs. Tuson, while the latter was at work in a mill. Friday, the 6th inst., Mrs. Tuson on returning from work found Mrs. Watson intoxicated, and the child crying in the cradle, its body horribly bruised and one ear cut off. It died on the night of the 10th inst. One would fancy that the old hag who caused its death should be charged with murder rather than with mere assault and battery.

Housed Up.

For the last three months a great many people have been housed up, because they have not felt able to withstand the stormy wintry weather that has prevailed. But unfortunately the confinement and the close air of modern houses during the winter season, is very enervating, and the system needs help to enable all the organs to do their proper work. If these organs have been inactive the consequences are showing themselves in the bilious condition of the system, or in constipation of the bowels, or in disorders of the kidneys, with all the aches and pains that accompany these complaints. If you are in this condition from any cause you should make a faithful trial of that well known remedy Kidney-Wort. It acts at the same time on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and is therefore especially fitted to correct this torpid condition of the system.

—A very orthodox animal. Bishop—"Doesn't shy, eh, Mr. Perkins?" Horse-dealer—"Shy? Never! Stop, my lord. I must be honest with you. I did know him to shy once, but that was at a Salvation Army passin' by!" (Bishop buys horse at once.)

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. VANDERBILT'S MILLIONS!

Could not buy from me what Swift's Specific has done for me. It saved me at a cost of a few dollars, after I had suffered with it fifteen long years, and had tried all the remedies, only to break down my health and make me almost helpless. MRS. ELIZABETH BAKER.
No. 2. Acworth, Ga., July 15, 1884.

INOCULATED POISON!

Some eight years ago I became the victim of a fearful Blood Poison, communicated by a nurse to my infant, and thence through the breast, and suffered for six long years. The Mercury and Potash treatment seemed to drive the poison further into my system only to break out in worse form on other portions of my body. The months I began taking Swift's Specific, and it has cured me sound and well. It is the greatest blessing which has come to mankind in years.

The Trochilus and the Crocodile.

Herodotus, that remarkably observing old traveler, is the first writer to note the curious relationship existing between this little bird and the crocodile. In his terse and telling fashion he says: "All other beasts and birds avoid the crocodile, but he is at peace with the trochilus, because he receives benefits from it; for when the crocodile issues from the water and then opens his mouth, which he does most commonly toward the sunset, the trochilus enters his mouth and swallows the leeches which cling to his teeth. The huge beast is so pleased that he never injures the little bird." Subsequent writers, with the sufficient wisdom that comes of much closet study, denied the story of the old Greek on the ground of improbability. On the other hand, the natives find the account too bald, and improve upon it by adding that the ziczac, as they call the bird, in likeness to its cry, frequently becomes so intent upon his business of picking the crocodile's teeth that he forgets the lapse of time, and continues his operations so long—in this respect strikingly like our human trochilus, the dentist—that the monster, in sheer weariness, must close his mouth. This ingratiatory action the trochilus indignantly resents, and at once, with beak and spurs, proceeds to scarify the crocodile's interior, with the result of causing the tired jaws to open once more. Modern writers who have been to Egypt confirm the substance of the story of Herodotus, but are skeptical as to the native addition. They, affirm, indeed, that the trochilus is the crocodile's friend in its despite, but that it does so with its consent, and that the occasions when the bird finds itself caught between its ugly protege's jaws, though infrequent, are final. This is very likely to be true, for the crocodile is certainly rapacious and blood-thirsty to the extreme of sullen brutality. If it be the case, it is fortunate for the trochilus that it is gifted with unusual agility. It belongs to the family of long-legged birds, which includes a great many species, ranging from the spry little snipe to the languid herons and cranes. Its beak is short, but its legs are long and muscular, as they need be to enable it to move with the rapidity for which it is remarkable. When not on duty it remains rather quiet, and seems to wait for the appearance of the ungrateful object of its solicitude with great patience; but when the monster is at last moved to bask upon a sand-bank, the trochilus is full of activity. It runs busily hither and thither, plucking off and swallowing the leeches that always are to be found adhering to the soft parts of the crocodile's body. The lazy saurian, in the meantime, like those happy mortals who fall asleep under the barber's ministrations, closes his mean little eyes and forgets his cares. Busy as it may be in helping itself to the toothsome leeches, the trochilus has set a sharp eye out for intruders, and, above all for man. Should any such approach too near, the sharp cry of the faithful guardian rouses the slumberer, which at once glides away into the water and safety.—Harper's Magazine.

Show the Children Respect.

It will surprise many parents to have it suggested that they should treat their children courteously and respectfully. Yet it is the best education that can be imparted to them. Parents are apt to think that children should be subject to authority and are not to be consulted. But why not? It teaches them to exercise judgment and imparts self-respect. The imitative quality in children leads them to reproduce what is most striking in their parents, unless they have a sufficiently positive individuality to map out character for themselves. Thus, many children reproduce the leading characteristics of the parent who commands most their regard. So, to treat them harshly, or even imperatively, is to create an autocratic disposition in them. It is not a love trait. Self-respect and equipoise of character are very different from a domineering propensity, which arrogates authority everywhere.

Fully a quarter of the lads in some of the primary school rooms have contracted the enervating habit of smoking cigarettes and indulge in it furtively upon every possible opportunity. Two cigarettes are sold for 1 cent, and while some dealers refuse to sell to boys, others do not, or older boys peddle them among lads far below the teens. —Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Among the ladies of the Supreme Court Mrs. Field is chief favorite. She is young, with fine, fresh English coloring, and is the soul of hospitality. Their home is one of the three houses that formerly made the old Capitol Prison, and it is hard to realize that the sunny rooms, leity corridors, and bright surroundings were once shadowed by the presence of captivity and the gloomy scaffold on which Wirz was hanged.

The great majority of the Senators and Representatives in Congress have never had the benefit of a college education. The University of Virginia has more graduates in this Congress than any other institution of learning. Harvard stands next, with fourteen graduates. Yale has two Senators and four Representatives. Union and Princeton have five each, Brown four, and the smaller colleges have a sprinkling of Representatives.

Austria employs 14,450 officials in her postal service; England, 91,000; Germany, 79,384; France, 53,299; Italy, 18,790; and Russia, 15,557. During 1883 Germany showed the largest amount of business, and England the largest surplus over expenses. The postal receipts last year were as follows: Germany, $44,488,00 ; England, $39,850,000; France, $32,145,000; Russia, $12,138,000; Austria-Hungary, $8,141,000; Italy, $7,092,0 0.

The Irish poplin trade, which has long been languishing, has lately shown signs of revival. A Dublin manufacturer has just produced two of the finest specimens of the fabric as dresses for Lady Brooke. One is poppy colored and soft and rich as the most delicate silk; the other has a pure white ground, wrought with a dainty pattern of gold work so close in construction as to warrant the name cloth of gold, which has been applied to it.

Mr. Gough in his youth was wild and dissipated. He was fondly attached to a young lady who lived in Vermont. She refused to marry him on account of his dissolute habits, and gave her hand to a promising lawyer in her native village. Gough reformed and became a celebrated temperance advocate. The lady's husband went to the war, where he acquired the vice of drinking. He came home, reformed and fell, and finally died a complete wreck, the victim of whisky.

Of Reinsdorf, the fanatic who endeavored to blow up Kaiser Wilhelm at Niederwald, the London Spectator remarks: "The man is said to have been a singularly kindly one, especially toward women and children; he cross-examined witnesses with skill; he described himself as a murder who fulfilled the Scriptural command to be faithful even unto slaying,' and he is evidently one of those strange moderns who are filled with the passion of pity till they forget alike righteousness and justice."

The New York Sun is discussing the grammar of the family prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep." It pronounces it all right. It undoubtedly is; but, grammatical or not, it has gone up to the great judgment seat freighted with the sweetest confidence and trust that only infantile humanity can understand. That simple petition will endure as long as Christianity prevails, and will be familiar to more hearts and lips than probably all other prayers combined. Few English-speaking men and women but learned it at mother's knee, and few wholly forget it.—Indianapolis Journal.

DISFIGURING HUMORS HUMILIATING ERUPTIONS Itching and Burning! TORTURES

I have tried for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby rendering all "doors," "grease, paint, oil all the stuff" to fly from them, leaving the skin pure and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such a valuable article.

NEW YORK HYPERBOLE.

A correspondent sends us the following, clipped from a New York paper which is about as near correct in its political views as it is in its description of Portsmouth, in regard to which it seems to have been badly sold with this senseless exaggeration:

One of my down-town friends, whose face is well known on the Produce Exchange, has just returned from a visit to the home of his boyhood at Portsmouth, N. H., and he entertained me a couple of days ago with lamentations over the change for the worse which, during the last twenty years, has come over that ancient and honorable burg. "In my time" —such is his pet expression—"there was business and bustle and thrift in the town; now the peaceful sleep of a summer after-dinner hour has settled upon everything and everybody. Shipyards crowded with ships weather-beaten this many a year; factories that used to go whirling year in and year out are idle and tumble-down; old-style New Englandism has been exiled. The Portsmouth of to-day might for all that used to stand in its character pass uncharged for some Lay Island Georgia town whose people have everything but money, and no use for that.

"Why," ejaculated this depressed patriot, "the very boys and girls are of a new type. They are bloodless. Football and 'shinny,' and scrimmage of a lively fashion were the popular thing when I was growing up, but ah"—with a deep-lunged sigh—"that's all changed now. Football has made way for muggins, and parlor charades take up the time that used to give us muscle with shinny sticks. New Hampshire in the past has produced statesmen; the Daniel Websters of her future will measure tape; the visit to my old home has made me sad."

On one thing could my oracle find no terms as a text for even sight satisfaction while he held Portsmouth as his theme. In old times all the houses of the town were divided by fences whose peculiarity was their height. They reached to the eaves of buildings, and were built of boards nailed close enough together to shut out all observation from neighbors. These fences, going the way of all things in town, are no more; "Portsmouth," to use language supplied me, "has rotted down with her leaves to the plane of civilization." The last of the tall board walls went last year. Neighbors may be less curious than of old, or perhaps economy has secured a stronger grip.

And yet this same paper had the assurance to send to us a short time since and ask us to insert its advertisements in our columns, to be repaid with the privilege of reading an exchange filled with such valuable information!

On a par with this degree of accuracy, is the following reliable (?) information concerning the rise and progress of Frank Jones, who from his many confidential conferences with Mr. Cleveland before his inauguration as president, has come to be regarded with much interest in New York:

Portsmouth to-day is practically the pocket borough of one man—Mr. Frank Jones, brewer and politician. His career has been one of such marked diversities that a bit of gossip concerning him may be readable. Born among the basket makers of dreary old Barrington, he has occupied Webster's seat in Congress; carting charcoal over a country road in his early manhood, he has lived to count a fortune reaching a good many hundred thousand dollars. Frank Jones had an elder brother, who opened a tin store in Portsmouth, and by Yankee shrewdness and push prospered. As his business grew he put a wagon on the road to retail his dish pans and wash boiler merchandise. Frank quit charcoal peddling to become the supervising architect in this new enterprise. For a year or more he had his cart went up and down the daily roads round about Portsmouth dealing out the shiny pie plate and the plastic spoon. Then the brother died. His widow inherited $6,000 or so. All in due time Mr. Frank Jones married the widow. The tin business went on; the dollars kept rolling in.

Some wind waited an ambitious Englishman into town, an Englishman bearing the name of John Swindle, who had a fancy that a local beer brewery would make its projector rich. Mr. Swindle ventured and lost, and at auction one day the proprietor of a tin store came into possession of a brewery. Frank Jones began where John Swindle left off, and Jones made money with the same ease that Swindle had lost it. He startled everybody by his venture, but all the while the fortune grew till some day folks awakened to the fact that two-thirds or so of the property within reach was all padlocked to the Jones possessions. Boston was invaded for new brewery sites. Frank Jones soon became recognized as the capitalist of his state. Then came politics. The democrats gladly hailed him as a leader, not less for his cash perhaps than for other things. He has given them chances and advantages that nobody else in the state could offer. He is now their all in all. His aim is the United States senate, and he has faith enough in his star to believe that he will ultimately attain his ambition.

Mr Jones said a significant thing lately in conversation with one of my friends. He knew, I imagine, will be appreciated by a good many practical men in New York. It was this: "It doesn't do to tell the public everything. I have been financially broke' is good many times since people have believed me rich. If this had been known I would probably have been digging cellars for a living now."

Truly a "bit of gossip." The contradictory features of the last paragraph show how largely the writer has drawn on his imagination for his embellishments. The idea of Frank Jones digging cellars is pretty good. If by any circumstances he should lose his fortune the chances are that he won'd be above ground in regaining it.

New Hampshire Patents.

The following list of patents granted March 10th to citizens of New Hampshire is specially reported by Franklin H. Hough, Solicitor of American & Foreign Patents, 925 F. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

No. 313,807. A. Cifre, Plaistow, Necktie-fastener.

No. 313,593. W. D. Huse, Laconia, assignor to O. Twombly, Lake Village, and T. S. Nowell, Boston, Mass., Knitting machine.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending March 10th was 401.

President Cleveland and Civil Service Reform.

The following despatches were sent from New York on the 11th inst.:

Daniel N. Lockwood of Buffalo, who had the honor of nominating Mr. Cleveland for president at Chicago, was at the Fifth Avenue hotel tonight. He said: "Two things can be considered certain regarding the policy of the new president's administration. He will prove himself an advocate of genuine civil service reform, and he will hold upon a rigid economy in the administration of public affairs. The services of hundreds of clerks in the government departments will be dispensed with."

The Mail and Express says: "It leaked out today that President Cleveland, before his inauguration, had determined to reappoint Postmaster Pearson of New York. He kept his intention in this regard to himself, however, until the day after his inauguration, when the matter was discussed with Mayor Grace, Hubert O. Thompson and other leaders of the County Democracy, all of whom regarded the plan with favor."

The Mail and Express is a democratic paper, and is supposed to voice the ideas of the county democracy, which faction, headed by Hubert O. Thompson, defeated Tammany in the democratic national convention by securing the adoption by the New York delegation of the "unit rule," to which Cleveland owed his nomination.

Mr. Pearson has been the most efficient and economical postmaster New York city has ever had, and he has kept entirely aloof from politics during his incumbency; his re-appointment would be in the very spirit of civil service reform, but he is a republican and his re-appointment would create a terrific storm in the democratic ranks. It may yet prove that the many, both democrats and republicans, who insisted that Cleveland's civil service letter to Geo. William Curtis, which was so satisfactory to that gentleman and his fellow mugwumps, should be largely "read between the lines," were wrong; and that he indeed means to use all his influence with this administration in favor of a genuine reform in the method of making removals from and appointments to office.

TOWN ELECTIONS.

Stratham elected for moderator, R. M. Swasey; selectmen, James Odell, G. W. Bowley, G. E. Gowan; treasurer, J. S. Staples; collector, H. H. Leavitt.

Newmarket elected Henry H. Smith moderator; A. J. Watterson, town clerk; Charles E. Tasker, Al C. Gilman and George W. Buxton, selectmen; Frank S. Pinkham, treasurer; Plumer S. Willey, collector. Selectman Gilman and Treasurer Pinkham are republicans; the other officers are all democrats.

Durham: Selectmen, John Dennison, Charles E. Hoitt, Frank E. Doe; clerk, Samuel Runlett, Jr.; treasurer, Hamilton A. Mathes; a board of mixed politics. Total appropriations, $6196; town debt, none; cash in treasury, $26.53.

Hampton Falls: Selectmen, James D. Janvrin, George C. Haley, David C. Hawes; clerk, J. Sanborn; treasurer, Charles T. Brown; all republicans. Appropriations, $2500; town debt, $4438.-97; reduction of debt the past year, $932.92

Seabrook: Moderator, John M. Weare; town clerk, James Smith; selectmen, W. H. Walton, E. N. Eaton, F. E. Locke.

South Hampton: Moderator, B. R. Jewell; town clerk, F. P. Whitehouse; selectmen, Jacob Eaton, Charles Evans, F. B. Swain; treasurer, F. M. Jewell; collector, Andrew J. Currier.

In Rochester the town meeting voted $20,000 for demands against the town, $200 to the Grand Army, $300 to complete the soldiers' monument. It was voted to exempt the Rochester Aqueduct company's capital from taxation; also to build a town hall and county court house, providing the legislature will change the county seat from Dover to Rochester.

Mr. Lewis E. Staples, No. 7 Market street, calls attention to the special bargains he is offering in men's unlaundried shirts, men's linen collars, and men's socks.

Major David Urch has arrived home from Washington. What the major had in his gripsack when he got home is not known, but it is pretty certain the postoffice was not among its contents.

—Ristori played at Athens, Georgia, a night or two ago. The orchestra elicited thunders of applause by playing "Billy in the Low Grounds" during the execution of the Earl of Essex, while Queen Elizabeth yielded up the ghost to the tune of "Dixie."

A NEW TWO-STORY DWELLING HOUSE, with Stable, Carriage House, Sheds, &c., and about one acre of land, adjoining the main road.

The house is conveniently arranged, finished throughout, contains 10 rooms, cemented cellar under whole house, with large cistern of filtered water. There is a white oak grove of 3 or 40 trees near the house; also young fruit trees, currant bushes, etc., and land enough for a good garden. Two wells of excellent never-failing water on premises.

The place is situated near the river, is also 4½ minutes walk from P. O., stores and steamer landing, and 15 rods easy yard; and will be sold for what it would cost to put up the buildings.

Address, K. C. G. O. WIN, Kittery, Me.

—At a recent examination of a young man who applied for a certificate admitting him to the active field of education, the examiner asked: "What is a compound fraction?" The man replied: "A compound fraction is a fraction of a fraction and partakes of the verb and adjective." "That is new way of answering the question," said the examiner, "but I reckon you are right."

—Mr. Simpleton is a very irascible man, and is in the habit of punishing his boys very severely. Not long since he observed that one of his sons needed a new pair of pants. He scolded the boy for wearing out his clothes so fast. "Pa, no pants can last any time the way you hit," replied the son reproachfully.

—Fairbrother's gasoline—"And so you liked my performance?" Gallant Admirer—"Oh, it was the very scene of tragic art! But I am almost sorry I went; I caught a fearful cold." "Could I why, the room was warm." "Yes, but the floor was so damp." "Indeed! what could have caused that?" "The tears." She gave him a free ticket for the season.

—A Newark butcher who was asked to contribute to a charitable institution one day last week made a very pot-boiling impression when he said: "Sorry, ladies, I can't do anything today, but I will send you up a quarter in the morning." They thought he was "horrid" until they learned by illustration in the morning that a butcher's quarter was a quarter of prime beef.

Spring Medicine

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

Do Not Delay

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your

Sulphur Bitters

Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me. I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am now able to do all my housework.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured me of Dyspepsia and those deathly Sick Headaches.

not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, F. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, March 12th, Mayor Page in the chair:

Present the full board.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Bill of A. H. Drake, $7.75, for damage to sleigh through alleged defect in highway, was granted leave to withdraw.

Petition of James H. Spencer, for use of south wardroom for an entertainment, after discussion was referred to committee on city lands and buildings, with power.

The use of the common council room was granted to the Mercantile Library association, for a meeting.

The city marshal appeared before the board, and asked further equipments for the police,—whistles, handcuffs, and a copy of the Revised Statutes of the state.

Claim of George Wallace Haven, $10, for a crosswalk laid down by him, and taken up and removed by the late street commissioner, was ordered paid.

Committee on accounts reported bills from the several departments to the amount of $2222.32; ordered paid.

Bill of Samuel W. Emery, $7.50, for legal services during the absence of the city solicitor, was referred to the solicitor.

Samuel Webber's bill, for shoveling snow, $11.60, approved by chief engineer of fire department, was ordered paid.

Bill of Frank Jones, $450, for repairs made on Creek road near Mr. Huntress' place, was ordered paid.

Chief engineer recommended the sale of 1150 feet of old hose; referred to committee on fire department, with power.

Adjourned to 7:30 o'clock P. M., March 26th.

THE "49-ERS."

Thirty-six years ago to-day, on March 13th, 1849, the Rockingham Mutual Mining & Trading Co., composed of twenty-four young men, who had each paid in $300 to the capital stock, started from this city by train for New York, there to take the steamer Crescent City for Chagres, Central America, on the way to the then newly-discovered gold fields of California. It was election day when they started, but the party being equally divided in politics, they did not vote. Their names were as follows:

John H. Jackson, president; George Gaines, treasurer; Robert Phipps, secretary; Ebenezer Rumnells, Hazen Rumnells, John S. Fabyan, John Coffin, Enoch Coffin, Nathaniel J. Coffin, James T. Wheeler, Thayer Moulton, Edward J. Moulton, James T. Brown, Gee G. Pickering, George L. Stokell, Marco B. Goodrich, Joseph B Adams, James Rundlett, Benjamin Jenness, Samuel Smith, Alfred Berry, Nathaniel Donnell, Frank Moses, Benjamin Norton.

Of these, twelve are dead, and but four now reside in this city, namely: Enoch Coffin, Edward J. Moulton, James T. Brown and Gee Pickering. The other survivors are: Col. John H. Jackson, now in the Boston custom house; John Coffin, in Massachusetts; N. J. Coffin, at Washington; Jas. T. Wheeler, in California; Thayer Moulton, out west; Geo. L. Stokell, Benjamin Jenness, supposed in New Hampshire; Frank Moses, in the south.

Arrived at Chagres the party had to tramp across the isthmus, and then make their way from Panama to San Francisco by various means of conveyance. One of them, Mr. E. J. Moulton, paid $110 for the privilege of working his passage on the brig Copiapo to San Francisco, and was ninety-four days on the passage, arriving in California on the 13th of August, just five months from home. Times have changed since then, and the trip to California can be made in about a week.

WHO SHALL BE POSTMASTER?

The Times on Thursday evening said:

We learn that Mr. E. S. Fay, finding that he would be obliged to give up his business should he accept the appointment as postmaster, declines to allow his name to be used for that position further. His many friends will regret that he feels obliged to take this step, as he would undoubtedly have received the appointment.

We were informed on Thursday evening that a petition asking the appointment of Mr. Samuel J. Gerrish as successor to Postmaster Peirce, and headed by the bold, handsome and business-like autograph of Dr. Fay, was in circulation for signatures, and getting a good many strong names.

We understand that Major Urch is also a candidate for the position, and that he has the almost solid support of the democracy of old Sebastopol, and of many others; he was a hard worker in the late campaign, as he is at anything and everything he undertakes, and we should suppose him to be a very strong candidate.

We will not venture a prophecy as to who will carry off the prize, but will tell about it after it happens.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, March 12th.

George W. Rodman, who lives at Sagamore, was charged with assaulting Wm. H. Bond, a young man who has been in his employ. At the close of the hearing Rodman was discharged.

CIRCUMSTANCES HAVE CHANGED.

The republican papers here are diligent in serving up all the gossip afloat regarding changes in offices, office seeking, etc. It would be cruel to deny the party about to vacate the offices what little comfort they can get out of rattling about their successors.—Times.

If the republican papers here were to serve up all the gossip afloat regarding changes in office, office seeking, etc., (if "gossip" is held to include the grumbling and swearing of the would-be controllers of patronage and would-be office-holders at their failure to be "recognized" by the powers that be,) they would have to enlarge their sheets, get finer type, and exclude all advertisements and general news items from their columns.

Our democratic brother should not get jealous of the easy times the republican editors are going to have for the coming four years, finding fault with things the democrats may do or omit doing, and making derisive remarks about greedy office-seekers, denouncing the infamous management of the "vote factory," etc. He has had his turn at it, lo! these many years; now let the republicans have a chance.

Polo at the Franklin hall parlor rink this evening, between the Franklin club and the Bantams; game called at nine o'clock. General skating before and after the game.

Messrs. David Kimball & Co. speak in very high praise of Constitutional Cough Syrup. Their sales have steadily increased from the early part of the winter, until now they are enormous. It gives the best of satisfaction, and cures the worst coughs on record. Remember every bottle is warranted to cure, and in all cases where it fails the money is refunded.

IMPORTANT SUIT.

A bill in equity was filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court of the United States in this city on Thursday, brought by William Sohier of Beverly, Mass., against Geo. H. Morey and wife of Hart's Location, and Frederick B. Osgood and Hiram C. Abbott of North Conway, concerning certain alleged conveyances of the late Dr. Samuel A. Bemis, and involving questions as to the disposition of his estate. The bill seeks for an accounting by the defendants of all the property of Dr. Bemis now in their possession, with the rents and profits, in accordance with the premises of a trust deed. Mr. Sohier was the executor named in the early wills of Dr. Bemis. He now seeks to have an alleged revocation of a trust deed set aside, because such revocation was improperly obtained. The subpœnas were placed in United States Deputy Marshal Kent's hands for service. The bill calls for fifty-five specific interrogatories. Messrs. Copeland & Edgerly, and Wm. D. Sohier, are solicitors for the plff.

But few rabbits have been brought in this winter by the sportsmen, but Mr. John C. Lewis will serve a rabbit supper at Atwell's, on Market street, this evening.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day. Words cannot express our feelings towards you. Geo. W. Green, Campti, La.

Frightful Whooping Cough.

Dr. Edward C. Hughes, Rockford, Ill., (Graduated N. Y. City 1866,) voluntarily testifies:—"Some years ago my only son, aged four, had an attack of the whooping cough, characterized by the most violent spasms I have ever seen in a practice of 18 years. Had several consultations with eminent physicians and all ordinary and extraordinary remedies were resorted to. The paroxysms were simply frightful. I believed the child would die. I reluctantly tried Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer and the effect was magical. Three bottles cured him."

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Dizzin ss, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for those ers of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.

69 Harrison Street

That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from Tarrytown. The writer is none other than Mr. Delivere, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 18-4.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headache. It ought to was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of a nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DERIVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined to a sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had also given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when a DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from a disordered state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain, has no equal. Persons suffering from rheumatism or neuralgia, or from cuts, bruises, sprains, &c., should not be without it. Cures are effected in an incredibly short time. Price only twenty-five cents a bottle. For sale by all druggists.

The French authorities on the 12th inst. arrested James Stephens, Eugene Davis, and John Morrisey, the Fenian leaders in Paris, and on the 13th arrested others. All Fenians will be expelled from France.

A house owned and occupied by William Ellenbaulen and wife was destroyed by fire March 11th at Haysville, Ont. The couple, unable to escape, perished in the flames.

"I have no appetite," complains many a sufferer. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives an appetite and enables the stomach to perform its duty.

Dudley N. Lane, a wealthy citizen of Westfield, Mass., committed suicide on the 11th inst. by shooting a bullet through his brain.

Disgust.

The disgust that many feel for worthless medicines should not prevent sufferers from using a truly reliable preparation like Wetherell's Sarsaparilla. This is one of the preparations which has real merit. Try it. $1. Six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or will send for it.

Andrew Woods, colored, died at New Orleans, La., March 11th, aged 110 years. He claimed to have been the body servant of General Lafayette.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

Mrs. Arne DeCoste died at Halifax, N. S., March 10th, aged 110 years. She was a native of Arichat, C. B., and leaves three sons, five daughters, ninety grandchildren and 140 great-grandchildren living.

Housed Up.

For the last three months a great many people have been housed up, because they have not felt able to withstand the stormy wintry weather that has prevailed. But unfortunately the confinement and the close air of modern houses during the winter season, is very enervating, and the system needs help to enable all the organs to do their proper work. If these organs have been inactive the consequences are showing themselves in the bilious condition of the system, or in constipation of the bowels, or in disorders of the kidneys, with all the aches and pains that accompany these complaints. If you are in this condition from any cause you should make a faithful trial of that well known remedy Kidney-Wort. It acts at the same time on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and is therefore especially fitted to correct this torpid condition of the system.

Three negroes were taken from the police at Macon City, Tenn., March 11th, and hanged by a mob. They were charged with murder.

The use of Iodoform or mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents of druggists.

A RELIABLE PREPARATION.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Never before in the History of Medicine has a Preparation been so Universally praised as Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium. It goes right to the spot, and builds the system up as no other Medicine.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Rheumatism, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

PREPARED BY

A. S. WETHERELL, Druggist and Chemist, EXETER, N. H.

Price, $1. per bottle. Six bottles for $5. For Sale by all Druggists.

INOCULATED POISON!

Some eight years ago I became the victim of a fearful Blood Poison, communicated by a nurse to my infant, and thence through the breast, and suffered for six long years. The Mercury and Potash treatment seemed to drive the poison further into my system only to break out in worse form on other portions of my body. Three months ago I began taking Swift's Specific, and it has cured me sound and well. It is the greatest blessing which has come to mankind in years.

"He cometh not! she said."
He never came whose step and loving call
I waited long to hear.
But thou hast come, last Messenger of all,
A friend well nigh as dear!

Peace if not joy!—yet peace itself were gain,
That must supremely bless
The soul sore traveled that in vain, in vain
Hungered for happiness!

Draw closer, O, thou voiceless Guest and pale,
Whose drooping torch burns low:
Thy face is hid, but through the somber veil
Thine eyes' dark light I know!

Nay, closer still!—I yearn on brow and heart
Thy cool, strong hand to feel;
Fevered with wounds' and throbbing with a smart
Thy touch alone can heal.

I go with joy! Lead me to him at last,
How dim the path and lone—
Him, whose fair footsteps, echoing through the past,
Have never met mine own.

—Stuart Sterne, in the Century.

RESCUED FROM FATE.

Among the water-lilies on the river a small boat floated. In it reclined Rose Lylendale and Harvey Melton.

The former, clad in color to match her name, had gathered the broad fair blooms growing about her, and piled them into the boat, till they formed a fragrant bank, over which her companion stole glances of admiration frequent and ardent.

She was laughing, her brown eyes overbrimming with light, her cheeks growing more and more radiant under the fire of the young man's gaze and the object of her mirth.

The latter, a small boy, who having paddled himself from shore on a weather-beaten old detached door, had lost his impromptu oars, and was very openly and unmorrafully "all at sea."

"We shall have to take him in," said Rose. "He does not see us, and he is in despair. Pull away till we reach him."

The idea of a dirty little urchin lying down among the lilies and draperies of his lady-love was by no means a pleasing one to the young man. But as law and education combine to make it a duty to prevent the sacrifice of human life, Melton decided he must save the luckless little sinner, especially as his lady's command made it impossible to refuse. But, oh, how this little beggar was going to spoil an idyl on the river!

Even the rapturous gratitude which lit up the fine brown eyes of the boy by no means compensated for the loss of the opportunity he had effected for the purpose of asking Rose Lylendale to become his wife. And what more auspicious circumstances could have offered than those of this serene hour on the river?

And now Rose had another admirer, for the new comer sat gazing with open mouth upon the fair vision of this graceful daintily-attired girl.

Darkness came on before they reached a suitable landing-place, and Rose ran lightly up the bank.

Melton, following, could recall none of the sentiment of the past hour, for his companion walked rapidly, and talked and laughed as though her sole object in life was to make it "go merry as a marriage-bell," without any thought of the solemn ceremony which accompanies that gay poem.

The following day Harvey, calling at her house, was informed that Miss Lylendale had departed that morning, having received some important telegram which hastened her movements from her chosen summer resort.

A tumult of disappointment raged within Melton, and he enquired eagerly whether she had left any note or message.

None had been left, however; she had gone apparently without word or sign. Later in the day a note came to him through the post signed with the beloved name.

It is best that you and I should part. Ask me not why (as indeed I have left you no chance to do so.) If the memory of the hours we have spent together is pleasant to you, it has also been to me. Let it stand as it does, with nothing added, nothing taken away.

Rose Lylendale.

That note, crumpled, worn, and even tear-blotted (for over a lost love all men weep), lay in soft folds in Harvey's pocket-book for three years.

Within a mansion, replete with luxury and splendor, a grand dinner had taken place.

It was in honor of a leading politician, and Mr. Harold Bribewell was giving this dinner within his costly residence, presided over by his beautiful wife with matchless dignity and grace.

"What a dear, charming woman!" said the world, "and how very happy they are together, this rich, fortunate man and his young wife! What a blessing it is to have luxury and happiness so blended! and what valuable acquisitions to our acquaintance, my dear!" and the world went away sighing with envy of this fortunately endowed couple.

Harvey Melton came with a friend at the host's invitation.

He had staggered back and grown white when his eyes met those of his hostess. But when she came forward calmly, and extended her hand with rigid firmness, he, too, recovered, and bowed, like herself, as though they had never met.

Yet had they not, and did not both remember, and was not life almost as young as then?

Yet she had married another, and was reigning a social queen, which, perhaps, he could never have made her.

Well, he, too, would show her that that first start had meant surprise rather than pain. And so it chanced that through that dinner none was more brilliant than Harvey Melton.

The fair girl i hostess at last was glad when, dinner over, she could betake herself to her rooms, and for a few minutes be alone.

She stole to her sleeping boy. Stooping, she clasped her hands and gazed upon the frank unconscious face. Was it like the father's? Would she ever look into those eyes and see his expression?

No, she thought not. They were large and full against the distinctly lined lids, and no narrow gleam would ever steal from them. They would look at you full and direct, like the steady pure moon.

"Thank God!" she murmured, rising with a sigh.

"Thank God for what?" asked a sudden voice, cutting the silence of the chamber like the sharp sound of sword against sword.

"For what, think you?" she repeated, looking him in the face unflinchingly, and moving away with a manner neither timid nor defiant. Yet on her lips lurked a pride only softened by a certain weary desperation upon her face.

"I think, madame, you divine well the duties of a hostess when you spend your time here moaning over that boy, instead of being at hand when you are needed."

"Am I needed?" she asked. "I left but five minutes since, when you evidently needed nothing."

"Brandy was not provided for the billiard-room, as I ordered."

She paled.

"Did you order it of me or of the servants? Fenton knows where the brandy is kept. Had you spoken he would have asked me for the keys. Here they are."

She took from a case a bunch of keys as she spoke.

She did not move to leave the room, but, on the contrary, threw herself down upon a divan.

She was trembling from weariness and dread. Well she knew what would be her life during the ensuing week, after the billiards and brandy. She hoped it might be overlooked.

"You will go below," he said in icy command, "and give those keys to Fenton yourself. You will also preside over my guests."

"Is it the place for your wife in a billiard-room among men reeling under the influence of brandy?" she asked, rising to her feet. "I am ill, as you can see, and need a few minutes' rest."

He laughed, but ungoverned rage

The President Firm in His Civil Service Policy.

Things had reached such a pass that Col. Thos. A. Hendricks, who labors under the hallucination that the vice president is a part of the administration, went on Thursday with Senator Voorhees to tell the president that the democracy were impatient to realize the fact that "to the victors belong the spoils." Mr. Cleveland heard the visitors patiently. As he leaned back he reached down to a side drawer in his desk, and took out from a box of choice cigars recently presented by Frank Jones, a very fine Connecticut, and offered it to the man whose name was second on the campaign signs; but that was all the Indiana statesman obtained. The president said that he intended to carry out the principles set forth in his letter of acceptance, in the civil service, and the declaration stated in his inaugural on this subject, "The democratic party must be held to an honest effort to carry these principles into effect."

The visitors were chagrined, and when the president said he should make changes slowly and only in cases where every one expects a change to be made, the feelings of the pair can be better imagined than described. Hendricks as he walked towards his hotel, sighing said: "Ah, Dan, it would not be thus did I occupy the place on the ticket I ought to have had," while the eminent senator who had so long waited for an anticipated distribution of the spoils, fairly gasped, and sought refuge in that old-time resort on the avenue where statesmen of other days have softened their disappointed ambition in libations in which sugar and a bit of lemon contributed toward removing the aspect of grief which hovered about their countenances.

James A. Young, who had his leg amputated at Epping a few days ago, died from the exhaustion caused by undergoing the operation. His wife, who lives in Pittsfield, Mass., commenced a suit for a divorce on the 13th of February. In the libel Mrs. Young prayed that the court allow her $10,000 alimony.

John D. Hayward, janitor of the police station in Lawrence, Mass., died on the 10th inst., at the age of thirty-five years. Deceased was born in Acworth, subsequently residing in Laconia. Mr. Hayward was a member of the Laconia lodge of Masons.

Benjamin Clement, a rough lumberman, aged thirty, went to board with a farmer, George C. Clifford, at Warren, last month, and in two weeks eloped with his host's daughter. They drove to a minister's house in a sleigh, and were married in the vehicle. The married couple went back to Mr. Clifford at first, but the father drove Clement from the house. The bride joined her husband at a hotel. His money having given out, she has now abandoned him in disgust and begun a suit for divorce. Clement has gone to the woods.

A despatch to London from Suakim says that the Indian native soldiers of the Sikh regiment were in their first engagement on Egyptian soil March 9th. A party of Osman Digna's Arabs made an attack on one of the British outposts in the neighborhood of Suakim, and the Sikhs were sent out in the open field to repel the attack. They were splendidly handled, and showed admirable coolness and steadiness. The skirmish was hot while it lasted, but the Arabs were soon repulsed, and many of their dead were left upon the field. The casualties among the Indian troops were few and unimportant. The Arabs became panic stricken when they saw the swarthy Mohammedans from India facing them in true British style, and delivering their fire with precision so as to make almost every shot tell.

A new postal car, designed for the route between Bangor and Boston, has just been completed at Augusta, Me. It is the best car of the kind on the route. The interior is finished in ash, and fitted with all modern appliances for handling the mails. The ceiling is painted white, and bronze lamps of a neat design are hung at intervals. The car is equipped with the Baker heater, but few of which are in use on the road.

The Maine Central railroad will soon receive seven new locomotives from the Manchester works. The road now owns ninety-six engines, and the increased amount of freight business renders it necessary to purchase more.

A Concord despatch says that Hon. George E. Todd of that city, at present superintendent of the northern division of the Boston & Lowell railroad, will be elected to the vacant presidency of the Northern railroad.

W. W. Lord, a brakeman on the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine railroad, was knocked down and had his skull fractured on Thursday morning, March 12th, by coming in contact with a bridge between Chelsea and Revere; it was thought his hurts would prove fatal.

There were three marriages, three births and eight deaths in Newington during the year 1884.

Orders were received at the Charlestown navy yard last Thursday to saw 110,000 feet of timber to be used for the decks of the new cruisers. It will take about two months to do the work, and six men have been given employment to assist at it. The sawmill at the Portsmouth navy yard has been for several weeks engaged in sawing to dimensions, and planing, deck stuff for the new cruisers.

A board of survey consisting of Surgeon Oberly, and Carpenters Hanscom and Fernald went from the navy yard to Wood island on Friday forenoon in the steamer Emerald, to examine into the condition of the buildings of the United States quarantine station, and report what repairs are needed to put them in good order for the reception of a yellow fever or cholera ship, should it be necessary during the coming hot season to order one there.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, of this port, Hontvet master, arrived here on Friday from Baltimore with 550 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

The steamer Mystic made the ten and eleven o'clock trips for the Emerald on Friday forenoon, the latter being absent at Quarantine island with a board of inspection.

Messrs. David Kimball & Co. speak in very high praise of Constitutional Cough Syrup. Their sales have steadily increased from the early part of the winter, until now they are enormous. It gives the best of satisfaction, and cures the worst coughs on record. Remember every bottle is warranted to cure, and in all cases where it fails the money is refunded.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will cure your Cough at once. Price only 25 Cts. a bottle.

Rev. Dr. Burchard, of New York, is to be retired as pastor emeritus on a salary of $500 a year, to make room for a younger and more energetic pastor.

Dr. Burchard's church may easily get a younger pastor, but certainly not one who can speak more effectually; with three words he changed the government of 60,000,000 people.

Mr. James Hoyt of Newington, about eighty years old and having but one leg, fell on the ice in his yard some days ago and was severely jarred; he has since been under medical care, but despite his advanced age is now rapidly recovering.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLER, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

Do Not Delay

delay; if you are sick use Sulphur Bitters.

The Vice President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, SMITH P. HUNT, says: I have suffered with Catarrh for the last ten years, and also severe Biliousness and Liver Complaint. Since 1873 my Catarrh grew rapidly worse, so that my life was despaired of. At that time I weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds, but grew emaciated so rapidly that I weighed only one hundred and thirty. After consulting the most celebrated physicians in the Western States and spending many hundred dollars, from which no relief was obtained, I was induced to try your

Sulphur Bitters

Bitters; after taking six bottles my Headache, Vomiting, and all the effects of my Catarrh, Biliousness and Liver Complaint left me. I now weigh one hundred and sixty-five pounds, and consider that Sulphur Bitters have saved my life.

Mrs. HIRAM JORDAN, Lewiston, Me., says: For years I was a terrible sufferer with Scrofula, caused by salivation from the use of mercury and calomel; terrible sores broke out on my body, which twisted my limbs so that I could hardly move. The doctors all gave me up to die. Four bottles of Sulphur Bitters entirely cured me, and I am now able to do all my housework.

Builds Up the Weak.

The wife of the Superintendent of Repairs, Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. JOHN BARTON, the eloquent temperance advocate, says: When all other remedies failed, Sulphur Bitters cured me of Dyspepsia and those deathly Sick Headaches.

not, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Miss HELEN JONES, eleven years in charge of the Package Department, Boston & Maine depot, says: I have been a sufferer from Biliousness, Water Brash, and General Debility for several years. Most of the time I felt miserably and life seemed a burden. I was induced to try your Sulphur Bitters, and was completely surprised to see how much better I felt, and I am now enjoying better health than for years before. I shall always keep a supply of Sulphur Bitters on hand, for they have done me a world of good. Sulphur Bitters should be kept in every family.

A Boston & Albany R. R. engineer, P. B. CHAMBERLAIN, of Springfield, Mass., says: For years I have suffered from Chronic Bilious attacks, with a narrow escape each time from Typhoid Fever. About two years ago I commenced taking Sulphur Bitters, and since that time I have had no trouble from my old enemy. Living in a malarial district, I have had no trouble from that cause, being a marked exception among my neighbors, and I give the credit for that to Sulphur Bitters. It is an invaluable remedy, and one which no household should be without.

HISTORY, PROPHECY AND ADVICE.

The following communication we found in the letter box at our office door, and though the writer inadvertently omitted signing her name to it, yet we refrain from tossing it into the usual receptable for anonymous letters, for several reasons. First, we are glad to get a chance to assure our good natured and intelligent mentor that we are feeling quite well; we know she is good tempered, though such an awful democrat, by the tone of her writings; and her intelligence is vouched for by the evidently careful manner in which she reads our paper. Then we particularly like to record historical incidents, and are rather partial to prophecy; and we have no doubt that our contributor knows just as much as anybody of what is to happen four years hence. As to advice, we flourish on it—absorb it as a sponge does water, but unlike the sponge, retain for our own use what we absorb; and we get lots of it at times, though very little of it is so pleasantly expressed as that in the following letter:

Mr. Editor: Inauguration day is over and I hope you feel better. I am going to give you a word of advice: Don't brag so much about what is going to happen four years from now, for I am afraid you will get disappointed the same as you were before. I am pretty sure of one thing: Jim Blaine will never be president of the United States. Only think how sure you all were that he would be elected last November, and how disappointed you were; and he was perfectly sure of it himself. I was in the depot the day before election when he passed through. I thought I should like to see what kind of a looking man he was. Some of his friends there told him next time he passed through he would be president; he said yes, he had not a doubt of it. I know he must have felt awfully after election, and I pitied him. Now you can make up your mind that four years from now Grover Cleveland will be re-elected, or some other one of the same stamp.

I am quite an old lady. I have always been a democrat, and all our family for three generations back; there never were any turncoats in it. Now do leave off saying so many unjust things about our side. I think you are a great hand for blowing folks up; hope you won't blow me up. This is private, but if you have any comments to make, you can. This is from one that likes for both sides to have fair play, and be more charitable towards each other.

GRAND TEMPLAR'S VISIT.

Strawberry Bank Lodge, No. 54, I. O. G. T., of this city, entertained about forty visiting Templars from Rockingham Lodge of this city and Whipple and Morrill Lodges of Kittery on Thursday evening, the 12th, the gathering being in honor of the Grand Worthy Templar of New Hampshire, Geo. A. Bailey of Manchester. The usual routine of lodge business was transacted, after which, under "Good of the Order," short speeches were listened to. Grand Templar Bailey spoke at some length on the state and growth of the order in New Hampshire, and was followed by State Deputy Frank C. Eaton, of Kittery, who spoke of the order in Maine. Remarks were made by James W. Brooks, Geo. Manent, Lodge Deputy Mark C. Fernald, James D. Plaisted and State Deputy W. E. Noyes of Kittery, Charles T. Wiggin, Rev. John A. Goss, James Janvrin, and Grand Councillor of New Hampshire F. E. H. Marden, of Portsmouth. The meeting was large and enthusiastic. Refreshments were served by the courtesy of the ladies of the lodge, and were of a quality worthy of the occasion. The foling verses were written for the reunion by Rev. John A. Goss:

All hail, ye friends of temperance,
We bid you welcome here,
To spend an hour in pleasure,
And give the heart good cheer.

We are a band of workers,
To fight against strong drink,
And yet we want our band enlarged,
By people who will think.

Yes, think of crimes committed,
And the sorrows brought to home
By drunken sons and fathers,
Which fills the home with gloom.

This is the question of the day,
No other shines so bright,
It cannot e'er be set aside
Nor hid from moral sight.

We welcome you from sturdy Maine,
The grand old Pine Tree state,
We love her for her temperance work,
We love you, for her sake.

Yes, Maine, the brilliant Eastern Star,
She shines for prohibition,
She leads the van, and also strikes
The keynote of this nation.

Mr. Editor: Is the city government to poor to borrow a basket in which to tote the blanks sent out by the assessors? I found such a blank on my door-step so filthy with dirt that I infer the person who left it had not the hardihood to ring and deliver it. It was so utterly soiled that it would admit of no writing upon it, and for fear of contagion I consigned it to the flames. Why such papers must be sent to ladies who have no taxable estate beyond such as the assessors know or ought to know all about, I cannot imagine; at least we should not have such soiled tokens of a new administration poked under our doors, when we are told we are the subjects of a reform government. BECKY SHARPE.

A private skating party occupied the Portsmouth skating rink on Thursday evening, the rink being hired for the occasion by Messrs. George C. Gray and Ralph C. Jones. The evening was much enjoyed and the attendance good. The order of skating comprised twelve exercises, with accompanying music.

There is to be a social assembly in the town hall at Rye on Thursday evening, March 19th, with music by Lord & Medcalf's orchestra. A barge will leave this city for Rye at seven o'clock sharp, that evening. Supper will be served at intermission. Should the evening designated prove stormy, the assembly will be given on the first pleasant evening thereafter.

The treasurer of current expenses of the Chase Home acknowledges with thanks the receipt, through Mr. Wm. S. Hazel, of $53.22 from the general committee of the inaugural ball.

John Lynch, an insane man living at the south end, of whom considerable complaint has been made, was arrested Friday afternoon and locked up, by officers Hobbs and Leary.

The thermometers along the shores of Great bay indicated, Friday morning, from six to eight degrees below zero. The smelt fishermen are catching only moderate quantities, and verily they have a cold time for their "sport." The queer looking clam-worms are dug out from under some of the Portsmouth wharves, and used for bait.

A number of old American coins were found this week under a tile at the northeast corner of a fire-place now being repaired in a brick block on Church street, built in 1813. It is intended to place under the tile again before sealing up a record of them, and by whom found, with some modern money, so that future generations may find out what we use now. We don't know what posterity will think of our buzzard dollar, but we shall probably be spared hearing their comments.

It was cold enough in this city, Friday, but was much colder in places not far away,—sixteen below zero at Rochester, eighteen below at Farmington, six below at Dover, ten below at South Berwick, Maine.

The boys and girls had good sliding on School street, Friday, the sleds running on a sheet of ice from the top of the hill to Vaughan street, and some distance down the latter street.

Sagamore Lodge, No. 11, A. O. U. Workingmen, newly established, took in a new member Thursday evening.

A New Way to Pay Old Debts.

Shakespeare tells how this can be accomplished in one of his immortal plays; but debts to nature must be paid on demand unless days of grace be obtained through the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is not a "cure-all" but invaluable for sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, consumption, and all diseases of the pulmonary and other organs, caused by scrofula or "bad blood." Scrofulous ulcers, swellings and tumors are cured by its wonderful alterative action. By druggists.

Despatches from China announce the seizure of the British steamer Glenroy by a French man-of-war, on account of having lead in her cargo.

Paddy Ryan of New York is expected to meet John L. Sullivan of Boston within 100 miles of New Orleans in May, for a prize fight. The fight will be under London rules, with small gloves, for $5000.

Mothers.

If you are failing; broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

Late advices show that Russia is rapidly concentrating troops in Central Asia. Additional guns and men are being sent to the Central Asian batteries.

"Rough on Rats."

Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bed-bugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

It is reported that Allen J. Adams, under arrest at Northampton, Mass., has confessed to the murdering of Moses B. Dickenson of Amherst ten years ago.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day. Words cannot express our feelings towards you. Geo. W. Green, Campti, La.

Mary McAndrews of Mingo, Ohio, who has been nearly blind for some time, and whom the doctors pronounced incurable, has been miraculously cured, it is reported, by the use of consecrated mortar from the chapel of Knock, in Ireland.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all —your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

Frightful Whooping Cough.

Dr. Edward C. Hughes, Rockford, Ill., (Graduated N. Y. City 1866,) voluntarily testifies:—"Some years ago my only son, aged four, had an attack of the whooping cough, characterized by the most violent spasms I have ever seen in a practice of 18 years. Had several consultations with eminent physicians and all ordinary and extraordinary remedies were resorted to. The paroxysms were simply frightful. I believed the child would die. I reluctantly tried Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer and the effect was magical. Three bottles cured him."

looked from his eyes. She had never before gone so far with him. She had never refused to obey.

The next moment a sudden scream sounded through the house, dying away in a moan.

Some gentlemen returning from the dressing-room heard it; the servants heard it, and rushing to their mistress's chamber, found her prone and insensible upon the rich carpet of her boudoir.

Blood lay in the corners of her delicate mouth, and her soft silk gown had caught and snarled about her satined feet.

"Mrs. Bribewell is taken suddenly ill," said her husband briefly.

But the look upon his face was a revelation to one man, at least. In it the life of poor Rose Lylendale was disclosed, and Melton felt an impulse to strike him to the ground and stride over his body into the chamber where his only love had fallen beneath this man's abuse.

But a few words uttered before an ecclesiastic had raised a wall between them which only death could render passable. But pride—that vanquisher of mortal pain—brought Mrs. Bribewell again before her guests that night.

"A slight indisposition to which she was sometimes subject when under excitement."

This was what she said with smiling lips.

Harvey Melton did not believe her, and he told her so.

They were alone.

He was not one of the players. They sat in a remote recess of the saloon.

Without, the moon, lucent and tender, fell over the gardens of her own and the adjoining villas, and "lit her eyes with tearful power," as he asked her why she had left him so abruptly years before.

"Because I was already Mrs. Bribewell. We had been married two years when we separated. He had been very cruel to me. He agreed to give me the boy, which he never did. He disposed of the child, never telling me under what management he was placed. I was very wretched, and my health began to give way for a while, but at last I grew to feel that he might tell me of the child if I remained patient and ceased to question him about Alf. At last I accidentally learned he was up among the mountains and streams where you met me. The lad in the boat was he.

"At first I did not recognize him, but when you drew him into the boat I saw that it was my lost darling, and it was joy—joy which made me laugh. You cannot imagine my happiness. I ran away with him the next morning. He was neglected, poorly clad. Succeeded in hiding him for a little time, but at last we were discovered. Had I not been obliged to earn money after that, we might have escaped. But his father found us and was about to send the boy back. Rather than have him return to his former life, I fell upon my knees and begged for a reconciliation. At last it was settled, and I again became Mrs. Bribewell. He had been traveling, and it had never become known that we had separated. Little Alf was but six years old when you saw him. He is now my only comfort."

She stopped.

"What is the matter?" she asked abruptly, rising to her feet, as a servant went running through the apartment.

Bells were ringing in different parts of the house.

"It is Mr. Bribewell, ma'am," said the man falteringly; "something has happened——"

She went down the room and crossed the hall.

Melton saw her halt, heard the tread of feet, and saw men carrying something. Two hours later the guests remaining in anxious silence heard the end.

Harold Bribewell was dead.

The graceful woman who that evening had assisted at that sumptuous banquet, was a widow.

He had fallen suddenly, while engaged in his game, in an apoplectic fit. The heavy draughts of brandy, of which he invariably partook under excitement, had hastened a disease to which he was predisposed.

* * * * *

Harvey Melton had never ceased to love the fair Rose Lylendale, whom he had fancied as care-free as she was beautiful.

Should he now, when he had seen the sadness of her life illustrated in her face, when he had heard her sad story from her own lips, should he love her the less after this?

What had once been the love of a boy, had grown into the deep devotion of a man. It had linked itself with a sympathy which would make their life "one grand sweet song."

So when, eighteen months later, she married Harvey Melton, the world said the fair widow had not made as desirable a match as her first. But they knew not that the wealth now hers, was imperishable and all-sufficing.

The life which once seemed complete, was now in reality so.

When a man is in love ne fancies every wrinkle a dimple.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Mrs. Langtry's first appearance in public was as a reader; she read "Curing a Cold," by Mark Twain. In a recent interview she said that she does not approve of his way, but for herself uses Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a sure cure every time.

The French, after five days' fighting, have carried the Chinese positions around Kee-Lung. Forty Frenchmen were killed and two hundred wounded.

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in; whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by taking Parker's Tonic when you feel "a little out of sorts." It would be money in your pocket. One hour of good, rejoicing health is worth half a dozen hours full of languor and pain.

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for Indigestion and Dizziness, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.
59 Harrison Street.
That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from Tarrytown. The writer is none other than Mr. DeRevere, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:
TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. It ought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of that nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.
DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:
MILLVILLE, N. J.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia from the time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.
As an anti-malarial medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S
FAVORITE REMEDY
has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Unperverted Essence.

With scarcely an exception, every papaper in the country gives lavish praise to the St. Jacobs Oil Family Calendar and Book of Health and Humor for the Million, 1884, The San Francisco Evening Post says: "It gives us clear, unmixed, unadulterated, unperverted essence of wit, humor and fun."

—Spicer asks, what is the rate of interest when distance lends enchantment to the view?

The warmer weather often has a depressing and debilitating effect. Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes all languor and lassitude.

—"There," said the young husband as he placed the paregoric handy before going to bed. "I'm like the prudent sailor, making ready for squalls."

—A rough-appearing fellow applied at a police station in Boston for a lodging on Saturday night. "Too late—it is after ten o'clock," said the lieutenant. "I was to the theatre, and couldn't get here any sooner," said the tramp.

Breaking Up.

On every hand we see evidence that winter is breaking up, and will soon have to yield to the advancing spring. It is a most important question amongst scientific men what causes the general feeling of debility and lassitude so prevalent in this region. While some regard it as the result of confinement and inaction, others suppose it to be caused by the decay of vegetable and animal debris during the winter. What is especially needed at this time, however, is something to overcome these influences. It is too late to talk about the causes; what is the cure? Thousands of persons all over the country who have given Kidney-Wort a faithful trial are ready to testify that no other remedy is equal to it for cleansing the system, purifying the blood, regulating the bowels, and curing all kidney and liver diseases. It is in fact the king of all spring medicines.

—"I understand your son is about to enter college, Mr. Darrick?" "Yes, oh, yes; Arthur will take a collegiate course." "Is he prepared?" "Well, I should remark! He's been captain of his home club for over a year, and they tell me he's as good a foot-ball kicker nearly as a professional. He may be a little backward in rowing and climbing greased poles, but he'll soon pick up, you know."

Something for all the Preachers.

Rev. H. H. Fairall, D. D., editor of the Iowa Methodist, says editorially, in the November (1883) number of his paper: "We have tested the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, and believe that, by a thorough course of treatment, it will cure almost every case of catarrh. Ministers, as a class, are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly." Not a liquid nor a snuff. Applied to nostrils with the finger.

—A clerk is like a gun because he can be discharged. He may also get loaded without the knowledge of the proprietor, and go off unexpectedly.

Take it This Month.

Spring rapidly approaches, and it is important that every one should be prepared for the depressing effects of the changing season. This is the time to purify the blood and strengthen the system, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which stands unequalled as a spring medicine, and has endorsements of a character seldom given any proprietary medicine. A book containing statements of the many wonderful cures it has accomplished, will be sent upon application to C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 100 Doses One Dollar.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA

Is the best remedy ever devised for all diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, giving immediate and permanent improvement. No remedy has ever before been so compounded as to bring together in one bottle so many active ingredients, which are known to all physicians as a specific for impure blood, the fountain-head of all disease.

Bilious Headache.

I have suffered for a long time from bilious headache, and have tried many preparations of Sarsaparilla, but found no relief. I was induced by my friends to try Wetherell's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, with Iodide of Potassium. After taking one bottle I was entirely cured, and feel better now than for years. I cheerfully give you the use of my name, believing that many who suffer as I did will be cured by your wonderful medicine. J. A. HOWELL, Brentwood, N.H.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.

"Written in Water."

*In memory of a noted journalist who said, concerning her life-work: "Written in water."

A tortuous river through a weary space
Ran troubled deep and wide with earthy fringes,
The dismal catafalque of verdurous fringes,
Diffusing miasm in the sun's red face.

Advanced one fair and strong, who on that strand
A little while stood wistfully exploring
For human weal's great sake. An eagle soaring
Dropt one white plume within her ready hand.

Then on the liquid page, like dimpling rain,
Inspired she wrote, above the waters stooping:
But each bright line, e'en with the final looping,
Resolved itself to nothing back again.

Yet, lo! the turbid scream transparent flowed,
And through that land redeemed all living creatures
Had happier life. Lo! too, her mirrored features,
Who this had wrought, in those fair waves abode.

Writing in water for the truth, the right,
The benefice of cleansed and healing waters
Transferred to earth and to earth's sons and daughters, Shall be her guerdon fixed in peace and might.

—Lavinia F. Goodwin, in the Current.

WOOD ENGRAVING & WOOD CARVING.

The rage for newspaper illustrations which has sprung up in a night like Jonah's gourd (Go slow here; was it Jonah or some other fishermen who raised that prize gourd?)—threatens to undermine the foundations of journalism and relegate the press back to the fourth estate, the position it occupied in Ben Franklin's time, and the Sun feels justified in speaking out in clarionette, viva voce tones against the evil before it is everlastingly too late.

As long as illustrations were confined to books, magazines, Bibles, and a few special weeklies, we were a happy and contented nation; there was a place for cuts, and cuts were in their place; but now, the little blaze which some one kindled has become a raging conflagration, marring the fair pages of a great proportion of the newspapers in the land. (If you like "wet goods" better than the fire simile, start it off as a little rivulet, increasing until it becomes a roaring torrent. They are both fluid and pains-taking.)

There are several reasons why this wood-cut craze is bad. First, a large per cent. of the cuts are execrable in an artistic point of view, especially the so-called portraits. Occasionally there are some that are natural and life-like, but the larger part no more resemble the individual they are said to portray than chalk is like cheese.

Again, newspapers that are in the habit of beating their readers out of large quantities of good reading matter to which they are justly entitled by the payment of "two dollars a year in advance," (or less, as the case may be) by filling space with these alleged portraits are liable to file the cuts away for future reference, on window ledges, in the "bank," and various other handy places, and spring them again on a suffering public later. Thus, a cut purporting to be Henry Ward Beecher this season will perhaps appear next year as Gladstone or Henry Irving; Lieutenant Greely will be shown sometime in the hence as Prince Albert's son, and so on.

Another evil growing out of this syndicate cut business is the cheap notoriety furnished to Thomas, Richard and Henry. Let a man or woman once get his or her name in the daily papers, from whatever cause—be it running for governor, running away with another man's wife (or woman's husband) robbing a bank, or inventing a self-acting wheelbarrow—and forthwith their ostensible lineaments are gouged out on boxwood or maple, stereotypes or electrotypes are made, and appear by the hundreds in papers which are in the "pool" for weeks thereafter. Some papers squeeze two-column cuts into one-column width, necessitating slicing the party's shoulders off, and giving him a sort of pinched up appearance. This is bad.

Many papers make it a point to publish portraits of local celebrities, the hero of the sketch "standing in" with the publishers on the cost of the engraving. "An old resident" listens to the seductive tongue of the interviewer and is lost. A divorce suit is instituted, the details are "racy," and the unhappy pair are presented to the public, either separate and apart or linked together in a wreath like a Blanc and Fogger cut. A new pastor is "called" from somewhere, at a raise over his previous salary of $67.50 and his studious countenance, "furrowed o'er with the sickly cast of thought," is printed on seven-cent "print" paper, with ten-cent news ink, the inevitable sketch accompanying it, with appropriate head lines, and the dominie is disheartened and disappointed. It looks more like a disciple of Jack Shepard than a disseminator of the gospel.

And so it goes. Papers in Arizona and Wyoming, which ought to devote only a modicum (out with your pencils and jot this word down—it is of a choice variety) of their space to political and general affairs, are enabled by the duplicate process to fill several hundred square inches with cuts of parties that their readers don't care a continental for, to the exclusion of important happenings in Poker Flat, Shirt-tail Gulch, Red-Dog Valley, Dead-Shot Bar and various other localities.

Nor is the injury confined alone to the reading public. There being as apparent demand for illustrations, there must be a supply; and hence many crowded youths and men in the back counties who are handy at tinkering around home with carpenter tools, and know all about the internal economy of sewing machines and clocks get the idea that they are natural born engravers, and proceed at once to sharpen up sundry brad-awls, broken files, a small chisel or two, and their jack-knives, and announce themselves as "designers and engravers." The local paper, not to be outdone by the metropolitan daily, prints the abnormal productions of these wood-butchers, and refers to them as the work of "our special artist," Mr. Soandso, and he has the big head worse than ever. Many boys are thus ruined for life. While they would have succeeded well with a scroll saw and simple carving tools, and produced many handsome brackets, paper-racks, whatnots, etc., which would have sold readily and really been a credit to them, they have lost valuable time spoiling box-wood and maple and produced nothing but a lot of unearthly-looking pictures, every one of which requires a key to be understood.

No, boys and gentleman, the art of engraving is not at the finger-ends of every ordinary whittler and ingenious "Jack-of-all-trades;" it requires months of patient toil to even master the rudiments necessary to become a first-class artist, and years of practice under competent masters to rank with them.

These remarks are called out generally by the specimens of poor engravings so prevalent in the daily and weekly papers, and especially by some samples sent from Iowa for our inspection. As they are about the worst lot ever printed since Columbus landed in this country, a brief description may be in order, but words—mere words—will absolutely fail to do them justice. They should be framed and sent to the New Orleans Exposition.

First a local "cartoon" entitled "Another Mulligan Letter." It consists of two animals of heroic size, (double column) which may be meant for lions, buffaloes or Holstein cattle, with an attempted likeness to human features. That they are Holstein cattle is probable, as they are covered with large black spots on which are branded various words like "cheek," "baby act," etc. They seem to stand on posts set into a foundation of fine scroll saws, edge upwards. One animal is stepping squarely on the word "Lucky," which means probably that it was lucky that it was not resting on the saws.

Next are three specimens of civil engineering relating to a certain bridge

(Concluded on 4th page.)

Laundries and private families find great advantage in the use of JAMES PYLE'S PEARLINE. It enables the washer to cleanse fabrics without wear and tear of rubbing. It is the best washing compound.

The Postal Service.

There are several gentlemen of leisure, we are told, who would be pleased to be appointed postal clerks upon some pleasant route, where the duties are light, the runs not too long, and the termini at agreeable locations. These patriots have great expectations, with but little knowledge of what to-day comprises the duties of a postal clerk.

The amount of mail matter which a clerk upon an important run is obliged to handle daily, is almost incredible. Take for illustration the daily trip on the 10:50 A. M. train between Portsmouth and Boston, on which train there are sixty-one mails received and delivered from the mail car, and at nearly all of these places registered letters have to be received, receipted for, and record made of their number, destination, and name of office from which received, while about twenty-five hundred pounds of mailable matter is handled daily by these postal clerks. In addition to these duties, daily reports have to be made of packages of letters distributed, with the number of registered letters received and delivered; and the clerks have to be at the station seasonably to have cars prepared for the receipt of mails, and at the end of the route to accompany the mails to the office, deliver registered matter and obtain receipts for the same, and to register the time of their arrival and departure; a failure to sign this once forfeits a day's pay for each instance.

To accurately and promptly perform this service, a man must be thoroughly "up" in the matter of routes, informed as to the way a letter should be sent to reach its destination in the shortest time, familiar with the name and locality of every post-office in New England, and conversant with much that pertains to the duties of the office, of which those uninformed as to its requirements can have no more idea than has the Indian with the untutored mind, of the educational process of a college.

To reach the efficiency of the present condition of the service, the force of clerks has been trained, examined, drilled and tested by severe ordeals. They have acquired a knowledge of their duties and developed their fitness for the proper discharge of their daily routine by a long experience in the service, from which have been weeded out, from time to time, any new aspirants who proved to be inefficient, indolent, careless, or of irregular habits.

The service requires a peculiar aptitude for its work. It is one that in its requirements tells upon the constitution of its personnel. Trains run farther than in former days. The work is done rapidly. The constant standing in a car, adjusting the positions of the body to the oscillating motions of the place, writing with a change of position every few seconds, and the inevitable shaking of the body, often produce kidney and similar complaints, which perhaps for life will bring up unpleasant recollections of the public service, to enter which so many aspire without any more acquaintance with its duties and results, than with their own unfitness for the positions.

So too in the post-offices,—and we speak of these offices especially because the public have so much more interest in being promptly served in postal affairs, than they seem to evince in almost anything else,—the men who are adept in handling mail matter, who are quick to think and act, are the men whom the people will sadly miss if they are to be sent out and their places supplied by raw men, untrained and perhaps ill-adapted to the work,—men, the principal reason for whose designation for this important work is that they are "hungry."

We are by no means disturbed by that narrowness of vision which is convinced that no other man can be found to fill a place now ably filled by a competent incumbent, in whatever kind of duty, public, corporate, educational or other. But we know that if there is any species of service in this country concerning which, if it is promptly and properly performed, it is regarded as a matter of course, because the officials are paid a fair sum for their labor, not in sinecure places, but where every shilling is earned, it is the postal service, and at the same time, let there be a delay for whatever brief a space of time, from whatever cause, however remote from the office of deposit or delivery, there surges up from an indignant public a deep denunciation, which overwhelms all approbatory encouragement which may have been deserved for constant efficiency in times past. Yes, every one, from the managers of the greatest business interests in the world to the humblest resident of a remote region whose weekly newspaper is a day behind its stated appearance, brings dismay to the household, not only desires, but demands the most prompt and efficient services in all mail matters, and any radical change which introduces a corps of untrained and unlearned subordinates in place of the men who have by a long experience become posted in this duty, will arouse the indignant protest of the whole country, and render the office of Postmaster General anything but one of an agreeable character.

Our New York Fashion Letter.

Spring and Summer Dress Goods—Contrasts—Laces—Millinery—Notes.

The advent of etamine or canvas in millinery has been a prelude to its appearance in dress goods, and we can easily imagine how much, with such a factor, can be accomplished by the young and coquettish. The canvas of course, is but a back ground to the picture, but then what may not be done by a succession of pictures? since we must remember that it is not the material which pleases, so much as the portrayals in embroidery or weaving, placed thereupon. Wools will furthermore be changed in character by the wool laces that as a new world open up before us. Dress fronts will be metamorphosed by "transparents," such being the name given broad widths of lace brought out for the purpose, and showing a selvedge on the upper side with ornamental edge on the lower, the costume being otherwise trimmed in keeping. Contrast comes in, too, as an element of attraction; numerous pretty afternoon and evening dresses will be of pale relieved and partially covered by creamy wool lace, or black lace again may serve as an offset to crimson. Inexpensive silks can thus likewise be combined, and late developments show us entire skirts made of wool lace with silk below. Velvet or Nonpareil velveteen polonaises form stylish overgarments to be worn with these skirts, and not a few are being made for society belles. Frise ideas progress, and extend now to light wools, while near akin are bourette wools with their peculiar knottings. Wool crapes are newer than veilings, and as a notable feature in all classes of goods are tinsel threads, either traversing the fabric or wrought in figures. Bison serge will form serviceable dresses; and mohair again shows itself, making a special bid for favor in checked styles that will be in huge demand for travelling costs, since they shed the dust, are durable and have silky lustre. There is much else to tell of, but space fails, so I may add that Lord & Taylor will furnish information on any topic, as also all varieties of spring goods and

MILLINERY.

The handkerchief which has suddenly sprung into such importance in millinery, is now rivalled by three-cornered kerchiefs. Of equal importance again, though not so wholly novel, rise up the tribe of scarfs; long and broad, yet so soft that their sweep around the hat will not be so pronounced as might seem to be. A veritable tribe, since they come in every class of millinery fabric, and of degree both high and low. Room in summer must always be made for flowers, and here we have cluster styles, chiefly of roses and buds, rising sometimes as a sort of aigrette, daisies, buttercups, corn flowers, floppies, often still calyx-bound, queer looking orchids, thistles, and other blossoms chosen more for oddity than beauty. There will be abundant room for material-made bonnets, and ingenious souls twist up a hat or bonnet for almost every dress, by the utilizing of some scrap left over; but again we see great quantities of gauzy and often tinsel-decorated fabric brought out for independent bonnets, to say nothing of wool laces by the yard or as edgings, which may be worn independently or to match a lace-trimmed costume.

NOTES.

The fashionable parasols are with new canopy top, and so much bowed over as to give last year's styles a look of ungraceful flatness. Handsome ones are covered with black French lace, not all in one as hitherto, but in two or three tastefully-falling flounces. Lovely parasols are of pale-hued silk adorned by creamy lace, while at less cost we notice changeable, plain or fancy silks; there being great demand for stripes.——Silk lace, or silk with tinsel, interfere almost as much with high-type brocade in combination, as the wool laces with fancy goods of moderate price. Other stylish trimmings will be embroideries in India borders, or South Kensington crewel, velvet applique, and cords of silk, or silk and tinsel.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PEER, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all over them, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had almost lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. SOLAR ECLIPSE TO-DAY.

An annular eclipse of the sun occurs today, over a path seventy miles wide from California to Greenland. Outside of that track the eclipse will approach less and less toward the annular. In this region about three-quarters of the sun's surface will be obscured, the eclipse commencing at 12:12 o'clock P. M.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, March 14th.

John Lynch, charged with threatening bodily harm to Frank W. Norton, was discharged. There was no doubt of the threatening, but Lynch's mental condition is such that he cannot be considered responsible for his acts. His relatives are greatly to blame for not taking proper measures to have him cared for.

A NEW SIGN,

Lettered in gilt on a black ground, "National Block Fire Insurance Agency," from the shop of W. J. Sampson & Co., was placed on the Congress street side of National block on Saturday. It is a sign that Mr. Howard has become tired of the insignificant emoluments of the collector's office, and will ere long devote his attention to fire insurance business, and resign the care of the navy yard and the custodianship of the Federal building to other hands. Just who is to succeed him in these positions is but partly settled upon, but one thing is certain,—if the customs dues collected at our custom house do not prove more extensive than they have been of late, the new incumbent will not receive enough to pay his political assessments, and he will be glad at the end of the quarter to exchange situations with the assistant janitor, so far as pay and perquisites go.

SUPREME COURT--LAW TERM.

At the session of the Supreme court, law term, on Friday, March 13th, in the suit Lang, Bernheimer & Co. against Dennis J. Lynch, originally brought in the supreme court trial term for this county, and sought to be removed by the plaintiff, when the motion to remove was denied by Judge Allen, and the question transferred to the law term, the motion was allowed. The court, it is understood, had reached a different conclusion, but in view of a recent decision of the United States supreme court the case was allowed to be removed. In the meantime Mr. Hatch, counsel for the plaintiff, entered his action and filed his copias at the May term of the United States circuit court, 1884. The action is brought to recover the price of a large amount of liquors sold to Mr. Lynch by the plaintiffs, who are a Philadelphia firm.

In Merrill & Co. vs. the Boston & Lowell railroad, to compel the defendant corporation to comply with the order of the New Hampshire board of railroad commissioners directing it to furnish the plaintiff additional express facilities on the lines owned and operated by it between Keene and Boston, the demurrer of the defendant that the commissioners have no jurisdiction beyond the limits of this state under the act creating the board, was sustained.

A HARDER ROAD THAN "JORDAN."

Deputy United States Marshal Kent returned from the White mountain region on Saturday, via Portland. When the marshal reached Bartlett, which is as far as the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad train connecting with the train on the Eastern railroad proceeded, on Friday, he found over five feet of fresh snow in the highways, and an embargo on further travelling save by rail. He at once telegraphed to Gen. Anderson, receiver of the P. & O. R. R., for leave to have a locomotive convey him to Bemis station and bring him back to Bartlett, and an affirmative reply was promply received. As the receiver is an officer of the United States Circuit court, he of course saw the propriety of aiding the service of the process of the court. Col. Kent at once took his place on the locomotive and was transported to Bemis', where piloted through immense drifts of snow he reached the point of destination, completed service of his process, and returned to Bartlett for the night. On Saturday he reached the clerk's office in this city and made his return, after an absence of just twenty-nine hours. He reports the quantity of snow at North Conway and above as simply immense. The thermometer while he was there indicated twenty-eight degrees below zero, with air without a particle of malaria.

WHAT IS THE MATTER.

Mr. Editor: On Thursday evening one of the city's appointed guardians was on Congress street in so tired a condition that he would have made a very poor showing at protecting the public in case an emergency had arisen. As a member of the party in power it may not be amiss in me to offer a word of advice, which is that when an officer becomes so completely exhausted he had better remain in the station house until he is rested. NYM.

MARITIME NOTES.

The old fire engine Sagamore was on Friday last engaged from an early hour in the forenoon till nearly three o'clock in the afternoon, sending boiling water into the centre-board box of the schooner Charles H. Trickey to thaw out the ice so the centre-board would work. The schooner was towed to sea on Saturday by the tug Clara Batemen, and is bound for Lanesville to load paving stones for Philadelphia. The Clara Batemen has donned her spring style of paint, and looks as spruce as need be.

There were about thirty fishing vessels lying at the Water street wharves on Sunday afternoon, and 80,000 lbs. of fish afloat, most of which was bought by Elvin Newton at $2.50 per hundred lbs., and forwarded to New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, packed in boxes with ice, each box containing about 550 lbs. of very large and fine steak fish. On the arrival of Mr. Newton's last previous shipment of fish to New York, a thaw caused a difference of $350 in his receipts from what they would have been had the cold weather held on. The weather on Sunday was reported as very heavy outside, which prevented a larger catch. The schooner Abby A. Snow, Ruskill master, brought in 12,000 lbs.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Second Lieut. T. G. Fillette, U. S. M. C., is ordered to report for duty at the marine barracks at this navy yard on the 20th inst.

Lieut. Bradley A. Fiske is detached from duty in the bureau of ordnance at Washington; Lieut. Wm. H. Jaques from the New York navy yard, and other duties; Lieut. Charles M. McCarteney from the Norfolk navy yard; Ensign Charles H. Harlow from special duty at the Smithsonian Institute at Washington; Ensign Guy W. Brown from the receiving-ship Franklin, at Norfolk, Va.,—and all ordered to the U. S. S. Omaha, at this navy yard, March 25th. Lieut. Mason A. Shufeldt, Ensigns Herman G. Dressel and Louis S. Van Duzer, Boatswain John J. Killin and Carpenter Josiah E. Keen, are also ordered to the Omaha on the same date.

On Saturday there was a slight moderation of the weather—a little pleasant, although not yet summerlike. There were considerable many teams in town, and the usual display of wood and loose hay from York county, which found ready sale at the prices which had prevailed during the week. In the afternoon the wind came around northeast, and blew up very chilly, afterward backing in to the northwest. Sunday forenoon the sun appeared for a while, but about two o'clock the wind got around to the southeast and snow and the thermometer commenced to fall. We do not wish Gen. Hazen, the chief signal officer, any undeserved harm, but we do despise his weather.

Under the auspices of the Unity club, a musical entertainment by children connected with the South Parish will be given in the chapel on Court street on Tuesday, the 17th inst., commencing at eight P. M. Tickets may be obtained at the door. All are invited.

A game of polo in the Franklin hall skating rink, Friday evening, between the Bantam and Franklin clubs, was won by the Bantams, three goals to two. The same clubs will play another game there next Friday evening.

Several scouts of the salvation army were in this city Saturday, selling the War Cry, the official organ of the army. They visited several of the saloons, and claimed to have been better received in those places than anywhere else. An attack by the army on the strongholds of Satan in this city is announced as shortly to take place; we do not know exactly where the strongholds are, but presume the Times and Penny Post offices will catch it.

During the past year the town of Greenland paid bounty on 345 woodchucks under the law of 1883—ten cents a head, amounting to $34.50.

The funeral services of Mr. Perley Morrison, late of New York, were held at the residence of Mr. Josiah H. Morrison in this city on Saturday afternoon.

The stock in trade of M. R. Kennedy, wholesale liquor dealer, of Dover, was sold on Saturday to Hon. M. Eldredge of this city, at sixty-five per cent of the appraisal.

The hosiery mill of the Kennedy & Miller Manufacturing Co., which has been lying idle during the winter, started up on Friday last, the prospect for business ahead being sufficiently good to warrant it.

The Boston & Maine railroad has chartered five large vessels, averaging 1200 tons, to carry coal from Norfolk, Va., to this port, Portland and Boston, at $1.25 per ton.

Hon. Alvah W. Sulloway, of Franklin, has been chosen president of the Northern railroad, to succeed Henry C. Sherburne, resigned on account of impaired health. Mr. Sulloway is well known in politics and business as a bright and energetic man. The Northern road, though now leased to and operated by the Boston & Lowell road, has in its management several important matters requiring a man of ability to fill the office of president. Mr. Sulloway will fill the bill.

The town of Parsonsfield has voted to celebrate the centennial of the incorporation of the town, August 29th, 1885. Among the distinguished natives of that town who will be present on the occasion, are Ex-Senator James W. Bradbury of Augusta, Ex-Congressman L. D. M. Sweat of Portland, Rev. Dr. Ricker of Augusta, and Prof. Cyrus F. Brackett of Princeton college.

Don't Get Discouraged!

Because the doctors say you cannot live. I was troubled with dropsy, and given up to die. But after using Sulphur Bitters I am well. It is the best medicine for all kidney diseases I ever saw.—Mrs. J. Brown, Bridgeport, Conn.

After using all the humbug liniments and salves, with sure failure, go and get of your druggist a Hop Plaster. The strongest and best porous plaster ever made. Vastly superior to all other external remedies. The complete pain-allaying virtues of fresh hops combined with strengthening gums and Burgundy pitch. 25c.

—A bishop's picture, the subject being arrayed in his official robes, impressed a little boy curiously. "Was the bishop sick when it was taken?" asked the sympathetic child. "Never was better in his life." "Why was he taken in his night shirt, then?" A lecture on ecclesiastical vestments, admission free, at once followed.

Superior.

The superior strength of Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium is one of the points which will commend itself most to the invalid, as many cannot afford to buy a dozen or two bottles of a medicine. One bottle contains more medicine than those of any other preparation of Sarsaparilla. $1 per bottle. Six for $5.

—In an advertisement which recently ran in the Providence Journal for several days, an auctioneer told the public that he had for sale "Two Carara marble heads, 'Alergo' and 'Pensive Rosa,' by Ball of Florence, executed to order." How this would make John Milton smile!

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women, and perhaps nothing is more effectual than the testimony of those who have been cured by it. Such a one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called leucorrhea and prolapsus uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine, and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved. [General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known.]

across a certain river. The most prominent features about these are the three little islands built up in the raging stream to accommodate the name of the artist, "Hawkeye, so." The river in each one seems to be running down hill at an angle of about 45 degrees, and a man and horse are represented as fording the dangerous stream, the alleged water only reaching to the supposed horse's knees.

Then we have a realistic picture entitled "Duck Hunting." The same river, made by gouging straight lines across the wood from right to left, the banks made by gouging lines at an angle, a something intended to represent a log, another something purporting to be a man, half submerged in the rushing flood, and grasping the log and his gun, and a black spot supposed to be a duck close by.

These are the leading features. The artist, for some reason, omitted the island with his name on, and simply put his initial in a circle floating away down stream.

But it is in portraits our Iowa artist excels. He has one entitled "The Dude and What He Nose." The dude is smoking a cigar which looks like a railroad spike driven into his face. Little pigs' tails, or maybe they are pretzels, are suspended above the end of the cigar, to represent smoke, probably. The eye (it is a side or profile view) is set back midway between the top of the nose and the ear, and looks like an italic burnt hole in a blanket. The hair stands seven ways for Sunday, instead of being "sleek," as the hair of a dude should be represented, and the shading is put on the face hit-and-miss, being mainly on the nose and cheek, and resembling pieces of mosquito-bar stuck on. It is too "utterly utter."

There are other sketches, but we forbear. Each one is worse than the rest. And yet the paper in which they appeared says: "By combined efforts of the pen and the artist's skill, the ——will flourish, and don't you forget it." In various other places "our artists" is referred to with pride, and now, he is unhappy because he cannot get a position as engraver on Harper's Weekly, or some other illustrated paper.

This is an extreme case, of course. He had the disease bad, and was totally unfitted for an engraver, while, very likely, he could have done well carving bric-a-brac and tobacco signs—something that does not require fine lines and is not portrait from.

There are plenty of printers who can do a little coarse-hand engraving occasionally, to burlesque a subject, and do it well; but they do not overdo the thing by building little islands to carve their imprint on, and never flatter themselves that they are engravers. There is a vast difference between putting an outlandish engraving in a paper occasionally, as a burlesque to illustrate a funny occurrence, and publishing them in every issue, believing them to be genuine and valuable for their artistic merit. Therefore, young fellow, don't fool in an amateur way with jack-knives and maple; but if you really desire to be an engraver, go to some city and learn the art in the regular way.—Peck's Sun.

The Fatuity of the Poetic Mania.

The disposition to write poetry, or what its authors call poetry, is one of the sentimental mysteries of modern times. As an intellectual employment it yields no financial fruit, and it involves much waste of time and worry of mind. Not one person in 10,000 reads its product, but notwithstanding all these discouraging circumstances, it is persisted in with an enthusiasm that nothing can abate until it slowly evaporates under the influence of a cold neglect. In some instances the vitality of this enthusiasm is quite indestructible. Not even failure of recognition or satirical criticism can quench it, and outlasting youth, it keeps the mind coquetting with the muse, and framing fancies into rhyme, while the head is whitening to the final harvest. It is a disposition, tendency, impulse, or whatever may be its proper designation, that cruelly misleads its victims. They are incapable of judging of the merits of their own compositions, and, while they invite criticism, like the bishop in "Gil Blas," they resent it unless it is favorable. They tax the good nature of their friends, exhaust the patience of editors and expend their own intellectual strength in a vain attempt to do something which the irreversible decree of nature has made it quite clear they can never accomplish.—St. Louis Republican.

The latest novelty in bonnets has a crown of alligator skin. If in wearing them the ladies take cold, we say to them confidentially there is no better remedy for coughs and colds than Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

On the 13th inst., at Vernon, Texas, and vicinity, Capt. Schmidt of the state rangers arrested twenty-five men charged with murder. Many of them stood high in the community. It is claimed that the men constituted a secret vigilance organization, and four recent murders are attributed to them.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for Indigestion and Biliousness, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.
60 Harrison Street.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of that nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DERIVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia from the time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a true blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Something for all the Preachers.

Rev. H. H. Fairall, D. D., editor of the Iowa Methodist, says editorially, in the November (1883) number of his paper: "We have tested the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, and believe that, by a thorough course of treatment, it will cure almost every case of catarrh. Ministers, as a class, are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly." Not a liquid nor a snuff. Applied to nostrils with the finger.

A despatch of March 15th from Ottawa, Ont., says: "The government is considering a scheme to fit out a number of armed schooners to watch the fishing grounds of the maritime provinces and prevent American fishermen from taking fish in Canadian waters. It is thought that steamers would be of little use, as their movements could be watched, and United States schooners which were trespassing would be able to get outside the three-mile limit before the steamers could overhaul them. The proposal, therefore, is to arm and equip a number of schooners, which the Americans would be unable to distinguish from ordinary fishing crafts."

Breaking Up.

On every hand we see evidence that winter is breaking up, and will soon have to yield to the advancing spring. It is a most important question amongst scientific men what causes the general feeling of debility and lassitude so prevalent in this region. While some regard it as the result of confinement and inaction, others suppose it to be caused by the decay of vegetable and animal debris during the winter. What is especially needed at this time, however, is something to overcome these influences. It is too late to talk about the causes; what is the cure? Thousands of persons all over the country who have given Kidney-Wort a faithful trial are ready to testify that no other remedy is equal to it for cleansing the system, purifying the blood, regulating the bowels, and curing all kidney and liver diseases. It is in fact the king of all spring medicines.

The strike is ended on the International & Great Northern branch of the Gould system of railroads, the company having acceded to the demands of the men at Palestine, Texas.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA

Is the best remedy ever devised for all diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, giving immediate and permanent improvement. No remedy has ever before been so compounded as to bring together in one bottle so many active ingredients, which are known to all physicians as a specific for impure blood, the fountain-head of all diseases.

Bilious Headache,

I have suffered for a long time from bilious headache, and have tried many preparations of Sarsaparilla, but found no relief. I was induced by my friends to try Wetherell's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, with Iodide of Potassium. After taking one bottle I am entirely cured, and feel better now than for years. I cheerfully give you the use of my name, believing that many who suffer as I did will be cured by your wonderful medicine. J. A. ROWELL, Brentwood, N. H.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 55 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.

C. P. GOODYEAR, Attorney at Law, Brunswick, Ga., June 26, 1884.

It is said the Langtry garter is getting to be fashionable and much worn; how this may be, we do not know, but we do know that everybody is using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, for all catarrhal affections.

A young girl named Stimpson, about fifteen years of age, residing near the head of Lake Quannapowitt, in Wakefield, Mass., while returning from school about noon one day last week was met by a man in a strip of woods near her house. After passing her he threw his overcoat over her head and dragged her into the woods, where he criminally assaulted her, using the most brutal violence to stifle her cries, and injuring her so that she is not expected to recover.

After using all the humbug liniments and salves, with sure failure, go and get of your druggist a Hop Plaster. The strongest and best porous plaster ever made. Vastly superior to all other external remedies. The complete pain-allaying virtues of fresh hops combined with strengthening gums and Burgundy pitch. 25c.

A despatch from Machias, Me., reports that John W. Feeney of Jonesborough was shot on Wednesday of last week by Colby Pert, his son-in-law, with whom he was at work in the woods. The two men have been carrying on lumbering operations near Chandler's river. Pert says he saw a huge wildcat prowling in the vicinity, and went after the animal; after hunting some time Pert saw what he supposed to be the head of the animal. He instantly fired, when a deep groan revealed the fact that he had shot Feeney, who he supposed was at the camp. He hastened to the dying man, who was unconscious, and died soon after.

From John F. Wyman, formerly postmaster, South China, Me.

"Too much cannot be said of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam, as it is the best remedy for coughs, colds, etc., that I have ever seen; and to its wonderful effects I owe my recovery. It is well worthy of praise, and I would advise all to use it who are afflicted."

In the United States circuit court at Chicago, last week, after hearing arguments for a new trial in the case of Joseph C. Mackin and William Gallagher, who were found guilty in the celebrated 18th ward election fraud case, Judge Blodgett denied the motion and sentenced each to two years' imprisonment in Joliet, and also imposed a fine of $5000 on each. He ordered them into the custody of the United States marshal and then deferred the date of their removal to Joliet for ten days. Mackin was the chairman of the democratic county committee, and tried to elect by fraud, ballot stealing, forgery and perjury, a democratic congressman in place of the one chosen at the polls by the people. Gallagher was one of his willing tools.

A despatch from Atchison, Kansas, recounts the killing of one Clark, a horse thief, and the fatal shooting of Frank Harrington, the town marshal at Jewell City, 200 miles west of Atchison, last Saturday. Clark had been traced by the sheriff of Rice county to a farm house. The sheriff, with Marshal Harrington and two deputies, surrounded the building, whereupon Clark ran from the house, shooting as he went. One bullet took effect in Harrington's head. One of the deputies then shot and killed Clark.

How He Got a Position.

"I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me. I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.

Miss Gertrude Simpson of Reading, Mass., the school girl who was victim of a felonious assault on Wednesday of last week, on Monday identified Stephen McCall of Stoneham as her assailant.

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women, and perhaps nothing is more effectual than the testimony of those who have been cured by it. Such a one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called leucorrhea and prolapsus uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine, and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved. [General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known.]

"Uneasy Lies the Head That Wears a Crown:"

And to this rule Mr. Cleveland is no exception. The claims of men of no especial account can be overcome, but occasionally there is a case in point, which gives him much solicitude.

There is a demand made by a body of liquor dealers which includes men who have made from the manufacture and sale of liquors over fifteen millions of dollars, that Thompson of Kentucky shall be appointed commissioner of internal revenue. Now this is also Mr. Morrison's scheme, but Samuel Randall, who does not care much for the party or the country as compared with his own interest, says this will not answer. Sam wants to checkmate Morrison. But with this fight we have no concern, and the question arises why should the president permit these liquor men to designate the incumbent for this office? The answer to that is, that they have been for some time attempting to evade a tax on whiskey, and it is important for them to have a man in their interest as internal revenue commissioner. The democrats at one time were horrified to find that a former counsel for Roach was made secretary of the navy, and while admitting that his trip to see Mr. Blaine and his hob-nobbing with Gen. Butler last fall so fired the hearts of the Independents that the opposition were enabled to elect Cleveland, yet with assumed horror at this piece of impropriety, they cry aloud for Thompson!

In fact the character of such an appointment, at the time criticised by the democrats and deprecated by the republicans, the applicants in behalf of Mr. Thompson now cite as a precedent to be followed by the reformers. Indeed, we noticed last week a whole column in Foster's Democrat, copied from the New York World, setting forth Mr. Chandler's appointment in the interest of Roach, the object of which was to prepare the democratic body-politic for a Thompsonian dose. Of course the purpose of the article was cunningly concealed by means of other recitals concerning the acts of the late secretary, down to the manner in which the hinges of air-ports were hung on the ships of the navy, but the effort was apparent, that instead of ventilating any bad odors as to past management through these air ports, the object was to expend wind in showing that the appointment of officials at the instance of contractors or persons having an interest in the administration of certain departments, had been done by the republican president, and therefore was right.

Of course if these men paid to a great extent the expenses of the democratic canvass, Cleveland cannot ignore their request,—nay, their demand. The return for the contributions of these men all over the country, is to be made with a concession of the privilege of designating local and other officers. Without their aid Cleveland would now be the governor of the state of New York, and Blaine in the White House. How can Mr. Cleveland repudiate their claim? It will not look well to make this appointment, but appearances must give way to more urgent reasons. The whiskey interest demand a man who will serve their purposes, and they flourish in the face of the executive their letters of acknowledgement of the receipt of their contributions from the National Democratic Committee, and what way of escape is there for poor Cleveland? The dose of whiskey and mixed liquors may cause him to gag, but swallow it he must.

The President vs. The Press.

President Cleveland, if we may credit the statement of a Washington correspondent, finds he has not time to read the newspapers, and in a moment of thought less disregard for the true means of ascertaining the popular expression as to his acts, has discharged the clerk whose business it was to extract from the mass of newspaper literature which poured into the White House such portions of editorial and other comment as bore upon the doings of the administration.

The president is apparently unfamiliar with the rule of rulers. He should learn to regard the views of the people manifested through the columns of the papers. Every successful political man knows the value of information gained by this means. Napoleon, who had far more to do with the people than Mr. Cleveland can ever expect to have, said, "Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets;" and the emperor spake to the point. Mr. Cleveland should be informed, not what is said by the editors of newspapers whose conductors may sooner or later receive favors at his hand, but from the journals of the republican party, how his course is regarded. The democratic papers will for some time to come be found quivering between the demands of the party on the one side, and the determination of the president on the other, in the relation to patronage; and a reasonable examination of those papers which are not expected to sustain the administration through thick and thin, but will be likely to accord support and endorsement to every measure which shall conduce to a sound, discreet and patriotic conduct of the government in the executive department, would be a sagacious act on the part of the president.

Across the Continent with Messrs. Raymond and Whitcomb.

The spring transcontinental trips arranged by Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb, are especially attractive this year. New features have been added in Colorado and in other parts of the programme. There will be three tourist parties for Colorado and California, the dates of departure being April 16th, 23d, and 30th, and in addition, a party will leave April 30th, for a journey over the same route as far as San Francisco, and then through the most picturesque regions of the Pacific Northwest. The period to be occupied in the latter tour is seventy-three days, and in the former, fifty-nine days. All the excursions will be carried out in first-class style, and with a liberal allowance of time for sight-seeing. Circulars containing full details, may be had by addressing W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston.

Lieut. F. S. Charter has been detached from the New Hampshire, and placed on waiting orders.

Dynamite Projectiles.

The second in a series of dynamite projectile trials, under the auspices of the senate military committee, took place last Thursday on the banks of the Potomac, about half way between Georgetown and the chain bridge to Washington. Four shots were fired with six-inch shells, carrying eleven-pound bursting charges of nitro-gelatine, which contains about ninety-five per cent of pure nitro-glycerine. The range was 1000 yards, and the target was a perpendicular ledge of solid traprock on the south bank of the river.

The first shell struck near the margin of the ledge and exploded by concussion, shattering the face of the rock for a radius of about thirty feet, and carrying away several tons of debris, which were hurled for hundreds of yards up and down the stream.

The second shell struck nearly in the centre of the ledge, exploding as before. It opened a cavity in the face of the ledge about twenty-five feet in diameter, and excavated a pit six feet deep. Some of the fragments of rock from this explosion were hurled half a mile, one piece weighing nearly twelve pounds being thrown clear across the canal, and lodging near a farm house adjoining the Georgetown reservoir.

The other shots were similar in their effects, and demonstrated the enormous power of the explosive. The experts present were of opinion that one of these shells would destroy any wooden ship afloat, and give the heaviest ironclad a terrible shock. It seems likely that dynamite shells may supercede armor, as armor superceded wooden unarmored ships. The experiments proved that shells loaded with this dangerous explosive can be safely fired.

James Lowell of South Berwick drove into Dover, N. H., Saturday night, and said: "I will drive through the salvation army, and I don't care if I kill some of them." When the army came out for the evening parade he started to carry out his threat; a scatter occurred, but fortunately no one was hurt, and Lowell was arrested.

It is said that the salvation army consider Lucifer so strongly entrenched in Portsmouth that they will have to approach his works by indirection—something on the "Anaconda plan" we used to hear so much about during the secession war. To this end it is said they are laying out fortifications at Newcastle, and that recruits will be raised in South Eliot by Happy Captain Robert Spinney, a salt-water skipper, who is reported to have been converted to salvationism while on the jury at Saco, and who it is further said will be assisted by Happy Lieutenant Oliver Staples.

Phenomenal success is not the term to apply to the W. L. Douglas $3 shoes for gentlemen and the $2.50 shoes for boys. They have attained their great popularity solely for their exceeding merit, and the foresight of the manufacturer in furnishing a shoe that is fashionable, comfortable and durable at a price that places them in the reach of all.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

Living People

people, who are prominant and influential, send us their testimonials, certifying what a vast amount of good Sulphur Bitters has done them.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe who are now living send us their testimonials. We publish nothing from dead persons, or give false names.

A running sore for 14 years cured. HENRY H. GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything a man could, the sore discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur

Sulphur Bitters

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had about lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

have saved my life. There is nothing like them. I earnestly entreat all afflicted with impure blood to try them and be cured.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores.

They Will Cure You.

The well known Manager of the Raymond Excursions to California, I. A. WHITCOMB, says: No other medicine can equal Sulphur Bitters for biliousness and dyspepsia. They have cured me when all other remedies failed.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, March 16th.

Eugene Riordan, for an assault on Ozro J. Hobbs, was fined $5, costs being taxed at $6.90; paid.

Franklin C. Hoyt, for drunkenness, was fined $10, with $5.76 costs. Not paying, Mr. Hoyt will spend a season in jail.

THE SOLAR ECLIPSE.

The partial eclipse of the sun advertised for Monday took place according to programme. Hundreds of fair fingers were soiled with smoked glass, shortly after noon, but it was not until about half-past twelve that a small piece was discernable scooped out of the right hand edge of the sun; the black curve rapidly advanced until the luminary appeared like a pie on which a hungry schoolboy had been for five minutes at work, but it moved more rapidly toward the upper edge of the sun than across its centre, and finally passed off without having at any time obscured more than about a quarter of the sun's surface. The general impression concerning this eclipse seems to be that while it was as good as could be expected of Hazen, and fully up to the standard of the weather he provides, yet it was not much for this great country to brag of, and furnishes another reason why Gen. Hazen should be removed from the position of chief signal officer.

"IT NEVER RAINS BUT IT POURS."

Mr. George Stott, one of our highly respected business men, has been peculiarly unfortunate in regard to personal accidents of late. After having recovered from the bite of a dog which attacked him on the street about the middle of the winter, he some two weeks ago sustained a painful sprain of one ankle through slipping on the stairs of his store while engaged in carrying a sack of flour from the lower storey to the upper one. And one day last week, while a cask of soda weighing 400 lbs. was being hoisted through a hatchway, a stanchion supporting a beam to which the tackle was attached slipped from under, letting down the beam, which struck Mr. Stott a glancing blow on the side of his head, knocking him down and considerably injuring him. Notwithstanding that he is now an old gentleman he is quite active and tough, and was able to be about again the next day.

Mr. Allen Porter of Rye, a farmer about seventy-five years of age, is another elderly gentleman whose luck of late has not seemed commensurate with his deserts. Last autumn he had a cow die,—a young and quite valuable animal,—and during the winter he lost two nice shoats by hog cholera. About three weeks ago he hitched up his oxen one morning, intending to go to the woods, and after getting the team ready entered the house for his mittens. On going out he found one of the oxen lying on the ice, having evidently slipped and fallen heavily, and the animal was unable to rise until assistance was procured, when he was placed in the barn, where after remaining two days and getting no better, he was killed for beef. Besides these losses on his stock, Mr. Porter was also this winter the victim of a singular and quite painful accident to himself. He was making a tongue for an ox-sled, and while engaged in splitting it at the end which was to connect with the cross-bar a wedge he was driving flew out, and the split springing together caught the flesh on the under side of one forefinger for nearly the whole length, and held it fast. Had there been any person about to drive the wedge into the split again, Mr. Porter would have escaped with an ugly pinch; but there was nobody anywhere near, and his only method of getting clear was to tear the finger free with a jerk—an unpleasant performance, as may be supposed, and one which left him with a very sore finger which lasted a long while.

Mr. Charles S. Drowne is making the sails for the new schooner now building at Hodgdon's Mills, Me., for Capt. Levi Downs. Messrs. George T. Vaughan & Co. have the contract for fitting her out. She is to be the largest and best fitted fishing vessel hailing from this port.

The Penny Post says that "Capt. Duncan has sold the steamer Fearless to Capt. G. A. Young, of St. John, N. B., for $1000. The little steamer will be immediately taken to that port, where she will be engaged in carrying light freight."

On Wednesday evening, the 25th inst., at the Portsmouth skating rink there will be a double attraction offered, Miss Ethel Grant, the "butterfly fairy" of the professional skating world, and Frank A. Fowler of Boston, trick and fancy rider of the bicycle, having been engaged to give an exhibition that evening.

The annual statement of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company of Boston is worthy the attention of all seeking life insurance.

Jackson M. Hanscom of South Boston was found dead in a doorway on Federal street, Boston, last Saturday evening. His death was caused by heart disease, and it is supposed that when walking on the street he was seized by the disease, and sat down upon the steps and died there; when discovered life was extinct. He was fifty-one years old, and leaves a wife, a son and a daughter. He was born in Portsmouth, being the son of John Hanscom, who once owned what is now the Goodrich tan-yard at Christian Shore.

A stranger passing Hon. Frank Jones' office on Market street, between ten and twelve o'clock Monday forenoon, would have supposed a big auction sale of miscellaneous goods was going on on inside, judging from the crowds of men he would have seen. This supposition, however, would have been incorrect; all they were after was office.

Rev. A. L. Morey, for some years pastor of the Freewill Baptist church in Hampton, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday afternoon, the 8th inst., a large congregation being present. Mr. Morey has accepted a professorship in an Indiana college, but his family will remain in Hampton for the present.

George W. Flagg and H. M. Dufur, the wrestlers who gave an exhibition in Music hall some weeks ago, were in New Bedford, Mass., a few nights since, and Dufur had a match with W. A. Burbank of Hyde Park for $200 a side, best two in three. The first fall was won by Burbank, and the next two and the match by Dufur; there was a good deal of betting, Flagg backing Dufur as long as he could find takers. After the match Flagg offered to wrestle the winner, or any one in the country, for $100 or $500 a side.

It is announced that William E. Cromwell of South Berwick, chairman of the democratic state committee of Maine, and eastern agent of the Michigan Southern & Lake Shore railroad, is a prominent candidate for the fourth auditorship of the treasury department. He was formerly chief clerk to the auditor when Mr. Fessenden was secretary of the treasury, and much of the time was acting auditor. He would be a first-class appointment.

Special attention is called to the fact that this Company issues Endowment Policies embracing all the advantages of Life Insurance, for the same premiums formerly charged for policies payable only at death, under the title of Life Rate Endowments. Such policies challenge competition as regards combination of Insurance at low cost with an investment at a fair rate of interest.

Hon. John Lynch of Washington, D. C., formerly of Portland, Me., who was member of Congress from the first Maine district from 1865 to 1872, and who during that period ran the navy yard opposite this city very decidedly in the interest of John Lynch, and had it packed with his supporters, yet left Congress in a blaze of glory as a "reformer" because at the last moment he engineered a bill through legislating out of office several friends of an antagonistic politician, was married in Portland last Thursday to Mrs. Annie E. Weston, eldest daughter of the late Hon. Samuel S. Spring of that city. The happy couple will reside in Washington. It was Mr. Lynch who got Congress to pass a bill substituting "Kittery" for "Portsmouth" in the designation of the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard, which thereafter until the blunder was rectified made the legal name of the establishment the "Kittery, N. H., navy yard."

Mrs. Joseph Walters shot and seriously wounded a woman at Asher's Switch, Mo., on Friday. The woman was her husband's paramour.

The friends of the girl informed City Marshal Reed, who caused their arrest.

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in; whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by taking Parker's Tonic when you feel "a little out of sorts." It would be money in your pocket. Superior.

The superior strength of Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium is one of the points which will commend itself most to the invalid, as many cannot afford to buy a dozen or two bottles of a medicine. One bottle contains more medicine than those of any other preparation of Sarsaparilla. $1 per bottle. Six for $5.

At Richmond, Va., on the morning of the 14th inst., the body of an unknown woman about twenty-five years old was found floating in the city reservoir. Near the pool where the body was found the ground was much trampled, and there were tracks of a man's boots, as well as tracks corresponding to the woman's shoes. The deceased was a handsome blonde, and shortly to have become a mother.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.

Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for Indigestion and Dizziness, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it, for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS. 30 Harrison Street.

That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from Tarrytown. The writer is none other than Mr. DeRevere, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of that nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:

MILLVILLE, N. J.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia from the time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has worn golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

There Shall be no Alps.

When Napoleon talked of invading Italy one of his officers said: "But, sire, remember the Alps." To an ordinary man these would have seemed simply insurmountable, but Napolean responded eagerly: "There shall be no Alps." So the famous Simplon pass was made. Disease, like a mountain, stands in the way of fame, fortune and honor to many who by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" might be healed and so the mountain would disappear. It is specific for all blood, chronic lung and liver diseases, such as consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs,) pimples, blotches, eruptions, tumors, swellings, fever-sores and kindred complaints.

Edward G. Bowser of Chicago, a real estate broker, commenced suit against the Western Union telegraph company, March 14th, claiming $50,000 damages. Last spring he offered a tract of land in Texas to a syndicate of capitalists in London for $55,000. The syndicate sent a telegram offering $52,000, but the telegraph company delivered the telegram to another man of the same name. Three months later the telegraph company discovered the mistake and sent the message to the plaintiff, but too late.

Breaking Up.

On every hand we see evidence that winter is breaking up, and will soon have to yield to the advancing spring. It is a most important question amongst scientific men what causes the general feeling of debility and lassitude so prevalent in this region. While some regard it as the result of confinement and inaction, others suppose it to be caused by the decay of vegetable and animal debris during the winter. What is especially needed at this time, however, is something to overcome these influences. It is too late to talk about the causes; what is the cure? Thousands of persons all over the country who have given Kidney-Wort a faithful trial are ready to testify that no other remedy is equal to it for cleansing the system, purifying the blood, regulating the bowels, and curing all kidney and liver diseases. It is in fact the king of all spring medicines.

S. W. Bowerman, president of the democratic campaign club at Pittsfield, Mass., and a half dozen vice presidents, have been sued for $160 for rent of the theatre for campaign speeches, and suits are to be brought for the services of a brass band, and for uniforms for clubs. Their liabilities are upward of $300.

"I was all run down and Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the medicine I needed," write hundreds of people. Take it now. 100 Doses One Dollar.

WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA

Is the best remedy ever devised for all diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, giving immediate and permanent improvement. No remedy has ever before been so compounded as to bring together in one bottle so many active ingredients which are known to all physicians as a specific for impure blood, the fountain-head of all diseases.

Bilious Headache.

I have suffered for a long time from bilious headache, and have tried many preparations of Sarsaparilla, but found no relief. I was induced by my friends to try Wetherell's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, with Iodide of Potassium. After taking one bottle I am entirely cured, and feel better now than for years. I cheerfully give you the use of my name, believing that many who suffer as I did will be cured by your wonderful medicine. J. A. ROWELL, Brentwood, N.H.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be cert in that my cure was permanent.

A GOD SEND!

I have had rheumatism for forty years, and have been relieved with a few bottles of S. S. S. I consider it a God-send to the afflicted.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

CELEBRATED

The fittest subjects for fever and ague, and remittent, are the debilitated, bilious and nervous. To such persons, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords adequate protection by increasing vitality, stamina and the resistant power of the constitution, and by checking irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels. Moreover, it eradicates malarial complaints of an obstinate type, and stands alone unequalled among our national remedies.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women, and perhaps nothing is more effectual than the testimony of those who have been cured by it. Such a one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called leucorrhea and prolapsus uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine, and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved. [General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known.]

Ministers, as a class, are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly." Not a liquid nor a snuff. "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" whiskey was introduced by Chester H. Graves & Sons six years ago, when it was approved by S. Dana Hayes, State Assayer, Massachusetts. It at once established a reputation as a perfectly pure whiskey, and we learn it has just received a fresh endorsement from the present State Assayer of Massachusetts. Leading druggists and grocers sell it.

In Brooklyn, N. Y., on the 16th inst., Mrs. Christina Huckman was fatally stabbed by Mary Singler. In the station house she severed a vein in her arm with a corset steel, but her wound was discovered before it had a serious effect.

"Which Way?"

That every article used for the same purpose is of equal value no one admits. As in all natural productions, so in the manufactured; all have their degree of merit, and Soap is as conspicuous in its variety as anything else. But in this, as the demand for the Pure and Reliable increases, so does the value of the productions of CURTIS DAVIS & Co., especially their "WELCOME" and "UNEQUALLED EXTRA" brands, being practically recommended by other manufacturers, who imitate them in every conceivable way. But, while this compliment may be appreciated, what can be said in favor of such competition, or the character of such goods and their makers? No one should be deceived, as the original has the name of CURTIS DAVIS, in full, either on the bar or wrapper, and it is their purpose to let their reputation stand on this class of goods.

Dangerous Cattle Disease.

Dr. Irving A. Watson, secretary of the state board of health, has visited the herd of cattle owned by Everett Hill in Strafford, concerning whose disease there has been some discussion recently, and made a thorough post mortem examination of a creature which just died. The resemblance of symptoms in these cases to those of anthrax led to the belief that it was that disease, and this view was entertained by the attending veterinary surgeons. The sudden deaths which occurred in a few instances, with swollen legs and other symptoms closely resembling those of anthrax, strengthened this opinion. A post mortem was made Saturday, and showed the disease to be produced by lung parasites, known technically as strongylus micrurus. The disease is both infectious and contagious, and these are the first cases known to have existed in this state.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., March 17th.

Mr. Edward B. Fuller of this town was presented with a handsome gold watch-chain by his pupils of the Newington, N. H., school, at the termination of the term last week.

Rev. C. J. Clarke, Presiding Elder of the Portland district of the Methodist Episcopal Conference, preached at the First Methodist church in North Kittery on Sunday, the 15th inst. This is probably the last time he will visit the church in that capacity, as his term of office expires at the annual conference in April next.

Mrs. William A. Fernald has been visiting, the past week, her daughter at South Berwick, who is slightly indisposed.

Frank L. Marr and Stephen Patch leave town this week for Newburyport, Mass., the former to act as engineer and the latter as fireman of the steam-tug "Liddy," in that harbor.

We are informed that Mrs. George W. Rice of Newton, Mass., has offered to give the town of Kittery a lot of land in the field opposite the Darling place, to be used for the erection of a library building.

School in district two finished on Wednesday, the 11th inst.

Mrs. T. J. Pettigrew is expected to arrive home from Washington the middle of this week. Her daughter, Miss Susie E. Pettigrew, arrived at her home last week from Augusta, Me., where she has been visiting since she graduated from the Normal school at Gorham in January last.

John F. Goodsoe slaughtered a hog last week that tipped the scales at 564 lbs.

It is the order now at the main gate of the navy yard for the sentinel on guard there to stop all teams of strangers going on the yard, and ascertain if they are from Portsmouth. Why this is done we do not positively know, but it is reported that several teams have come from Portsmouth to the yard, and the government has been charged for their tolls across Portsmouth bridge.

A delegation of Good Templars from Whipple and Morrill lodges of this town visited Strawberry Bank lodge of Portsmouth on Thursday evening, the 12th inst., for the purpose of meeting the Grand Chief Templar of the New Hampshire Grand Lodge, Geo. A. Bailey of Manchester. Our members from Kittery were well entertained, but would have been more so had that degree of hospitality been made manifest which is such a marked characteristic of the Good Templars of Maine.

We have heard of numerous attractions at church fairs to get money, but a "slugging match" is the latest as tried at a Kittery church fair last week at $10 a side.

The Newington Dramatic company will shortly play in this town their popular drama, "Little Brown Jug," to be followed by the laughable farce, "Seeing the Elephant," which will be worth hearing. SUB ROSA.

The secretary of the navy on Saturday directed by telegraph the Wachusett and Shenandoah, of the North Atlantic squadron, now near New Orleans, to proceed at once to Central America. The commanders of three vessels of the squadron remaining near New Orleans were directed to hold themselves in readiness to execute a similar order. Of the North Atlantic squadron, three vessels—the Galena, Powhatan and Swatara—are now in Central American waters. The entire squadron will be held subject to orders from Washington. These movements are understood to have direct reference to the endeavor of General Barrios to make himself the "supreme military chief of Central America."

Comdr. Kane, commanding the Galena, telegraphed from Colon on the 16th: "Revolution at Panama and Aspinwall. Troops and police withdrawn from here. Have landed marines, and hauled ship alongside wharf to protect property. Request instructions." Capt. Beardslee, of the Powhatan, on the same date reported from Colon that Carthagena was beseiged, and his stay was indefinite.

—Young hopeful (to his sister)—"I say, Nell, pass me the butter!" Nell (in a tone of sisterly reproof)—"If what, Johnnie?" Johnnie (goaded to desperation by the delay)—"If you can reach it!"

—The Literary World proposes a new word, "literarian," to describe a person devoted to literary pursuits. Whether the editarian and educatarian will favor such an innovation remains to be seen.

A despatch of March 16th from Brussels, Belgium, says: "Yesterday M. T. Sakurada, charge de affaires from Japan to Holland, as well as to Belgium, went to Rotterdam] quietly with a Belgian lady who refused to give her name, and they lodged at the Hotel de Hollande. Suddenly a shout was heard from their apartment. On entering, the startled attendant beheld the diplomat dead from a pistol shot, fired by his female companion, and herself slightly wounded by a dagger thrust. Her wound is self inflicted. At the time of this despatch the woman's name and her reasons remain involved in mystery."

J. G. Miller of West Virginia has been appointed internal revenue commissioner, and his name was sent to the senate Monday morning. Mr. Miller was the most prominent candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of West Virginia, and his withdrawal harmonized the party and made democratic success possible. His principal supporters were Senators Gorman, Camden and Kenna, and Ex-Speaker Randall. The candidate favored by Morrison and Carlisle, and the liquor men, was Phil Thompson of Kentucky, who probably will now proceed to murder his opponents.

Telegrams from Saegin report that a revolt in Cochin China, is spreading. A plot has been discovered to set fire to Saigo in order to give an opportunity for an irruption of 3000 Annamites. Annamites have attacked and captured the town of Ocmen, seven miles from Saegin, and massacred the European residents, burning alive the native prefect and his wife. The northern provinces are held by insurgents, who massacre native adherents of the French. The crews of the men-of-war lying at Saegin have been landed to defend the town, and the foreign residents are under arms.

Spring Medicine

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SAWYER, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

people, who are prominent and influential, send us their testimonials, certifying what a vast amount of good Sulphur Bitters has done them.

The Baggage Master, Boston and Maine Railroad, Lawrence, Mass., A. WILLIAMS, says: For several years I was subject to frequent and very severe attacks of sick headache, caused no doubt by imperfect digestion, as my stomach troubled me a great deal, and although I have spent many dollars, I failed to find permanent relief until I used Sulphur Bitters. Since using this medicine I have had no return of the headache, and my stomach has regained its original tone and vigor, and I believe

A running sore for 14 years cured. HENRY H. GARCELON, of Lewiston, Me., says: I have suffered with a running sore on my leg for the past 14 years, caused by exposure in the army, and have suffered everything a man could, the sore discharging constantly. I have tried every remedy that I heard of, but without benefit. Sulphur Bitters is the only thing that ever did me any good. When I commenced taking them I could not put my foot on the floor. I can now put my whole foot on the floor and walk on it. I think Sulphur

Bitters is a reliable family medicine.

EDWARD KNOTT, Postmaster, Waverly, Ia., says: I have been in poor health for years, and suffered greatly from biliousness and torpid liver. I have consulted the best physicians and spent a great deal of money, with no permanent benefit, and had about lost faith in everything. I purchased three bottles of Sulphur Bitters and commenced to take them; and, to my great joy, I began to feel better after the first dose. My head is free from pain, my appetite good, and since using Sulphur Bitters I enjoy life with a zest long deemed impossible; and they will purify the blood as no other can do.

have saved my life. There is nothing like them. I earnestly entreat all afflicted with impure blood to try them and be cured.

The Cashier of the Boston Loan Co., WM. E. DURGIN, says: I recommend your Sulphur Bitters as the best spring medicine I have ever used; there is nothing like them to give an appetite, tone up the system, and do away with that languid feeling which is so frequent among those confined indoors. If you are sick and unable to obtain relief from other medicines, try Sulphur Bitters, for it will cure you. Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores.

They Will Cure You.

The well known Manager of the Raymond Excursions to California, I. A. WHITCOMB, says: No other medicine can equal Sulphur Bitters for biliousness and dyspepsia. They have cured me when all other remedies failed.

OUR SUMMER VISITORS.

Many persons believe that in the coming summer, the cholera will be developed in some of our larger cities. The fear of this disease will prevent many from going abroad. The residents of large cities will seek comfortable, attractive, and to no small extent, economical places of summer sojourn in our state. There are many places upon our sea coast, between the Merrimac and Saco rivers, to which visitors from the south and west will be attracted; but while people go out of town to forget the town, and visit watering places to escape the discomforts of a summer in cities, they never wish to forego certain indispensable means of a proper mode of living to which they are accustomed at home.

Scenery, fresh air and attractive beauties of nature may invigorate, but will not alone sustain the coming sojourners. They must be entertained with good fare, cleanly and well kept rooms, in houses where every attention is paid to proper drainage and the entire abolition of unpleasant and unhealthy surroundings. We have, in our immediate vicinity, many places where summer guests would find agreeable homes for the season. Kittery Point has come to be appreciated as one of these, since a steamboat connection is had with Portsmouth, and the visitor is not obliged to make a long journey over the bridges. Newcastle too, though settled two centuries ago, has been, as far as being a beautiful seaside place of abode is concerned, but recently discovered. There ought to be on this healthful and attractive island very many places where strangers from cities west and south, as well as from the interior of our state, could spend a season at a moderate cost. Peirce's island and Badgers' island could each be made, with their fine prospects, surrounded by rapid currents which purify every particle of air, and for their possible accessibility, most attractive and comfortable places of resort, always cooled by the river currents and free from dust and disagreeable surroundings. While there may not be any great profit in keeping summer boarders, there can be a fair remuneration obtained thereby. Newcastle has in turn given over its fishing, shoe making, and shall we add, navy yard employment; and to what better use can be put her neat cottages and her high and pleasant sites, extending from "the Cape" to the Wentworth, than for the comfort and hospitable entertainment of those who, once having learned to appreciate the beauties of her situation, would annually return to re-enjoy its bracing air, its respectable quiet, its fine walks, its opportunities for sailing, and the innumerable attractions which one who properly estimates the real delights of such a spot never fails to enjoy to the full measure.

PROBATE COURT---LEAVITT J.

TUESDAY, March 17th.

In the Probate court the will of Charles E. Laighton was proved.

The will of Henry F. Gerrish was not proved; administration granted to Newton Johnston.

Administration was granted on the estate of Frances Marcy.

The account of the administration of the estate of Wm. W. Nutter was settled.

Administration was granted to James M. Coleman upon the estate of Charles W. Nutter, late of Newington.

Administration was granted to James W. Emery upon the estate of the late Thomas Manning.

THE FINAL DIVIDEND.

It will be seen by a notice in another column that by order of the supreme court Mr. E. P. Kimball, assignee of the Rockingham Ten Cents Savings Bank, to-day commences paying depositors a dividend of nine per cent, being the fourth and final dividend received by them. The first dividend was twenty-five per cent of their claims, the second twenty per cent, the third ten per cent, this final dividend of nine per cent bringing the total up to sixty-four per cent. There are about 3300 depositors.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES--CLARK J.

TUESDAY, March 17th.

In case Hutchinson, administratrix of Hutchinson vs. Continental Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, the court overruled the defendant's exceptions, and ordered judgment on the verdict. Emery: Page for plff.; Frink & Batchelder for deft.

District Attorney Burns appeared, armed with a new commission, which was recorded.

In the District court no business was transacted.

POLO MATCH AT FRANKLIN HALL.

The Franklin polo club hereby accept the challenge offered by the Portsmouth polo club to play a match game for $10, game to be played at Franklin hall Tuesday night, March 24th.

C. W. WEAVER, Captain.

Look out for counterfeit $20 gold pieces. The first one ever detected was passed on the cashier of a prominent business firm in Boston on Tuesday.

The public schools of the city closed on Tuesday evening for four days, to allow the teachers to attend the State Teachers' Institute at Rochester on the 18th, 19th and 20th.

Mr. Editor: "Becky Sharpe's" communication in last Saturday's Chronicle may be classed as a curiosity. If Becky had put on her spectacles she would have seen sharper, and that the messengers delivering the assessors' blanks did have baskets. And one so sharp as Becky should be aware that by a statute of the state, passed by a republican legislature, all persons are required to render to the assessors a list of their taxable property, the assessors not being supposed to know anything about it to start on. DEMO.

Among the entertainments that will shortly appear at Music hall are the following: Tony Denier's Combination, playing "Siberia," a spectacular drama, with a large amount of scenery, March 31st; the "Bunch of Keys" will make a return date early in April; and "Zozo," a spectacular play requiring fifty performers and a great quantity of scenery, will also appear early in April.

We are indebted to Hon. Henry W. Blair for valuable public documents, for which he has our thanks.

A social hop will be given at the south ward room on Thursday evening, the 19th inst., under the management of Mr. James H. Spencer, whose "Let her go, Mr. Turner," always has an electrifying effect upon the dancers present.

Tuesday, March 17th, was St. Patrick's day, and the flag on the Liberty bridge liberty pole was hoisted in honor of the day.

John Lynch, the crazy man whose acts have annoyed and terrified not a few during the past month, was on Tuesday morning taken to the Concord asylum by Officers Hurley and Smart.

Hon. Frank Jones will go to Washington the latter part of this week, to attend to matters.

The steamer James Sampson has been hauled around to the Aqueduct Co.'s wharf, in order that the outer bearing of her propeller shaft may be got at and repaired; where she had been lying since she was taken off the Kittery Point line there was so much soft mud that she sank into it so deeply every tide that the shaft could not be reached at all. The steamer will at once be put in order for running, and will go on the Kittery Point route again about the middle of next month.

The steamer Appledore is to be towed by the steamer Clara Batemen to the navy yard, where her boiler will be thoroughly repaired by Mr. James Boardman of Kittery. The Clara Batemen will go on the ways at Kittery as soon as the schooner Mary C. comes off.

Capt. Duncan has agreed to deliver the steamer Fearless to her new owner, Capt. G. A. Young of St. John, N. B., at Portland, Me., and will start for that place with her on or about March 25th.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, Hontvet master, which arrived at this port last week from Baltimore with a cargo of coal, has been engaged by Mr. Charles H. Hayes to take to Baltimore the balance of the apples purchased and stored by him last fall.

The barque Jennie Cobb, Small master, from Port Spain, Trinidad, for Trinidad, Cuba, in ballast, got on La Fotle reef, Isle la Veele, opposite Aux Cayes, Hayti, on the evening of Feb. 22d, and at last advices was likely to be a total loss. Crew and one passenger saved. The mate went to Aux Cayes on Feb. 28d for assistance.

Two women giving the names of Susan Murray and Susan Haskell, and both claiming to belong in Kittery, were arrested in Boston on Monday afternoon by Inspectors Burke and Knox on charges of shoplifting at R. H. White & Co.'s and Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s; goods to the value of $20 were recovered. A Kittery gentleman who knows a large proportion of the town's inhabitants failed on Tuesday to recognize either of the names mentioned as belonging to any person in that place.

It was reported on Saturday that Mr. John Thaxter, of Gerrish's island, Kittery Point, was severely injured about the head and body on the previous day by the running away of a horse which he was driving.

James Lowell, the young man from South Berwick who drove his team through the procession of the salvation army in Dover, N. H., Saturday evening, was on Monday let off with the payment of $11.60. Rather costly sport.

Miss Emma Nowell of York, who was some weeks ago reported as having eloped with Frank Harding, for several seasons past manager of the Goodwin house at York harbor, returned to York a few days since from Portland, and indignantly denied the truth of the story, alleging that the only basis for it was that she happened to go to Portland, where she has been stopping with friends ever since, on the day that Harding left the town; so far from having eloped with him she has neither seen him nor known of his whereabouts since the day he went away.

A well-to-do farmer in North Kittery repaired his chimney-tops some three years ago, and the stagings used for that purpose are still in place around each one, and are of course a great ornament to the house. The same farmer, although he has plenty of barn-room, leaves his carts, wagons and mowing machine out of doors, as they are more handy when wanted to use.

Mr. Horace McIntire of Beech Ridge, York, before the setting in of the cold term killed seventy-five skunks, (taking eleven of the odoriferous animals in one night,) twenty-five muskrats and four minks. He has captured this winter only two foxes, these being all he has seen. One reason why he has not seen more is that he has stopped in the house where it was comfortable, instead of hunting them. He has also purchased a considerable quantity of pelts, which he is about disposing of. The prices of furs have of late ruled low on account of the low prices of woollen goods.

For Sale at Kittery, Maine.
A NEW TWO-STORY DWELLING HOUSE, with Stable, Carriage House, Sheds, &c., and about one acre of land, adjoining the main road.
The house is conveniently arranged, finished throughout, contains 10 rooms, cemented cellar under whole house, with large cistern of filtered water. There is a white oak grove of 35 or 40 trees near the house; also young fruit trees, currant bushes, etc., and land enough for a good garden. Two wells of excellent never-failing water on place.
The above is situated near the river, is about 8 minutes walk from P. O., stores and steamer landing, and 15 from navy yard; and will be sold for what it would cost to put up the buildings.
Address, R. C. GOODWIN, Kittery, Me.

GENTLEMEN, ask your dealer for these shoes and you will get a pair equal to any $3 or $6 shoes in the market. In Button, Congress and Lace, broad and narrow toe, best of material, perfectly finished, every pair guaranteed. The $2.50 SHOES for BOYS are same style and material, warranted the best school or working shoe in the market for the price. If your dealer does not keep them take no other, but send address on postal card for full directions for measurement and how to obtain them. See that my name and warranter is stamped on bottom of each shoe. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass. codj8i8

All kinds of bodily ailments are cured by the outward application of St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-cure. All for fifty cents.

The president and his cabinet receive an exceedingly heavy mail every day, which shows no signs of growing less.

"Rough on Rats."
Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bed-bugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

Ex-President Arthur made a social call upon President Cleveland on the 16th inst. He was driven to the White House in the carriage of Mr. Frelinghuysen, whose guest he is, about five o'clock in the afternoon, and was at once ushered into the presence of the president, who gave him a cordial greeting. The visit lasted about half an hour.

Heart Pains.
Palpitation, dropsical swellings, dizziness, indigestion, headache, sleeplessness cured by "Wells' Health Renewer."

Portland, Me., made a second attempt to elect a mayor on the 16th inst., and this time succeeded, Mayor John W. Deering, democrat, being re-elected by a decided majority.

"Rough On Corns."
Ask for Wells' "Rough on Corns." 15c. Quick complete cure. Hard or soft corns, warts, bunions.

At the democratic caucus of the Delaware legislature, March 16th, to nominate a successor to Senator Bayard, choice was made of George Gray of Wilmington, now attorney general of the state.

"Buchu-Paiba."
Quick, complete cure, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, scalding, irritation, stone, gravel, catarrh of the bladder. $1. Druggists.

The senate on Monday confirmed the nomination of John C. Black of Illinois to be commissioner of pensions.

Don't Get Discouraged!
Because the doctors say you cannot live. I was troubled with dropsy, and gave up to die. But after using Sulphur Bitters I am well. It is the best medicine for all kidney diseases I ever saw.—Mrs. J. Brown, Bridgeport, Conn.

The senate foreign affairs committee is engaged in the consideration of resolutions relating to the Central American situation. There is a disposition to adopt a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the senate that the attitude of Barrios cannot be tolerated.

Three Reasons
Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:
1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.
2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.
3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

At Springer, New Mexico, March 10th, a desperate fight took place between a gang of desperadoes seeking to release from jail Bill Todd, one of the gang, and officers within the jail. Dick Rogers, leader of the ruffians, Ed King and Red River Tom, were left dead in the streets by the desperadoes when they retreated.

Superior.
The superior strength of Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potassium is one of the points which will commend itself most to the invalid, as many cannot afford to buy a dozen or two bottles of a medicine. One bottle contains more medicine than those of any other preparation of Sarsaparilla. $1 per bottle. Six for $5.

HUDSON RIVER R. R.
Conductor Melius Says Something of Interest to all Travellers.
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR: I have used your medicine, called DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, for indigestion and Dizziness, to which I was subject at times, and know from experience that it is worthy of all that can be said of it for disorders of that kind. Respectfully, W. S. MELIUS.
60 Harrison Street.
That DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is extensively used along the line of the Hudson River Railroad, is shown by the following from Tarrytown. The writer is none other than Mr. DeRevere, the Station Agent of the Hudson River Railroad Company at Tarrytown, a man well known in that community:
TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 22d, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—For a long time I was troubled with severe attacks of Dizziness and Blind Sick Headaches. I thought it was due to impure blood and a disordered state of the system. I was advised to try FAVORITE REMEDY. I did so, and have been completely cured. It's the best thing I ever heard of for any disorder of that nature, and I've recommended it to many with like success. A. DEREVERE.
DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY is not confined in its sphere of usefulness to one state or locality, but is hailed as a boon by hundreds in every state, as the following letter from Millville, N. J., will show:
MILLVILLE, N. J.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:—
DEAR SIR:—I had been a sufferer from Dyspepsia from the time I was sixteen years old. I had consulted various physicians, but could find no relief; therefore had almost given up in despair of ever recovering my health, when DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY was recommended, which I tried and have been cured. It's the best medicine I ever knew of, and worthy of the greatest confidence. MRS. S. C. DOUGHERTY.

MALARIA.
As an anti-malarial medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S
FAVORITE REMEDY
has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.
